ROSEWOOD

Attends Crookston Funeral

Mrs. Thom Hollen returned on Saturday evening together with her husband from Crookston where they had spent the last week at the bedside of her father, Gilbert Haugen, who died at that place on Thursday and was buried on Saturday.

Mr. Haugen was one of the oldest homesteaders at Rosewood coming here in 1883 and taking a claim one mile southwest of Rosewood where he remained at farming until a few years ago when owing to failing health he leased his farm to Gus Klenvert of Crookston, who farmed here for a few years and later sold the place to Carl Dale who occupies it today. Mrs. Haugen died several years ago.

Two daughters, Mrs. Thom Hollen of this place and Mrs. Christine Berg, wife of Crookston, at whose home he stayed, are the only survivors. Mr. Haugen was born in Norway on Feb. 19,1843 and consequently at his death was 84 years and eight days old. Burial took place at Crookston, from Our Saviors Lutheran church, Rev. Schoeel officiating.

Mr. and Mrs. Julmer Raftesath are expected to arrive here next Wednesday from Hibbing where Mr. Raftesath has been employed at shop work the last two years. Julmer will be engaged at farming at this place together with his brother, Sigurd.

John Ness from Hoik has been employed for Peder Nelsven on the old O. Sorenson farm near here doing tractor plowing the last few weeks. Mrs. Severt Benson and Miss Ida Nobell Hagensen from Thief River Falls arrived here on Monday morning for a days visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hagensen.

Don't dose a Child's Cold
CONTINUAL dosing upsets children's delicate stomachs.
Vicks is applied externally and therefore cannot disturb the digestion. It acts in two ways:
(1) The body heat releases the ingredients in the form of vapors which are inhaled.
(2) At the same time Vicks "draws out" the soreness like a poultice.

No. 46 NOVEMBER 3, 1927 Vol. 1

Do you have an extra bed for your company? You know we sell Dufold davenports.

We may not amount to much, but we're often asked to sign petitions.

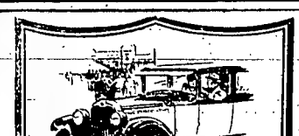
Because a radar chest doesn't blend with every room, we have some cases of Walnut which are simply beautiful. They're cleverly made with designs on the front

Inebriated guest—Why, I can't find mother room's Hotel Clerk—What's the matter with the one you've got?

Guest—It's an inside room.

The modern business man is so rushed he has everything at his fingertips. He slides his chair a hand. How about it, brothgral—

We know of one good way to relax, no other way better furniture can relax just carry just as good merchandise as we do. The man who combines in say he has "Pep-sical" is only kidding himself. He knows better. But you can depend on this—the purchasing power of your dollar has to be exactly as we represent it. And we believe you appreciate that more that a lot of extravagant claims.



The trombone player suddenly let loose an awful blast. "What's the matter with you?" demanded the leader.

"A fly got on my music," explained the trombonist—I thought he was a note and I played him.

We've often wondered, why do they call it coffee cake?

On the Gridiron · On the Road
They All Admire the All-American

Target of every eye. Center of all attraction. Admired for color, smartness and power. In football—the All-American rushes the field . . . And on the road—it's exactly the same! Wherever Oaklands are seen, people say What a beauty! What luxury! What real big value for the money! . . . Speed—silent, clean-cut—unerring. The perfect driving mate! A flashing change of pace. Something that lifts it out of the usual! Quality, style, and distinction—something that all America instinctively admires . . . The might of a Rhinoceros. The grace and charm of Indian-by Fisher. The balance that comes from perfectly engineered weight—the absence of crosshead construction—all combined in a single car. In the All-American Six—at the lowest prices in the six-cylinder field. Drive it today. Arrange for a demonstration. Do it yourself—and see!

PRODUCT OF GENERAL MOTORS

Gives Pep and Power

It's a tonic—this unique gasoline. Puts new life in an old car. New pep and power. Fill up the tank with Solite and see!

The engine is agile and eager. Quick to start. Away at a touch—smoothly, quietly picking up speed.

A motor fueled with Solite is ready and able to do your will. It has the nimbleness to respond on the instant. It has the power to do what you ask.

Most light gasolines sacrifice power for speed. Not Solite! It drives the piston the full stroke under power. That's why it gives such pep and power and speed! Motorists are glad to pay a few cents more to get it!

They Who Walk in Want---

How much a little means to them, and how little it means to you? Those who are hungry find a banquet in a crust of bread, the very same crust of bread that our cook tosses out. Not so much how great an amount you give, but the act of giving something.

Where Do the People Come From Whom the Salvation Army Cares for ?

No, you are wrong there! They come, you will find, if you investigate, originally from homes as good as yours and mine

Misfortune overtook them; they were the unhappy and unwilling victims of circumstance, of drink, of vice.

That man or woman who was picked last month, last week—yesterday—from the gutter and raised by the "Army" from the Slough of Despond, might as easily as not have been your son or daughter or mine, your brother or sister or mine. Had they been, how much is their salvation, their reinstatement to decent society worth to you?

SURELY YOU WOULD NOT BEGRUDGE $10—$5—$2 OR $1 FOR THIS WORK TO SAVE SOME ONE'S DEAR ONES.

The annual Drive for funds to carry on the work of the local organization is now being made. This money will be devoted to charity work right in this community.

17 Students of State to Compete for Scholarship Again Offered by Oxford

With at least 17 applications for Minnesota's Rhodes scholarship submitted, competition for the honor among students in Minnesota and other universities and colleges will be keen, according to W. H. Miller, St. Paul, secretary of the state committee of selection.

Saturday was the last day for receiving the applications.

It is not the policy of the committee to give names, Mr. Miller said, but he added that a considerable number of the applications are from St. Paul boys.

Applications include those from Minnesota students in the following institutions:

University of Minnesota, four; Carleton three; St. John's University, two; Yale, two; Macalester, one; Saint St. Thomas, one or two; Princeton, one; Hamline, one and St. Olaf, one.

The scholar to be chosen this fall will enter Oxford next fall. Selection will be made on December 10 at the president's office of the University of Minnesota.

Canadian Pastor Who Took Fee in U. S. Is Deported

Rev. Harold Quartley, a British subject living in Saskatchewan, has been ordered deported as a result of his accepting fees for services in the Stephen and Hallock Presbyterian churches a short time ago.

This acceptance of fees is a violation of the Canadian immigration laws, and the immigration department at once ordered his return to Canada.

Rev. Quartley unknowingly brought about the action when he reported acceptance of the fees, not knowing the statutes forbid such acceptance of money in this country.

The churches in the two villages have appealed to Congressman C. G. Selvig at Washington for the return of Rev. Quartley as they have extended a call to the minister.

Tessum's Elevator

REV. HOUKOM OF BLANCHARDVILLE WAS RE-ELECTED

The Prophet Daniel, a character study, was ably portrayed by Prof. George Brentrup, president of the Augsburg college and seminary at Minneapolis at the Friday morning meeting. He pointed out the fact that Daniel was a man of principle who had rules of living whereby he could make decisions. Daniel was strong in the matter of righteousness.

Our life today tends to enjoy the present moment without regard to the day of accounting, the speaker told his audience. Both our inclination and our time are against thought of the future, and for this reason especially Daniel should stand as a challenge to us.

The greater a character, the simpler and more childlike he is. The more lives are wicked, the more they are complex. In these the hour lives, asked Prof. Brentrup, an appreciation of God's mercy great enough to make us as courageous as Daniel was.

Guest for Knowledge

The young people today, in their search for knowledge, and true wisdom, according to Prof. G. Nordherg of Oak Grove Seminary, Fargo, at the Friday afternoon session may be placed in either of three classes, namely:

First, those entirely indifferent with regard to education and knowledge, who drift along, becoming weaklings, and living for the moment.

Second, those seeking knowledge for selfish reasons, either for their own advancement, materially, socially or politically, or else to satisfy an insatiable hunger for it. These young people are noble, yet they are not on a sufficiently high plane.

Seek the Truth

Third, those who seek knowledge to become of service to their fellowmen. These are seekers of true wisdom, trying to discover the true principles of life.

In conclusion Prof Nordberg admonished the young people to be strong in cultivating a love for truth; in making demands on oneself, sacrificing certain pleasures.

Rev. C. J. Carlson of Minot, speaking on the subject of Being Strong as Teachers of Modern Youth, called on his audience to be strong in their particular subject or field, thereby gaining your highest point in your training.

Lutherans for Efficiency

The Lutherans of today stand for efficiency, and the people are admonished to make the best use of their gifts, and thereby increase them. It was the Christian church which gave the higher institution of learning their birth, while science got its impetus from Christianity.

The speaker also declared for a moral leadership in the community, for children, more especially in the smaller communities, are wont to imitate their teachers.

Model Y. P. S. Meeting

Mrs. Peter Hoplin of Brandon in a talk to the young people Friday night in telling how a Model Young People's society meeting should be conducted, stated that she hoped the young people of Lunsetown would be just a little bit better than those of today, for so many are weighed in the balances and are found wanting.

The purpose of a young people's meeting is soul winning for Christ, she said, asking the young people to look straight ahead, and to learn more of the study of the Bible.

The organization of a society of young people was given in detail, Mrs. Hoplin stating that the best organizations had no useless frills therein. Meetings should be held regularly, start on time, and be orderly. The program should not be too long, yet varied sufficiently to retain interest in the subject. All members of a society should at some time be an officer, for work is the secret of success.

Requisites of Leadership

Daniel had a forceful personality, said Prof. The story Spiedi Saturday morning when discussing the topic, "Perseverance in Christian Leadership," the prophet lived straight and true, therefore he stood out from all others of his time. Were life be associated with high potentials he was not submerged. And today, we must have leaders.

Some of the requisites of a Christian leadership are, first, he must have a vision of Jesus Christ—see him as his own Saviour; second he should have a vision of the work of Jesus Christ and His kingdom; and third, he should have a desire to serve the Lord. Jesus was such an example—always serving.

Missions and Charities

The Miss. and Charities session Friday afternoon was a series of talks, and each speaker was accorded much attention. Rev. J. A. Pederson of Medina, N. D., dwelled on the subject At Home, the general theme of the session being: Be Strong, in Advancing the Kingdom's Interests. He stated that many classes had taken place in the work of the Home missions field. As young people we should build up, and not tear down what our forefathers had done.

Rev. Pedersen stated that times have changed. We have gone into the country. We have left the cities and small towns to themselves, which is a grave mistake. Our field is not only among the Scandinavians, but the whole world. It is not only money, that is needed—it is men.

Missionary Talks

The sub topic in Foreign Fields, was interestingly told of by Miss Inga Holland, a missionary from Madagascar. She has a field 10 by 90 miles in area, with 30,000 people scattered in 100 villages. The boys there go to school and are taught reading, writing and arithmetic, and also Christianity. The brightest boys go to school for three years, and if they show efficiency they are sent to a seminary for two years—in order to become ministers in their own country.

In Tananarive there are now three memorial churches, where the first Christian woman died—spurred to death. The speaker related how the natives bring all kinds of sacrifices—bloody sacrifices. She asked the question, Can the blood of animals cleanse from sin, or the soul, but the blood of the Son of God can.

Big Field for Work

Rev. O. H. Stettin, pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran church of Minneapolis, discussed the subject, Among the Helpless, Sick and Needy, the topic having been assigned to Rev. Claus Morgan, president of the board of directors of the Lutheran Deaconess Home and Hospital at Minneapolis, who was unable to attend the meetings this year. The speaker stated that we do not need to look long for a field of labor, for it is so easy to form a point of contact today. We should minister to suffering, sick humanity, but in so doing there are certain qualifications one should have, namely, be strong in love, in sympathy, and in influencing the minds of the sick. We should deal merely with their bodies.

Prayer is Helpful

Ministry, he stated, has its most beneficent influence on the performer. He is nearest to God, who is nearest to suffering humanity.

The concluding topic of the general theme was Among the Homeless and Fatherless, this being handled by Rev. H. P. Tampas, the field secretary of the Bethesda Homes at Willmar. First, he said, we should be strong in prayer, for if there is anyone who needs our prayer and our sympathy it is the homeless and the orphans. Then, again, we should be strong in interest, for we cannot do much without interest. Lastly, we should be strong in helpfulness.

Evangelist Clarence H. Jensen of Alliet Lea will speak at the Pentecostal assembly Thursday and Friday nights of this week. The public is cordially invited to attend the services.

George Larson was called to Crookston this morning on account of the serious condition of his father, Andrew Larson, who suffered a stroke Sunday and has been gradually sinking since then.

NIGHT COUGHS QUICKLY RELIEVED

Stopped in 15 Minutes with Thayine

Most coughing is caused by an irritated, inflamed throat or bronchial tubes which cough syrups and patent medicines do not touch. But a famous physician's prescription recently discovered, called Thayine does direct to the cause, relieves the inflamed membranes and stops the rough almost instantly. The medicine does the work, and the remarkable thing about it is that it contains no dope, chloroform or other harmful drugs. Thayine is 36c for children, three times as much the whole family will relish to use it. 36c, 72c and $1.08—Sold by Lambert's Drug Store, and all other good drug stores.

An Old Holiday And How We Celebrate It

Allhallow Even, or Hallowe'en as it is popularly termed, is a continuation of the ancient custom of setting apart a certain day (at that time November 1st) of thankfulness to Pamona, the goddess of the harvest. It is amusing to note that the earliest reference to this festival speaks of games played with nuts and apples, even as we to-day make merry with apple bobbing and roasting chestnuts.

It is, therefore, quite fitting, that we should choose this time as Winter Apparel Week for the entire family. Harvest days are over — Pamona has been generous — and it is time to think of warmer clothing for the colder days ahead.

Our low prices contrast sharply with the high quality of goods we offer. It is a pleasure to have you drop in and look around, whether you buy or not and we are sure you will always find something interesting each time you call.

EARLY SETTLERS TAKE DEPARTURE FROM ROCKSBURY

Farewell Tendered Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson by Neighbors Last Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Dan Johnson, who have for many years lived in the township of Rocksbury on the east side of the Red Lake river, took their departure Saturday night, their destination being Chisago City, where they will enter the Bethesda Old People's home to spend the remaining years of their life.

The Johnsons were among the very early settlers in that immediate section, Mrs. Johnson and her first husband, Joseph Glen, having homesteaded there 46 years ago, the farm on which they lived till the departure Saturday, having been part of the original homestead.

On Sunday afternoon a large number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson gathered at the home of the Johnsons to tender the departing couple a last farewell as neighbors, and to pay a little tribute to worthy members of the community. The neighbors felt that to remain in one neighborhood for such a long period of time could only be the result of living honorable and upright lives, and their community spirit has gained for them their neighbors respect.

The display of flowers and edibles has caused the neighbors to stop and reflect a moment, and Rich Peterson stad to a representative of The Times today when speaking of the event: Continuing Mr. Engelstad expressed his feelings in the matter as follows: When a beloved member of a family leaves home, where most of his life's time has been spent, there is a empty space in that particular family circle which is felt for a long time. It was with regret, when we saw this family, which had been good neighbors for so many years, leave the pasture. They leave an empty place in more than one respect—it is a great head to fill, especially on farms at this time; there is one family less.

In taking their departure Mr. and Mrs. Johnson did not sell their home for the same reason that many others went to do—merely to move out of the country. They loved this country in which they lived; they loved their neighborhood, and they hate to hesitate to express themselves to that effect; they felt that a better neighborhood in which to live could not be found.

Without children, advanced age, coupled with failing health, prompted Mr. and Mrs. Johnson to take the step they made. Their neighbors hope, in the years to come, that life apeel contain no being relieved of work and worry, will enjoy a happy life in their new home, and that opportunity may present itself whereby they may visit the old home place, where a hearty welcome will always await them.

Telephone Company and City Light Department Eliminate Many Poles

The Northwestern Bell Telephone company have made plans to further improve and better the local plant in this city, and to make such consolidations with the city light department as the conditions at present will permit. All open wire lines from Eighth street north, past the Soo round house, will be placed in cables, which will be hung on the new light poles on the opposite side of the street from where now strung.

The replacement of all poles on Bridge street is being made to provide higher and better timber so that electric wires can be placed on the top of the present telephone cables. New poles have been set by the city, along the alley between Laitere and Hoover avenues, and these poles will be occupied jointly by the Telephone company and the light department, according to Geo. A. Russell, manager for the N. W. Bell Telephone company in this city.

Dr. D. B. Gray, construction foreman for the telephone company, has been at work in the city with a crew of men for the past few weeks. This work will be rushed so that it will be completed before Christmas, Mr. Russell says.

In the consolidation of these two distributive systems, on the same poles, greater economy will be effected, besides eliminating fifty per cent of the poles now in the city, and insuring greater safety to the public from the possibility of interference between telephone and power wires.

MUD LAKE SETTLERS MAY RECEIVE DAMAGES

Congressman C. G. Selvig has announced that he will introduce a bill at the coming session of congress to provide funds to pay the 60 settlers in the Mud Lake area near Holt in Marshall county, which was awarded to the state by the—United States supreme court in the Red Lake case. Approval of these improvements has been made by the state land board.

Mr. Selvig also reported that progress was being made by the war department engineers in their survey of Lake of the Woods recently ordered by congress to determine the nature of protective works required on account of the lowering of the level permitted in a treaty between Great Britian and the United States. The report will include property damage and a preliminary report of damages caused by the higher level of Lake of the Woods to citizens of several towns on the lake and to farmers and other property owners along or near the lake shore.

CALL ON GRYGLA PEOPLE

A party consisting of Olaf Noset, H. F. Nelson, Dr. H. W. Froehlich, Thos. Thronson, Math Ilarsen and O. E. Dahlquist went to Grygla last Friday where they spent the day seeking information as to possible future, prospects for a creamery in that section that might warrant an extension of the present electric line.

PLOWING RECORD MADE BY MARSALL COUNTY LAD

Continuous Plowing for 110 Hours Without Sleep With Fordson Tractor

In attempt to break the world's record for continuous plowing with a Fordson tractor, Arthur Anderson of Tamarac township, Marshall county, remained 110 hours at the throttle without any intervening sleep, stopping only long enough to eat and replenish the fuel tanks.

The young man left home with his tractor and two bottom plow at seven o'clock on Monday morning, making the 11 mile trip to the farm he was operating in section 19 of Middle River township, and thereafter plowed continuously till seven o'clock Friday night. The feat was substantiated by neighbors who watched the young man at his operations.

In the 110 hours he plowed sixty acres, with the Fordson running at slightly under normal operating speed and covering a distance of approximately 240 miles. Kerosene consumption during the record breaking run amounted to 125 gallons.

Young Anderson lays claim to a world's record for this Fordson more than. His nearest competitor, Jack Williams of Cass County, Nebraska, after setting a world's record of 110 hours with a Mart-Parr tractor, fell asleep at the wheel and was killed in the ditch beneath his outfit, dying a few days later from injuries.

Prichard and Legvold Are Named on Committees of Municipalities League

Announcement has been made by Mayor John G. Brandt of Virginia, president of the League of Minnesota Municipalities, of the appointment of W. W. Prichard, mayor and Leo Legvold, Superintendent of Utilities, to serve as members of the League committees of Membership and Stream Pollution (representing Red Lake and Pennington counties respectively for the year beginning September 1, 1927. Twenty-six committees have been appointed to study special problems of municipal government confronting the cities, villages, and boroughs of the state. Reports will be presented at the Fifteenth Annual Convention which will be held in Brainerd in June, 1928.

The League of Minnesota Municipalities has for its members the principal cities and villages of the state. These are represented by their municipal officials who are the committee members. Headquarters are maintained at the Municipal Reference Bureau of the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota. An extensive library of material on municipal subjects has been collected and a trained staff is employed for research work and to answer inquiries on local government.

WILL ELIMINATE GRADE CROSSINGS

Eleven railroad grade crossings will be eliminated by the relocation of Trunk Highway No. 5, between Mankato and St. Peter. The grading of the new route, going east of the present route, will be undertaken in 1928, according to Commissioner C. M. Babcock. Several dangerous turns will also be eliminated. Two underpasses and two overhead bridges will be built where railroads are crossed on the new route. The new route, in addition to being nearly straight and having no steep grades, will also be a scenic highway, as it will afford a splendid view of the Minnesota valley.

AUTO TAG COLORS WILL BE CHANGE

Minnesota's 1928 automobile tags will have black figures on a drab background instead of white as represented by the Secretary of State. Truck tags will be black on gold and dealers' tags white on maroon.

Forty two states will have new color combinations, it is stated. Many states are adopting the rules of using dark letters on a light background and light letters on a dark background in alternate years. This makes cars with antiquated license plates more conspicuous.

Iowa will have black on white next year, Wisconsin black on orange, North Dakota white on black, South Dakota white on red and Illinois white on Maroon.

BEST TIME IS NOW TO FATTEN TURKEYS

To fatten turkeys for the market, begin about the first of November. Feed just enough at a time so the birds will go away a little hungry, gradually increasing the quantity until they are given all they will clean up three times a day during the week before marketing. It is a good plan to feed equal parts of wheat and oats during the first part of the fattening season, gradually changing to corn as the weather becomes colder. Old corn is much better for turkeys than new corn, but it must be free from moisture. Heavy feeding of new corn often results in scours.

LANCASTER CREAMERY IS DEDICATED TODAY

John Brandt, president of the Land O' Lakes creameries association, was the principal speaker at the dedication of the new creamery at Lancaster today when the Lancaster Co-operative Cream Company and the Kittson County Poultry association put on their joint program and celebration.

MUST TEST LIVESTOCK

Dr. L. R. Towle and other veterinarians of the state have been exceptionally busy of late testing livestock of farmers who are about to have auction sales. The last legislature passed a law whereby it is unlawful to sell livestock that has not been tuberculin tested.

Dealers of City Maintaining Butterfat Requirements of State

City Dairy Inspector Dr. L. R. Towle has been busy lately checking up on the various milk routes supplying milk in Thief River Falls, getting their barns and milk houses ready for the winter season, thereby insuring a clean supply of milk. All of the ice dealers have willingly cooperated in various ways when their attention was called to improvements that would permit of a better care of the milk until delivered to patrons.

At no time since the passage of the milk ordinance three years ago has there been any of the dealers brought into court here, said Dr. Towle to a representative of The Times, as had been done in several cities throughout the state.

At Crookston last Friday a dealer was taken before the judge of the municipal court for selling milk to the sanatorium there with a butterfat percentage of only 1.65, the state law requiring for 3.25 percent, and which is the requirement in this city also. The dealer was given a fine of $10 or thirty days in jail.

RED LAKE FALLS ALSO IS TO HAVE QUIET ELECTION

The present city officials at Red Lake Falls all filed for reelection and like the local officials they are without opposition at the election next week Tuesday.

READ ON COLLISION SOUTH OF ST. HILAIRE

What came near being a fatal accident occurred Monday night on the highway between St. Hilaire and Red Lake Falls, when the auto of Harold Trevenchet and a truck of John S. Johnson collided head on, damaging the auto quite badly and putting the heavy tractor out of business till repairs could be secured in replacement. Harold Trevenchet and Ed Lee Thibeau were both thrown from the auto and quite badly bruised.

The impact of the two machines was such as to badly bend a large I beam on the tractor and twisting of other parts. Johnson claims he was on his way home from Red Lake Falls, with a lighted lantern in front of the tractor, which he says was on the right hand of the road. The young men, claim they saw no lights and that they were on their own side of the road.

NEW FEDERAL BUILDINGS NEEDED AT BOTH BROWNS

The big increase in custom receipts and in traffic in Winnipeg and other Canadian points is causing additional housing at Noyes, while at Warroad there are seven government activities which need housing, and Congressman C. G. Selvig has been appealed to for assistance in bettering the conditions.

Mr. Selvig has made recommendations to the assistant secretary of the Treasury for relief for Noyes and for these two points, where customs, immigration and border patrol activities center.

AGAIN DELCO-LIGHT LEADS THE WAY

New-Type Plant Approved by General Motors after 15 Years of Research and 7 Years of Field Tests

Profits Pay for It 9 Times Out of 10

DELCO-LIGHT has always been regarded a real money-maker on the farm. And now comes an entirely new type of plant that combines the best features of both the Automatic and Battery Service Systems. Runs engineers who are in daily contact with the various trends of electrical science marvel at this achievement of Delco-Light and General Motors.

Science Marvels

This new-type plant operates from the battery on small loads. Automatically switches to power for heavier service. Uses small storage battery—cost less. Requires less fuel. Demands practically no attention. It is the result of fifteen years' research by Delco-Light engineers, and approved by General Motors after seven years of grueling field tests.

Other Models as Low as $225

See the new Delco-Light that is now being discussed so widely. Write, phone or call on us today and get the facts. And remember—if this new plant doesn't exactly fill your needs, there are many other models to choose from, priced as low as $225. Don't wait. Now is the time to act. Do it today.

HEROES OF THE MORNING

Praises are always sung to football heroes, outdoor fighters, for they are the machines which concentrate their enthusiasm and pep of the school. These people are rightfully honored, but what of that other kind of heroes, those who make their tackles and runs in the early dawn; in other words, the members of Lincoln high who rise at the call of the alarm clock? Yes, after a series of realarmers, we take the time to look out of the window, a dreary scene of grey shadows and dark homes stretches before us. A rare one or two dwellings which boast ambitious students, those who do outside work or ponder over their lessons at this time, form the exception to the rule, and shine with one or two lights. Generally street lamps screw feebly through the early morning atmosphere.

Mighty few high schools exist without public praise, for he hath perseverance and fearless courage to do right without laudation.

WHAT IS EDUCATION?

Literally, education means the systematic development of the intellectual, physical, and spiritual faculties of the individual. Education should train and develop in an orderly manner all the faculties of the mind—imagination, judgment, reason, memory—so as will power, and honest clean thinking.

Without an imagination the intellect cannot sympathize with the clean and beautiful things of life. Judgment should be developed so that a person will be sound in his important conclusions. Reason must receive careful attention in order that every problem may be successfully analyzed and solved. The power to think clearly is vital to success in life. Clarity yards for another touchdown. Severson's speed coupled with perfect interference made the second marker possible. The kick for point was successful, the score was now 12-0 for Thief River.

The final quarter was scoreless, being marked by fighting rivalry. Each side showed confidence that the game was his by sending in numerous reserves, relieving some of the regulars from further duty.

The Hillsboro team were a fighting outfit, having plenty of pep and grit even when they realized the game was practically lost. Donald, the versatile local field is still unsullied as no defeat has been suffered on it in its three years of use.

The Hillsboro line was repeatedly outplayed, they were unable to withstand the battering onslaught of our plunging fullback, Roy Den, and the dazzling speed on cutbacks and end runs of Dostal, Snyder, and Severson. In their own territory the Hillsboro boys gained 8, 10, 15 yards at a clip until they got down into Lincoln's territory. Then the players tightened up and were able to hold the locals. The first half was more sensational although the local boys were outplaying the visitors.

No one can speak truthfully be pointed out as the star of the game, for the entire team seemed to take turns in bringing the spectators to their feet. Donald Snyder did some very fine tackling in the backfield as well as advancing the ball; Severson and Dostal were glaring lights in the line, considerably by their end runs and attacks, while Roy Den showed natural skill in blocking the ends, permitting Severson or Dostal to make pretty gains.

Both touchdowns were made in the third quarter. Hillsboro attempted to punt on their own fifteen yard line but the punt was blocked by Dostal. The ball bounded back into the end zone where Homer Barlow fell on it for the touchdown. The kick for point was unsuccessful, the ball hitting the upright and glancing downward.

During the same quarter Severson made a wide run down the sideline, thirty yards for another touchdown. Severson's speed coupled with perfect interference made the second marker possible. The kick for point was successful, the score was now 12-0 for Thief River.

The final quarter was scoreless, being marked by fighting rivalry. Each side showed confidence that the game was his by sending in numerous reserves, relieving some of the regulars from further duty.

THIEF RIVER BOY RECEIVED ONE OF 8 SCHOLARSHIPS

Meeting of Host Enthusiasts From Red Lake Falls to Warrood Called

Mention was recently made of the awarding of a $75 scholarship to Freeman Allen of this city for the Northwest school of Agriculture, this being only one of several scholarships, regarding which the monthly publication of the school has the following in its last issue:

Eight scholarships of $75 each have been awarded to boys and girls of eight northwestern Minnesota counties who have made an outstanding record in club work. These scholarships are to be used in defraying expenses at the Northwest School for a minimum period of six months. One-half of the scholarship will be available for the fall term and the balance for the winter term of the 1927-1928 school year. Recommendations were made by county agents in all counties where an agent was employed. In other counties a list was submitted by local boys' and girls' club leaders.

District Honors Conferred

In making the final awards, the committee in charge conferred a district honor on those boys and girls who were farthest advanced in the process of these five scholarships. Emphasis was placed not only on accomplishments of the past year, but on the progress made from the very beginning of their club activities.

Scholarships Awarded

Scholarships were awarded as follows:

Clarence Eid-ruebank, Detroit Lakes, Becker county.

Loren Buten, Barnesville, Clay county.

Arthur Wildeth, Gonvick, Clearwater county.

Orville Anderson, Hallock, Kittson county.

Harold Bendix, Henning, East Otter tail county.

Archie Dovergaard, Dalton, West Otter tail county.

Freeman Allen, Thief River Falls, Pennington county.

Alice Erickson, Pencer, Roseau county.

MIDDLE RIVER SHIPS 6 CARS OF LIVESTOCK

Mention was made in these columns a week ago of a shipment of three cars of livestock from Holt, and now comes Middle River with a shipment of six railroads, which the remaining one was shipped by the Spruce Valley Shipping association. Some of the stock was trucked to Middle River from a distance of 35 miles.

HIGH-RANKING CREAMERY CLEANED FOR FIVE YEARS

At the annual meeting of stockholders of the Highlanding Creamery association held last week it was decided to again lease the creamery to Samuel Gunderson for five years, he having handled it so successfully for the stockholders during the past three years.

With Seven Weeks to Go Christmas Trees Already Are on Way to Big Cities

It is still over seven weeks to Christmas, yet Christmas trees are already being transported to the big cities in preparation of the big event, according to the Aitkin Republican, which states that almost daily trucks with big loads on the trees can be seen on the streets of that city.

In this connection of denuding the forests of thousands of these trees yearly comes the suggestion that people transplant the small trees into their yards in the fall, keeping them in the house over winter, where they will be green the year round.

Pennington County Will Share in Distribution Of Inheritance Moneys

Pennington county within a few days will receive a check from the state for its share of inheritance taxes paid to the state during the past year, according to an announcement of State Auditor Ray P. Chase, only two cities in this county was reported last year that required the payment of an inheritance tax, that being the estate of the late Herman Engelhardt, the amount sent in being $1,322.91.

Eighty counties had similar estates and accordingly the respective county treasurers will share in the distribution of the $1,000,000 which the state has paid reverts to the coffers of the counties from which inheritance income was paid, Mr. Chase pointed out. Total collections for the year, including some from without the state, are $1,278,417.

Hennepin, Ramsey, and St. Louis counties will share the major portion of the amounts paid today, Hennepin county getting $21,681, Ramsey $21,681, and St. Louis, $15,708.

Hungry as a Wolf Adage Not Appropriate Here, According to Records

A total of three wolf bounties were paid in Pennington county, according to County Auditor T. F. Anderson, for the month of October. In September there were no wolf bounties paid.

Hungry as a Wolf is a popular expression, but does not seem to be appropriate here. However, in Itasca county it must be correct, for the wolves over there have become so hungry with a scant supply of rabbits that they are now preying on the chickens and turkeys of the farmers.

The farmers are after the wolves, determined to rid the country of the pests and also obtain the reward for their slaughter, each dead wolf bringing the farmer the tidy sum of $15. In 36 days recently farmers brought in 84 wolves, but in the first three weeks of October the total ran up to 108.

A check for $1,920 was received in the office of Julius Schmahl, state treasurer, Saturday in payment of 3% inheritance taxes on the estate of late Pennsylvania Halvor Stenerson of Clarkfield.

HOME-PROJECTS DAY AT A. C. NOVEMBER 3

Home Projects Day will be observed at the Northwest School of Agriculture at Crookston on Saturday, November 3, in connection with Parents' Day. At that time students will exhibit the products and work completed during the last summer. The exhibits will be in the nature of a miniature agricultural fair. Among the more interesting exhibits will be the class of pure seed which a large number of the boys have raised successfully. Potatoes will be another large class while several students were successful in the raising of corn. Students on the leadership project will exhibit their notes showing the community activity of which they had charge. The girls will have a large exhibit of dresses, canned goods, preserves and fancy work.

CHRISTMAS SEAL WORKERS MET MONDAY AT MOORHEAD

Supt. Morris Bye was unable to attend the institute for Christmas Seal solicitor-workers at Moorhead on Monday, the week of the meeting being one of four held in the entire state, workers from Pennington, Clearwater, Beltrami, Lake of the Woods, Roseau, Marshall, Polk, Red Lake, Mahnomen, Otter tail, Polk, Red Lake, Rowan, Wilkin and Traverse counties were invited.

NEWSPAPERS ARE BEST MEANS TO GET PUBLICITY

Mrs. H. W. Froehlich Gives Above Advice to P. T. A. Members at Meeting

The best means of putting the aims of the Parent Teacher Association before the public is thru the newspapers, declared Mrs. H. W. Froehlich before the meeting of the state body at their annual meeting in Fergus Falls recently, where she conducted a class in publicity.

This sectional meeting was held in the high school and according to Twin City papers was well attended. The leader outlined the benefits of publicity, stating that continuous publicity was necessary to the development of any enterprise, and matters of interest even to the P. T. A. should be constantly placed before the public. One of the greatest works, she declared, of any movement is to create and direct public opinion, and it cannot be done in silence.

Hospital For Crippled Children

Rural leadership, the parents' problem at home, and boys' and girls' club work, were among the highlights discussed at the meetings, according to Mrs. Froehlich on her return from the convention.

Construction of another hospital for crippled children in Minnesota, to be situated in the northern part of the state, is urged in a resolution adopted.

Morning classes of women in every high school with an enrollment of more than 400 and promotion of safety and more musical organizations in schools are urged in other resolutions. Much of the Minnesota Association for Crippled Children was inaugurated at the organization pledged.

Contests failed to appear for any office in the section, representatives of the nominating committee being accepted unanimously. Mrs. Frederick Shepherd, Duluth, state president, was elected last year and holds office until 1928.

Ditch Viewers at Work on Marshall County Project

C. R. Torgerson of Ardar township, Ole Hollis of West Valley township, and William Forsberg of Warren have been named as the viewers of the proposed ditch in Marshall county from near Holt to the Middle River near Newfolden.

It is expected that about two weeks will be required to complete the work of these gentlemen, who will then file their report on the practicability of the project.

The ditch was petitioned for by farmers in the immediate vicinity of Holt, being opposed by farmers living farther west who fear overflowage of their lands when a large volume of water is let loose after heavy rains or in the spring freshets.

Hides and Goats on Roseau County Farm near Warrood is Unusual Sight

A sight out of the ordinary is that to be seen on Adam Vorachek farm in Oakes township, Roseau county, near Warrood, the owner having a herd of 22 Angora goats. He has had them for several years and finds them quite profitable.

The advantages of the goats, as compared to sheep, are that they are more hardy, and better fit to get their living on brush land. The wool sells for a few cents The mohair sells for 40 cents per pound more than sheep wool, but the yield is a little less.

SILVERTON

The Silverton Ladies' Aid will meet at the T. K. Rystead home on Friday, Nov. 4. Everybody is cordially invited to come and have lunch.

There will be given at the Silverton school, Hot. No. 2, on Thursday, Friday, Nov. 4. Ladies please bring lunch for two. Coffee will be furnished by the district. A cordial invitation is extended to all. Christie Hegrenes, teacher.

Miss Helga Reland of St. Hilaire spent Wednesday evening at the W. J. Janda home in Silverton, returning to St. Hilaire on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Lester Lindberg spent the weekend visiting at the Arnljot Barstad home.

The turkey tour last Wednesday was a great success, there being a total of 1,000 turkeys taken in by Dr. Billings, and plenty of genuine interest shown. About a dozen cars made the trip to the Burtness farm in Silverwood and to the Mulberg farm. The crowd were very much pleased at the Janda farm there were about fifty persons. There was also a good crowd at the Satre farm. The Billings plan is the only method in which the turkeys are kept up, and it is the only plan enabling pieces to procure larger and better turkeys that will be free from disease, according to Dr. Billings. From the neighborhood of Silverton and near were the following tourists: Mrs. J. H. Reller, Amanda Kalland, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Janda, Mr. and Mrs. J. Turnbull, and Mr. and Mrs. C. Wilson.

R. L. F. TOW MILL GETS MUCH FLAX STRAW DAILY

The flax tow mill at Red Lake Falls is getting lots of flax straw lately, according to Superintendent Wallace down the line. The mill ran an all to The Times last week, in common with other papers, and the farmers are taking the straw in to the mill in truck loads.

Three hundred twenty nine bales were received in four days last week, while the railroad also had on track at one time 15 car loads.

The factory is turning out about one carload of tow daily, the crew working during the day time.

1928 Features in the Whippet NOW!

Economy—Whippet holds A.A.A. Certified Coast economy record.

Full-Vision Bodies—Whippet's narrow front pillars remove the "blind spots" hazard.

BIG 4-Wheel Brakes—Whippet is the first light car to introduce this safety feature.

THINK of the things you'd demand in a more expensive automobile for 1928—unmistakably modern style, attractive colors, BIG 4-wheel brakes, roominess, low center of gravity, clear-vision body, speed and lively pickup. The Whippet offers all, plus unequaled economy of gasoline, oil and tires.

The superiority of Whippet design has been conclusively proved—in official tests and through the experience of owners who have driven their cars more than half a billion miles.

The Whippet engine is the only light car power plant which develops twice its rated horsepower. That is why the Whippet outperforms other cars in its price class. The advanced Whippet, in smart duotone color harmonies, is on display. Don't fail to come in and see it.

HENRY HANSON OF SILVERTON WAS HIGH MAN

Sweepstakes Alfalfa Prize Is Awarded to Popular Silverton Farmer This Week

HAD FRACTION OF ACRE MORE THAN LARS HANSON

Nineteen out of Twenty One Townships Listed in Noteworthy Contest

Henry Hanson of Silverton has been declared the sweepstakes winner in the alfalfa acreage contest staged this past summer for Pennington county, having increased his acreage 30 acres on his quarter section. There were nineteen other contestants for this honor, included among them being Sivert Hanson, also in Silverton township. He had 25 acres on a half section; Lars Hanson, another Silverton township farmer, increasing his alfalfa field by 10 acres on his quarter section; Theodore Shumway of Smiley put in 27 additional acres on his quarter section; O. E. Farmer, also of Smiley, sowed 20 acres on his half section; Peter Omundson and Mrs. Oscar Omundson were visitors at the Solmanson home on Tuesday afternoon.

The National Farm Loan Department students of this city visited at the Burtness 20 school on Wednesday.

Elmer Barstad called at the Burtness home on Monday.

Miss Edith Omundson spent the weekend at the home of her cousin, Miss Alice Omundson.

Mrs. J. B. Reller was a dinner guest at the H. C. Woolson home on Wednesday.

Misses Harriet Anderson of Climax visited with friends in Thief River Falls last Friday.

Mrs. J. Dyer was a Sunday visitor at the A. Barstad home.

Miss Helga Reland of St. Hilaire spent Wednesday evening at the W. J. Janda home in Silverton, returning to St. Hilaire on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Lester Lindberg spent the weekend visiting at the Arnljot Barstad home.

The turkey tour last Wednesday was a great success, there being a total of 1,000 turkeys taken in by Dr. Billings, and plenty of genuine interest shown. About a dozen cars made the trip to the Burtness farm in Silverwood and to the Mulberg farms. The crowd were very much pleased at the Janda farm there were about fifty persons. There was also a good crowd at the Satre farm. The Billings plan is the only method in which the turkeys are kept up, and it is the only plan enabling pieces to procure larger

Florence Girard Marries

A wedding of interest to local people was solemnized at St. Philips Catholic church of Bemidji, on Thursday morning when Miss Florence Girard of this city, daughter of Mrs. M. B. Girard, became the bride of Frederick Schwartz of Bemidji, Father Banta performing the ceremony in the presence of the immediate relatives and a few friends of the bride.

The bride was dressed in white canton crepe, with her wedding veil of tulle, and she carried a beautiful arm bouquet of pink roses. Her sister, Miss Bernice Girard, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a dress of powder blue ratine crepe. The groom was attended by Leo Jewett, also of Bemidji.

Immediately following the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. Schwartz. The wedding dinner, which was served by the Schwartz home to twenty-two guests, was followed by a dance in the evening. One of the features of the two o'clock dinner was the large three-tiered wedding cake which graced the center of the table.

The bride is well known in this community having lived here practically her entire life. She has been employed at the Soda Grill cafe since its opening last February, prior to which she was employed in Bemidji for a period of four years. The groom operates a farm just east of Bemidji where he and his bride will make their future home.

Guests at the wedding festivities included Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Girard and daughter, Miss Bernice, and Mrs. Alice Ericson of this city; also Mr. and Mrs. Harry Schwartz of Middle River; Mrs. C. Haroldson of Fosston, an aunt of the bride, was also among the out-of-town guests.

Fall Costumes for Tiny Tots Include Velveteens and Serge

Even though little girls are very very little, they do not want to appear in any way stiffing as appears the videos of the very littlest person. Therefore they certainly grow out of their way to make the modes for children unusually interesting this fall.

As we scattered through the shops, we were struck with the similarity of children's clothes to grown-ups', so many styles are appearing dazzling wardrobe for hours of school and play, these are quite important dresses for the little misses' wardrobe and have dressed according to vogue.

Materials Important

The little girl may choose her wardrobe from any number of materials. Plaids are always fashionable in smart. French serge reach Times and lighter than herringbone fabrics are also popular this fall in flannel jersey and novelty plaids. This is not to be overlooked, as velvets and velveteens are becoming to nearly every type of girl.

Coats, like the dresses, follow the style of the elders. Shawl collars are popular. This style may be trimmed with fur. The cleek buttons are also a novelty. Plaid coats are some of the outstanding features.

Materials most used in others are Camels-hair, Germaine, Chinchilla, Chadolane cloth, Tweed, Featherdown, Bolivia, a 5 ple cloth and Chamoiselaine.

Tailored Coats Popular

Two distinct type of coats are noted. One following the straight and narrow path of tailored lines, and the other designing a long waisted effect. In many instances the straight line coats are bordered with the fabric in contrasting color. For example, an adorable little Marine blue bolivia coat was seen with soft fronts, hem and pockets, and the same were outlined in rows of matched stitching.

Clever tucking and attractive embroidery motifs are shown on the other coats, appearing on the pockets, cuffs and scarfs.

Chinchilla coats that have attractive little hats of the same fabric make delightful ensembles for little girls.

In a collection of 211 specimens a Clacinati professor has found almost all gold, jade, a ram's horn, and glass.

COUNCIL WILL CO-OPERATE IN BIG TAX SALE

Alderman Reduce Interest Rate on Special Assessment to 6 Percent

TWELVE PERCENT RATE BELIEVED CONFISCATORY

Dance Permits, Milk Licenses and House Moving Permit Were Granted

Only routine matters occupied the attention of the city council Tuesday night at the first regular meeting in November, at which all the aldermen were present, Mayor W. W. Prichard and City Attorney H. O. Chomie.

To facilitate the sale of forfeited delinquent tax property at the Thursday sale in the county auditor's office next Monday, the city council passed a resolution fixing the maximum rate of interest on special assessments that may have been levied against such property and not paid at the city of Thief River Falls for several years, at six per cent with all pursuit, instead of the 12 per cent that had been charged up to this time. Action at the adjourned meeting, who stated that certain parties were considering buying up forfeited delinquent property in the city if the assessments could be had at a lower rate of interest.

Dance permits were granted to the Sons of Norway for a series of dances to their own hall on Nov. 25, Dec. 9 and 23, and to the C. V. T. for a dance in the auditorium on Dec. 9.

Milk licenses were granted to Arthur Stenberg and Will Smith, the application having been approved by Dairy Inspector Dr. L. B. Weeks. Dr. Weeks will report on the three samples of milk of an illegal nature out of 52 tested for butterfat, and only one of illegal acid test, the system of twenty complaints about the odor of milk from city customers of some of the dealers were duly investigated and the source of trouble removed, it being from certain feed of the cows.

Seventeen cows were tuberculin tested with none being found infected, while 237 cows were physically examined during the month. The test of eleven samples of milk to determine all delivering milk with a butterfat content of more than the required 3.25 per cent, all of them testing closely bunched in October for the first time, the percentage ranging from a 3.250 minimum to 3.75 maximum.

A pool room and bowling alley license, duly approved by the license committee, was granted to A. H. Anfinger, the location being in the basement of the Citizens building. A date was given permission to move to 414 Grove Lutheran parsonage on St. Paul avenue to his property on South Custer avenue.

Otto Peterson, Anderson was instructed to write to Willmar to get information as to the advisability of getting the cutting of tree branches, that are considered a nuisance as they protrude over the sidewalks.

Inquiry on the part of the Home Realty Co., of Duluth as to the possible purchase of the lot immediately adjoining the auditorium property on the south resulted in the city council passing on would pay $700 for the same. The city attorney was requested to notify the representatives of the Home company.

The monthly report of Jens N. W. Tarvestad of the municipal court for October showed fines and fees collected of $285.50, while the months report of the city clerk showed receipts in the light department of $4,-[illegible] and of $2,586.61 in the water department.

1927 ROAD PROGRAM NEARLY COMPLETED UP TO NOVEMBER 10

Highway Department Reports 107 Miles Paved, 370 Graveled; 280 Gravelled

With the coming of November and frosty days, there will be a let-up in highway construction. Most of the heavier trunk highway projects in the 1927 program are completed, or getting their finishing touches, the State Highway department informs us. In the modern road building, however, construction is never entirely at a standstill, as contractors are already starting on some of the 1928 grading projects and others will be several weeks more finishing up their jobs. Gravelling also continues late into the fall and winter.

During the season now coming to a close, 107.3 miles of pavement have been added to the state system, making a total of 941 miles hard-surfaced. During the year 370 miles have been graveled. A large part of this is in preparation for paving. Many of the routes which are in most urgent need of paving are in territory where deep cuts and heavy fills are necessary. In such cases it is desirable to allow time now and one whole winter and two winters to settle, in order to give the pavement a solid foundation. Where the sub grade is properly settled and solid, cracks and breaks rarely occur in concrete, and such pavement may be expected to last for years.

It is expected that about 250 miles of grading will be completed in the construction department before the end of the year. Part of this will be rushed finished for paving within a year or two.

In addition to the construction traveling, the maintenance division has been busy, and has repaired 340 miles during the year. Commissioner C. M. Babcock points out, however, that the heavy rains in the spring, the general condition of the graveled roads is not as good as it was a year ago.

Package libraries of several books, pamphlets, clippings and pictures are loaned to individuals for short periods. The only cost is the return postage. Boxes of 25 or 50 volumes for community or school library use may be kept for six months, for the small fee of $1.50 or $3.00.

The Minnesota Traveling Libraries are for those without access to local, free public service. Anyone interested in such a library is asked to write to the Minnesota Department of Education, Library Division, Room 9, Historical Bldg., St. Paul

U. S. COMPETES WITH EUROPEAN FLOUR, CLAIM

Northwest Wheat Can Be Milled Abroad and the Flour Shipped Back

While not much wheat is raised in this immediate section, yet farmers here will be interested to learn that the freight rates on wheat from here to the Atlantic seaboard, in force at present time, make it possible for the European millers using wheat raised in the northwest, to manufacture the flour and feed, reship to the United States and compete in this and foreign markets with Minneapolis millers.

This information was given by C. C. Webber, president, and Stuart McLeod, grain commissioner of the Larabee Flour Mill company to a representative of the Interstate Commerce commission in Minneapolis last week, during the course of hearings on the reduction of 1-2 cents 100 pounds on wheat and wheat products from the Canadian border to Duluth and Minneapolis. The rates in question are now pending before the commission.

"Under the present transportation rates," Webber is said to have told the commission, "it is not possible to run on a fair competitive basis with wheat from the southwest." Mr. Bovey said that the rates in question were put in effect to increase their output while Minneapolis had a considerable reduction.

Northwest Wheat to Europe

"Instead of being manufactured here, northwest wheat moves from the northwest, is exported and milled in Europe. Because of the difference in labor cost, foreign millers are able to manufacture flour and feed cheaper than in Minneapolis. Therefore, millers can, and do, ship flour and feed to Minneapolis and northwest millers, as well as far.

Country Merchants Fined for the Sale of Bad Eggs

Six merchants in various Polk county towns have been brought into Bloomfield court at Crookston following an extensive investigation of the state dairy and food department, charged with selling eggs unfit for food. The last one brought into court there being C. G. Peterson of Fisher. They have been fined from $10 to $25 and costs.

The farmers, according to the food inspectors, have been getting excellent prices for eggs of the type they supply the dealer, and often the dealer does not become aware of the condition of the eggs. Food authorities say that the only safe way to candle eggs is with a dark room, where they are ready to be broken for use or sale.

Another phase that is it plans to stamp out the present condition is that every dealer should now the grading stamp required by law to be placed in every case of eggs.

Convention Plans of Red River Valley Dairymen on Nov. 16-17 Are Perfected

Stuart McLeod of Goodridge and Leonard Housker of Halstad, president and secretary respectively of the Red River Valley Dairymen's association, have been in consultation the past few days with various committees of the Warren Commercial club, which is sponsoring the annual convention here Nov. 16 and 17.

As a result announcement is made that plans are complete for the two days' sessions, together with plenty of entertainment.

Headquarters for the convention will be maintained at Hotel Warren, and the annual banquet will be held in the regulus monthly meeting in that city during the convention

LOCAL FIRM GETS RADIO INSTALLATION CONTRACT

The Thief River Music Co. of this city has been awarded the contract for the installation of complete radio equipment in the San Haven State Sanitorium near Dunseith, North Dakota, and Milton Larson of that firm leaves for Dunseith today to start installations. The contract calls for four Atwater-Kent six tube sets, seven loud speakers and sixty head sets.

EDUCATION WEEK

Once again the question of education occupies the center of the stage, Education Week being observed quite generally thruout the nation. It is a big subject and deserves this special recognition. It is a subject in which we are all interested to some extent and about which probably all of us have different ideas. In a general way we are all agreed that education is a good thing and should be encouraged. We don't object to the large sums of money that are spent in maintaining our schools and feel quite virtuous when we pay the taxes without complaining. Outside of this we don't give much thought to the subject except at those regular intervals when the children bring home the report cards which merely remind us again that the teacher don't seem to understand our John or our Jean.

As a rule we are apt to think of education as being the same as schooling. Education, however, means quite a bit more than schooling. Some of the best educated men in this country and, in fact, quite a healthy percentage of the world's greatest men, have had very little schooling. Thomas Edison's schooling was quite limited, but his education in his particular field is large. Ben Franklin, the greatest American of his period and Abe Lincoln, the greatest American of his period, received little schooling but, largely by their own efforts, they acquired considerable of an education.

This does not mean that schooling is not necessary. It does prove however that the first purpose of schooling should be to create a desire for education in the minds of the children, and that, too, should be the purpose of home training. The parents who strive to give their children character and who instill in them a serious desire to learn, contribute far more to posterity than the parents who deprive themselves of the comforts of life in order to bequeath to their children the wherewithal to attend expensive schools. The desire to learn and to succeed is a far more valuable heritage than the cash to buy a few years of schooling.

We have heard speakers worn by the hour because there are millions of people in the country who can neither read nor write. This is a land condition of course, but the fact which practically forces this elementary knowledge on children will bring about a gradual improvement, so why weep. The many millions of people in the country who can read, but don't, is a far more lamentable thing. And sadder than all else is the terrific amount of trash that is read by those who do read. There is much for us to weep about when we consider this question, and the result was that the voters started taking an interest in the day's program. It was a peculiar cloud. It had Jim Walker's name on it but Jim wasn't in town to defend himself. The name was fair enough but the cloud itself was trifle too shady and wet looking to suit the voters, and the final count indicated that the activity at the polls was largely in Prichard's behalf. So Bill is still the mayor and the council is still the same council and all is peace and harmony again in Thief River Falls.

A NEW CONFIDENCE GAME

A confidence game which has been worked successfully in some instances lately is described in the St. Paul News. The confidence man boards a through train and becomes acquainted with some prosperous looking fellow passenger. He talks about relatives still learns the names and addresses of some of his fellow passenger's rich aunts and uncles, or other relatives who may be in a position to help him. He then leaves the train at some station, and telegraphs as many "relatives" as he sees fit, that he has been suddenly stricken with appendicitis and must be operated on at once, signing the name of the passenger with whom he has been traveling. The money is telegraphed to the station where he has wired for it, and he collects it, and is in some other part of the world victimizing some one else by the time the confiding relatives learn that they have been swindled.

With the season on wild ducks and other native fowl drawing to a close, the season on Lindelek opens officially. Lindelek really isn't fowl. That's just the first impression. After being exposed to this delicacy a few times the victim finds it positively delightful, as hundreds will testify who attend the opening contest of the season tomorrow evening in the parlors of the Trinity Lutheran church.

ENTIRELY A QUESTION OF LAW
(Morris Tribune)

The state commissioner of administration and finance has refused to approve the action of the board of regents of the state university in appropriating $45,000 for the establishment of a group insurance and pension plan for certain employees of the university. The appropriation is disallowed on the ground that the regents acted without legislative authority, while the board of control base their action on the authority granted them by the territorial charter of the university. This difference of opinion over the legality of this appropriation will be made the basis of an appeal to the courts, to determine the extent of the authority of the board of regents, and the "big three" or department of administration and finance. It will be an important case in settling the final policy of the state. The courts will not determine whether it is wiser for the board of regents to be the sole custodians of university funds, or whether it is wiser for the big three to have the final say, but will only determine what the law says shall be the authority of each. When that is settled, further legislation may be necessary. It is well to have the legal phases of the question cleared up.

THE CURSE OF POPULARITY
By Gleason Pease

Every now and then in the course of my wanderings I make the acquaintance of a youth or maiden who seems destined to a brilliant future. I use the word "seems" advisedly. Most of them are not. For the road to fame is a hard one, the ditches are deep on both sides and most of the travelers eventually get hogged down in the detours. And at picking winners my luck this year has been rotten to the extreme limit. A number of young people I have set down as hopeless have now attained fame. On the other hand the lads I have seen as future Hawthornes, Sidney Smiths and Edisons are comparatively unknown reporters, hack writers and schoolmasters. The budding prodigies, actresses and prima donnas whose names I have inscribed on book covers and electric signs have lapsed into domestic oblivion or are heading that way rapidly. Hereafter when some fond papa or mamma invites me to look at his son's drawing of Uncle Sam or to hear his daughter sing "The Rosary" I am going to be extremely chary of making predictions.

The whole trouble seems to have been that my judgment was warped. I foresaw the success of these young people because I wanted them to succeed. That they might lack the ability, the urge or the sheer moral stamina to triumph over obstacles was often overlooked. But now in viewing them all those qualities they probably wouldn't have gone very far anyhow. Why not? Well, for the very good reason that they were all, or nearly all of them, personally charming. They lacked that certain superficial brilliancy which these days bandbuggied to their too attractive personalities.

Probably no man who ever rose to fame in America ever suffered so little from this handicap as Lafcadio Hearn. I never met personally 20 years since, I frankly do know but I was in almost every case seem to have had a shield of invisible armor. Unhappy man through most of his life, some of the finest English that has ever been written in the country and his name before long after many a more genial contemporary has left a fading fame. But he realized the value of his unpopularity. Sensing the weight of the literary man, "Are his best minds to . . . Free keep him humble, and sincere and earnest. Solitude is what he needs, what every man of letters needs. He must be protected from adoration, from blandishments, from flattery, from attention of every sort; therefore I prefer to be without friends, with out knowing it." And he goes on to show how many disciples may have been "strangled" by the attentions showered upon them by admirers and friends. Then it occurs that a few of our great have also had words but they are nevertheless true.

All of us, thank Heaven, are not writers, artists and music men. But what is true for the writer, the artist and the musician is true in a real degree for any man who wants to be more than a mediocre success in life. The chemist, the journalist, the poultry raiser, too, are threatened by popularity. The college student and the 4-H-Club student as well are beset by it. It take strength to resist the appeal of pleasant companionship. The fellow who can play a uke, at an industrial finance lesson when the gang is strumming ukeleles in the old barn may have that strength. The girl who can wag "da fa me ne da" when the longest dance of the season is on may be made of sterner stuff. But the chances are that neither have been invited. The popularity don't have to strangle so hard against frivolity. The popular student usually has a good time. Everyone wants their company and they haven't the will to withhold it.

What becomes of all these charming people? What becomes of the girl that everybody likes and the fellow who is everybody's friend? They live out their lives and if ambition has not been so strong as to give them a sense of disappointment in themselves they live happily, because the memory of the "Boys" and "Pals" and "Gals" who were so fond of them. They become the gray haired men that the Rotary clubs call "Pop" or "Dad" (there's at least one in every chapter) and the fine old ladies that the whole community calls "Mary" or "Aunt Mary." Their birthdays are always "all and there's no need to paint "welcome" on their doormats. There's a long procession behind the hearse and the editor knows that he won't have to stretch the truth in making it a final eulogy.

Against such people let no carping word be said. If they have no statues or have left nothing in the libraries and art galleries it is because they found human companionship too pleasant. And because, even more, because they have found them too pleasant companions. But it is a waste of time to help such people along the paths of glory. I shall lend them no more books, read them no more sheet music, give them no more letters of introduction and not even a word of my excellent advice. My future protegee will be chosen first for ability and second for orneriness. The more ornamental, obstinate and perverse the better. Bad manners, conceit and bullheads will be welcomed. To these friends they have the more suitable they will be. To them I shall give all possible aid and comfort on their way to the top. As for the charming young people who disappoint me so consistently, I shall leave them strictly alone except on occasions when I'm looking for pool company.

Over Five Inches of Snow Fell Monday and Tuesday

The first real touch of winter came Monday morning when the thermometer went down to 12 above zero, followed by slowly rising temperature, bringing with it a gentle fall of snow, which measured 5.2 inches on Monday, followed by 1.1 inch on Tuesday, and which has remained so far, even the thaw is no frost in the ground. The weather since then has continued mild, the temperature ranging from 30 above to 53 above the past two days.

Last Friday was also cold, the official reading, according to Weather Observer L. M. Bayon, being 12 above. There was a heavy frost which later disappeared. There was also slight trace of rainfall on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The snowfall of Monday and Tuesday, totaling 5.3 inches, when reduced to actual precipitation only amounts to .56 of an inch, which will give considerable moisture to the ground if it should melt from sunshine within a day or so.

It is believed by Dr. Frank H. Vinedity that the lumberjacker is the primitive silk liasse and paper form was in use in China long before the Christian Era.

OPERATORS IN PHONE OFFICE ARE BUSY SET

Over Five Thousand Calls Are Answered Daily by Local Operators

PEAK LOADS RESULT FROM VARIOUS CAUSES

Operators Soon Learn That Service to Subscribers Is Paramount

If busy people are the happiest, as they are said to be, then the nine operators in the Thief River Falls Telephone office are among the happiest young women in the world. When one stops to realize that these "wearers of speech" answer subscribers with their cheery "Number please" to less than 5,000 times each day, it is apparent that they have little time to be lonesome while on the job of serving the telephone using public. The average number of local calls handled each day in Thief River Falls, according to Geo. A. Russell, manager here for the N. W. Bell Telephone company, is 5,115 Calls an Hour

And not only that, these operators also handle about 175 long distance calls every twenty-four hours, making an average total of 5,175 calls daily, or about 215 calls every hour.

Looking at these figures from another angle, they show that between 6 and 8 calls are handled here every day for each of the more than 1,000 telephones in Thief River Falls, and 550 for each operator, Mr. Russell pointed out.

Many Increases in Calls

An impending shower will send scores of people to their telephone to let the folks at home know that they will be late for supper, or to cancel an engagement As that of best zealots proclaim on the evidences of these week-ends, hundreds use their telephones to keep in touch with the football scores. The Democrat-Gopher battle brought so many calls that the local switchboard was taxed to capacity.

During the extremes in temperature the number of calls handled in the central office is frequently one fourth to one third more than in normal periods, Mr. Russell said.

Much Depends on service

Yet, Thief River Falls Telephone operators, who are especially trained for their work, retain their composure at this it all, calmly and courteously directing the voice traffic at the busy nerve centers of communication, the telephone switch board.

They are happy in their work because they are humane in the telephone industry. The feeling that one is bringing people within voice talking contact, be they only across the street or thousands of miles apart, keeps them interested.

Thief River Falls telephone operators also have opportunities for advancement to other positions at increased salaries, such as chief operator or supervisor. A brief review of the duties of the chief operator will give help in obtaining a better understanding of the type of young women who handle the telephone calls of the Thief River Falls subscribers.

Service is Paramount

It is the chief operator who selects the right type of girls for operators, girls who will learn quickly and serve of the information to give the best of service to Thief River Falls telephone users. This type of girl naturally attracts others of the same type, and keeps the standard high at all times.

After choosing the right type of girls, the chief operator must train them for their work, teaching not only the mechanical part but also endeavoring with the spirit of service. They learn that serving as the subscriber is paramount and must always be courteous and accurate.

Visitors are Welcome

Once each month a month is made of the number of calls handled in the Thief River Falls central office in one day, and these are recorded by hours. By means of these records, the chief operator is able to distribute her working forces throughout the day, and always have enough operators on duty at each hour.

Many Thief River Falls people have already seen how their calls are handled in the central office. Those who have not heard are the public is welcome to visit the telephone office at any time; however, it is suggested that they understand how the equipment there is used before they go there. Before furnishing their telephone service.

There are many ladies employed by the company at present whose names belong: Marie Thill, chief operator; Olga Arnold, evening chief operator; Olga Skaar, and Ethel Wade, supervisors; Florence Baker, Clara Gustafson, Caroline Rhode, Carol Sunda Schalz, and Minnie Lund.

R. R. V. WINTER SHOW

TO BE HELD FEB 6-10

The Redlver Valley Winter Show, a combined exhibit of livestock, poultry, farm crops and industrial products will be held in Crookston, February 6-10, 1928.

Two acres of floor space will be taken up by the show, which is expected to be one of the largest ever held in the valley. Last year the attendance amounted to about 10,000, but the weather was very unfavorable at that time, and if good weather conditions prevail this year, no less than 15,000 are expected. The show is made an co-operative by running special trains on all lines, and giving special excursion rates to Crookston.

Rosewood Lad Dies

Elmer Blomberg, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Knut Blomberg of Rosewood, died at the office of Dr. F. L. Vistaunet at 9 o'clock last evening, his death being the result of heart trouble from which he had been suffering for some time. The young lad had been ill the past three weeks receiving medical aid. His parents were with him when he died. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made

Short Lessons in Dairying

A series of 52 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons

LESSON I

A profit is the purpose of dairying, it is well to begin there lessons on considering income from the cows.

At prevailing cooperative creamery prices for butterfat an income of $100 per cow a year may be considered fair, $120 very good, and $200 excellent, or an income of from $8 to $16 per cow per month

To know the actual income from the cows and what it should be in order to be profitable is the beginning of real dairying

Then to increase the income from the cows by the number of cows and it will follow the amount per cow For the $100 per cow a year.

The cow is the first factor. It pays to study her her production, her fat, her size, her history. These matters will be considered in future lessons.

Cut out these lessons and save them for future reference. They will cover the whole field of dairying

LESSON II.

In the last lesson we mentioned the income from cows as $100 per year per cow being fair, $120 good, and $200 excellent, or an income of $8 to $16 per cow per month

The income from cows will depend upon four factors. First, the productive of the cows; that is, the amount of milk and butterfat they produce and the cost of its production; second, the form in which the product is sold, milk, cream, butter, etc.; third, the quality of the product sold fourth, the system of marketing

Cooperative creameries pay best for the manufacture of butter, paying an average price of 3c more per pound for butterfat than is paid where there are no cooperative creameries, or an average of what would amount to $10 more per cow a year.

A record of the cooperative creameries for the past 25 years, in comparison with other systems, will prove this to be a fact. A cooperative creamery is a factory and gives the farmers the manufacturers' profit.

HAVE REACHED IDAHO

The Joseph Verlicky family which left this city nearly a month ago by car for Idaho has reached Idaho after an uneventful trip by way of the northern route. Frank, who was formerly employed in the various newspaper offices of this city for the past few years, states in a letter to The Times that he likes the country out there, and expects to secure work shortly. They have located in Nampa, Idaho, where they expect to remain for the winter at least.

MAY ABANDON ST. HILAIRE-WYLIE ROAD

Proposed Merger of G. N.-N. P. Systems to Cut Operating Costs

RED LAKE FALLS-DOROTHY ROAD MAY BE EXTENDED

Extensive Undertakings at Fargo, Moorhead, Barnesville and Casselton

The proposed merger of the great Northern and the Northern Pacific systems, which has been before the Interstate Commerce commission the past two weeks, has not been given any public attention in this city, but the Red Lake Falls News with connections there, observes that should the consolidation was approved, the Red Lake Falls branch of the proposed public there are quite a few in that city who are rather inclined to think that the plan may not be so good for this part of the country.

May Cut out Road to Wylie

The newspaper commenting on publicity in the city papers state that all trains between Grand Forks and Crookston will be operated by way of the present Great Northern line, which will take over the Northern Pacific spur from Red Lake Falls to Thief River Falls, and from there to Wylie, while the Great Northern line from St. Hilaire to Wylie will be abandoned. The Red Lake Falls News observes that the Great Northern arrangement has not been advised to the public as yet.

The plans also call for the removal of the freight and passenger depots of the Northern Pacific in both Grand Forks and Red Lake Falls and the removal of the minor structures would also be abandoned if the plans go through.

To Effect Big Savings

Extensive unification at such towns as Fargo, Moorhead, Breckenridge and Casselton are also called for.

The latter center comprehended as long one point in that at Fargo and Moorhead where it is estimated that $117,741 per year can be cut off. This includes a reduction of the payroll of $58,000 and a saving in taxes of $14,000. Other savings are to be made in the maintenance of buildings, etc. The state fares at Fargo would be benefited by the new employed by the two roads to 102 and the yard and repair forces from 40 to 21.

CAN GET MORE SILOS

PER ACRE FROM CORN

In most parts of the United States more food material can be obtained from an acre of corn as silage than from an acre of corn as grain, and it can be grown. From four to 20 loads of silage can be made from an acre of corn. A 60-bushel crop of corn yields from eight to 12 tons of silage per acre, depending upon the amount of leaves and stalks that accompany the ear and upon the stage of maturity at which it is silked. The quantity of silage that may be expected per acre is often roughly estimated at one ton for each five or five and one-half bushels of shelled corn. Southern varieties of corn as a rule have a larger proportion of stalks and leaves than northern-grown varieties.

FIRST FALL STYLES INDICATE BREAK IN FORMAL COSTUMES

Coats Feature Side Openings, Fur Trimmings—Skirt Lengths Unchanged

Summer clings her swan song and fall is here.

Accordingly women all over the length and breadth of this fair land of ours (and we suppose every other land) are considering and putting enlightenment as to what shall be new and interesting and unusual in the mode for fall, 1927.

And so, the cool, airy modes of summer step lingeringly off the stage of fashion and the formal costumes of fall manner happily and confidently forth.

Formal Mode Appearing

The very first thing we must report is the appearance of formal modes of fall, is the fact that there has been a definite attempt to break away from so much dominancy by the tailored mode. Truth is, there exists a dearth for some time past that there have been other steps taken to lessen the hold the tailored costume has upon the American woman, but always they have met with repulse. —reptilian leathers, twisted materials and metal lamé especially good. Lamé will be the great dresser in the uses of one, two, three and even four tiers, but two seem to be the most popular. Tiers of all kinds are seen on some of the very smartest frocks, often fringed or plaited.

The silhouettes of the fall dresses are generally about the same as they have been in the season just past. Higher waistlines are reflected, however, every not actually cut higher, but accentuated by rouleaux and trimmings such as beads, brilliants, metal braidings, belts and bandeaux which are applied slightly higher.

Cloth Dresses New

The cloth dresses bear relegated to the background is shown in profusion. Fashion's favorite modes for day is to be seen in the sheer georgette weaves, in crepe, triangle, jersey and rep. Regardless of whether the dress is pronounced or tailored, the formal tendency makes its appearance in trimmings of satin inserts and contrasts with silk crepe skirts, prominent.

Things are done lavishly this fall, transparent velvets and brocades being shown in rich paintings in formal afternoon frocks which have metal jumpers and circular skirts of transparent velvet. Oftentimes the sheer velvet is plaited and backed. One of the smartest velvet frocks we noticed as we made our way in and out of the stores, was of black velvet with collar of gold lace and smart old gold buttons.

Oriental Influence

There's a decided Oriental influence in many of the new evening gowns. One that particularly caught our eye as indicative of this influence was of white satin with a draped front and turned up hem. Chiffon in all the lovely shades is still important in gowns for dinner and dancing, often embroidered in beads of silver, fine silver beads and stitching. The skirts of the chiffon models feature uneven hemlines.

THE CHURCHES

Methodist-Presbyterian

Henry C. Schelper, Pastor

Next Sunday begins the combined services of the two churches, at the Presbyterian Church on the corner of 1st St. and Horace Ave. At 11:00 a. m. the pastor will preach on "The Outlawry of War"; At 7:30 p. m. on "Workers Together".

The officers and teachers of the two Sunday Schools will meet in the Parsonage of the Methodist church on Friday night of this week to make plans for the amalgamation of the two schools.

Preparations for the annual banquet and supper to be given by the women society of the Presbyterian church Friday afternoon and evening, December 9, are now under way with the following committees in charge: Food work, Mesdames F. F. Haynes, Ben Nielsen, and Geo. Nelson; Supper, Mesdames Leonard Hanson, F. S. Fuller, Wm. Wilson, G. H. Friend, Geo. Cruit, B. H. Bath, E. E. Malmen, Gilbert Haavi, and E. E. Schutz; Grills, Mrs. W. Thompson, Mrs. Gerald Beith, Mrs. Scott Laird and Mrs. M. W. Hall.

IMPROVEMENT OF ROAD NO. 32 IS DESIRED

Representatives from Four Counties Along Highway Meet at Greenbush

SHARP TURNS CALLED DANGEROUS TO DRIVERS

Part of Road Declared Impassable in Wet Weather in Resolutions

Two autos having repre-sentatives from each of the business men of this city went to Greenbush last Friday to attend a meeting in the C. I. P. hall at that place. Roseau, Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake counties, and communities of Thief River to Trunk highway No. 32 in Roseau county.

The meeting was called to consider plans to secure the improvement of the said highway at an early date as possible.

Among those all telling from this city were Daniel Stone, H. A. Brattland, Theo. Quale, M. B. Bates, Lester Bendixsen and W. S. Dahl.

After a general discussion of the proposition the meeting adopted the following resolution:

WHEREAS, State Highway No. 32 from Red Lake Falls to Greenbush, Minn. has had no construction work done on same since being taken over by the State Highway Department, and,

WHEREAS, said highway is in bad condition, especially in fall and spring, and in wet weather, and in wet weather impassable for miles at a time, and,

WHEREAS, certain portions of the highway from Holt to the junction of St. 32 is rough and worn out; and

THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this meeting that we urge upon the Highway Department the importance of undertaking the improvement of this piece of road at the earliest possible moment, and to eliminate the sharp turns and curves and low grades in said road between Holt and Greenbush, and also so as to remove rough and choppy condition on the road, and generally to keep the said road in good passable condition; and,

That we urge the Highway department to undertake the work at the earliest possible time; and,

It is the sense of this meeting that a copy of these resolutions be sent to the State Highway department, be hereby requested to have a good membership, and further resolved, that a copy be sent to Trunk highway No. 32 in Roseau county.

EDUCATION IS IMPORTANT TO YOUNG PEOPLE

Parents Should Make Personal Sacrifices it They Seek Most for Children

BASIC PRINCIPLES OF P-T ORGANIZATIONS OUTLINED

Community Singing and Light Refreshments Vary Delightful Program

The future of today must learn that it is his duty not only to provide funds for the family, but also to take an active part in the family life—in the education of his children; he must recognize the responsibility of the home and education; these were cardinal points expressed by Prof. C. C. Sears of the Mayville, N. Dak. State Teachers' college, before one of the largest gatherings of the local Parent Teacher association which was held Monday night in the Lincoln high school.

Interest in P-T Bodies

The speaker stated that he was glad to see so many men at the meeting, as the men had just as great an interest in the education of his children as did the mother, or the teacher. And at the present time there is an unusually greater interest in Parent Teacher associations than has been previously manifested, according to the speaker, who stated he was glad that the organization has had the opportunity today to the sum total of all the influences brought together in the lives of the boys and girls of the present day. He hoped for a closer co-operation of the home, the church, and community organizations.

Development of Character

Education, in brief, is the development of character, said Mr. Sears. In judging this character the teacher must have the effective co-operation of the parents, who must be willing to make sacrifices for their children's welfare. In his own case, the speaker stated, his nine year old child had been in bed by 7:30 o'clock each night with perhaps only five exceptions in seven years.

Democracy and Tolerance

We should train our boys and girls to think, President Roads said; to gather the facts; and while doing those things to withhold judgement. He stated that the spirit of modern education is democracy, tolerance, and open-mindedness.

The seven basic principles in the program of the national and state P-T organizations were briefly alluded to by the speaker of the evening, who stated that Mrs. H. W. Froehlich had explained them quite effectively in her report on the recent state convention at Fergus Falls, she presenting Mr. Swain in his remarks. These seven points as touched upon by Mrs. Froehlich were:

P-T Program for Year

1. Increase membership
2. Sound Health
3. Vocational effectiveness.
4. The mastery of tools, and technique of learning.
5. Wise use of leisure.
6. Useful citizenship.
7. Ethical character

Plenty of Entertainment

Community singing opened and closed the regular program for the evening, membership cards being circulated between the two talks. Dr. O. F. Mellby, president of the local P-T body, explained that it is necessary to have a good membership, and that with an annual fee of only 50 cents it was hoped to secure sufficient income to warrant the securing of outside speakers, who would be ideal to the people here that would prove worth while. The subject for the December meeting will be Health, and the officers were hopeful of securing some prominent speaker from the health department of the state university for that occasion, Dec. 8.

The entertainment for the evening was brought to a close by the inspection of garments made by the 12 members of the sewing class, followed by light refreshments served to the committee having that part of the program in charge.

All the scientific leaning of the twenty five visiting British surgeons touring America medical leaders awaited their public utterances on a cure by corn on the cob. Unfamiliar with the delectable morsel in this state they were unable to eat it until the steward gave them a demonstration.

GOODRIDGE SCHOOL DISTRICT AWARDED VERDICT BY COURT

Funds Tied up Since Closing of Goodridge State Bank Soon Available

By the withdrawal of the appeal to the State supreme court the way opened for the payment of funds to the situated school district No. 9, at Goodridge, also known as the Goodridge State bank of Goodridge, Pennington county, and Bondurant county treasurer, M. Bondurant here reagainst the district court here, Judge Grindelen) found for the defendant in the sum of $6,824.17, with interest at the rate of 6 per cent, making the amount due at this time $9,241.06.

In the brief here it was claimed that the funds of the school district had been placed on deposit in the Goodridge State bank prior to June 5, 1926, the white state Mr. Bondurant resigned. The bank had been closed on Jan. 22, 1926. The Surety company attempted to show that state's attorney put up for the security of the school district's funds, but as to this statement as what the bonds actually were, nothing definite was brought out at the trial.

Accumulated Interest

The verdict for the school district was handed down Oct. 27, S. B. Wilson, chief justice, signing the decree, whereby the sum of $7,555.58 was awarded to the school district, together with the original amount on deposit, amounting to $6,221.17, from which date, to Dec. 31, 1927, interest was filed in the district court at the rate of six per cent, and costs are $463.68, and costs are given as $50.72.

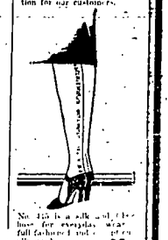
Leaving "Sonny" A Legacy Of $60,000

You would like to leave that Eight-Year-Old of yours a legacy of $60,000, wouldn't you and here are some figures that will prove it is not impossible after all.

Statistics prove that college graduates average $60,000 greater earnings during their lifetime than non-graduates; so four well spent college years are an investment that will net Sonny $60,000 over the period of his life, if the law of averages holds true.



A normal amount to allow for a college education is $450 a year, or a total of $1,824 for the period, and you have 10 years to get this amount together. Saving less than $15 a month will do it, and here is where we can help you.

Because of the buying resources of this great family of stores you enjoy everyday savings that amount to considerable at the end of the month. Suppose you check our values and prices very carefully, and see for yourself how much of that $15 you can save by buying here next month.

MISSIONARY TELLS HOW M. E. SOCIETY BECAME ORGANIZED

Dying Hindu Woman, Unattended, Held Inspiration for Missionary Group

Mrs. H. C. Schelberg returned the first part of last week from Minneapolis where she attended the annual meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, which attracted nearly 200 missionaries and close to 2,000 members of the society throughout the country. Having been with her husband in India as a missionary and was particularly interested in the speeches, at one of which Miss Butler, a former missionary from there, interestingly told of what prompted the formation of the Missionary society, a summary of which is reproduced for the benefit of the readers of The Times.

Was Missionary to India

The sight of thousands of women suffering from illness—left on the banks of the Ganges river in India with their feet resting in the sacred waters was the inspiration which founded the Women's Foreign Missionary society of the Methodist Episcopal church, Miss Clementina Butler, Boston, Mass., a delegate to the fifty-eighth annual session of the society, said.

Miss Butler, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William Butler, founders of the society, is telling how they first conceived the idea in 1856, modestly admitted fund for the cause devoted most of her life to missionary work.

Mother Sees Dying Women

"My mother," she said, "was in India channel to be standing one evening on a bank overlooking the Ganges river. As she gazed she could see both up and down the stream, she saw the bodies of women of all ages, lying on the river bank their feet touching the sacred waters. She found that these women, suffering from various forms of illness had been left there to die since their system of seclusion made it impossible for them to be attended by a male physician. There being no women physicians in that land at that time they were fated to die without aid.

Society Formed in Boston

"The very best that Hindudom could do for these was to bring them to the sacred stream to spend their last hours.

"Appalled at the callousness of the system and convinced that many of them with proper care and attention would survive, my mother left determined to give the women of India a chance.

"When she returned to Boston she interested one woman and then another, until seven devout Christian women moved by what they had heard, joined hands with her and in the old Tremont Methodist Episcopal church at Boston, organized our present society."

Iowa Broadcaster Offers to Sell Pennington Peat by Radio, Says McGilvery

Recently announcement was made in the Times of the possibilities of a general use of peat, such as is being shipped from the vicinity of Viking to Iowa chicken farms.

The first three cars ordered are just about ready to be loaded now but recently additional samples in small lots were sent to other poultry raisers in Iowa and are being tested out, according to J. H. McGilvery, who is superintending the work of shipping the peat to Iowa.

This is in receipt of a letter this week from Henry Field, of the famous Shenandoah, broadcasting station, who has offered to sell the peat by radio in quantities whenever arrangements can be made to fill them. Mr. Field stated that investigation has convinced him of the advantages to be gained from the use of Pennington county peat.

TINKLING COW BELL CALLS MUCH MONEY TO STATE YEARLY

Minnesota's 883 Creameries Produce 269,209,624 Pounds of Butter

The cow bell calls more dollars to Minnesota each year than any other single factor or industry in the state, according to J. L. Holmberg, state dairy and food commissioner. Minnesota's 883 creameries during 1926 produced 269,209,624 pounds of butter, which sold more than $112,000,000, he claims. This means that the dairy cow brought to Minnesota farmers $308,000 a day, as well as an additional large revenue from the sale of raw milk, powder, cheese and ice cream.

In 1921, five years prior to the latest report from Mr. Holmberg's office, Minnesota's butter production was only a little more than 100,000,000 pounds and the revenue was even smaller proportionately.

Minnesota's butter production is 50,000,000 pounds greater annually than any other state, and consequently the Gopher butter-makers are in a better position to take national honors in contests.

MINNESOTA TREASURY HAS BALANCE OF $15,376,000

Minnesota's state treasury has a cash balance of $15,377,000 on Nov. 1, more than $2,000,000 in excess of that a year ago, Julius A. Schmahl, state treasurer, announced last Friday.

During the next two months the heaviest demands of the year will be made on the state coffers, Mr. Schmahl pointed out. In that period, he estimated, that nearly $8,000,000 will be distributed among schools, of which $5,920,000 will be given as aid and $2,100,000 will be paid under the school apportionment law.

Only 476 State Employees Engaged in Actual Administration Work

With the annual payroll of $14,106,901, Minnesota's state government has become one of the largest employers in the commonwealth, A. J. Peterson, commissioner of personnel and member of the state department of administration and finance has announced.

A survey by his department revealed 10,746 people are employed although only 476 persons are actual administrative officers of the state. They receive an aggregate salary of $1,479,200. They are especially charged with the performance of definite duties and with the exercise of certain powers under state law.

Semi-administrative and clerical duties are performed by 1,781 persons who be other professional or technical work, receive $1,116,848. Institutional employees, including inebriates and inspective duties total 959. They receive $1,250,079. The largest class of employees in number from all groups are the skilled persons who total 3,977 and who are paid $3,944,91 each year in salaries. They include the number of workers of the state highway department and helpers at various state plants and institutions. They also receive the largest share of the total annual paid to any individual class.

Employees of educational institutions receive $5,009,992. There are her 1,345 while 1,710 persons who are employed at state institutions receive $1,105,666.

In the administrative group the legislature is credited with employing 199 persons; the state government power, 984; state institutions, 2,744; vocational institutions, 40; the highway department, 8 and boards and commissioners, 2.

Another proposed paving job runs from Austin, to Blooming Prairie. Contracts were let recently for grading from Blooming Prairie to Owatonna and also from the end of the pavements on T. H. Roseau River Drainage Will Be Investigated by Joint Commission

According to word received by Roseau citizens from Cong. C. G. Selvig at Washington, the matter of the Roseau river drainage will be a subject for joint discussion by the International Joint commission at an early date. The drainage committee in Roseau county working on the matter feels well satisfied over results attained, according to the Roseau papers.

Getting a matter of this kind before the two governments usually takes considerable time. The International Joint commission is composed of six members, three from Canada and three from the United States.

POULTRY PREMIUM LIST TO BE ISSUED SHORTLY

Efforts are being made to compile the premium list for the next Pennington county poultry show to be held early in January, Leon E. McCann, secretary, and the executive committee are desirous of having poultry raisers send in suggestions of changes that would tend to improve previous lists.

There will be a revision of the breeders' directory therein, and if there are any who are not listed they should immediately send in their membership fee to the association, amounting to one dollar, which gives them the right to being listed

WHEAT GROWERS ASSN. NOW SEEKING RENEWALS

Frank Jeffers, Red Lake Falls citizen, and well known in this city, is still representing the Minnesota Wheat Growers' association, and last week was at Ada where he spoke to present members, whose contracts signed five years ago are about to expire. While there Mr. Jeffers stated, that in order to make the pool more effective, there is a strong sentiment in favor of obtaining at least a 50 per cent membership of the wheat growers before carrying on further, as this would insure a smaller overhead per bushel handled and at the of our hard spring wheat to a great extent.

G. N. RY. PLACES ORDER FOR MANY FREIGHT CARS

Orders have been placed by the Great Northern railroad for the manufacture at its shops at St. Cloud of $2,700,000 of new equipment. The new equipment will include 500 box cars, with steel underframes, 350 stock cars, and 27 cabooses.

LONDON TOUR MUCH ENJOYED ON WAY HOME

Mrs. Bishop Describes Historic Scenes Visited by Delegates

TRIP THRU SCOTLAND WAS QUITE IMPRESSIVE

Waven Mountain High Were Encountered on Return Trip to Quebec

In London we took three American Legion trips busses which we did alone. We were shown through the House of Parliment by one of the members—Sir Cyril Cobb—who made it most interesting. Saw where Lady Astor sits and were impressed by the fact that no member has a desk for writing or storing papers. We were told that they use their knees. In the dining room a card on the wall shows who is speaking so that no member need leave his roast beef and ale unless the speaker is interesting. The building is in the finest Gothic style and covers many acres. It is built on site of Old Royal palace of Westminster at a cost of three billion yet stable. Like the historic interest we felt that our law makers are more fortunate in their surroundings.

Saw Noted Burial Place

Westminster Abbey could be visited for days and never lose its interest. Poets Corner, where so many of our writers and others are buried, was especially interesting. Dickens, the Brownings, David Livingstone and Tennyson were among the illustrious. Sir Isaac Newton and Darwin are also buried there. Sir Walter Raleigh lies in a plot of grass outside. (Not inside.) As he is buried with his first wife so remains are not complete. The grave of the Unknown Soldier is in the Abbey. "Unknown and yet well known" is the fitting epitaph for among the kings because he had done good toward God and toward his fellow men" are among Poets Corner.

The London Museum, where in one part we saw the glitter and gold of the coronation robes of royalty, and in the basement we saw the carriages and various instruments of torture used not so long ago on the unfortunates of England. Wanted to tell America acts on the side of leniency especially regarding children.

Visited London Tower

London Tower presents history to one by its tragedies of all kinds. Sir Walter Raleigh was a prisoner here for 12 years. We saw the room where the two princes were murdered by the Duke of Gloucester. The headsman's block and axe are in one place and crown jewels in another. Traitor's Gate from the Thames is also there. The attire of the Beefeaters, who guided us, and the antiquity of the great sword was quite relievers grotesque.

Windsor Castle was an all day trip. Eton is now Duke Street, the church where Grey wrote his "Elegy" and the church yard is not only his resting place but that of William Penn's family. The boys of Eton college, "Gentlemen and gentlemen," we were told, and whom we also saw, contrasted strangely with our American democracy—they were silk hats and striped trousers. The undergraduates wear Eton jackets and the quite close colleagues. Lunch at Neil Gwynn's Tea Room, from which a tunnel connected it with the castle in the time of Charles II prepared us for our trip to the residence of the Kings and Queens of England. The paintings, throne room, royal suites and Chapel Royal formed a gorgeous sight. Runnymeade and Hampton Court completed our return trip.

Trip to Scotland

A fly up the east side of England to Edinburgh, Scotland, and down the west coast gave us a good perspective of our mother country which we feel is very proud of her wayward child, America. The purple heather on the hills of Scotland were turning brown but there had been no killing frost. The forests in Fillenburgh reminded us of those we raise in northern Minnesota. The constant request for tips which everyone met on the continent was true in England and Scotland. The season of tours was over, so we traveled the "Royal Mile" in Edinburgh" without a guide except as we found one where we went as in the Castle and at Holyrood. In the castle, which we entered through seven gates and which towers over the city are the crown jewels of James V, and Queen Mary. Parliment Hall, St. Margaret's Chapel and the Treasury were well worth seeing. The Parliment Hall is now used as a cafe, a change of many and many a hungry promenade for the attorneys who wear both gowns and wigs. In the basement were many original manuscripts of Robert Burns, Sir Walter Scott and other writers we love.

Scotch Trails

One person in Scotland says they are glad to have English prohibition while the rest of the world is dry and old days when Scotland had their own government. One amusing incident was when I asked a Scotchman if he disliked going to London as masters of governmental importance and he replied "No, I only see the backs of departments and there are all Scotchmen!" A trip to the Firth of Forth bridge famous all over the world, as we saw the government fleet, gave us a good idea of the size of the British Navy. The battleship Rodney, Hood, Nelson, Revenge, Resolution and Royal Sovereign, all new formation. The Scottish and American war vessels were also there. Beautiful we saw. The American is located in Princes Gardens and the Scottish on Castle Hill.

Came down to London on the Royal Scot over one of the fastest trains in the world and over the highest point in Scotland. Catherine Glen Dhu. Beginning of the Clyde River, Gretna Green, noted for runaway marriages; the graves of John Knox, his great friend Scottish soldiers in the Abbey. "Unknown and yet well known" is the fitting epitaph for among the kings because he had done good toward God and toward his fellow men" are among Poets Corner.

BORRY'S GARAGE

CHRISTMAS MAIL SHOULD BE SENT AT EARLY DATE

Post Office Already Preparing to Handle All Classes of Mail Expeditiously

Preparations are already under way at the local post office to care for the Christmas rush of mail of all descriptions. The usual reminders for early shopping, careful wrapping, the use of return addresses, and early mailing will be prominently displayed from now until Christmas.

The public will be reminded of the use of international money orders as the best holiday gift for friends in other countries. Parcel post mail intended for friends in foreign lands should be mailed by Dec. 15, to insure delivery before Christmas, although letters to Norway and Sweden can be mailed as late as Dec. 19, and to England, France and Germany up to Dec. 15.

Christmas falls on Sunday this year, but a general clearance of the great holiday will be made on Monday, Dec. 26. The city mail carriers will make the delivery and the rural mail carriers will start early in the morning in order to complete delivery over their routes by noon also. The parcel post delivery will be completely broken up till the noon hour, while all mail starting out from the forenoon for lack box patrons will be sorted before the office is closed at noon.

Parcel post will probably be handled in much the same manner as last year, a sub station being secured for the duration of the holiday rush. Deliveries will be made, including all parcels, even those of a small nature, thereby lightening the load for the carriers, who will have probably much heavier loads of first class mail.

DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Capt. H. F. Ilfe stated to a representative of The Times today that the drive for funds for the county's part is being continued actively, but that there is still a considerable sum needed to properly carry on the work of the organization this coming winter.

A. L. FILMORE SERVICES WERE HELD IN MINNEAPOLIS

Services were held at the funeral home of Erickson and Lund Friday evening, Nov. 11, for A. L. Filmore whose death took place at his home in this city last Wednesday evening, following an illness of cancer of the stomach.

Arthur L. Filmore was sixty-two years old at the time of his passing. He was employed in this city as master mechanic for the Soo Line, coming here a year and a half ago from Stevens Point, Wis., taking John W. Hendrie's place. His wife and one daughter, Isabel, survive him. The remains were taken to Minneapolis Friday night, where funeral services were held the following day at the Lakewood Chapel, and interment made in Lakewood cemetery, Minneapolis.

PNEUMONIA CLAIMS CHILD

Elroy Julius Christenson, infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Eli Christenson of Goodridge, died Nov. 14, at Victor, S. Dak., following a four days' illness caused from the fall with pneumonia setting in. The little child was just four months and 15 days old at the time of death. The body was brought to this city by the parents for burial. Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon at 2:30 from the Scandinavian Evangelical Church, Rev. O. Olson officiating. Mr. Christenson and N. Fraser sang at the services and Mrs. Fraser played. Oliver Christensen, Lloyd and Norman Newstrom were the pall bearers. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

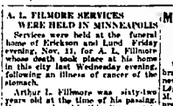
GOOD ROADS HELPFUL IN RURAL SCHOOL DEVELOPMENT

The widespread improvement of rural roads of all classes has aided materially the consolidation of rural schools, notably the junior high school, according to W. F. Ryan, Professor of Rural Education at Cornell university.



In his recent report, issued by the U. S. Bureau of Education, he notes that reliable motor transportation have greatly extended—in fact doubled the distance from which school can be reached by pupils. This has made it possible to develop three or four-year junior high schools, in many small centers unable to support such schools, and to arrange for pupils going daily to adjoining communities to attend high schools not yet in several small communities.

There are now 1,174 centers of population under 2,500 having junior high schools.

A water system in perfect order and capable of carrying a daily flow of 300,000 gallons, delivered to have been built by Genesse colonists eight hundred years ago, was recently uncovered by workmen at Alishla, Crimea.

Mrs. Bishop is First Woman to Install Set of Am. Legion Officers

While at the Armistice Day celebration at Montevideo last Friday the new set of officers of the American Legion there was installed by Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city, department president of the state Auxiliary, who gave the principal address of the celebration there. As far as known this is the first time that a woman has installed the officers of an American Legion post.

From Montevideo Mrs. Bishop went to Madison where she was entertained briefly by friends before continuing on to Ortonville where she also spoke on that day.

On Saturday Mrs. Bishop returned to Minneapolis where an executive committee meeting of the state Auxiliary was held in the evening.

TWIN CITY-DULUTH RAIL SERVICE PUSHED BY ROADS

Permission was given the Great Northern railway last week by the Interstate commerce commission to enter into the joint arrangement now existing between the Northern Pacific railway, St. Paul and Duluth Short Line, Marie railroads by which all passenger trains operated over these lines between the Twin Cities and Duluth in Minnesota will be consolidated.

Automobile transportation over the lines has cut so seriously into the local passenger revenue, the commission stated, that it was necessary for the carriers to pool their service.

A mother seal can place her puppy by a hole on a cake of ice and dive for a fish—during expedition, staying for hours, and can return directly to the cake though the ice may have drifted thirty or forty miles in the meantime.

FARMERS GET $223,000 FOR CLOVER SEED CROP

With most of the threshing completed, it is now possible to get a fairly accurate idea of the amount of clover seed raised in Lake of the Woods county this year. Buyers are estimating that the crop will amount to a million and a half pounds, and that the average price paid is 18 cents a pound, bringing the amount of money paid to farmers to $225,000. As a result of the large amount of money paid out this year, many additional farmers are preparing to go into the business, and in a couple of years the returns to local farmers should run up to a half million dollars yearly, says the Baudette Region.

USES INCUBATOR TO DRY SEED CORN

Incubators are good for something besides hatching eggs, according to H. S. Perrie, a New York farmer who uses his "mechanical setting hen" to dry seed corn. He places about 60 ears in the incubator and keeps the temperature at about 90 degrees until the corn is dry.

This is a practice which many farmers could easily follow with profit, points out the research department of the national association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers. Seed corn at its best needs special attention this fall to insure high testing seed for next spring. Practically every farmer's wife now uses an incubator for hatching chickens, and with proper diplomacy the good man of the house could undoubtedly obtain the loan of the incubator during the fall.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

ANOTHER $20,000 PAID

By the action of the school board Monday night another big slice will be taken out of the indebtedness of independent school district No. 48, the board having voted to take up bonds to the amount of $25,000 which will fall due in 1932 and 1936. This money will be paid out of the reserve fund of approximately $40,000 which has been built up to retire bonds as they become due. By this action the district will save nearly $4,000 in interest. The district is in excellent condition financially and at the present rate will be entirely out of debt by 1940. The tax levy for the district this coming year will be reduced over seven mills. And when you consider this fact, give a little thought too to the fact that the city of Thief River Falls has also completed a hundred thousand dollar water power development and paid cash for it. Yes, Thief River Falls is getting along very nicely, thank you.

TAX SALE SUCCESSFUL

The sale of real estate at a discount on the delinquent taxes which have accumulated over a period of years, and held Monday under the provisions of the special law passed by the last state legislature, was considered fairly successful by local officials. Due to the familiarity of the county auditor to handle all of this business in one day the sale has been continued and will last all of this week. It is estimated that as a result of this sale the owners of approximately fifty pieces of real estate in Pennington county will resume paying their portion of the taxes and about $20,000 in delinquent taxes will be collected. In addition to this there were some property owners who had paid up the delinquent taxes on their property prior to the sale in order to keep their property out of the sale. These results were very encouraging.

THE APPROPRIATION IS MADE

At its regular meeting Monday the county board made an appropriation of $2,000 for county extension work and the support of a county agent. This appropriation will make possible a continuation of the work which has been started here, and with this appropriation, in addition to the regular allotment from the state and federal governments, it should be possible to make the work more extensive than it has been in recent years.

With the county giving financial support to this project it becomes not only advisable but necessary for a complete reorganization of the work. The law provides that the county auditor, the chairman of the county board and one other member of the board shall be members of a committee of seven to direct the activities of the agent. The other four members must be elected by an organization of farmers working for the agricultural development of the county. It therefore becomes necessary at this time to perfect that farmers organization, and this organization should be perfected before any further steps are taken in the matter.

It would be our impression that the proper way to proceed under these circumstances would be to call a meeting at which each township would be represented, and at this meeting arrangements for perfecting a permanent organization could be made. In order to make this meeting representative, representation could be given to one or two township officials or whoever the township officials might appoint to represent them. By all means this organization meeting should be made representative, for much of the success of the county agent work will depend on the popularity of this organization which will be largely responsible for the activities of the agent.

There is an adage to the effect that properly begun is half done, and now is just exactly the right time to begin properly. The work of this organization will be beneficial only to those who try to get some benefit out of it, and only those will try to get a benefit from it who have confidence in it and who really feel that it is their organization. The real job now is to drive home to every farmer the fact that this is his own organization, and that the service which it provides is his because he has helped pay for it.

TEAM MAKES BRILLIANT FINISH

The Thief River Falls high school football team covered itself with glory on Armistice day, when they closed the season by defeating the heavy Crookston A. C. squad. Outweighed twenty pounds to the man, they out-fought and out-smarted their rivals and the final score of 16-to 0 pictures fairly accurately the relative strength of the two teams.

This has been a successful season for the Lincoln High gridders, and not for many years has so distinguished a group of athletes completed their high school football careers as the dozen seniors who played their last game Friday, Captain Roy Own, Severson, Erickson, Beasley, C. Snyder, Thibert, Furan, Clouller, Larson, Williamson, Myrum, Wengeler and Benson—football fans will remember this group for some time to come. Captain Roy Oen has for three years been an important factor in the team. A vicious tackler and a relentless blocker, he has played a steady and consistent game at all times, and as captain of the squad he has given it real leadership. Young "Ines" is a chip off the old block and when they counted on him they never had to count twice. "Snuffy" Severson is another lad who deserves a number nine crown for his services to the team. In the game Friday he gave a brilliant exhibition of open-field running, kicking and passing. He did everything that one man can do. "Roundy" Erickson is another household word in local football parlance. He never failed, and he somehow always managed to get into the thickest of the fight. Clayton Snyder proved in the last two games of the season he was one of the best. Out of the game since the Warren contest, when he suffered a broken nose, he deserves much credit for the victory over both Crookston and the Aggies. On the line Beasley proved himself, in game after game, to be one of Thief River's greatest linesmen. Wengeler, Larson, Myrum, Clouller, Benson and Williamson could always be relied on to hold their portion of the line, while Gilson and Furan, reserve backfieldmen, were always ready for the call.

They are a fine bunch of boys and they played a great game this season. Several of them undoubtedly will go on to college and will be heard from again. They have given their school and their community the best they have had while here.

A road hog is the driver of the car that we barely missed.

Former Red Lake Falls Superintendent Elected President of Minn. E. A.

L. V. Kent, who for four years was superintendent of the public schools of Red Lake Falls, was honored at the annual meeting of the Minnesota Education association at the annual meeting of that body in Minneapolis last week when Mr. Kent was elected president of the association. Mr. Kent was superintendent of schools for six years previous to his term of office at Red Lake Falls.

Northern Minnesota was also honored in having John T. West superintendent at Bemidji, elected as vice president.

The association had been invited by the Chamber St. Paul committee to hold its annual convention next year in St. Paul, but the convention closed Saturday with no city designated definitely as next year's convention city, the matter being left to the executive board at its meeting a month from now.

War Lessons Convention

This year's convention, the sixty-fourth, brought 12,000 teachers to Minneapolis and was the largest in the history of the association.

In the three days of convention sessions the teachers pledged to mail to the legislative floks for an adequate transportation fund. They voted support to the county unit system and school board organization, and favored an appeal for a state-wide organization to back the national defense bill, which would create a Federal department of education with a secretary in the President's cabinet.

SUNDAY TRAVEL LESS THAN DOUBLE WEEK DAY TRAFFIC

That business comes before pleasure in the case of the trunk highways is indicated by an analysis of traffic census figures made recently by the Minnesota highway times as great as on Sunday, is incorrect, although as all know, Sunday is usually the heaviest traffic of any day in the week.

A summary of the reports from all of the points at which counts were made in 1926 shows that the number of vehicles at the average station for each day of the week was as follows: Sunday, 1183; Monday, 738; Tuesday, 705; Wednesday, 743; Thursday, 813; Friday, 788, Saturday, 1003.

Sunday traffic was not quite twice as large at the traffic on Wednesday, the busiest day of the week. It was less than one fourth of the total for the week, or 23.21 per cent. Saturday traffic was 15.66 per cent of the week's total.

Automobile Reciprocity Between Minnesota and Other States Possible

The automobile license reciprocity plan, made possible through a law passed by the last legislature, is in full effect between Minnesota and all the adjoining states and provinces except Ontario. A proclamation putting it into effect between Minnesota and Wisconsin was issued recently. The Wisconsin law was passed before, but slightly different from the Minnesota law. This necessitated considerable correspondence between Miss Hohn, registrar of motor vehicles, and the Wisconsin authorities, before the law could be made effective. Reciprocity arrangements were made with Iowa, North and South Dakota and Manitoba, early in the summer.

At numerous points near the state line, question have arisen as to the status of autoists residing in points who have their residence in one state and their business in the other state. Miss Hohn has submitted to Attorney General C. L. Hilton and he ruled that a pleasure car should be licensed in the state where the owner lives and a salesmen's truck in the state where the owner has his place of business.

The owner of any pleasure car, delivery truck or farm truck properly licensed in the state where it belongs, may then apply to the registrar of motor vehicles of adjoining state for an $1 per, a permit which entitles him to drive across the line as often as he pleases.

SILVERTON

Farewell Party

Harold Matzke was given a farewell surprise at the G. Nordahl home Saturday evening prior to his departure for Chicago. Games and music were the entertainment and a delicious lunch was served. Those present were Gerda, Christine and Henry Hegrenes, Elmer and Lars Harstad, Clara, Ellen and Melvin Grinde, Theodore Hegrenes, Olga Nelson, Olga, Clara, Anna and Carl Christopherson, Mrs. H. Grinde, Olaf Larson, Nora and John Buttress, and Mrs. G. Nordahl.

Friends of Miss Ingeborg Harstad will be pleased to hear of her new place in California in Thomas Design. They expect to make a visit here next summer and are now visiting at the home of the groom.

Silverton Feels Honored

We are very pleased to have Alfalfa honors come to Silverton thru Henry Hansen who was declared winner in the Alfalfa campaign. Another honor—a daughter, is Natalie, Wood's son with her baby beef. She won a second and a tenth place, returning Saturday morning from the Junior Livestock show at South St. Paul, tired, but happy with a red and green ribbon and full of enthusiasm for the 4-H club work for next year. She is anxious to make a better showing for Pennington county and is going to work hard next year. Other club members from Pennington for the Junior Livestock show.

Our Little Corner.

No. 48 NOVEMBER 17, 1927 Vol. 1

What helps the appearance of a home? Is one of our "pull-up" chairs? We have them in all sizes.

Personally we vote for pumpkin pie as the greatest fall delicacy. What do you vote for?

Some day beds are all right in the day time, but they're a "dog-gelbed" day- beds are 24 hour beds. They look well in the day time and feel well at night.

We have some real honest- to- goodness values in kitchen tables. They're plain and practical Bedroom Furniture! We have it!

It was Smith's first Sunday as usher in the church. Naturally he was a bit fussed trying to find a lady who entered the door. In said, "Just step this way and I'll see you in to a seat."

Bring the wife in and show her one of our "pull-up" chairs. If she's "relegated" to the old mortis chair to the table. They come in mahogany and walnut finish and upholstered in Velour and Tapestry.

We're talkway- noticed that the bird in the cage only makes an hour has no place in particular to go and nothing to do when he gets there.

We're selling lots of linoleum this month People are finding that it's an ideal covering for any room in the house, especially the kitchen, dining room and the bath room.

We have four new parlor suites on our floor. They're vin's. Come in and look them over.

They claim this accidently have in Thief River Falls but we doubt it. A young man thought he threw away a dime, walked outside to eat it, then tried to come back in the fountain. Handing it to the clerk, he said, "Much obliged for the vase."

Here's another thing about the Maytag washer it doesn't wear out the clothes. It washes by water action. The slightest failure to not harmed in the least.

Blaster Tractor ran out of Gasoline, no shed payments—no heat.

Short Lessons In Dairying

A series of 52 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON III.

A daily ration of 10 pounds of hay, 30 pounds of corn silage and 8 pounds of grain for a dairy cow may be taken as a basis for the production of a pound of butterfat a day during the mail feeding period.

The size of the cow, the amount and test of the milk and the kind and quality of feed on hand, all have a bearing on the amount of feed to use.

In estimating the cost of a ration this year, hay may be figured at $12 per ton, corn per a pound and ground farm grown grains at 1½c per pound; skim milk, high in protein, from 1½c to 2½c per pound.

With butterfat from 45c to 50c and above there is good profit in dairying with good cows.

LESSON IV.

There are 7 breeds of cows commonly used for dairying—Holsteins, Guernseys, Jerseys, Ayrshires, Brown Swiss, Milking Short Horns and Red Poles. The 5 breeds first mentioned are special dairy breeds and the latter 2 are dual purpose. All these breeds originated in Europe.

For a cow to be registered as purebred, she must be from pure-bred registered ancestry. Cows with 50 per cent or more of dairy blood, called high grade cows. Cows with less than 50 per cent dairy blood, or of no particular breeding, are called common cows.

Good cows should go with good cooperative creameries. Good dairy herds can be built up through the use of good, pure bred dairy sires. A farmer can make no better investment than a pure bred dairy sire

Alligators, whose food consists mainly of fish and meat, will not swallow their food except under water.

IN MEMORIAM TO:

MINTON PETERSON

Minton was a living young man of refined character, due to his smiling visage and winning ways he was held in high esteem by all who knew him.

His untimely death has deprived his many relatives and friends over a large community where he was born and lived practically all of his life, which was rather short as he was only 29 years old.

A previous one from us has gone; A voice that's hushed and stilled; A place is vacant in our home, Which never can be filled.

All is dark within our dwellings; Lonely are our hearts today, For the one we loved so dearly Has forever passed away.

And You'll Find It Superior to Sixes of Other Makes Costing Hundreds of Dollars More

THE sweeping enthusiasm for the Great New Chrysler "62" is due to the public's recognition that it has completely upset all past ideas of what $1095 could buy in a motor car.

Here are features heretofore found only in Chryslers of higher price—features of performance, beauty, luxury, comfort, economy, safety, dependability and long life for which, in any other make, you would still have to pay hundreds of dollars more.

When you pay $1095 for a car, get what you are entitled to—there's no reason why you should be content with less than today's standards of full value for your money.

We will gladly turn a Great New Chrysler "62" over to you to test in your own way. Experience the exceptional performance, its ease of handling, its comfort, its safety which only the combination of these features gives—and you'll understand fully the acclaim of this sensational car which today more than ever is setting the country Chrysler-wild.

Turkeys For Breeding

I am now booking orders for young Turkey Toms and Hens. Toms weigh up to between 20 and 25 pounds—hens only in a growing stage.

My turkeys are out of Bird Brothers' stock. America's foremost turkey breeders, whose stock holds the record for winning prizes all over the U. S. A.

At the Pennington County poultry show, 1927, 74 Bronze turkeys were entered and 23 were awarded places, out of which my hens took 7 places—including three first prizes, one second prize Male and Female, and Best Display. I won't start delivering birds before the last of November or 1st of December, because I want them fully developed at that time.

Nimble—Lively—Quick!

In cold weather or warm—up hill or down—on a ribbon of road or through a hard pulling stretch—Solite makes your car easy to handle—speedy and powerful and smooth.

Solite is a light gasoline that makes no compromise with power to attain speed. It drives the piston the full stroke under power. It gives speed backed by power.

And the flexibility of the engine makes it a pleasure to drive! Fast! Slow! Quick pick-up and speed again! Wherever you want to go—however you want to go! The engine obeys with ready ease and a smooth purr!

It costs only a few cents more to feed your car Solite—you'll agree it's worth it.

NATALIE'S PRIZE BABY BEEF SELLS AT 26c PER LB.

Silverton Young Lady Won Second Place at Recent Junior Livestock Show.

Natalie Wonson, who took her prize baby beef in the Junior Livestock show at South St. Paul two weeks ago, has returned home, minus her prize animal, but crowned with glory, for her entry took second place in its class. She was the only one of the five Pennington county boys and girls who went to the show this year, the other four finding it impossible to make the trip at the last minute.

Natalie is only sixteen years old, but this was her first experience in showing livestock at the Junior show, for last year she was also the only one from this county to be at the state fair while took third in its class, the same entry being won the sweepstakes prize at the annual Red River Valley fair at Crookston. She has been in the state fair for eight years with her dairy calf, always holding the attention of those who are well versed in the raising of livestock. Next on her taking her dairy calf to the livestock show has been with a baby beef entry, having been in club work for nine years.

The 26c a Pound Bid

At the close of the show the sale of winning animals this year was placed on sale and auctioned bidding was exciting in the ring, but not as much so as last year when every time a girl entered with her pet animal she would raise the ante on each bid, and bidding interest and bidding would be immediately manifested.

When Natalie brought in her baby beef she was offered several thousand dollars, and 15 cents a pound bids started climbing rapidly, and when the price ordinal was knocked down to a purse equivalent of the Roe Lines at 26 cents per pound, the crowd applauded Pennington county's plucky little club worker. The Great Northern representatives were among the others who bid to the fine baby beef and won. Then Natalie came back with about $250 in cash, in addition to the honor of winning second place.

Turkeys Brought $1.50 lb.

Each year witnesses extra bidding for the entries of the show regardless of the classification. This year was no exception to the rule. Thanksgiving turkeys selling for as high as $1.50 a pound and a several chickens how between $1 a pound when born and quality exhibited at the show went on the auction block.

The Golden Rule store, St. Paul sold the $1.50 a pound five-a-row of turkeys, winners in the brown class owned by Mable Christiansen, Barnesville, Minn. Armour & Co. bought the grand champion hog, a purebred Poland China from Floyd Bankers, Faribault, Minn., for $1 a pound.

The grand champion hog, owned by Ray Nash, Brownsdale, Minn., was purchased by Swift & Co. for 60 cents a pound.

Three geese in a pens pen owned by Lloyd Johnson, Fergus Falls, Minn., went to the St. Francis hotel, St. Paul, for $1 a pound.

60 Miles of Guard Rail Were Erected This Year by Highway Department

Sixty miles of guard rail, costing $61,871, have been erected by the Minnesota Highway department this year, according to figures released by various parts of the state during the past summer, according to a bulletin received by The Times-News Press. The state took over the trunk roads in 1921, a total of 756 miles of guard rail have been built, at a cost of $1,6,802. In addition to this there are several dozen miles of guard rail on the state fair which took third in its class, the same entry being won the sweepstakes prize at the annual Red River Valley fair at Crookston. She has been in the state fair for eight years with her dairy calf, always holding the attention of those who are well versed in the raising of livestock. Next on her taking her dairy calf to the livestock show has been with a baby beef entry, having been in club work for nine years.

School Boy Near Grygla Meets Bear Face to Face Going Home From School

Arthur Bupprecht in the Big Grove district near Grygla, at the far eastern end of Marshall county, was hardly surprised one day last week to see a bear while on his way home from school. Neither the bear nor the boy noticed the other's presence until they were side by side.

The 1 t retained his composure remarkably well under the circumstances, and did not run till he was out of sight of the bear, having been admonished about this several times by his elders. The boy and his parents are rejoicing over the happy outcome of the matter.

Paved Road Northwest From Twin Cities to be Extended in 1928

Mention was made in The Times last week of the approval by the department of state highway No. 3 by paving a 14 mile stretch west from Sauk Center. Quite a few people from this city now use the paving from Sauk Center to the Twin Cities, going from Detroit to Wadena and thence to Sauk Center.

Committees on the improvement of the Fergus Falls Journal says that the paved road extends from almost the southern line of the state, thru the Twin Cities section to the north of Fergus Falls, and when the Osakis section is completed, it will bring the paving to within 66 miles of that city. This should mean that the paved highway, now heading across the state, will reach Fergus Falls in about three years. The highway from Sauk Center to Osakis was graded during the summer out pieces of their the first Northern closely, running on the south side of the track, and for a distance of about two miles. The grade is level and several sharp turns. The 71 highway ran on the north side of the track from Osakis to West Union.

TRUNK HIGHWAY NO. 21 NOW READY FOR GRAVEL

The crew working on trunk highway No. 21 near Mahnomen, that week finished their work and have pulled out. The completion of this stretch of road means marks the end of the 1927 work on number 31, with the exception of graveling the part just finished. This will probably be done next spring.

These are offering their customers for $1.11 when ac- comfortable. companied by Del Monte goods purchased in their grocery store. Nine

According to reports of game wardens in the Cascade Mountains, a million deer and 50,000 elk are living in that section of the state. Bears, three or four times as numerous as last year, are also reported.

ADVANCED SHEEP WORK PLANNED FOR JUNIORS

Four-H club work is to be further broadened by the proposed Minnesota sheep and lamb feeding project, which was worked out by the state club leaders and W. E. Morris, livestock specialist, with the agricultural extension service of the university.

The project is for the older junior boys and girls who are between the ages of 18 and 24 except that any junior who has had four years' experience in lamb club work and has exhibited the grand champion lamb at the junior Livestock Show is eligible for membership.

Contrary to the general belief that Indiana are without sentiment and lack the kindred feelings of humanity, David L. Bushnell, of the Smithsonian institution, asserts that they often subject themselves to many kinds of self-inflicted pain to prove their agony at the death of a loved one, such as beslashing their bodies with knives and cutting out pieces of their flesh, passing arrows thru their arms and walking barefoot on the march.

The rat has two kinds of vocal cords—true and false. The true vocal cords are used in growling and making other common sounds, and the false are used only in purring, a sound which the cat is extended and "I Am Very Glad With The Order"

In far away Sao Paulo there are tiny shops where one may purchase carved fans of sandalwood and filmy lengths of real lace, but Senor Silva wanted a vacuum bottle, and a leather belt, and he wanted them to be of excellent quality and at a price his modest salary could afford.

So he wrote us a long letter in Portuguese explaining his wishes, and in due time the Bottle and the Belt departed for South America. Apparently, Senor Silva was pleased with them, because the other day we received this letter:

"I am very glad with the order. Thank you."

You may smile, perhaps at the phraseology, but to us it represents an ideal of service.

Every night when the last parcel has left our counters, we wonder if deep down in the heart of every customer we have served that day is the thought, "I am very glad with the order. Thank you."

We hope so. This is the success we hope to achieve.

MONOXIDE GAS NEARLY FATAL TO FOUR MEN

Deadly Poisonous Gas Enters Cabs of Wood Trucks Thru Exhaust

TWO FROM GONVICK; TWO FROM KENNEDY

Upsetting of Kennedy Truck in Ditch Saved Men Who Inhaled Too Much

Al Roux and John Fete of Gonvick had their first experience with monoxide gas last week, and they do not care to have it repeated. The state of condition was very critical for several hours after inhaling this deadly gas.

The two young men were returning from the Red Lake reservation, and when near the Brooks corner Roux noticed that his companion did not answer his questions in conversation. Roux says he himself felt rather drowsy and suddenly realized what was taking place. He says he was using the rub of the wood truck they were riding in, coming in by way of the heater.

Roux stopped the truck and pulled Fete out of the car, and placed him in a passing auto, in which he was rushed to a doctor's office in Bemidji, where it took several hours to bring the young man back to consciousness.

Roux also felt the ill-effects for several days after.

Walter and Lawrence Fertig of Fergus Falls had a similar death scare Times while trucking wood last week, according to the Kennedy Star, the Fertig brothers were hauling the poisonous gas into the cab to keep the cab warm for the men.

Monoxide gas has a peculiar nature of putting one to sleep without any warning whatsoever, and it very subtly overcomes that the victim even realizes consciousness, so the boys considered themselves indeed fortunate Lawrence seemed least affected by the gas, and quite partially numbed, he was suddenly aware that the truck was lying on its side in the ditch and that anything was wrong. He called to Walter. He shut off the motor and kicked out the windshield, which was the only means of escape from the cab. Once the door was on the side next to the ground. The sudded rush of fresh air somewhat revived Walter and the two managed to get their car to the Johnson farm, about a half mile eastward field, where they were given first aid. Mr. Johnson brought them to town, and the boys are around again none the worse for their hazardous experience.

Fergus Falls Man Gets 25,000 Christmas Tree Orders from Big Jobbers

A contract to deliver 25,000 Christmas trees has been secured by C. C. Lindquist of Fergus Falls from jobbers of Minneapolis and North Dakota within the next four weeks. To accomplish this large task Mr. Lindquist has completed arrangements for the employment of a large number of men. Bagley, Park Rapids, Sebeka and Menahga.

To cut and ship this number of trees in a short time is a big undertaking, but the contractor states they are equal to the occasion. Two or three camps have been established the past week and a crew of men are now at work cutting trees at present 25, doing the cutting. The trees will then be loaded onto trucks and hauled to Park Rapids and Menahga, from which points they will be shipped by rail to the various jobbers who have contracted for trees. The trees will be cut, baled and loaded in cars at Menahga, and the cutting will be completed.

Nicollet County Farmer Wins N. W. Corn Husking Contest After 3 Years

It required three years for Bert M. Hanson, 28 year old farmer of Belgrade township, Nicollet county, to win the northwestern corn husking championship, which he secured last week.

Hanson achieved a clear-cut victory when he brought in a load of 1,401 pounds, husked in 80 minutes. With only 68 pounds deduction, his net load was 1,333 pounds, compared with a net of 1,197 pounds husked by Valerious Alterrait of Sanborn, Redwood county, the runner-up. Alterrait's final weighed 1,231 pound.

Hanson husked in his third northwest contest today. Two years ago he entered his first contest and came back again last year. Also he took second honors, and then went to the national contest, where the ranked seventh.

Eastern Man Pays $2.66 for Minnesota Potatoes Sold at $1.15 Per Cwt.

On Sept. 13, this year Alvin Oliver Parkers Prairie, hauled some potatoes to market, and out of curiosity inserted a note in a small glass tube, which he placed in one of the sacks of potatoes. The note read:

To Whom It May Concern:

These potatoes were loaded at Myron M. Nevada, at 11:15 a.m. I would like to know what they are bought. Please write them where they went.

Alvin Oliver, Hillcrest Farm, Parkers Prairie.

R. D. 1, Minn.

Mr. Oliver has just received a letter from George Perrone Canonsburg, Pa., stating that he had purchased a sack of potatoes at a West Pike street store of Canonsburg, for which he paid 40 cents. At this rate the potatoes were sold at retail in the east in each market for $2.66 $.8 cents per cwt.—or more than double what the farmer received for his spud.

FUR FARMER REGISTERS 26 SILVER BLACK FOXES

The successful production of fur pelts on a large scale is being demonstrated by John Slovarp, Clearwater county fur farmer, who reports an increase in his valuable fur-bearing animals for the first year in the industry at Bagley.

The twenty foxes on the Slovarp fur farm were officially inspected last week by an inspector authorized by the American National Fur-Breeders association, of which Mr. Slovarp is a member, and all the animals were registered and found to be of a very satisfactory grade.

NINE ALIENS CAUGHT CROSSING THE BORDER

Nine aliens were arrested by immigration officers last week, Thursday and taken to Crookston where they are lodged in jail awaiting deportation orders. Eight nationalities were represented in the list of men caught crossing the border near Noyes. It is stated that over 200 have been arrested in the past few months this year.

Roseau County Farmer Raises 2,500 Bushels of Spuds on 10 Acres

Ole Thompson of the Renwood country near Badger is credited by his neighbors as one of the farmers who knows how to make farming profitable. This year he had ten acres in potatoes, which he raised and cared for, and as a result he had 2,500 bushels to sell.

Mr. Thompson sold three carloads himself, receiving 65 cents per bushel for them; then shipped another car with a neighbor, Alex Galecki, this one going to Gilby, and which netted them 40 cents per bushel; and he still has about 1,000 bushels in his cellar.

However, Mr. Thompson believes that sheep are the best paying end of farming, he has the next four weeks. The acsaid, and will keep 40 head over for next year.

HAZEL

Education Week Program

A large number of people turned out Thursday evening, Nov. 10, to attend the Education week program at the eastside school house. Five schools were on the part but only two were represented the no doubt to the bad condition of the roads and cold weather. A short address was given by Reuben Peterson assistant principal of the St. Hilaire. Mr. Peterson also rendered a vocal solo. The teachers from Beltrami schools taking part were Dorothy Olson, Effie Fredrickson, Hazel Dunn, and Nannie Erickson.

Everybody's talking about Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Westerman, motored over from St. Hilaire Sunday and spent the afternoon at Tom Johnson's.

Henry Olson is busy flooding new radio buyers in our community.

Sunday evening Mr. and Mrs. Martin Peterson visited with Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Reese and family near Mavie.

THE NEW ACTIVITY

Debate will soon have its season in Lincoln High school and debaters will compete with other schools.

Just what debate means or just what good it does is not always clear to a majority of students. Debate broadens one's mind by helping him to see both sides of a question. Especially valuable is the fact that it not only teaches one to argue but repeatedly to back up every statement with evidence. It demands that one know the elements of good speaking; it helps him to understand more about important government questions; it is vital importance, for instance the present question that of the Anglo-American-Canadian Waterway project.

If we do not go out for debate ourselves, let's get out and support the team just as we do in football when our boys play; first, because we want to be loyal to our school and its activities; second, because we learn the facts of important topics, good public speaking elements, and fundamentals of good reasoning.

RETROSPECTION

November 4, 1925—

Elocution week was observed in the various assembly periods including the high school by giving special programs. Many interesting and entertaining elocution were discussed by well-known speakers.

The Pickaninny Five a valiant struggle to make the Bemidji game their opening game on the night of Armistice Day, November 11, were forced to chalk up a three point defeat to Bemidji.

November 13, 1925—

The November meeting of the Parent-Teachers association which was held in the high school auditorium November 10, was adjudged one of the best in its series. The musical program was an observation of book week. Those boys and girls taking part last game for Lincoln high; thru four years of high school playing they have been drilled never to cow, up, never to stop playing hard, never to be a quitter, and in this last game of their career they were determined to show that training.

Rose substituted freely, giving every man a chance to appear in the game, but men made no difference, the team remained on and on scoring the Crookston goal—Reverson around end, Dostal off-tackle, Rose thru the line, Arnold thru any opening, Snyder the same—until the ball rested five yards from the Crookston field. Then with only a few minutes left to play Rose was removed the ball from his center and making a wild dash for the goal, he carried the ball 100 yards amidst pounds of Crookston tacklers with him, and fell over the goal line with the final touchdown. The try for extra point was missed and the game ended 18-0. Dahlen assists itself that it was the best game ever played by Lincoln high, the ball curtain for the season of 1927 was dropped amid a flame of glory.

Junior Band Scheduled to Play at Basketball Games

That the local boys' Junior band is making remarkable progress is evident, announces bandmaster L. P. Thompson. The total number of members is approximately thirty at present. All are working diligently at the band practices which are held every Tuesday evening, at the city auditorium.

As announced by Mr. Tuleen, the Junior band will play at the coming basketball games held in our city. If this is possible no doubt it will help the basketball season considerable. The band played at some of the football games held at the local football field.

Bandmaster Tuleen has begun giving a class to band and wind instruments.

A general meeting is called for Saturday at the band rooms. Every child beginning should take advantage of this opportunity and make support cents with the leader. A person who has had some private training will find the band and orchestra work much easier. Mr. Tuleen announces that private lessons will be given every Saturday at the band rooms.

KNOX NOTES

Myrtle Haas from Park Rapids, N. D. is a new pupil in the Second grade.

In a football game between the Sixth grade of the Knox and the Sixth grade of the Agnew played at Tenbusch park, the score was tied in order to break the tie the children played another half period, ending the game with a score of 24 to 18 in favor of the Northern.

Always and Arthur Gilbreth, from Middle River, entered the Third grade last week.

Three new swings, which the children are highly enjoying, have been added to the playground equipment.

Let's Get Better Acquainted Thru Faculty Questionaire

Interview No. 8

Name? "Norma Arlene Gerlaw"

Why did you go to the university of Minnesota?

"I guess because I couldn't go anyplace else. I'm glad I did the way it's now."

Why did you come to Thief River Falls?

"Because I liked the position that was offered."

What was your major in physical education at the university?

"Because I liked that work better than any other."

What is your hobby, Joe or Bess?

"I'm sure I can't tell; they're both sweet."

What do you think of our school?

"Pretty, and it's all good."

Why do you so frequently rap at the social science door?

"Because he locks my equipment up and I have teh awe them for physical education class, and he is the only one that's got a key for his old door."

What's the value of physical training?

"It's so great that words can't express it. Everybody should take physical training. Especially boys—because I sure can't do anything without good health."

Would you be willing to instruct Shirley's cooking class?

"Why, certainly, providing—"

Why don't you teach your physical education pupils to play skiing more lightly so that they don't disturb the social science classes' activities, Miss Gerlaw?

"Because the social science instructor doesn't have his classes calm as we do."

Why do you, who are so interested in the social science classes, not go to Minneapolis, but prefer to remain in Thief River Falls?

"Cause it costs too much to go."

Do you really believe the way to a man's heart is thru his stomach?

"No, I don't; it might appear so occasionally."

What is your highest ambition?

"To become a very expert in what I'm doing and help physical education work reach a higher standard."

What make rear to you prefer to drive?

"One with a standard shift."

Teachers Attending M. E. A. Report Educational Help

The following members of the High School faculty attended the M. E. A. convention at Minneapolis last week: Superintendent O. Monfelt, Mrs. Blanche Kot-tad, Miss Maude L. Johnson and Miss Katherine Mc-Millan. The grade school teachers who attended were: Miss Pleasant Hill, Miss Mickelson, Miss Stapleton, Normal Training instructor, also attended the M. E. A.

All these teachers reported the convention to be a very beneficial one. They all thereby enjoyed the trip.

The opening session of the convention there was a general gathering. Community singing and a reception in Armistice Day, when a special patriotic program was held at which addresses addresses were made by prominent educational leaders of the United States.

Rural education occupied a large part of the three days' sessions, especially the second day of the convention. Several meetings were held, and other leaders in this field held a joint meeting which was called by each leaders as Frances Blair, president of the National Education association, and Mrs. Rhodes La Du, a member of the state board of education.

N. I. P. A. Contest Is On at Grand Forks This Week

The Progress will be entered in the annual Northern Intercholastic Press association newspaper contest at the university of North Dakota tomorrow and Saturday. Last year with Marion Reynolds at the helm, the paper won first place in the one-page-in-the-local paper class, while the year previous Harold Mathewson brought home second honors.

The contest is held during the annual convention which is in charge of Miss Josephine Hosch, U. N. Dakota, this year.

About forty northwest schools have entered publications in the newspaper contest connected with the season, which is a embrace high school and college annual contests. It is expected that most of the schools of North Dakota, South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana will send delegates. Contingents from Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism society of the university of North Dakota, will meet them and provide for their lodging while they attend the sessions.

The newspaper contest four classes of papers entered, a page in the town paper class, papers of schools above 500 students, and those of schools below that number, and mimeographed papers.

Julius Ogheim, faculty adviser on the Progress staff, Editor-in-Chief Harold Will, Associate-editor Harriet Fuller, and Lenore Halverson, Activities, and Harold Snyder and, alternates either intend to leave for Grand Forks this afternoon by car or attend the sessions of the association's seventh annual convention. Members of the North Dakota university faculty and members of students will address the representatives of more than forty schools in four states.

Lady: "What's the trouble, motorman?"

Motorman: "We run over a doe."

Lady: "Was it on the track?"

Motorman: "No, we had to chase it up an alley."

Jones: "Sorry to keep you waiting—but I've just been setting a trap for my wife."

Brown: "Good heavens! Whom do you suspect?"

Jones: "A mouse in the pantry."

"PRODUCT OF SOIL" TO FURNISH THEME FOR 1928 PROWLER

Work Is Now in Full Swing; Sales Campaign Is to Begin Monday

At the regular Prowler meeting, Tuesday evening, numerous plans and features of the '28 Prowler were discussed and voted upon—the most important decision being the theme of the Prowler. Theories, through the ages" and the "Ship Theme" was rejected, a majority of the staff being in favor of the "agricultural plan" or "product of the soil." Since Thief River Falls is largely a farming community this theme is very appropriate and is to be maintained by all the residents of the surrounding community.

Harriet Fuller, Lenore Halverson, Margaret Bjorkman, and Ethel Stelloh were appointed to have charge of the snappy write-ups which are commonly seen in the picture section. Pictures taken, Lucille Hermanson and Katherine Melby were appointed to pick out frames for the senior photos that are being taken this week by E. Sathveson.

The business managers have been increasing the Prowler fund by outside homberger sales at the last two football games played here. Eskimo pie selling at the coming basketball games has also been decided on. Publication was resolved.

Margaret Bjorkman and Freida Wenzeler reported the football week activities. Each of the players were given each of the players and accounts of the various football games. The details editing and the progress in their work by displaying before the staff pictures and write-up. A special section which is to be the beginning of the annual football action pictures and individual snaps were also viewed.

Stunts were agreed upon for the sales campaign which is beginning Monday. Approximately 500 books will be approached by letter to subscribe for the '28 annual. Advertising, "I Have Bought my Prowler" are to be distributed this week. Have you yours?

Ruby Bell and Gladys Weeks were appointed by the editor as proofreading subtitles and recalling sick. absentees of the seniors.

Students in School Warned of Scarlet Fever Danger

Twelve families (14 children) have been reported as quarantined for scarlet fever. Measles are also being taken by the health authorities to prevent an epidemic. The influenza scourge of 1918 is fresh in the minds of many and strict quarantine has given us fair warning against a similar experience. Students especially are urgently advised to obey the following rules:

1. To get vaccinated as soon as possible;
2. To get plenty of sleep and fresh air;
3. To take care of one's general health.
4. To report at once to the school nurse if any signs of the disease are apparent. None of the signs are severe, such headache and fever. After the disease has gotten under way, the patient will break out and "scabbings" will take place; and
5. To stay in quarantine under the doctor's orders. Breaking quarantine not only endangers the life of the patient but of those he comes in contact with as well.

Teacher: "Johnny, give me a sentence using the word 'beneficiary.'"

Johnny: "There's beneficiary in bath for the last twenty-five years."

Pep Fest Given to Honor Thirteen Senior Players

In order to honor the thirteen retiring football men of Lincoln High who played their final game for the school when they trounced the Angles here Friday, a special pep-fest was called on the afternoon before to give them credit and also to arouse their spirit for the game. Each player was helped to the stage by a rousing yell, when, all having assembled, each one gave a short speech, either expressing his regret or determination to win. Following these impromptu speeches, E. F. Dahlen (in the school records newspaper) on the piano by Lucille Hermanson.

A much appreciated talk was given by Coach Sid Hoe, in which he stressed the fine school spirit the Lincoln lites have shown toward making a very successful football season. He also gave a very impressive and interesting idea on the game football players go thru the night before their last game. He emphasized that every Lincoln High should make it a special effort to turn out and see the last and hard-fought battle by these graduating seniors.

The pep-fest also showed Lincoln Football uniforms for the last time against the Crookston Agges. Letters were taken, Capt. Hartman, Earl Hermanson, Sam Severson, Hennay Erickson, Perdue Fischer, Al Schwartzer, Clarence Snyder, Hal Larson, Willard Furen, Ralph Johnson, Hal Hanson, Ole Hanson, and George Williamson.

Coach Hoe has high hopes will greatly feel the loss of these players, but as a number of lettermen are back, a very successful season is promised.

SPORTSMANSHIP IN POETRY

Here's a test, friend, of sportsmanship!
Well, that question's fair—
Many men of greater fame
Have failed to answer there.
Sportsmanship is a long word;
Have each a meaning which united
Bring to timelight, you and me.

Football, basketball, baseball,
Each one is named a sport;
For each requires certain things
Which all sportsmen support;
But why are people, too, called sports?

Just for the self-same reason—
Because they play the game.

And learned in early season.

To the Anglo-Saxon creed
That in thine enemy lefters
May refer to servant or to lord.
A leader is a leader
Be a man through thick and thin;
You'll be fair and frank just,
Well say you're sure to win.

The "ship" reminds us of Columbus
And his words, Sail on! Sail on!
Sail on! Sail on! Sail on!
For let it's only down.
Don't be a quitter now.

Need sparring to the goal.
Learn by life's experience
Which of the two is best.

Good sportsmanship was shown one Friday
When Lincoln cheered the losing team;
And Hillsboro in turn
Played the game fair and clean.
We won as far as score goes,
But guess that very far?
The score may be quite varied
And yet the teams be par.

That person never fails
Who'll take defeat,
Yet not be beat.
There Sportsmanship prevails!

A city chap was taking a country girl for a ride in his car. Lowering a window, he said: "Does that air bother you? She looked at him dumbly for a moment, then asked: "What 're what, Bill?"

The Herald

Who has gained admittance to the home of Jane Wynther? Who has already laid siege to the Stevens and shrubbery, and now shills the emancipated lights the leaves, and prompts the cheerful brothers to "do their stuff?"

Jack Frost, of course.

Closely following the sun is Old Man Winter, who will soon open his season when his herald, December, appears for duty.

Fall may bring to an end one kind of beauty—that of summer, but at the same time thru is nothing so awe-inspiring as the hues of the leaves in red, yellows and paint-colors of various applications. Then, too, Winter itself is entitled to its measures of snow and ice-cream, while Spring gives to all of nature.

Dancing and swimming may be out of the question, but sliding and skiing are in the very near future, while the sport of hiking may be carried out all seasons.

Let us concentrate more easily on our studies when our bodies are not overheated, but happy therefore in the knowledge that the days of being dull and sulky "cause it's cold."

STUDENTS SPEAK IN TWO ASSEMBLIES ON EDUCATION WEEK

Topics for Each Week Day Were Discussed on Wednesday and Thursday

National Education week, November 7 to 13, was opportunely observed in Lincoln High school. Thru the cooperation of six of Mr. Ogheim's publication classes, the assembly heard interesting and instructive talks concerning each of the days of Education week. Monday's topic was Health Day, a day in which promotion of good health was expected to be observed. This subject was well covered by Ethel Stelloh, who spoke at the Wednesday morning assembly period. Harriet Fuller, during the same period, discussed worthy home membership as a part of Home and School Day, in an interesting manner. Edith Stenseth, in expounding the topic, Safety for School Day, held the interest of the audience the entire length of her speech, in which she spurred students on to become masters of the tools, technics, and spirit of learning.

An equally interesting assembly was held on Thursday, when Ethel Stelloh, Will, Margaret Bjorkman, and Harriet Fuller filled the periods for Day, Citizenship Day, and Community Service Day.

That many opportunities for vocational effectiveness are ever present was revealed as made clear by Harold Will; Margaret Bjorkman brought out the importance of fullest citizenship's basic purpose of all schooling. Very well in her address, Harriet Fuller stated showed the direct relation of the school to the community, and pointed out because of the fact that the school has activities which encourage wise use of leisure time spent in the community.

"God and Country" Day was set aside to more clearly show the importance of the fullest education. A trained mind and an untrained heart are bad indeed, Ogheim.

The public speaking instructor, Julius W. Ogheim, spoke on Education at Historic Sites, on the program school last Thursday evening. Here three schools had the opportunity to obtain some worthwhile knowledge.

CLASS DUES CONTEST

The half of the Senior class captained by Gladys Weeks was announced winner of the class dues contest at the class meeting at the high school last two mornings and their dues on this side, the amount collected being $72.50. The other side, which was led by Robyn Dale, collected $48.50, at the end of the period. The losing side gave the winners a party at the regular meeting of the contest was considered a great success, not only because of the large amount of money collected, but also because of the class enthusiasm it aroused.

Building for Tomorrow

The name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has gathered meaning with the years.

Today it is more than just the title of a big organization. It has come to be a synonym for service. It has come to stand for certain definite things—for dependable gasoline and lubricants and fair dealing—for courtesy and friendliness.

Throughout the length and breadth of more than six hundred thousand square miles of territory this name is known and liked and depended upon.

It has taken years for the name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) to acquire its present significance in its great extent.

Good reputations are quickly shattered but slowly built. The mere rumor that a thing is bad is immediately broadcast, but it must be proved good before the fact is spread.

The reputation which the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) enjoys today is the achievement of painstaking effort and uncompromising standards over a period of years.

Every employee of the 20,000 has had to go about his work with loyalty and earnestness and thoughtfulness for others. Every gallon of the millions sold by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has had to measure up to the standards it has set. Every quart of lubricating oil sold anywhere at any time in all its territory has had to "live up" to its reputation for excellence.

In building the kind of reputation for dependability which this Company has attained there can be no slip-up—anywhere—anytime—even in the smallest detail. Courtesy must be outstanding. Quality must be unvarying.

The present reputation of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is the result of yesterday's building. Tomorrow it will be held responsible for the deeds of today and future demands for its service will depend upon its present capacity to serve.

The primary interest of this Company is the service its products give, rather than the sale of the products.

It would not be profitable for this Company to concern itself primarily with profits—in its investment only in sales. The size and the profits of the future will be in proportion to the satisfaction given by its products and its service in the past.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is not a one-generation business. Its work is to keep record in mind. It has a larger perspective. Behind it stretches a past of which it is justly proud —before it a future for which it is building today a foundation of service deep, enduring and permanent.

Gravelling Work.

There is a small crew of teams busy hauling gravel from the Geying gravel pit south of town and putting it on the main streets of the village. This will be very much appreciated when the wet weather sets in next spring, both by the people from town and the farmers, as last year the mud was impassable and farmers had to leave their cars on the grade outside of town.

OUTSTANDING BONDS OF ST. HILAIRE WILL BE PAID OFF NOW

Village Will Soon be Debt Free for First Time in Many Years

Property owners in St. Hilaire are rejoicing over the action of the village council down there last week when it went on record as favoring the retiring of $4,000 in bonds now due. These are the only bonds outstanding against the village and there is quite a surplus on hand.

The $4,000 bond issue made several years ago was to take up an outstanding bond issue of $2,500, since which time no new bonds were issued. There is almost sufficient money in the treasury of the village to take care of the $4,000 issue. Whatever amount is required to make up the difference will be taken care of in the shape of village orders, which may be retired at the option of the village council.

For the first time in many years the village will have no bond issue outstanding, and will soon be debt free.

Arguments Are Heard in Kohn & Fiterman Suit Against James Walker

The suit of Kohn & Fiterman, et al, against James Walker occupied the attention of Judge N. W. Tyrrell in Municipal court all day Wednesday last week. The suit grew out of the assignment in James Walker of the road and culvert contract between the county and Duncan Stanton, which Stanton was unable to complete the work. Judgment for $1,000 against Walker was paid for the work done, but that he did not settle claims of various individuals to whom Stanton was indebted for the work done prior to the blowing up of the contract. Walker claims he is not responsible for bills run up by Stanton. The court will take the matter under advisement when the attorneys for plaintiff and defendant file briefs in the case—Daughton & Boughton for the Lake Falls representing the defendant, while Thos. Quale and Andrew Engen represented the plaintiffs in court in behalf of the plaintiffs.

Twenty Karlstad Men Gravel Village Street in Community Spirit

Cooperative community spirit was in evidence last week at Karlstad when Mayor Elmer Olstad called on the male population of that village to do some gravelling on the streets, which were in bad condition, the village treasury not warranting any expenditure at this time for such a purpose.

Twenty men got out with their shovels, three teams were secured, and the Soo railway company gave permission to use the gravel along their right of way near the depot.

The south park at Karlstad was built in that same manner, and a start was made last summer on a ball park, which will be completed the coming season.

U. S. LAND OFFICE ERROR MAY RESULT IN LOSS OF LAND

World War Veteran Proves up on Clearwater Tract and Was Given U. S. Patent

Congressman C. G. Selvig has been active in use his influence in correcting an apparent injustice to a world war veteran, Clifford J. Turner, who lives in Pine Lake township, Clearwater county, who in 1920 filed on a homestead there, and for which he was given a patent by the government, after having proved up.

Turner expected he was owner of the land in fee simple, but apparently he was mistaken for the government now finds that an error was made in the Crookston land office as to this particular piece of land. From the records of the Crookston office, it seems the land was first sold for its timber, but the buyer relinquished it back in the government as if it did not contain the amount of timber that the government estimated it would. That office then opened it was again subject to entry and Mr. Turner occupied the land. In the meantime the Crookston office was closed and the land went under the supervision of the Cass Lake office, which, apprised of the transaction, issued a patent to Turner.

In 1926 the officers of the general land office at Washington discovered that little to it the land did not rest in the government under the treaty with the Indians and Mr. Turner was called upon to quit claim his land back to the government and have himself told that he said the government returned to him, but no allowance was made to him for the land on it or the improvements he had made on the land. He refused to give the quit claim deed and placed the matter before Congressman C. G. Selvig, who is trying to straighten the matter out by a special act of Congress.

Only Eight Counties in Minnesota Without Public Libraries Now

Only six towns with a population of more than 2,500 and only eight counties in Minnesota are without public libraries, Clara F. Baldwin, director of libraries in the state department of education, reported at meetings of the M. E. A. and state librarians held in the Twin Cities last week. Pennington county, fortunately, is not among the counties named, according to Mrs. Hazel Halstrin, librarian of the system of libraries in that county.

The majority half of the people of the state are entirely without any library facilities, she said, although 1,217,000 people live in areas served by libraries.

The most completely organized county library service in Minnesota is, that of Hennepin county, where all but one unit tax allowed by law is levied. There are 29 branches, libraries which have become branches of the county system. Counties which have established service include Hennepin, Ramsey, Washington, Steele, Olmstead, Anoka, Becker, Hasca, Koochiching and Lake. Steele and Washington was the first to start library service, originating the plan in 1911.

ANNIVERSARY-INSTALLATION SERVICE HELD

Rev. Aner O. Bloom Installed as Pastor of Augustana Lutheran Church

OUTSIDE DIGNITARIES ASSIST IN CEREMONIES

Anniversary Program Given on Sunday; Mission Services Held Monday

Sunday was a big day for the members of the Augustana Lutheran Church when their Twelfth Anniversary was celebrated, followed by an impressive installation service Monday evening. Sunday morning brought back old memories by the appearance of Mr. August Westlund of this city and Rev. A. Larson of Minneapolis, Mr. Westlund has served the church as lay Pastor at two different times, once, previous to Rev. Larson's coming, and again for a period of years just before Rev. Bloom came to this place. Rev. Larson served the local church two years following the split which they will form together with Emil Hellquist.

Robt. J. Lund Named to Succeed J. J. McCann as Secretary of Fair Board

Robt. J. Lund was named as secretary of the Pennington County Agricultural association at a special meeting of the fair board last Friday evening, succeeding J. J. McCann, who resigned to accept the position of county agent at Ada for the ensuing year.

The matter was discussed at length, and but reached no decision, members will investigate other cities in the near future and then a decision will be made. The secretarial duties have been divided, several members of the board taking charge for a week at a time, the remaining capacity, etc.

XMAS BUYING IS EXPECTED TO START SOON

Merchants Already Displaying Merchandise Appealing to Christmas Shoppers

STORES TO CLOSE AT SIX O'CLOCK CHRISTMAS EVE

Public Asked to Shop Early in Day as Well as Early in the Season

The stores of the city are already beginning to display Christmas merchandise, and while the formal opening will not be made for a few days, the indications are that the past year they are going to be more than ever before during the coming month will be among the best in the history of the city. Merchants report that the past few months have been exceptionally good and the display of holiday goods already made is attractive.

With the day after Thanksgiving generally set as the official start of Christmas buying, Thief River Falls merchants are prepared to transform their stores into veritable fairylands.

Early shoppers will have the best chance to get the wide variety of Christmas stocks, and will have the opportunity to make their selections more comfortably in stores that are not crowded or rushed. It is also urged by the merchants that early shopping will be a help to all as well as early in the season.

Many special efforts have been made to insure stocks that will satisfy the wants of Christmas shoppers, and the merchants are hopeful that the year will be a record one. Thanksgiving is expected to mark the formal opening place for the Christmas trade by the merchants, and from then until Christmas one may expect the buying will proceed rapidly.

The local merchants this year are also planning to close their stores in cooperation with the post office authorities in order to handle early mailing of Christmas packages. Christmas wishes will be extended to all customers in Thief River stores within a few days, and confidently will be more attractive than ever before. Christmas cards, boxes and wrappings have been on sale for several days now.

H. E. Nelson, chairman of the retail merchants committee, was named by Tom Quale of the Commercial club, which is the sponsoring active of The Times today that the stores of the city would close Christmas eve (Saturday), from 6 to 12 o'clock, as has been the practice for several years, affording time for the residents of outlying Christian communities to attend.

First National Bank Head Addressed Local Rotarians

Farmers can come into this village and get to start much more cheaply than any other line of business, according to John W. Black, president of the First National bank of Duluth, who was one of the speakers at the Rotary club meeting held at the Elcyon hotel Tuesday noon. Mr. Black of Minneapolis and Duluth is a frequent visitor in this city Tuesday, being in charge of affairs in connection with the bank here, which is at Holt and St. Hilaire.

Combining his remarks as to the growth of Thief River Falls and the adjacent territory, Mr. Black said that farmers here can start cash in pocket, drive to the local bank, borrow what they have to pay up to as high as 75 per cent of the value of their land. Here also they have the advantage of cheap and quick transportation to the terminal markets.

Mr. Black suggested that the people here can increase the volume of their business by co-operating to get additional farmers into this section, and thereby increase the prosperity of the whole. The speaker also told of the work being done by the bank in other parts of the state, mentioning the Marshall County State bank at Holt, T. M. Thomson of this city, and the Bank of St. Paul and the People's House of Minneapolis, three gentlemen who are interested in the bank here. Mr. Thomson is also president of the Northwestern Mutual Fire Association, with offices in the Minneapolis Athletic club building, and Mr. Black is a director in the company, which has the general contract for the hydro-electric plant, L. H. Jacobson of Minneapolis, consulting engineer for the power project. Ben Stock of Goodridge, W. L. Carlisle and Dr. H. W. Froehlich of this city.

NEW COUNTY EXTENSION SOCIETY TO BE FORMED

Chairman Andrew Ness has issued a call to all township chairmen in towns in this city Friday afternoon at two o'clock to consider plans for organization of a county extension unit in Pennington county.

MILTON GILLETTE NAMED SECRETARY OF POULTRY ASSN.

Indications Point to Many Entries of Birds at Show January 3-6

Milton G Gillette, a Soo Line brakeman, and who has had considerable experience in poultry raising, has been chosen by the directors of the Pennington County Poultry association as its secretary, pro tem, the directors believing that an arrangement could be made to have the farm county agent secretary. J. J. McCann to act as regular secretary.

Mr Gillette is at present at Duluth but will return to the city in a few days to assume the duties of his new position, and will have charge of all matters pertaining to the forthcoming annual poultry show Jan. 3, 4, 5 and 6, reports for which are already coming in heavier than heretofore, according to President Dave Christianson.

Fifty additional turkey coops have been ordered by the association for the this year, and the inquiries already made by the directors indicate that every one of the 100 coops will be well filled with the prize birds of this part of the state. Quite a few new turkey raisers have gone into the game and their entries will be over their own flocks, according to Mr. Gustafson.

The premium list will be ready for distribution in about ten days and will contain much information of interest to poultry enthusiasts.

HYDRO ELECTRIC PLANT RUNNING SATISFACTORILY

Electric Wiring Is Completed and Motor Generator Set In Motion

TWO GENERATORS HAVE CAPACITY OF 550 K. W.

Alternating Current Will Be Available Some Time During Coming Month

The new power plant of the city of Thief River Falls was cut in today for the first time and apparently is operating very satisfactorily, according to Ole Legvold, superintendent of light and power for the city.

The new plant has been building for several days past, following the completion of the new brick switch board, with the exception of the wiring in the new motor generator. This part of the new machinery was held up on account of the material not arriving from the manufacturer. Mrs. Bishop Is Kept Busy Giving Talks Over State

Mrs. J. M. Bishop, department president of the American Legion Auxiliary for Minnesota, spoke on talk at the sub-district rally here last Thursday evening, having been on the road almost all of the time, going Friday to Bagley with the other state and district officers who were with her here. On Saturday Mrs. Bishop and Rosena Kelsey drove over to Detroit where they made short talks to the Legion and Auxiliary members Saturday night, Mrs. Bishop coming to Thief River Falls Sunday morning by auto.

On Monday Mr. Kelsey drove here, and accompanied by Mrs. Bishop, they went to Roseau, where Monday night the officers of the post and auxiliary were duly installed by Mrs. Kelsey and Mrs. Bishop respectively. On Tuesday Mrs. Bishop gave a brief talk to the high school students there before returning to her home in this city.

After a two day rest here over Thanksgiving, Mrs. Bishop will leave Friday for Ortley, S. Dak., where she is scheduled to talk that evening. On Saturday night she is to talk to a large number of women in Minneapolis. On Monday morning she will leave for St. Cloud, Crosby, Wadena, Staples and Bemidji, covering the Ninth district during the week.

Former Thief River Girl Marries Californian Man

Announcement of the marriage, in California of a former Pennington county girl and a graduate of the Thief River schools, has been received this week by her friends. The following is an account of the wedding as taken from the San Jose News of Friday, Nov. 11:

Yesterday afternoon (Oct. 31) at the home of the groom's sister, Mrs. Lloyd Anderson, Miss Ingaborg Barland and Thomas A. Dooley, Jr., were united in marriage, Fr. T. T. Tiffen officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Barstad of Thief River Falls, Minnesota.

The home was decorated with autumn colored chrysanthemums and ferns. The bride wore a beautiful afternoon gown of rose colored georgette with a corsage of pink roses, the gift of honor, Mrs. Beatrice McCarty, wore a dress of similar color. Jack Sievers of San Francisco was the best man.

Following the service, which was attended by members of the immediate family and a few close friends, buffet refreshments were served. The dining table had in its center a silver basket filled with pink and white chrysanthemums, at the sides of which were candles in silver candlesticks.

The couple have gone on a motor trip to San Francisco and down the coast. They will make their home in Fresno.

Joint Meetings

The Garden of Allah Is Showing at the Lyceum

H. A. Brunsell, manager of the Lyceum, elsewhere in this issue announces the securing of one of the big greats of the season, the Garden of Allah. Eastern critics praise it highly, one of them saying:

The desert!

The Garden of Allah!

The spell of sleeping sand dunes and strengthening sunsets beyond all description!

The poignant love of a giant, untutored traveler, a former monk who had left a Trappist monastery under a cloud, for an English lady of surpassing beauty and pride!

Hostility, pity, love, happiness, disillusion, despair,—and finally a new peace with God that three people find in three separate ways after they have abandoned all hope!

That is the story of "The Garden of Allah" showing at the Lyceum Theatre, Thursday (today) and Friday, Nov. 24 and 25. Its inaccuracies of spiritual peace over the highest earthly love has gripped millions since it was first published twenty-six years ago.

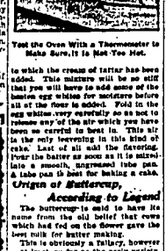
FLORENCE BAKER WEDS AMES PEDERSON THURSDAY

Miss Florence Baker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Baker, and Ames Pederson, son of John Pederson, both of this city, were united in marriage in the parsonage of the Zion church, Nov. 17, at the Catholic parsonage, Rev. A. I. Mertz officiating in the presence of Miss Alice Maloy, and Henry Ostrom.

The bride wore a charming dress of tan satin faced crepe and carried an arm bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums and the bridesmaid was dressed in pale green georgette.

A five o'clock dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents immediately following the ceremony, to which the immediate friends and relatives of the couple were invited. The rooms were decorated in yellow and white, and a wedding cake, iced in yellow and white, formed a beautiful centre piece for the table.



Both the bride and groom are well known here, having grown up in this city, and have a host of friends. The bride has been employed the past two years in the office of the Consolidated Telephone company, and the groom is employed with the Van Lida. Following a brief trip to Minneapolis they returned to this city to make their home.

GOOD RECIPE FOR A SUNSHINE CAKE

Most Delicate and Delicious of All Confections.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

One of the most delicate and delicious of all cakes is the sunshine cake, which is one of the sponge cake group containing large proportions of eggs and no butter or other fat, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The recipe calls for one cup of sugar; one tablespoonful of lemon juice; one teaspoonful of cream of tartar. Beat the yolks and whites of the eggs separately, adding half of the sugar to the beaten yolks and begin adding the flour, to which the cream of tartar has been added. This mixture will be so stiff that you will have to add some of the beaten egg whites for moisture before all of the flour is added. Fold in the rest of the whites carefully so as not to remove any of the air which you have been so careful to beat in. This air is the only leavening in this kind of cake. Last of all add the flavoring. Pour into the batter as soon as it is mixed into a smooth, ungreased tube pan. A tube pan is best for baking a cake.

Test the Oven With a Thermometer to Make Sure It Is Not Too Hot.

Origin of Butterscup, According to Legend

The butterscup is said to have its name from the old belief that cows which had fed on the flower gave the best milk for butter making.

This is obviously a fallacy, however—at least, so far as the early variety known as the bulbous buttercup, is concerned—as cattle, in consequence of a bitter juice which is supposed to serve as a protection against animals, leave the plant severely alone. In the days when legends were woven around many of our flowers, the sufferers of the buttercup was ascribed to elfin vengeance on a miser. It happened, supposedly, in this way, says Mrs. Vivian Thompson:

The miser was carrying a sack of gold across a field, when fairies stopped him and asked for alms. He refused, of course, and the mischievous little folk then secretly cut a hole in his sack. As he walked on the coins fell one by one to the ground, and were thus scattered over the field. Under fairy influence they were immediately transformed into golden flowers we call buttercups.

Excellent State of Water

One of the best stages of water ever known in the history of the city has been available all summer, and this fall it has shown a tendency to raise after the formation of ice on the river, whereas it generally declines. The filling in of the old portion of the dam east of the concrete portion built 11 years ago has effectively stopped all seepage of water thru the dam, and materially assists in maintaining a uniform stage of water. The filling in is protected in places by concrete so that there will be no danger of a washout next spring.

Thanksgiving Day
Those few pioneers of the wilderness, who in the fall of 1621 were the first to celebrate this day, were thankful that they had been permitted to live, that the harvest was such as to sustain them through the winter, and for a fair possibility of continued existence. Though provided with only the bare necessities of life and surrounded on every side by seemingly unconquerable difficulties and hardships, yet they gave thanks.
We, who have so much more to be thankful for than those pilgrim pioneers, pause on this occasion and gratefully acknowledge the many blessings we have received.

FORFEITED SALE TO BE CONTINUED THRUOUT MONTH

County Auditor Still Receiving Inquiries as to Terms of Redemption of Land

County Auditor T. P. Anderson, in an interview with a representative of the Times today, stated that he is going to continue the sale of forfeited tax lands thruout the month, permitting those who have not been able to get in as yet to still take advantage of the terms of the sale as provided for by the last session of the state legislature. Several other counties are doing the same as are doing likewise.

Mr. Anderson states that he is still receiving inquiries as to the redemption terms on certain pieces of real estate, and he is hopeful that the total receipts may run well over the $25,000 mark. Sales in other counties as far as known were all considerably exceeded by the amounts of the respective counties, as considerable property which had not been bringing in any taxes for some years past, has been redeemed and will again go back onto the tax rolls.

Sales in Other Counties

Lake of the Woods county took in over $50,000 by the time of the sale according to the announcement of County Auditor H. E. Weeks of Baudette; A. A. Cater, auditor of Cass county, states that the sales of tracts of real estate and cash receipts of $100,000. Considerable property was taken in by Itasca county according to the report of A. M. Nicholson, county auditor. Even down further in the state returns were fairly heavy, Hennepin county having benefited to the extent of $12,000, while Becker county reported sales of $6,000. In Clearwater county went a little stronger, Polk county leading with $8,000. Norman and Red River counties did not fare so well, their receipts being $3,000 and $2,000 respectively. In Beltrami county, naturally, reported the largest sales so far, the total being nearly $55,000.

Little Danger Exists for Spread of Diphtheria Which Caused 2 Deaths at Holt

The few cases of scarlet fever in the city are not exciting any alarm for they have been quarantined, and practically all of the student body of the public schools has been vaccinated against it, and the past month, effectually stopping the spread of the disease, which is of a mild nature.

However, at Holt three have been two deaths from diphtheria within the past month, and the county considerable alarm in that vicinity, but up these reports of a large number of people, including over 100 in the schools of that village, has apparently kept the spread of the disease. Local physicians were called and assisted in vaccination and care of the people.

The State Department of Health, together with similar organizations in other states, is endeavoring to stamp out the disease by the artificial use of a serum which has been found to prevent the disease, there being three inoculations of the same into the system at one week intervals. The federal authorities claim if it is made compulsory eight years will see the end of the diphtheria.

Dr. Thaddeus L. Bolton, head of the Department of Psychology at Temple University, states that cows, horses, monkeys, and dogs laugh, but that smiling is a voluntary or reflex form of laughter in man.

trowing switches, especially the larger old style ones. The copper wire on the face of the switchboard is entirely wrapped with tape, except the main connecting strips. Here we have seen the sawing in copper in alternating current systems as compared with the heavy copper needed in direct current apparatus.

Alternating Current Seen Available

Both of the generators are at present being used in generating alternating current, which is transformed into direct current by use of motor generators. Should the demand for alternating current be available as per contracts, however, the switching is more complete in the best of direct and alternating current systems start the use of alternating current, then the smaller generator will be used for alternating current and the larger one for direct, by simply throwing the motor generator.

The water and light department has been busy stringing wire along the north recently, from the power house to Hodge street, and from there west to the alley back of the Hoover and Lafleur avenues to Eighth street. From there the line will run east to the Square Point bridge, and also south along Beaver avenue to a point just north of the Sonnesta house. Another line will later run from the river along Hodge street. There will be the two main feed lines for alternating current for some time to come. It is found to have after melting current available about 1/10 after 10

Inspiring talks were made by Mrs. J. M. Bishop, state president of the auxiliary, L. E. Zumwalde of Fergus Falls, state commander of the Legion, Mrs. F. C. Barnes of Fergus Falls, president of the Ninth District, and Reese Kelsey of Bagley, Ninth District commander.

TIME FOR MAILING OVERSEAS PARCELS

Now is the time to do Christmas mailing of parcels intended for foreign destinations, according to Postmaster Shea, who offers the following timely suggestions:

Again it is time for the mailing of Christmas parcels overseas. Give your parcels plenty of time so that they will be delivered before Christmas. Children call at the postoffice for customs declaration blanks which are required with international parcel post packages that they may be ready at time of mailing.

Christmas and Red Cross seals may be used, but on all packages side nor for sealing purse! Use gummed seals, brown wrapping paper, stout twine, address cards, etc. Use ink for writing. Do not use sticker labels for in most cases these labels become illegible from damage in the mails. Write address plainly, on wrapper in lower right hand corner; return address in upper left hand corner.

Mail early!

TURKEY RAISERS GENERALLY ARE THANKFUL TODAY

Only One Flock of Birds in County Reported Visited by Thieves

Pennington county turkey raisers on the whole are thankful today that they have not had their valuable flocks of the popular Thanksgiving dinner variety molested this year, Randall Noyer being the only one to report to the local authorities the loss of any turkeys. Sheriff Ole Ihle about ten days ago had a call from Noyer's son township residents that they thought turkey thieves were moving around out there about daybreak one morning, but no arrests were taken by the supposed thieves.

When Dr. W. E. Billings was here a month ago he announced that there were 10,000 turkeys were on Pennington county farms this year, and as an average of only five dollars each, the total volume of these birds would be close to $50,000. Quite a few farmers are considering going into the turkey raising business even more extensively next spring.

Of course all of these turkeys will not be marketed here this fall. Some of them will be shipped to the Minneapolis and New York markets. Others will be retained for breeding purposes next spring, at which time the local turkey raisers will give the seed conferences also a record crop. Several of the turkey fanciers are already planning to bring their best stock to the annual Pennington county poultry show the first week in January, which will mean that there will be an exchange of birds by several of the fanciers, while others will secure a nucleus for a possible large flock next year.

THANKSGIVING

Thanksgiving, intended perhaps to mean what it says, in reality means many different things. To a fairly large portion of men, women and children it means one day in the year when eating is not interrupted either by a lack of food or temperate restraint. To some it means recreation. To others it means a day of rest. It may be that quite a number of people who have prospered during the past year will devote the day to self-admiration. To a few the day will really mean thanks giving.

Thanksgiving isn't a rich-man's day particularly, nor is it the theory of the day that we should be grateful because things might have been worse. The idea is that we should be thankful for things as they are, or in other words acknowledge that we're mighty glad we're living and that whether we're just the water boy or the main player on the team we'll play the game the best we know how. The idea of the day isn't to complain to the coach about how rough the other players are or to tell him how well we've played, but rather to let the coach know that, while we don't know what the game is all about, we're going to keep right on plugging away according to the rules we've learned, just as long as he wants us to.

It doesn't require a great deal of observation to learn that favors are not distributed very equally in this world, and yet some of the most thankful people are those who apparently have least to be thankful for. We recall a preacher who had a weakness for hanging out his blessings at the dinner table. He was built on the general plan of a barrel and his arms were just long enough to enable his hands to fold comfortably in front of him. After thanking the Lord very profusely for the abundance that was spread before him he invariably closed his prayer with the words "we thank Thee also for the capacity to enjoy these many blessings." The outstanding thing about this preacher was his capacity. He had plenty of it to be thankful for. The question which always occurred to us was whether the preacher, with his great capacity for food, was any more blessed in this respect that we who had less capacity. Were his greater capacity he must have been forced to leave the table many times unsatisfied while others with less capacity would leave well filled.

"My cup runneth over" doesn't say anything about the size of the cup. A small cup that is filled to overflowing may be a better portion than a larger cup that is only partly full. It isn't well to judge of the blessings that have been conferred upon our fellow men by the capacity to enjoy these many blessings. The outstanding thing about this preacher was his capacity. He had plenty of it to be thankful for. The question which always occurred to us was whether the preacher, with his great capacity for food, was any more blessed in this respect that we who had less capacity. "My cup runneth over" doesn't say anything about the size of the cup. A small cup that is filled to overflowing may be a better portion than a larger cup that is only partly full. It isn't well to judge of the blessings that have been conferred upon our fellow men by the capacity to enjoy these many blessings. When the cups were being passed around it might have been their misfortune to draw a large one, and although they probably received as many blessings as their neighbor who was given a smaller cup, they never enjoyed that delightful sensation of having their cup filled to its capacity. Those who have Packard appetites and Ford incomes probably will have some difficulty in being sincerely thankful. Those who have made the discovery that happiness is not found in material things will have less difficulty in being thankful.

Happiness is undoubtedly the one thing that all people are scatching for. The fact that comparatively few people find it doesn't indicate that there is a shortage in the supply but rather that most people seek it where it doesn't exist. It evidently exists where most people fail to look for it.

AGITATION FOR PAVING

A group of southern Minnesota men are forming a state-wide organization to advance a program that will bring about a construction of permanent highways with the greatest possible speed and economy in this state, which means to speed up the paving program of the state by a bond issue.

It has been proven on many occasions that a bond issue and a big immediate paving program would be economy. We persist, however, in being opposed to the idea. The bond issue doesn't appeal to us at all. We are well satisfied with the progress in road construction that is being made with the present funds.

During its first year of operation under the reorganization plan the highway department was given in the neighborhood of seven million dollars with which to carry out the new road building program. The income of the department during this past year, if we are correctly informed, totals something like seventeen million dollars. At any rate the income of the department has more than doubled during the few years that it has operated. We believe that every dollar of this money has been well spent. We believe that the department, under the able direction of Commissioner Babcock, has made very good progress during these few years. The state has been pulled out of the mud and in addition to building and maintaining hundreds of miles of gravel roads, many miles of paving have been completed. If the progress during the next few years is as good as it has been during the past few years we will have several hundred more miles of paving in a comparatively short time and it will be paid for.

It is our impression that the fallacy on which the bond issue argument is based is that by getting these main roads paved our road building program will be completed. Our road building program will never be completed. There will always be a demand for more and better roads. If we paved 800 miles of road tomorrow there would be a demand for another 800 miles the day following. The next generation will have their hands full improving the road system of the state without paying any debts for roads that we might contract. And there is no crying need by the present motoring public for a speedier paving program. The present motoring public is well satisfied with the present progress. If we build roads from now on as fast as we can pay for them, that will be fast enough.

"DOING A WORLD OF GOOD"

Minnesota's football team has demonstrated that it not only possesses an abundance of football knowledge and ability but that it also has real fighting qualities. In both the Notre Dame and Michigan games the team faced defeat, but fought its way out from the short end of the score. The world likes a winner, but the individual or organization that keeps right on fighting until the final whistle ends the game, wins the respect from all mankind that is akin to love. There is some feeling that football is being given too much prominence in our schools and there is some reason to believe that such a feeling is justified. It may be that a little too much emphasis is being placed on athletics, but, as the Montevideo News points out: "college athletics, properly conducted, are doing a world of good in teaching the rest of us that it is possible to differ without getting mad about it. The lads on the football field have a sharp difference of opinion as to goals, but it isn't a grudge fight. More of that spirit applied to politics, business or churches wouldn't be so bad."

SPOILING THE DOG

We have a dog at our house and we think well of him, and he, in turn, thinks well of us. A dog in the home is a peculiar institution. In some respects he gets more consideration than other members of the household. For instance when he takes his nap, which is a fairly large portion of the day, he almost invariably chooses to sleep on the middle of the rug where traffic is heaviest. Rather than disturb him the traffic detours. On the other hand, the children, who also prefer to play in the heavily travelled sections of the house, are promptly ordered to a remote corner with their playthings when they get in the way. On the face of it this is a rank injustice to the children. It would almost seem that the dog enjoys a preference over the children.

Of course this isn't true, but the condition itself has caused us to wonder occasionally whether the dog or the children were being given the better treatment. We have come to the conclusion that in reality we were being unfair to the dog. He has grown so accustomed to having us walk around him that he never moves, and occasionally this results in his being stepped on. He actually suffers because of our indulgence. Spoiled dogs and spoiled children alike are nuisances in the world. They are an aggravation to society. We, don't guarantee what our future practice will be—we may weaken. Our present determination however is to spoil the dog if necessary but spare the children.

SOME ARE BORN IN MINNESOTA!
(Kansas City Journal)

This has been Minnesota's great year in the public eye, and there must be a few still remaining! What may the energetic and unslighted state not do in the time yet left for all-around record smashing in the weights and fame?

Years ago, Pigeras steps happily into the company of young Mr. Stanley Lewis, grandson of a wicked type-writer, and Charles A. Lindbergh, most brilliant of all the bold navigators of the air. Mr. Pigeras has the Minnesota modesty we usually find in that state's heroes, and while all the land cheered his great victory on the sound of the Yankee country, he maintained quiet demeanor and gentle grace of deportment. Truly, these Minnesota young men know how to meet fame without making it seem either accidental or a thing they are not accustomed to experiencing.

Miller Huggins knows his onions. The country-wide scare of the New York team took a special bitch in its corsage when Mr. Huggins, purposely putting into box a lad who never before had played in a World's series—nor much of any other kind. But, in the midst of its perturbation the clientele of the Yankees recalled that youthful Pigeras came from Minnesota. Then all was serene again.

"Oh, hell be all right," the crowds agreed. "Look what those Minnesota fellers always do!"

Some men are born great. Some have greatness thrust upon them. And some—how glorious their privilege—are born in Minnesota.

WHO WAS TO BLAME
(Wisdom Citizen)

A coroner's jury in Watonwan county placed the blame for an auto accident which resulted in the death of a Springfield girl upon Lyle Sloan, the driver of the car. The coroner's jurors no doubt figured that Lyle had had an old, stable Ford, without battery and consequently was not running the tail light was not burning. Anderson crashed into his Ford, resulting in the death of the girl. Now the Citizen is not criticizing the jury for its verdict. The chances are a hundred to one that the accident would not have happened had the old light been burning. But we are calling attention to the fact that even at that the dropped car was in the same position, so far as its ability to be seen, as a horse-drawn vehicle, or a tractor such as we have seen, without lights. We believe that there should be a state law requiring tail lights on all trucks traveling the highways at night. With the highways in a good condition, and with blinding lights on so many cars, it would be hard to run into a wagon without seeing it. Frankly, we would be afraid to drive such a vehicle without a light.

TALKING TURKEY
(Grand Rapids Herald Review)

We are glad to see more people raising turkeys. It is like turkey.

But turkeys are good for the farmers who raise them. Sometimes the income from an acre or two of turkeys is fabulous. Sometimes it is not so large. But the turkey, rather than the eagle, should be the national bird. He is not quite so sensational, but fully as majestic and more practical. If the turkey had been stamped on the gold pieces for a hundred years, we would never think of replacing him with the eagle.

Itasca county farmers are getting good starts with poultry. Soon we shall raise and eat chickens like Harmon does and turkeys as they do up Thief River Falls way. Near Thief River Falls one farm has 600 turkeys and the income to that section from the Thanksgiving bird was very large last year, something like $75,000 if our memory serves us correctly.

QUAIL KILLS POTATO BUGS
(Cleveland Free Press)

When, some years ago, an Ohio legislature gave permanent protection to the bobwhite by placing on the songbird list it was done on the ground that the bird, being an insectivorous species, was a friend and ally of the farmer. At that time it was not known that protecting the bobwhite would also bring protection to Ohio potatoes. Since the quail shooters have been restrained by law the quails have increased immensely in numbers. In many localities where they had been wholly exterminated by the hunters they are now at home in happy abundance. And in these localities the potato crops are uniformly good.

There has been persistent agitation against the quail law, but this discovery of the potato bug diet will put a quiet end to it. In an agricultural state like Ohio there is extremely little likelihood that a law so largely beneficial to the farmer will ever be repealed.

New License Needed For Winter Fishing Says County Auditor

For the benefit of winter fishermen County Auditor T. F. Anderson this week received a representative of The Times that the attorney general's office recently made an oral rendition of the statute regarding fishing license, whereby it has become necessary to secure a new license if one wishes to fish after Dec. 31, as the old licenses all expire on that date.

Section 1, Chapter 436, R. L. 1927, provides, among other things, that all licenses shall be issued for the calendar year, and no reduction in fees shall be made for fractions of a year. Only one license of each kind shall be issued to any one person in any calendar year. No license shall be transferable."

According to this opinion, it will be necessary for all fishermen to take out a new license if they wish to do any fishing through the ice after the first of the year. The 1928 license expires on the 31st of December. All fishermen will govern themselves accordingly.

Short Lessons In Dairying

A series of 52 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON V.

BAD FEED FLAVORS: Such feed as rye and rape pasture, cabbage, turnips, sour silage and various weeds, cause bad flavors in milk. Feed a half pound per cow, or less, to the 30 per pound in price.

Feed that affects the flavor of milk not better and should always be fed after milking. The worst results are from feeding 1 to 5 hours before milking.

Does not overcome the trouble of garlic flavor. It may come from the weed in pasture, hay or milk feed made from screenings and contains the French weed seed. Look out for French Weed—as it is causing increasing great loss to dairymen.

Always consult the buttermaker or the creamery about the quality of your cream. He knows the probable cause of off flavors in cream and will be pleased to tell you how to remedy them.

WISCONSIN BEGINS FIRST WIDE ROAD

Wisconsin's first double track superhighway is under way with work now in progress on a two and one-half mile section in Waukesha County. This wide thoroughfare, when completed, will consist of two 20-foot strips of concrete, side and one-half miles in length, the right-of-way being 120 feet wide.

This roadway, known as the Richmond-Sayer-Highway, is being built through federal aid and state aid. The two strips of concrete will be separated by a 50-foot wide parkway providing for two additional 20-foot roadways, to be placed when traffic conditions warrant. This will still leave a 10 foot parkway separating the two 40-foot strips, thereby providing for safety.

FISHWAY AT DAM IS NOT ADVISABLE SAY STATE GAME HEADS

Would Permit Carp to Enter Red Lakes and Spoil Good Fishing There

There was some agitation on the part of Izaak Walton members and other sportsmen here last spring when the work on rebuilding of the dam started to have a fishway installed in the new dam, so as to permit carp to enter Red Lake. Others decided to drop the matter, for the reason that while favoring a fishway, yet felt it a dangerous thing as it would permit carp, which infest the Mississippi and Minnesota river to enter Red Lakes. This was not possible every year, but only when the waters of Lake Traverse and Big Stone lake empty crystal clear in the early spring freshets. The fish commissioners of the Minnesota river thus into the Red River, and then on up this way.

The state game and fish department has just issued a lengthy statement as to the danger to game fish from letting carp into Red Lake, established in the lakes of the state which has recently been added for their excellent fishing. In brief it states:

Carp Not Desirable Fish

Game fish and carp cannot exist at the same time in the same lakes and streams, James P. Gould, state game and fish commissioner, said in a recommendation to the state game department.

Because of its voracious appetite and habit of rooting in the mud, carp are undesirable fish in any lake, Gould said. "Experience has revealed that extermination of carp is a difficult question," Mr. Gould said, "but it is feasible in many lakes in this manner.

Streams which do not pour into game waters, could be used for carp which are of considerable economic importance. Conservation can be of service by doing away with the present carp from being introduced into game fish waters, and by co-operating with the state in efforts to foster the better kinds of fish," Gould said.

Greetings Sent Valley Dairymen by Selvig

For the first time in 17 years a familiar face was absent at the annual meeting of the Red River Valley Dairymen's meeting held last week at Warren. It was none other than that of Congressman C. G. Selvig, who at present is in Washington attending to his new duties there.

Mr. Selvig conveyed his regrets at being absent in a letter to Stuart Mc-Leod, president of the organization, to which he sent his sincerest greetings to the members, asking:

You represent the most encouraging and helpful group in the Red River Valley. The wonderful strides that have been made in advancing the dairying interests in this section are a tribute to your progressive work. Dairying is an important interest nationally. You may count on my 100% loyalty and assistance to any measure that will be helpful.

A letter also conveyed greetings from Congressman Knutson, who is also in Washington attending to his new duties there.

LEGION OFFERING $100 CASH FOR NEW STATE SONG

Anyone May Compete; Inspiring Air Like, On Wisconsin, Is Being Sought

Minnesota Legionnaires and Legion Auxiliary members, through their department music chairmen, Ted Thorson of Fertile, and Mrs. H. A. Peterson of Minneapolis, are offering $100 cash for the best Minnesota state song which a board of judges will select from those contributed in the contest just opened, and in which any citizen may compete. The air to be sought for Minnesota a soul-stirring song like "On Wisconsin"—one which will fit in better at Legion state and national conventions.

Selection of this new state song is one of five major planks in the music program of The Gopher Gang for 1928. The other four are, (1) Post singing and adoption of music in Legion ritual; (2) holding of district and department quartet contests; (3) leading The Home Community in massed singing; (4) encouraging individual artists among the children.

Assisting the state music chairmen there will be ten district music chairmen, of whom the following have already been appointed: First district, R. O. Thorson of Chatfield; second, Al Kircher of Mankato; third, Mrs. Gladden of Waters; fifth, Fourth, E. W. Seal Peterson of St. Cloud; sixth, Mrs. Charles Richter of St. Cloud; seventh, H. M. Gilbert of Grand Rapids; eighth, Henry Halverson of Steuben; ninth, Everett Strongman of Center City.

New Class of Master Farmers Given Medals Tuesday in Minneapolis

Sixteen farmers of the northwest received medals as Master Farmers at a banquet held in honor of them at the Nicollet Hotel, Minneapolis, Tuesday evening, December 22. Seven were from Minnesota, three from North Dakota, one from South Dakota, and five from Montana.

The 16 were chosen from a list of 240 nominated by friends and neighbors in the annual competition conducted by The Farmer, St. Paul, Minnesota. They were scored on the basis of farm operations and organization; farm home and social life; farmstead, farm appearance and upkeep; home life, and citizenship. The judging was done by representatives of the leading agricultural organizations of Minnesota; The Farmer, and the Minnesota State Department of Agriculture.

The list is as follows:

Minnesota

Charles E. Swenson, Chisago City, Chisago county.

CAUTION URGED WHILE DRIVING IN THE WINTER

State Highway Department to Do Its Best in Keeping Highways Open

Last week gave us a little touch of real winter, and an indication that we may have more severe storms during the coming months. It gave motorists a strong hint to get their cars in shape if they want to drive during the winter.

A warning along this line is issued by C. R. Hudson, commissioner of highways, in a bulletin received by The Times. He urges car owners to see that they are well prepared before they undertake the risks of a long drive during the winter months.

"During the open winters which prevailed last winter, we got into the habit of thinking that we could make trips in the winter months as readily as in the summer," said Mr. Hudson.

"Snow storms usually come with very little warning. It is well to watch the weather forecast but to remember that storms come in the forecast specially. Persons planning trips should allow some time for storms. It is impossible to keep the highways open during a snowstorm, nor can all the roads be opened immediately after a storm. Usually it takes the snowplows hours to open all the roads in a district, sometimes longer.

"By our own experience we have learned that no one will suffer if your car should be unnecessarily stalled. This is especially true in cases where women and children in the party.

"We grew cautious in passing or meeting other vehicles and in making turns. Beware of slippery snow. Keep an eye open for snow drifts. Remember that they cannot decide.

"Last but one least—remember the cleaner of carbon monoxide poisoning. 'This danger is not confined to closed garages. People are often overcome while in closed cars or trucks when standing still with the motor running, and when traveling closely in heavy snow."

With the additional snow fence purchased last winter by the department it is in better position than last year to cope with the drifts, but Mr. Hudson makes no promise that all roads will be kept open all the time. He simply says they will do the best they can. If the winter is not too severe, they hope to keep them open nearly all the time. If it should become necessary to curtail snow plowing, the roads in counties where the side roads are kept open will be given preference.

BEET SUGAR FACTORY WILL CLOSE SHORTLY

At the end of that Red River valley sugar beets are being sliced and manufactured into sugar at the factory of the American Beet Sugar company at East Grand Forks, the plant will be closed for the season, probably some time shortly after the first of December, according to J. H. Bingham, resident manager.

The cold weather which has prevailed for some time has not interfered with the work at the mill which has been running at top speed 24 hours a day since the first of September, Mr. Bingham said. Field work has been completed and beets have been pouring into the factory in a line that will practically completing the bringing in of supplies.

$123 Per Acre Is Record of a Koochiching County Farmer From Clover Seed

Austin Johnson of Little Fork, Koochiching county, according to the records of the International Falls, received $4,920 for the clover seed threshed from 55 acres of clover this fall, which assures that his land returned him $123 per acre. The seed was sold for 24 cents per pound.

William Stanley of Camp, the same county, also had clover seed returns of over a hundred dollars per acre, he having sold the seed from his four acre plot for $476; the selling price being $120 per acre. The yield had been 11 bushels to the acre, but on account of timothy seed being mixed in with the clover, the price was higher than usual.

Both Koochiching county farmers who had very good returns this year will sow their seed next year, it is reported, as a total crop value of $22 to per acre.

Hog for Every Cow on Farms Is Urged by Roseau Farmer

Every farmer with dairy cows should plan to raise one hog to each cow, declares Ole Skeie, a farmer living near Roseau, secretary of the large Sjoberg farms east of Badger, who is known throughout this section for his methods of feeding this valuable factory.

In sections where the milk is skimmed directly at the farms and the cream shipped it is very easy making cheap, the skim milk remains on the farm and the result is that it is fed together with hulky matter raised on the farm for the production of pork.

Oats, barley and skim milk fed in the proportions called will raise a hog of fine grade of pork, then is found in the open markets where consumers are willing to pay a premium for quality. The overfeed-ing of corn pones has the effect of turning the deserving farmer into a victim of firmness needed for palatable pork, says Skeie.

Waldemar Sjoberg 20 will erect this winter a modern hog house on the farm of which will be one of the largest in the state.

MATTAG COMPANY WINS BROADCAST OVER WRI

Arrangements have recently been made by The Mattag company of Racine, Iowa, manufacturers of the Mattag aluminum washer, to be on the air with an attractive hour period on Tuesday evening, except Saturday and Sunday, from 9:30 to 10:30 o'clock, over WRI, the popular broadcasting station on the Wrigley building, Chicago.

The program will consist of special musical entertainment and amusement features. The Mattag company has secured no expense to secure outstanding performers and prominent radio artists to give the best circle musical entertaining numbers. The first of these programs was given Tuesday evening, November 15.

Station WRI broadcasts on a wave length of 416 meters.

C. P. R. IS PLANTING EVERGREENS AS FENCES

Over two miles of evergreen trees have been planted this fall by the Canadian Pacific railway along its right of way in the province of Quebec, replacing the snow fences, and experts have been in attendance to prevent snow and sand drifting onto the tracks. Altogether, the railway owns has 110 miles of such roadside hedges.

GEESE AND DUCKS IN EARLY FLIGHT HUNTERS DECLARE

Only About One Week Was Consumed by Northern Fowl Passing South

If there ever was any doubt in the minds of Minnesota sportsmen, developments in the past two weeks convinced them that the duck hunting season of 1927 will civilized up as one of the most erratic in recent years. Of course local hunters really run out for a day at a time, but hunters from the other parts of the state when coming into the northern sections the past few miles returning after two or three days without more ducks than they had, but the ducks simply did not come this way.

Except in a few spots the early season shooting was good as long as the local ducks were on hand. But from the time the northern birds began to put in an appearance the hunters were kept guessing and good shooting depended largely upon the accident of being in the right place at just the right time.

The big northern flight, for which Minnesotans waited much later than usual this season, is over and it passed in a very short time.

During the first few days of November the large flocks which make the first lake began pulling out for the south and the peak of the flight developed and there was a day or two of excellent shooting.

It was not until the night of November 4, however, that the northern birds began piling into Winnibigoshish, Leech lake and other large bodies of water in the North Central Minnesota. The following day hunters in that section were treated to the greatest shooting of the season, but it lasted only a day, and the birds were on and after and they kept going.

Wahkenne Seek Aid of United States to Save N. N. Ducks From Death

A situation believed to be unique in the northwest, if not in the entire country, is reported from Devils Lake, N. Dak., where game preservation is the front at present.

The aid of the Izaak Walton league of that city is asked in bringing the federal officials to Grand Forks to survey a small body of water in Surrey lake, a small body of water in which is a veritable burying ground for ducks, cranes, herons and geese.

The lake apparently has some chemical compound which hardens the birds' feathers, and at first impedes flight, and eventually death

AN EXPRESSION

The Press conference at the University of North Dakota last week was a success from every point of view. The reception given all the delegates from Montana, North and South Dakota, and Minnesota was a very sincere one and I'll the delegates a pleasing feeling of welcome. The program of the two-day session was arranged in such a manner that every phase of newspaper work and year book publication was thoroly discussed and understood. Thru the reports of former officers and the report of Director Josephine Hosch, the delegates learned something of the purpose of the organization. The cooperative spirit of the convention gave the Progress an insight into the work done by other schools. The benefits of the N. I. P. A. extend further than the annual convention, as the directory issues monthly bulletins to association members. It is evident that the High School Progress and any succeeding Lincoln paper will retain membership in such an organization of clean school-newspaper competition as this.

THANKSGIVING TODAY

The spirit of thankfulness for ample food, clothing, good homes, and equal chances for education entered into us seemingly enters into the mind of the average high school student. It is therefore proper that today—Thanksgiving—should be devoted, in our school, but to thanks to visible and invisible powers which have contributed to our welfare.

Perhaps you might say that Thanksgiving is not devoted to the purpose its name implies—that its original spirit has relaxed, and former high standard lowered, and that it seems to simply mean a day of gorging. Does this outward show cause you to believe its standard has been lowered? Then, Thanksgiving, in line with Christmas and Easter, has held true to its original idealistic purpose. That twentieth century needs not to think that the parallel with the fact that feasts have been one of the noted features of this day for over Saturday's Thanksgiving celebrated it. Then as now, were turkey, cranberry sauce, and all the delicacies that go with it on the Thanksgiving table.

The Pilgrims trod thru the snow to the little log church to thank their Maker for their blessings of today does there not seem to be a similarity? Wanda Park River, N. Dak.; Chester Tofte, Warren; and Helen Stenson, Grafton; Harold Will, Thief River Falls. Those in charge of the arrangements for the banquet will be in charge of Mary Allendorf, Grafton; Harold Will, Thief River Falls; and Helen Jensen, Fargo, N. Dak. Other committees are: reception, finance, organization, and publicity groups.

Nearly double the number of delegates there last year were present this year. The convention which was held in the Progress registration blanks had been checked for another group, so that the paper was forced to enquire with the registration committee from a former class for above-myself. Greatest even in this stirring state, the attitude of the delegates learned something of the purpose of the organization. The cooperative spirit of the convention gave the Progress an insight into the work done by other schools. The benefits of the N. I. P. A. extend further than the annual convention, as the directory issues monthly bulletins to association members. 10,000 CHRISTMAS SEAL VOLUNTEERS GIVE TIME GRATIS

Four Pennington County Persons Named to Assist in Health Work

Every citizen of Pennington county will be given a chance to take part in supporting anti-tuberculosis and health work during 1928, according to plans now being made for the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

The sale will be sponsored by the County Public Health association, a unit of the Minnesota Public Health association and the National Tuberculosis association.

Arrangements are underway for a campaign which will give everyone an opportunity to buy the penny health stamps. Local managers, who will direct the sale in their own communities, are as follows: M. Halvorson, Goodridge; Miss Lily Johnson, St. Hilaire; Morris Rye, Thief River Valley; Dr. B. C. Bernard, Thief River Falls.

10,000 In State Assist

Three workers, one from a part of Minnesota's 10,000 Christmas Seal volunteers, are giving their time gratis.

In the rural districts the sale will be in charge of the schools, which are being offered health awards for reaching their quotas.

Peterlog Santa Claus carrying the gift Yuletide sale, the headquarters of real this year is particularly attractive. Colorful posters and window cards, repeating the design of the seal, are already for distribution. The double-barred cross, international insignia of the fight against tuberculosis, is featured also on both seals and the posters.

TURKEY THEIF IN JAIL

AFTER 2 YEARS ABSENCE

Roy Bolstorff of Crookston was arrested two years ago on the charge of stealing from a farmer named Lyngaas, and sentenced, the court suspending same temporarily. He was released by prison authorities disappeared and was not again seen till last week, when authorities saw him in the city and since he arrested. When brought before the judge in court he was ordered to jail, and also given a fine and costs of $29.50 by Judge William Watts.

FIRST CHRISTMAS PARCEL WAS SENT TO AUSTRALIA

The first shipment of Christmas parcels to leave the local post office was despatched last Friday destined for Australia, according to post office employees, as the state line of other parcels have been sent out since then. Nearly all of these parcels are for persons and naturally have to be mailed early.

Closed Overflow Pipe of Auto Nearly Caused Death of 2 Winger Men

J. J. Anderson and Arnold Hausen of Winger had a narrow escape last week when the overflow pipe of their car became clogged, preventing the boiling water in which was mixed a quantity of alcohol from drained properly, forcing it out thru a leak that developed when the upper radiator hose became loosened. The alcohol on coming in contact with the hot engine immediately caught fire and the young men found flames shooting into their car in a dangerous manner.

Shutting off the gas and stopping the car at once, the men pulled off the hood and quenched the fire with a pail of water, but not till considerable damage had been done. The wiring system was completely destroyed, and the radiator was so badly damaged it could not be used. Mr. Haugen's eyebrows and hair are the far cellar on his coat were badly scorched before they got out of the car.

Reduced Long Distance Telephone Rates Will Go into Effect December 1

Charges for telephone calls over the greater distances rapidly will be affected by a reduction in long distance telephone rates which is planned for December 1, according to an announcement made by Geo. A. Russell, general manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. These reductions will affect calls to points 400 miles or more distant from the calling point.

Under the new distance, the greatest reduction, Mr. Russell says, will be in the reduction, Mr. Russell says, will be in the reduction in rates applying from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m. between the hours mentioned. The new rate change will be reduced to a level of approximately one-half of the day rate. The night rates, after 8:30 p. m., will continue at approximately one-third of the day rate. Evening and night rates, as at present, will apply only to station-to-station calls.

TIME LIMIT FOR UNIT

HISTORIANS ALMOST UP

Annually, Dr. Helen Hughes Hiebert of Hankinson, Minnesota legion auxiliary state historian, compiles a department history in which every reported reports from the 400 auxiliary units of the state on uniform blanks supplied the work and is called a record of the year's state and local accomplishments. Hiebert warns delinquent units that the time limit for sending the 1927 unit history is almost here, and asks them to hurry such reports as are not contributed.

Saying "Thank You" Is A Pleasant Custom

Saying "thank you" is one of the simplest habits to form, and one that is more conducive to success in life than almost any other. The man who learns early in life that only part of his success is ever due to his own efforts, and that by far the greater measure of credit belongs to his friends and associates, has learned one of the most valuable lessons Life has to offer.

Likewise the success of our store in this community is not due to our efforts alone. It is true we have tried hard to give you honest values to render service with a smile and save you at least a few cents on every purchase, but we have much to say "thank you" for in the co-operation given us by our good friends and neighbors.

Over 300 years ago a sturdy band of Pilgrims set apart a special day in which to say "thank you." It is a custom we are glad to observe.

NORTHWEST GAME WARDENS ON PATH RECENTLY

Bemidji, McIntosh and Middle River Hunters Fare Badly in Various Courts

Game wardens in this part of northwestern Minnesota have been unusually active the past week, the results being that the coffers of various county courts have benefited thereby. Only Monday morning in municipal court at Crookston W. E. Howe, Crookston attorney, appearing for Dr. L. P. Colburn and Ray Kelther of Bemidji, entering a plea of guilty to a charge filed against the two men by Wardens William Mundt of Crookston, and Arthur Torgerson of Fosston, in which the Bemidji hunters were accused of disturbing ducks with a boat in order to cause a flight.

Warden Torgerson also arrested Frank Jorgenson, of McIntosh on a charge of having a jacklight in a protected furbearing animal unlawfully and appearing before Justice F. C. Johnson of Fosston, pleaded guilty and paid a fine and costs amounting to $14.00. Justice Helseth of Fosston, was also arrested and pleaded guilty to the same offense, paying a fine and costs of $15.50.

Wardens Erwin Mutch and Warden Alex A. E. Fyder of Middle River and Martin K. Nelson of Thief River Falls, arrested Ole Gronseng, Frank Simonson, Grant Stephens of Mid River, Oscar O. H. Dovre, and Theodore Dorie of Cedar township, Marshall county, for attempting to take fish by the use of a hook net. A charge was preferred and the men pleaded guilty before Justice W. F. Schuster of Middle River; each paid a fine and costs totalling $14.00.

$100 Fine Imposed Upon Moorhead Man Who Had Money Vending Machine

Slot vending slot machines were removed from operation in Thief River Falls last week, following news of the arrest of their confederates and the fining of proprietors in whose places they were taken in Fargo and Moorhead. In those cities a free machine had been in operation which paid off in merchandise instead of chips and these owners were fined $100 each.

The machines are now banished into those cities about six months ago, the same as have been elsewhere banned by the state, practically all of them being mint vending machines. The police departments have been instructed to be on hand and finally Moorhead officials reached a ruling as to the legality of the machines. The attorney general ruled that all of them were contrary to the state laws, which authorized the drastic action taken by the court there.

Bagley Mail Carrier Has Snow Bird for Winter Mail Delivery

Henry Nesset, rural mail carrier at Bagley, intends to deliver mail over his entire route daily this coming winter, regardless of the amount of snow that he may encounter. He has ordered an old Ford with tractor in front and four wheels in the rear. Covering those four rear wheels are metal traction belts, similar to a tractor.

A speed of 30 miles an hour can be obtained by this makeshift climber, it is claimed by Mr. Nesset, who also states that it will have sufficient power to tow for any road conditions. Only a few Ford with snow attachments is called a Snow Bird, and it is attracting considerable attention in Bagley at present.

National Tea Co. Buys Consumers Store Chain

The National Tea company, which operates over 125 retail grocery stores in the northwest, has recently acquired the retail grocery stores and meat markets of the Consumers Wholesale Supply company, one of which is located in Thief River Falls, according to an announcement in the Twin City Newspapers last week. Will Kerstad, who has been the manager of the local store for the past two years, will be continued in the same capacity.

The additions of these stores daily for next year, none of which had realized, there has been only one extremely warm day.

National Izaak Walton League Also to Fight Dams Along Boundary

Two years ago remonstrance petitions were circulated in the city with a view of preventing the damming and flooding of much of the land along the Canadian border in Northern Minnesota, eastward from International Falls, the local chapter of the Izaak Walton league sponsoring the movement. These petitions were freely signed and sent to authorities at Washington.

Since that time there has been considerable other agitation along this same line by other organizations, and the matter has been before the International Joint commission for several months. It was recently announced that nothing would come of the agitation in the fight to prevent the flooding of much of the land along the chain of lakes along the Minnesota-Ontario boundary.

WHAT IS SAID

It is said that the Clerk of Court, Adolf Ekland, is one of the few in the city who is not giving thanks today as wholeheartedly as most of the people. On inquiry by a Times representative today, it was learned that the reason that he could not keep from using this year so many marriage licenses as last year. Only 49 have been asked for up to the present time, while last year a total of 78 were issued. The young ladies around town are trying to console him with the fact that next year is Leap Year, and that they will see to it that the difference will be more than made up.

The Garden of Allah
See the wonderful endorsement of this picture

After viewing the picture at a special showing at The Embassy Theatre, New York City, Oct. 1st, 1927, Hiram A. McCormick, chairman of the Motion Picture Department of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, wrote as follows:

The Garden Of Allah:

This picture, following the book with exquisite fidelity, presents a new, distinguished example of beautiful and tasteful production. The early scenes in the Trappist monastery are truly and reverently Catholic, and as plain and expressive as could be.

The faltering priest whose craving for the life of which he has known and which is portrayed with understanding skill. He is not made the common sinner, but rather the possessor of a beautiful soul, long sanctified by religious practices, whose one happiness is prayer until he has purified himself by truth and suffering.

The last breathing romance of the great love that comes to him for a brief a time, but for its brevity is of the stretches of limitless depth. There is here beauty in the physical beauty; interest in the local life of the small border town, of the desert's edges overhooded and breath-taking thrill in the finest and marvelously photographed sand storm that sweeps across the desert and engulfs the caravan's camp.

"The Garden of Allah" is a tribute to its director also spared nothing to make of the picture a work of art. The cast has been given every opportunity to dovetail with his office returns, as a temptation—but the scenes they offer the largest possibilities of sensational effects are modestly presented.

Particularly notable, all the little touches—the chapel of the monastery, the dignified, fine-featured old monks, the sub-society of the cloister, the little altars for the Madonna with their fresh flowers, the quiet, reverent atmosphere—and many odd items give to the picture a true background, and to the plot a proper significance.

Double Observance Is Scheduled in Churches for the Coming Sunday

This coming Sunday, the first in the season, has been set aside as Golden Rule Sunday in a large number of churches thruout the country, while other churches observe it as Universal Bible Sunday. Last year the observance of the latter celebration took on and brought about a keener study of The Bible and The Church, and this year it will be. The Bible as the universal text book being sponsored by the American Bible society.

The society is an interdenominational missionary organization whose sole object is to encourage the wider circulation of the Holy Scriptures without note or comment. It is non-sectarian.

First translation into the common dialects this being a long and costly process.

Second, publication in style, convenient for the needs and at lower cost, single copies being sold for one cent.

Third distribution by gifts and sales without purpose of profit. The cost of scripture alone as grants and the expenses of collections and other workers must be secured from friends of the Bible cause.

CHRISTMAS TURKEYS ON WAY TO MARKET

The shipment of turkeys for the Christmas holidays has started to the eastern markets already, according to Oscar Paulsen of the American Express Co. The bulk of the shipments is expected to be made from 10 to 12, which will practically insure the birds reaching the eastern points in sufficient time for sale at good prices.

While part of the turkeys will go by express a large amount of poultry will be shipped by freight, this leaving a few days earlier.

PARENT TEACHERS ASSOCIATION WILL HOLD HEALTH MEET

Dr. O. E. Locken, Mayor-Elect of Crookston, Will Be Main Speaker

President O. E. Molley of the local Parent Teachers association has announced that Dr. O. E. Locken of Crookston will be the speaker of the evening next Monday at the regular monthly meeting of the organization, which will be held in the local high school. The general theme of the meeting will be health, and Dr. Locken will speak on "Health is Wealth" o'clock will be Health, and the fact that Dr. Locken was recently elected president of the state Public Health association will undoubtedly make his address for the occasion of unusual interest. The annual banquet, also held by the chairman of the health division of the Parent Teachers association, makes his selection for the occasion a most interesting one. Hiller has also elected mayor of Crookston at the general election held here last month.

Program Is Complete

The subject of his talk will be Present Day Health Problems, and his talk on health matters will be given by Miss Catherine Blair.

A one act skit will be staged by pupils of the public teaching classes of the Thief River Falls high school. This will be the second stage show since the departure of Miss Ethel Wilkins in 1926, when a group of four completed the local high school course, during Mr. Hays's first term as superintendent. Since 1926 the classes have rapidly increased in size and in recent years have averaged nearly a hundred graduates.

Ahead of Previous Years

Many of the graduates still reside in the city, while others are in the surrounding communities. Others are teaching or otherwise employed elsewhere, while some are attending colleges and universities in other parts of the country, returning to their home town for the holiday vacation.

The addresses of so many alumni being unknown to officers of the association, it was announced at the meeting not to send out individual invitations for the 1927 reunion. Announcements will be made only thru newspapers. All alumni and former students of the 1926 class are urged to consider themselves eligible to attend, and members who are married may bring their wives or husbands.

Alumni planning to attend are urged to watch these columns for further announcements of the big event.

Red Lake Nations Sell 792,452 Pounds of Fish for $48,692 Past Season

More than three-quarters of a million pounds of fish were caught by the Red Lake fisheries at Redby from Red Lake, Upper Red Lake and Lower Red Lake, according to Sam Beaulieu, superintendent of commercial fish and game of the state department, announced this week.

The total amount of fish taken was 792,452 pounds and the Indians realized $48,692 directly for their catches, in addition to the royalty payments which the fish companies will pay $7,600 royalties to the Red Lake Indians.

During the season, a total of 517 fishermen were employed, 56 tugs were operated and 36 seines were used. Fifty-six miles of gill nets were taken from the lake.

Whitefish, ciscoes and sturgeon were planted in the lake in the season, a total of 1,000 Indians fished in the lake.

SALVATION ARMY DRIVE FOR FUNDS CONTINUES

The drive for funds by the local Salvation Army is still progressing, Capt. H. E. Ruffe stated today, but only about half of the total amount needed for the coming winter has been subscribed up to this time.

A representative of the organization will call on those who have not subscribed within the next week, and will be completed.

Capt. Ruffe states that the annual Christmas War Cry has arrived and those desiring copies should get them at once, as the remainder of the supply was inadequate last year.

LOCAL BROADCASTING

Radio broadcasting has been under way the past three Sundays by the Larson Music Co., between the hours of 2 and 3:30, being greatly enjoyed by a large number of people in this part of the state. A clear reception has been noted in Stella fans at a hundred mile distance.

FIRST AID MEETING

A first aid meeting was held by the Northwestern Telephone company employees in the city council rooms this forenoon.

Temperature For November Trifle Above Last Year

Quite a few people have remarked how much warmer weather has been experienced the past few days than the month of November, but a careful check of records of Weather Observer E. M. Rayson shows that the average maximum temperature in 1926 was 34.60 degrees above zero, less than one degree difference. The average minimum temperature for November last year was 11.40 degrees, and this year it was 12.33.

November last year had one day warmer than any day this year, a 50 degree temperature having been registered on Nov. 5, 1926, while the highest this month was 49 on the 1. The lowest record in November, last year was 15 below on Nov. 29, while this year the last day of the month exhibited the thermometer registering ten below.

Precipitation

There was a total snowfall last year in November of 25.3 inches, as against a total in Dec. 1926 of 7.5 inches of precipitation. This year the snowfall totaled but two, being 12.8 inches of rain or a precipitation of 1.11 inches. However, there is less snow on the ground this year than last, by a considerable amount as there had been quite a little snow in October the past year, none of which had melted, there having been only one extremely warm day.

5 FREE TRIPS TO PENNINGTON BOYS AND GIRLS

Minneapolis Journal Will Send Two to Annual Short Course in June

TWO WILL BE SENT TO BOYS' STATE FARM CAMP

Chicken Fancier Is Host to Boy or Girl

Five Pennington county boys have been named for free trips to forthcoming events in 1928 of interest to all members of boys' and girls' clubs, with three other boys and two girls named as alternates, these young people having been chosen as the result of the merits of their individual showings in club work. Hiller Johnson, agricultural instructor of the Thief River Falls high school, announced the selection, to be held Wednesday, December 7, at the Times office in this city. This announcement has been received from Harry Hieronymus, president of the association, who is a student at the university farm.

Excellent Program

Arrangements are being completed for one of the best and largest conventions ever held by the Lincoln High graduates, says Secretary Milton Larson, who is in charge of arrangements for the meeting. Details of the program and entertainment, which will be of an unusually high order, will be announced later. Besides the talk of the evening by Mr. Hay, there will be short toasts by alumni and representatives of the various schools, musical selections, and entertainment features of which everyone in attendance. Refreshments will be served in the usual manner.

Alumni, many of whom had their entire elementary and high school education under his superintendency, will be especially pleased to hear Mr. Hay's approaching visit. This will be his first meeting with the alumni group since his departure from Thief River Falls in 1919, when he was appointed to the state office.

Over 1,000 Graduates

It is expected that a large number of the more than 1,000 graduates will gather at the reunion to renew old friendships and review interesting incidents of days spent in Lincoln high. Indications are that a large class will be represented, as far back as 1912, when the first class was graduated. A group of four completed the local high school course, during Mr. Hay's first term as superintendent. Since 1904 the classes have rapidly increased in size and in recent years have averaged nearly a hundred graduates.

Fifty Turkeys Killed When G. N. Flyer Hits Flock Perched on Rail

Mrs. Alfred Sandberg of Keenely, the giving thanks last Thursday for many things, yet was downhearted over the loss of fifty fine turkeys a few days before Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. Sandberg had a flock of 57 birds and they have been accustomed to roosting along the right of way of the Great Northern railway for some time past. However, for some unknown reason on the Friday night preceding the national holiday, the 50 turkeys in question decided to roost on the rails instead of the right of way fence, with the result that the Great Northern flyer plowed into the lot, killing everyone of them. Only the seven which had roosted on the farm buildings that night escaped.

In discussing the matter the Kennedy Star said that it was very doubtful if Mrs. Sandberg would have a claim against the railroad.

COMMUNITY GIRLS LET CONTRACT FOR TOBOGGAN SLIDE

It Will Be 28 Feet High, With 60 Foot Slide; Protection Is Assured

Thief River Falls will have a Community Girls Club toboggan slide two weeks, according to Alvina Jonasson, chairman of the committee in charge of the project. The contract was let to the East Side, near the river, at the end of Second avenue, and is to be 28 feet high, and two feet wide. The platform will be 100 feet by 12 feet by 16 feet, and the slide will be specially built for the purpose.

Erection of the slide is being completed by the Community club, various local organizations having kindly agreed to contribute to the cause. Provision will be made for the grounds constantly, in accordance with the law.

The slide is being built for the benefit of the public in general, and the girls club in particular, the opening which will be staged in about two weeks.

Public Is Invited To Inspect City's New Power Plant

An informal opening of Thief River Falls' new power plant at the city hall Saturday afternoon and evening, December 10, when the public will be invited to inspect the plant, officials of the city will be present to explain the construction and various pieces of equipment. Only children with parents will be admitted.

Improved Marshall County Highway West of Grygla Will Be Generally Used

A piece of Marshall county highway that is destined to be used quite generally made use of by Thief River people in the future is that from Grygla. The new highway for, to go to the noted inland villages will be completed, it is believed, so has not been an uncommon practice for large corporations to carry several different accounts in banks up in the Ramsey county district court, a decision rendered this week by Judge Lawrence M. Brown in the Pennington county district court, where a case was tried before Judge Grindeland last August.

In the findings of the court, the decision of the jury, rendered in favor of the plaintiff, the Judge states that it has not been an uncommon practice for large corporations to carry several different accounts in banks up in the Ramsey county district court, a practice also followed by many wholesale depositors and checking them out. It is not the intention, says the judge, of the parties that the bank, in accepting such deposits, shall act as agent of the corporation, but that such deposits are intended as the absolute property of the depositor.

The court granted a stay of 30 days, which will give the plaintiff an opportunity to appeal to the state supreme court, if it it so desired. In rendering his decision Judge Grindeland cited various similar cases, and of which was against the said commissioner of banks, A. J. Volgel

Standard Oil Co. Loses Case in District Court Against Bank Receiver

The Standard Oil Co., of Fargo, in a decision handed down this week by Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren, failed to collect $2,000 from A. J. Volgel, as Commissioner of Banks, as receiver of the defunct Security bank of Thief River Falls, which was closed by Duncan Stanton was indebted while the latter was operating the bank, to the Standard Oil Co., of Fargo, in the amount of $2,000.

The plaintiff charged that their local representative, a Mr. Stanton, had loaned on their 30 to Nov. 3, 1926, to the Farmers & Merchants State bank of this city, which in turn had issued certified checks to the representative, payable to the plaintiff at Fargo, and that said checks had never been paid, they totalling $1,100.01. The bank was closed on Nov. 5, 1926.

In finding for the plaintiff in the case, the court states that the defendants, received the checks against the state bank of Thief River Falls, and that the bank was insolvent at the time of the receipt of the checks, which is the basis of the claim, the court holding that the defendants, in the case, were not entitled to the money.

Kohn & Fiterman Case Against Walker Taken to Higher Court Here

Mention was made in these columns last week of the case of Kohn & Fiterman vs. James Walker and Bernhard Stensland by Judge S. W. Tarrant in district court, which case was taken on the grounds that there had been a failure of notice. The case has now been appealed to the district court for Pennington county, and thereof, having been filed last Saturday by Paul Lundgren, attorney for Kohn & Fiterman, who will prosecute the trial somewhere about the middle of next February, opening of court having been postponed till the second week in January.

Kohn & Fiterman, as announced in the Times last week, are suing James Walker in an action to recover a balance of $2,000 which they claim has been taken from money claimed to have been the various profits of the farm.

Duncan Stanton was indebted while he was constituting a road and railroad for Pennington county, Stanton, unable to complete the work assigned the contract to Walker, who claimed receipt the money in connection settlement of the job, but who still not settle with the various claimants.

10,000 CHRISTMAS SEAL VOLUNTEERS GIVE TIME GRATIS

Four Pennington County Persons Named to Assist in Health Work

Every citizen of Pennington county will be given a chance to do his bit, in supporting anti-tuberculosis and health work during 1928, according to plans now being made for the annual sale of Christmas Seals.

The sale will be sponsored by the county Public Health association, a unit of the Minnesota Public Health association and the National Tuberculosis association.

Arrangements are underway for a campaign which will give everyone an opportunity to buy the penny health stamps. Local managers, who will direct the sale in their own communities, are as follows: M. Halvorson, Goodridge; Olive Lilly, Thorson; C. Hillaire; Morris Rye, Thief River Falls; Dr. R. C. Bernard, Thief River Falls.

10,000 In State Assist

Three workers, who form a part of Minnesota's 10,000 Christmas Seal volunteers, are at their task this week.

In the rural districts the sale will be in charge of the schools, which are having offered health awards for reaching 100% participation.

Pictorial Seals Class carrying the title of "Health Seals" will be distributed this week in Pennington county. Instructions will affect calls to rural schools 400 miles distant from the calling point.

The greater the distance, the great er will be the reduction, Mr. Russell says. The long rate, applying to points from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., between the points offered in the lower zones, will be reduced to about half away between the night rates and the day rates. The night rates, after 8:30 p. m. will continue at approximately one-fifth the day rate. Evening and night rates, as at present, will apply only to station-to-station calls.

Saying "Thank You" Is A Pleasant Custom

Saying "thank you" is one of the simplest habits to form, and one that is more conducive to success in life than almost any other. The man who learns early in life that only part of his success is ever due to his own efforts, and that the balance or measure of credit belongs to his friends and associates, has learned one of the most valuable lessons Life has to offer.

Likewise the success of our store in this community is not due to our efforts alone. It is true we have tried hard to give you honest—value—to render service with a smile and save you at least a few cents on every purchase, but we have much to say "thank you" for in the co-operation given us by our good friends and neighbors.

Over 300 years ago a sturdy band of Pilgrims set apart a special day in which to say "thank you." It is a custom we are glad to observe.

Clogged Overflow Pipe of Auto Nearly Caused Death of 2 Winger Men

J. I. Anderson and Arnold Haugen of Winger had a narrow escape last week when the overflow pipe of their car became clogged, preventing the boiling water in which was mixed a quantity of alcohol from draining properly, forcing it out thru a hose that developed when the upper radiator hose became loosened. The alcohol on coming in contact with the hot engine immediately caught fire, but not before the men found flames shooting into their car in a dangerous manner.

Shutting off the gas and stopping the car at once, the men pulled off the hood and quenched the fire with snow, but not till considerable damage had been done. The wiring system was completely destroyed, and the radiator was so badly damaged it could not be used. Mr. Haugen's eyebrows and hair of the fur collar on his coat were badly scorched before they got out of the car.

Reduced Long Distance Telephone Rates Will Go into Effect December 1

Changes for telephone calls over the greater distances only will be effected by a reduction in long distance telephone rates which is announced for November 1 according to an announcement made by Geo. A. Russell, local manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. These reductions will affect calls to points about 400 miles or more distant from the calling point.

The greater the distance, the great er will be the reduction, Mr. Russell says. The long rate, applying to points from 7 p. m. to 8:30 p. m., between the points offered in the lower zones, will be reduced to about half away between the night rates and the day rates. The night rates, after 8:30 p. m. will continue at approximately one-fifth the day rate. Evening and night rates, as at present, will apply only to station-to-station calls.

NORTHWEST GAME WARDENS ON WAR PATH RECENTLY

Bemidji, McIntosh and Middle River Hunters Fare Badly in Various Courts

Game wardens in this part of northwestern Minnesota have been unusually active the past week, the report is that the duffers of various courts have been swelled thereby. On Monday morning in municipal court at Crookston W. E. Howe, Crookston attorney, appearing for Dr. F. T. Coleman and Ray Kelliher of Bemidji, entering a plea of guilty to a charge filed against the two men by Warden William Shoch of Crookston, and Attorney Torgerson of Fosston, in which the Bemidji hunters were accused of obstructing ducks with a boat in order to cause a flight.

Mr. Torgerson also arrested Frank Jorgenson, of McIntosh on a charge of having a gun in a prohibited forbearing animal (calf) and appearing before Justice F. C. Johnson of Fosston, pleaded guilty and paid a fine and costs amounting to $21.50. Deputy Roberts of Fosston, was also assisted and pleaded guilty to the same offense, paying a fine and costs of $21.50.

Saturday Warden Musch and Warden Snyder of Middle River, Minn. and Martin K. Nelson of Thief River Falls, assisted by Tobe Green, Dr. H. C. Shoe and Grant Stephens of Middle River, arrested Ed. H. Boyer and Peter Hoxie of Cedar township, Marshall county, for attempting to take game out of a duck boat, which image not was confiscated and the men arraigned before Justice H. J. Schuster of Middle River each paid a fine and costs totalling $14.90.

$100 Fine Imposed Upon Moorhead Man Who Had Money Vending Machine

Most vending slot machines were removed from operation in Thief River Falls last week, following newspaper reports of their confiscation and the filing of complaints in whose places they were taken in Fargo and Moorhead. In these cities a few machines had been in operation which paid out money instead of chips and these owners were fined $100 each.

Slot machines were introduced into those cities about six months ago, the same as here and elsewhere thruout the state, practically all of them being mint vending machines. The police departments in many places were appealed to and finally Moorhead officials sought a ruling as to the legality of the machines. The attorney general ruled that all of them were illegal in the state of law, which prompted for the drastic action taken by the court there.

Bagley Mail Carrier Has Snow Bird for Winter Mail Delivery

Henry Nesset, rural mail carrier at Bagley, intends to delight the children of his entire route daily this coming winter, regardless of the amount of snow that he may encounter. He has fenged up an old Ford with runners in front and four wheel-in the rear, Covering these four rear wheels are metal traction belts, similar to a tractor.

A speed of 30 miles an hour can be obtained by this snowdrift climber, it is claimed by Mr. Nesset, who also states that it will have sufficient power to low for any road condition.

The Ford with snow attachments is called a Snow Bird, and it is attracting considerable attention in Bagley at present.

National Tea Co. Buys Consumers Store Chain

The National Tea company, which operates over 125 retail grocery stores in the northwest, has recently acquired the retail grocery stores and meat markets of the Consumers Grocery Supply company of Duluth, which is located in Thief River Falls, according to an announcement in the Twin City Newspapers last week. Earl Kerstad, who has been the manager of the Consumers store here, will remain in charge of the store and will be continued in the same capacity.

The addition of this chain of stores will bring 83 groceries and 11 meat markets, located in the Twin Cities, Rochester, Red Cloud and other Minnesota, Wisconsin and South Dakota points into the National Tea company's chain.

The National Tea company is owned and managed by northwest interests. The names of the owners are not known at this time, but it is generally and will carry the National Tea company's policy of operation, directors of the company announced.

DeParu Sues Tobacco Company For Damages

William DeParu, who formerly resided here, has begun suit in the United States court at Fergus Falls against the Liggett and Myers Tobacco Company and others for $50,000 for $50,000 damages for injuries sustained in an automobile accident.

Mr. DeParu alleges that Mr. Liggett was travelling a narrow road in the employ of the Tobacco Company and that on June 9,1927, he was driving his car in an automobile near Middle River, Minn. He claims that the car had not been properly inspected and that it was driven in a negligent manner and on account of some loose gravel a front wheel collapsed and the car overturned, injuring him to such an extent that he has been paralyzed from the waist down ever since.

He claims he was a strong, healthy, active man and is disabled for life. He claims further that the company is liable for the accident.

WHAT IS SAID

It is said that the Clerk of Court, Adolf Ekland, is one of the few in the city who is not giving thanks today wholeheartedly in most of the people. On inquiry by a Times representative today, it was learned that the reason is that he has not been focusing this year so many marriage licenses as last year. Only 49 have been asked for up to the present time, while last year a total of 98 were issued. The young folks around town are trying to console him with the fact that next year is Leap Year, and that they will see to it that the difference will be more than made up.

The Garden of Allah

See the wonderful endorsement of this picture—

After viewing the picture at a special showing at 75 Lasky studios, New York City, Dec. 1st, 1927, Thomas A. McGuire, chairman of the Motion Picture Department of the International Federation of Catholic Alumnae, makes an endorsement of

The Garden of Allah.

This picture, following the lead with statistics of the entire motion picture industry, is the finest example of its kind in existence. Not only scenes in the Trappist monastery are truly and reverently Catholic, artistic in plan, and exquisite in detail.

The following are a few of those viewing for the picture who have known the Trappist monastery and order shall He is not made the costume wanted, but rather the characters depicted, he says long and wished they yielded to temptation, I can see no happiness or peace until he has justified himself by truth and is truly repentant.

Father Thomas Plassman, noted author of the Lives of the Saints, will be delighted with the picture, he says, as it depicts the beauty and serenity of the Trappist life.

Father Joseph Dunney, famous author and lecturer of the Religious Education association, also expected to attend. Father Dunney will be held under the auspices of the Knights of Columbus.

Dr. Charles Phillips, president of Hamline, also of Thief River Falls and a native of Ireland, who has been especially interested in Shropshire sheep.

Muldoon-Von Bank

A pretty wedding was solemnized at St Thomas Catholic church of Buffalo, N. Dak., Tuesday, November 22, at ten o'clock in the morning, when Miss Margaret V. Muldoon, daughter of Mrs. A. Muldoon, formerly of the Mavie vicinity, became the bride of Alfonse J. Bank, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Von Bank of Buffalo, N. Dak. The bride wore a gown of champagne cashon crepe with an overskirt of lace, and carried an arm bouquet of white chrysanthemums. The bridal couple was attended by Anastasia E. Muldoon, sister of the bride, and Nicholas G. Von Bank, brother of the groom. Miss Muldoon wore a gown of beige flat crepe with matching accessories.

A wedding dinner was served at the bride's home for the relatives and immediate friends, seventy being present. Mr. and Mrs. Von Bank will be at home to their friends after December 25 at Buffalo, in which city the former is engaged in the garage business.

Wedding Is Solemnized on Thanksgiving Day

St. Augustine church, St. Cloud, was the scene of an unusually pretty wedding, Thanksgiving Day, when Miss Ruth Golden, a former Thief River Falls girl, became the bride of Orville Herron of this city, Father August Brunner of St. Cloud reading the service, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives of the couple.

To the familiar strains of the Lohengrin wedding march, played by N. Hoke of St. Cloud at the organ, the bridal party processed to the altar which was beautiful with ferns, chrysanthemums, palms and tapers. Gilbert Golden, brother of the bride, escorted the groom to the altar, followed by Miss Lorraine Golden, bridesmaid, sister of the bride. Next followed the bride, who wore a most becoming dress of tan flat crepe and brown transparent velvet, with a hat of gold metallic cloth. She carried an arm bouquet of pink Columbia roses and ornamentia. A striking feature of her costume was a heavy gold pin which, simple a cluster of flowers on the shoulder. She was the third bride to have worn the pin, which is a priceless heirloom of a friend of hers, having been a gift from Queen Victoria. The bridesmaid's dress was palmetto green crepe Elizabeth with matching transparent velvet trim. Her flowers were Ophelia roses with lavender chrysanthemums. Miss Ruth Mavis was sung by J. MacDonald of St. Cloud.

A twelve o'clock dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joe M. Golden, to immediate friends and relatives of the couple. Smilax, pink Columbia roses and tapers effectively decorated the table, and a three three-tiered wedding cake formed a beautiful centerpiece. Mrs. Joe Jensen of Viking, sister of the groom, was among the out-of-town guests.

Following a brief stay in the Twin Cities, the couple came to this city to make their home. The bride is known to many here, Golden having made this city their home for twelve years. Mr. Golden's father has resided here with the family since his retirement as a dentist in this city. Mrs. Herron is a graduate of this city, and is employed with the Red Lion. They are residing at 713 Knight Ave.

Methodist-Presbyterian Young People on Friday Have Banquet; Organize

On Friday evening, Nov. 25, the young people of the Methodist-Presbyterian church enjoyed a banquet served by a committee of ladies of the church in the parlors of the church.

The occasion was the first social event for the young people since the uniting of the two churches. The meal left nothing to be desired, and a spirit of good fellowship was evident throughout the evening in songs and good cheer.

Clifford Wikel acted as toast master and called upon a number of the young people who made, brief, pointed talks which showed that they are thinking seriously and clearly along the lines of the larger usefulness of the church in the community.

After a brief talk by the pastor a representative committee was appointed to consider what officers should be elected, and to make nominations for such places and report at the meeting next Sunday evening. It was decided that this is a union of the Christian Endeavor society and the Epworth League, the young people voted to adopt the name "Christian League, until such time as there is a union of the two churches.

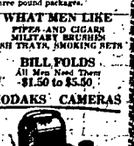
Bemidji Daily Pioneer Issued Last Saturday by Women of Bemidji

School teachers, housewives, society leaders and club women took over the duties of running out the Bemidji Daily Pioneer last Saturday.



The great staff for a day, members of the Women's Civic and Community club of Bemidji, had full charge of a 32 page edition, having accepted an invitation by H. E. Mitchell, editor formerly publisher of the News Press of this city.

Local news was given preference and reports of crime were given little space. Many large type headlines were used, however. This was due, said Miss Mabel Rice, the managing editor for the day, because these are of the opinion that women are even more inclined to be headline readers' than the men.

There was a "department for men" edited by Mrs. Wilbur S. Crean, in which activities of men's clubs were reported.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT A SURPRISE TO FRIENDS

Local people were surprised last week to learn of the marriage of Miss Dorothy Shirley and Walter Larson, which took place in Moorhead five weeks ago. The bride has been attending the Moorhead state teachers college, and the young couple kept their marriage a secret until her arrival home Thanksgiving. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Larson, 420 Davis avenue, and the bride a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Shirley, 124 Conley Avenue north.

GET THE DOGS READY BOYS

One of the big events of the late winter last season was the dog derby, and judging from the expressions of sentiment we have heard along the street it is likely that another classic of this kind will be held this year. Several other Minnesota towns are arranging for such events and some are spreading them over several days, holding elimination contests. In this way the final race is among only the best trained dogs and therefor a little more of a race and less of a fight. But get the dogs ready boys, cause the chances are you will have an opportunity to use them, and they can't be trained over night.

COUNTY AGENT ELECTED

A new county agent has been elected to succeed J. J. McCann. A county agent is like a team of horses—whether they work or don't work, they keep right on eating. There's only one way to make a profit on this investment and that is to keep the agent busy. As Ben Franklin said, "A used key is always bright." If you want a bright county agent use him often.

One of the criticisms we hear about county agents, and swivel chair farmers in general, is that they have a lot of ideas that are not practical. In other words a lot of the stuff that looks good on paper doesn't look so good when you're out in the field dodging clods behind a plow. It is pointed out that a lot of money has been lost by farmers who have tried to follow the rules laid down by some college professor. There probably is some foundation for such a feeling. Theory and practice are two different things.

The best combination for success in any line of work, however, is practice and theory cemented together with common sense. Practice and theory are both essential, but unless they are applied with common sense there is going to be trouble. The practice and the common sense must be supplied by the farmer himself. If the new agent is a whiz on theory and babbles over with enthusiasm, then he's worth every cent he costs. Come in and get acquainted with him.

THE OPINION OF OUR NEIGHBORS

It is generally conceded that the United States is not held in very high regard by the nations of South and Central America, and the administration is making a special effort to create a better feeling at the Pan-American Congress which will be held in Havana next month. And it is high time that such an effort be made. There has been too much talk of "Yankee Imperialism" among our neighbors to the south of us, and if such a feeling is permitted to continue it is very apt to lead to serious consequences. Some of this talk of "Imperialism" is undoubtedly founded on prejudice. There are times, however, when we too wonder if there is not a tendency towards imperialism in the country.

For instance our attitude toward the Philippines. Quite often lately the metropolitan press has urged hat we forget the idea of Philippine independence and definitely establish the islands as American colonies. This certainly is a gesture of imperialism and every gesture of this kind strengthens the opinion of South American and other countries that we are seeking more territory. This country is obligated by an implied agreement to make the Philippines free and independent. It may be that the islanders are not able at the present time, to govern themselves, but we can set a date twenty, or thirty or forty years hence if necessary, when that freedom will be given them. A statement to this effect and a general re-statement of America's policy with foreign countries would be very timely at the Pan-American Congress and would do much toward removing the prejudices against us which now exist among our southern neighbors.

WEATHER

A few years ago we looked forward to the time when we could confide to the children that there isn't any Santa Claus. They know it now but this knowledge doesn't seem to make any difference. They take what might be called a practical view of the situation. What they are interested in is results.

We're not superstitious on anything else but the weather. Every time we comment on the weather looks nice it gets worse. Probably that's the only thing it can get when it is nice. At any rate we're satisfied with it as it is now.

We saw a picture the other day of Mr. Ruth Elder. We were very thankful last Thursday that our wives can neither swim nor fly.

CONVENTION VALUES

(Minneapolis Journal News)

A note in a city paper states that the "M. E. A. convention was a very valuable meeting." Well, it ought to have been. It cost the taxpayers of the state over $100,000.—Long Prairie Leader.

The Leader presumably refers to the loss of time from school work, and other items. If the expectations of city merchants were realized there was another cost of fully a hundred thousand dollars to merchant taxpayers in the districts from which the teachers came. Minneapolis papers, in their advance publicity on the convention, featured the hope that salary checks would be brought from the country to their stores. Which is fair enough. A convention city expects to get a return on its investment in entertainment.—Nor is there question here of the right of a teacher to spend a paycheck where and how one wishes. It doesn't take long to find out that the best place to make purchases is right at home.

There is, however, a fair question as to whether the convention business is overdone, coming during days when classes might well be continued and at a season when holidays and school activities cause breaks in the schedule. School authorities are studying another question, that of the merits of a big state convention or of several district meetings, in the smaller cities of the the state. At present a number of district meetings are being held, and the state gathering as well. It seems that smaller conventions give more practical work for the teacher-delegate, would have fewer distractions, would have better attendance at sessions and would render a more helpful service. All at less cost to the teacher.

MINNESOTA GIRL WINS PRIZE FOR LEADERSHIP

R. A. Turner of the 4-H club service of the United States Department of Agriculture at Washington, announces that Alice Landre of Hamburg, Minnesota, is one of the 26 club boys and girls winning cash prizes in the club leadership contest conducted in 1927 by The Farm Journal at of Philadelphia. Entries in the contest were received from 35 states and Hawaii, with some of the states submitting dozens of reports. The Farm Journal disburses $1,000 yearly in this work. The capital prize of $250 for boys was won by an Oregon member, and a like prize for girls was awarded an Arizona club member.

Miss Landre has been a club member eight years, and for the last three has practically been in charge of all club activities in Norman county, her home county. She is now a student at the Minnesota College of Agriculture.

CASH PRIZES ASSURED NEW SHEEP PROJECT

The Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association has appropriated $200 for prizes for the winners of the proposed advanced junior sheep project, planned by the state club leaders and livestock specialists of the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota. This is a project for boys and girls between the ages of 16 and 24. Awards will be based on the total weight of lambs produced in 150 days, the percentage of lambs raised, and records of feed and cost. The lambs must be dropped between March 1 and May 31 by a flock of 10 breeding ewes owned, fed and managed by the junior entering the project.

There are enough fleabs in the United States to replace the entire population of any one of the forty-eight states, but New Hampshire, Vermont, Rhode Island, Delaware, Florida, Oregon, Colorado or Utah.

State Court Rules Dwelling Owned by Church Is Taxable

A lot and dwelling house, owned by the Union Congregational church of St. Louis Park, Minneapolis, and not used as a residence for its minister or in connection with the religious charitable work of the church, but rented to others is subject to taxation, the state supreme court held Friday.

It affirmed the decision of Judge P. W. Guilford of Hennepin county district court, in action brought by the state to enforce delinquent taxes on his refusal to grant a new trial.

The church has owned the property since 1892, and used it as a parsonage up to July 1, 1920.

During that period it was tax exempt. Since, it has been leased and the net income used for supporting the church. It was for collection of taxes assessed since that time that the action was instituted.

In its decision the high court says: "The term 'church property' as used in the constitutional provision exempting from taxation 'all church property,' means property used for worship; has reference to the use of the property and its relation to the purposes and activities of the church organization and does not exempt real property except to derive income therefrom."

It is the belief of a prominent American gas expert that the introduction of a small quantity of recently discovered 'sneeze gas' into illuminating gas would lessen the large number of suicides and accidental deaths by gas poisoning.

Short Lessons In Dairying

A series of 52 articles by Land O'Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON VI.

OFF-FLAVORED CREAM: There is no finer taste than that of Sweet Cream when the cream is produced under right conditions. For this reason strictly Sweet Cream is now used for making the highest quality of market butter.

Cream may be sweet, but if it has any off-flavors it will not make good butter.

Off-flavors may be caused from lack of care in milking or from not thoroughly washing and scalding all the milk utensils every time they are used, or from not cooling the cream immediately after separating, or from not keeping the cream where the air is pure.

Next to cleanliness, a cream cooling tank is necessary where the cream may be cooled in cold water immediately after separating and kept cold until it is delivered to the creamery and kept where the air is pure.

Beaver Dams Found on Scheirnehorn Farms at Mahnomen Are Protected

A colony of beavers has moved to the White Earth river, just east of Mahnomen, within 15 minutes walk from the village, and are busily at work every night lately. When first discovered they had built only one dam; later on a second one was noticed and now a third has been observed.

Just where they came from no one knows but in all probability they came from Itasca Park. Other dams are reported in the little streams east of Mahnomen. The location of the visiting dams that part of the country is on land owned by the Scheirnehorn Farms and every one known, besides the protection that the law gives them, is protect the colony and to watch them grow will be used.

Until the state put a stop to the trapping of beaver a number of years ago, they were almost extinct, but they seem to have increased rapidly during the past few years, but this is the first time that they have come out near civilization and thrown up their earth dams in a long time. They have cut down oak trees eight and ten inches thru and are still at work. Other dams have appeared in the small streams in the eastern part of Mahnomen county and there are now fifteen or twenty fresh dams in that county.

STUDY FARM ACCOUNTS

TO MAKE BIGGER FARM AIR

For the third successive year the agricultural extension service of the University of Minnesota is offering its free correspondence course, opening January 1, to farm record and farm management to the farmers of the state and adjacent states. The work will be conducted by W. L. Cavert, farm management specialist, who has prepared a series of six lessons as follows:

Taking an inventory on the home farm.

Practice work in farm accounts.

Estimating the value of farm products used in the home.

Studying the crop and livestock features of the farm business.

Studying directly and also of business as affecting profits.

Summarizing the account books for the home farm at the end of the year.

The work will be started by the farm student at any time after he has sent his enrolment card to the Agricultural Extension Service at University Farm, St. Paul.

HORSE DAY PROGRAM AT CROOKSTON WINTER SHOW

At least one County Horse Day program, with a colt show, will be presented this year by the extension service and the Minnesota Livestock Breeders' association. This program will be featured in connection with the Red River Valley Winter Show which is to be held at Crookston the second week in February.

Umbrellas as screens against sunshine have been used since the days of the ancient Assyrians and Egyptians, but were first used in England as protection against the rain in the time of Queen Anne.

Christmas Trust
DURING the Christmas rush it is one of America's many proven but much attention was paid to names on envelopes and packages, but only to addresses, and all those not found at the "drop" written across the top.

They went to the dead letter office where they assisted the name of the writer back to him at his or her home—and there was one patient which a Santa Claus had made during the two months' vacation at the Navy Hospital, Bethesda (Md.) Naval Training Station.

It was addressed to Santa Claus, and the messenger boy who was patient which a Santa Claus had made during the two months' vacation at the Navy Hospital, Bethesda (Md.) Naval Training Station.

It was addressed to Santa Claus, and the messenger boy who was assigned to the case of delivering the letter to the writer, a little girl, found that the address was the same as that of the writer. The little girl had written the letter herself, and had addressed it to Santa Claus, and had put it in the mail box, and had gone home to wait for Christmas. But Santa Claus had not received the letter, and had not answered it. So the

Death Nearly Resulted When Wisconsin Farmer Attempted Plowing Feat

John Polarski of Green River, Wis., in trying to break the 110 hour plowing record of Harold Anderson of Argyle, narrowly escaped a tragic death. A report of the accident as received in Argyle follows:

Announcing that he was "as tough as any Swede," Polarski set out with his tractor and plow to surpass Anderson's achievement. However, after remaining at the throttle for 97 hours without sleep, he dozed off and slipped under the plow. Polarski landing on the drawbar of the plow, which he was lucky enough to stop in time to prevent the plow from passing over his body.

Polarski asserted that next year he would again be a contender for championship honors. In the meantime, Anderson's record still stands.

Motorless Auto Crosses Continent in Less Than 3 Months Says Dispatch

In the Sept. 15 issue of The Times there was a story of a motorless auto making its way to the west, having gone by this city, but passing thru Grand Forks. It will be remembered that in place of the engine under the hood there were three suitcases.

Dispatch from Vancouver, under date of Nov. 26, tells of this arrival there, of this auto. The message as sent follows:

By the simple expedient of getting their car towed the whole way two men have completed a transcontinental tour of 5,000 miles in an automobile.

The two "hitch towers," Frank J. Elliott and George A. Scott, were but eighty-nine days getting from Halifax, N. S., to Vancouver and their actual "towing time" was only five days. Their longest tow was received from a Toronto man, who pulled their machine for 1,000 miles, from Port Wash., to Vancouver, a distance of 447 miles.

LAST RITES SATURDAY FOR MRS. O. L. BAKKEN

Funeral services were held at two o'clock Saturday afternoon from the West Side Mission church, Rev. J. O. Jacobson and Rev. O. J. Lundquist officiating, for Mrs. O. L. Bakken who died at her home Tuesday, Nov. 22, following an illness caused from tumors of the stomach.

Lina Paulsen Nybroe was born at Hjelsbergerad, Tygsil, Norway, July 16, 1852. In 1872, at the age of twenty, married to Ole L. Bakken and together they emigrated to the United States in 1873, settling at Rock Island. After residing at various localities including Sarah, Grant, Granite Falls, and Benson, she and her husband took up a homestead in Marshall county in 1880, disposing of their interests in that section in 1902 and coming to Thief River Falls in 1907, where she lived until death.

Deceased was the mother of eight children, four boys and four girls, all of whom survived her. Besides death; the first-born, Karen Mathilda, died just two months after birth; Madison Garden, New York, and is buried there, and a son, Oscar Carl, was killed in action at Sherry, in the Argonne, Nov. 10, 1918, 85 years in Romagne Cemetery, Jan. 1, 1921.

She leaves to mourn her death her husband, and her six surviving children, Mrs. A. B. Isaacson of Middle River; Ole, of Minneapolis; Ludwig, of Satisfaction; Harold, of Minneapolis; Mrs. Carl of Chicago, and Mathilda, Mrs. R. D. Meeker, of Chicago.

F. P. HERRICK'S MOTHER DIES AT GRAND FORKS

Word was received here yesterday of the death late Tuesday night at Grand Forks, Mrs. H. B. Herrick of Grand Forks. Mr. Herrick has been with his mother since Tuesday of last week, at which time she has been gradually failing. Mrs. Herrick was 82 years of age November 5. Funeral arrangements have not as yet been made.

Born in New York state on November 5, 1836, Mrs. Herrick lived in the east for a time. She later moved to Fulton, Minn. After 15 years residence there, she came to Grand Forks and has lived the last 31 years there with her daughter.

She had been ill in bed for about five weeks.

Mrs. Herrick was a member of the Presbyterian church and of the Eastern Star lodge.

In addition to Mrs. Ed. Olson, a daughter at whose home she died, Mrs. Herrick is survived by another daughter, Mrs. James Bain, Lonsview Wash., one son, F. H. Herrick, Thief River Falls, Minn.; twelve grandchildren, Ethel and Evelyn Olson, Henry Bain and William Herrick, all of Grand Forks, and Arthur Bain, Fargo, Mrs. Robert Stevenson, Portland, Ore., Freddie and Archie Bain, Mrs. William Shapley, and Charles Bain, all of Lonsview, Wash., Allan Bain, Williston, N. Dak., and Mrs. H. P. Richardson, Gary, Ind., and three great-grandchildren, Dolores Bain, Grand Forks, Louise Stevenson, Portland, Ore., and Bessie Bain, Lonsview, Wash. Mrs. Herrick's husband died shortly before she came to Grand Forks.

President Alfred F. Hughes

C. Underwood & Underwood

Alfred Franklin Hughes will be inaugurated as president of Hamline University at Saint Paul, Minn. The ceremonies will be held on the campus of the college in the Midway, near Saint Paul, in the Hemsein Avenue Methodist Episcopal church, Minneapolis, and in the New Nicollet hotel of that city. Most of the exercises will be held in the church.

Doctor Hughes was called to Minnesota by the trustees of Hamline University from Evansville, Indiana, where he had been for 12 years president of Evansville college.

The trustees of Hamline are studying the building needs of the institution under the chairmanship of Russell M. Bennett of Minneapolis, with a view to providing a modern and thoroughly adequate plant. The faculty of the college are preparing a complete revision of the curriculum.

The hand salute of the soldier is thought to have originated in feudal days when a queen of love and beauty was chosen at the close of tournaments, and the knights, participating in review before the throne of beauty, raised their mailed fists to shield their eyes, intimating that they were dazzled by the beauty of the queen.

ROTARY CLUB TO ASSIST GIRLS' COMMUNITY CLUB

F. F. Haynes gave an educational talk on Rotarian principles at the regular weekly meeting of the club Tuesday noon in the Evelyn hotel. The members agreed to assist the Girls' Community club in its efforts to erect a toboggan slide on the east side, appointing a committee to co-operate with similar committees from other organizations.

Resist the Temptation to Charge It

Now is the time of the year when the average man and woman start making lists of all the gifts they must give this coming Christmas, and now, more than at any other time, the temptation arises to take advantage of charge accounts or instalment plans.

Don't do it. Charge accounts make you less critical of the values you are getting and more inclined to purchase presents that are twice as expensive as you should afford.

A study of the living and shopping habits of 1277 families in the typical American town of Zanesville, Ohio, showed that 71.1 of the homes maintained no charge accounts and that 10.7 per cent maintained only one. In 36 other American cities the percentage between "no charge account" and "one charge account" was found to be 50.9 and 19.9, respectively.

These figures seem to prove that the American family is overwhelmingly "built" on the policy of paying cash. Don't backslide.

Stop! Look! Listen!

Christmas holiday market on Dressed turkeys, geese and ducks is opening up very strong, so indications are that the early market will be the best. As we advised in the last issue of the Times, we are taking in dressed turkeys now and feel you are not making a mistake by getting all you can in this week and the first of next. Freight shipment can be made on the early movement which means more money to the producer. With the good roads we have and if we do not get any more snow pack your dressed turkeys, geese, and ducks in your car and bring them to the old reliable firm.

RELOCATION OF NO. 32 BEING SURVEYED NOW

Tentative Plans Take Highway Straight North on Main to 800 Tracks

3 RAILROAD CROSSINGS ELIMINATED THEREBY

Great Saving to Autoists by State Commission in Past Few Years Described

Approximately 240 miles of trunk highway have been cut out of the state system by relocation of routes and straightening of curves, it was learned according to figures compiled recently by the state highway department. This includes only work already completed and finished, and does not include those which are under construction or which are being surveyed for future construction, according to H. H. Shevlin, chief engineer of the highway department. The figures were prepared by the highway department.

How the straightening of the roadway has affected the mileage of various routes is shown below, only routes on which reductions of 5 miles or more have been made, being given in the list:

Trunk Highway	Length	Old Length	Difference
1	298.1	439.6	21.5
2	276.6	290.4	13.8
3	346.5	356.6	17.1
4	468.5	478.5	10
5	294.1	301.7	7.6
6	471.0	485.7	14.7
7	269.1	274.9	5.8
8	272.1	282.0	19.9
9	392.1	397.1	5
10	159.9	169.9	10
11	261.7	281.0	19.3
24	140.6	147.5	6.9
25	290.6	293.6	3
49	31.7	36.9	5.2
59	33.1	38.8	5.7

$3,000,000 Saved Yearly

The distances given in the first column are new temporary routes established in 1921. The distances in the second column are the mileages on the routes as remapped and relocated up to the fall of 1927. Mileages within the city limits of St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth are not included in the distances given.

Since the average truck highway in 1927 carried 1,000 vehicles daily, the elimination of 240 unnecessary miles on the system throughout the state means a saving in car operation in Minnesota totalling 240,000 vehicle miles per day. Making allowance for the reduced traffic in winter, there is still a saving of 64,800,000 vehicle miles in a year. Taking eight cents a mile as the cost of running the average car, this means a net saving of $5,184,000 a year, a saving which will increase as the years go by, but $5 million is a tidy sum, but a still larger sum is saved by the reduction in car operating costs through improved roadbed.

Where a route is relocated, the old route goes back to its former status as a county or town road, and is not abandoned except through regular legal procedure. Where a route is straightened, the abandoned portion reverts to the owner of the adjoining land.

Supreme Court Holds School Districts Not Liable for Bus Injury

Local interest attaches to a decision of the state supreme court handed down last Friday regarding the liability of school districts for injuries to pupils being transported to and from school in buses. The local school board has both of its drivers under bond, relieving the district from any possibility of damages. The announcement of the decision as given in the St. Paul Dispatch is as follows:

Decision of Court

A school district is not liable at common law for injuries to a pupil which result from its negligent operation of a bus used in transportation of pupils at public expense, according to an opinion by the state supreme court.

It affirmed Judge W. C. Leary, of Hennepin county District court, in sustaining a demurrer to a damage action brought against the Independent School district No. 17 at Edina. The suit was brought by T. A. Alden, as natural guardian for Dudley Allen, who was injured March 4, 1926, by an Edina school bus. The boy was then 10 years old. Damages aggregating $7,500 were asked.

DO NOT OPEN TILL CHRISTMAS BUNDLES ARRIVE AT P. O.

Early Mailing Urged in Order to Insure Delivery of all Classes of Mail

The first package bearing the mystic inscription, Do not open till Christmas, was received at the local post office last Saturday, according to the postmaster, who is taking care of the parcel post. One of the clerks, finding the package, merely said, "This is with us," which, in other words, the needs of early mailing were emphasized.

The post office department is now starting its annual "keep your mail early" campaign, which is used every year to relieve post office employes from the rush of taking care of mail that comes with the Christmas shipping. As circular being distributed by the post office says, "post offices will make every effort to handle the Christmas mails without congestion and delay, but owing to the enormous volume this can be done only with the co-operation of the public."

Special directions are given in the circular for the mailing of packages, which call for the labelling of fragile objects or perishable matter. Limits of size for mailing are given as 84 inches in length and girth combined, not more than 70 pounds in weight (under the parcel post law) for first and second or third zones, and 50 pounds in all other zones.

In regard to Christmas cards, the government circular says:

Patrons sending a quantity of Christmas cards, say 10 or more, should prepare and mail them two or three weeks in advance, as millions are mailed and they can not possibly be handled and delivered promptly two or three or four days before Christmas. To avoid this, patrons may mail their cards two or three weeks before Christmas, if delivered to the post office or postal station in person, or if forwarded by mail, labeled to show that they are Christmas cards, and deposited in a street letter or package box. They should be segregated, stamped with the date on which to be delivered, and delivered one or two days before Christmas.

Story Hour Feature to Be Resumed at Carnegie Library Saturday, Dec. 3

The Story Hour is a feature of the Carnegie public library that appeals to a large number of children in the city. It is a feature of many libraries throughout the country for several years, growing in popularity each year. During the last year several Story Hours have been broadcast by radio, permitting children in rural sections to enjoy them as much as their city friends.

Beginning Saturday of this week, Dec 3, a Story Hour will be a regular feature of the library Saturday afternoons throut the winter and spring. It will start promptly at 1:15 p. m. in the children's department, and it is requested that it be concluded about the time the library regularly opens at 2 o'clock to avoid any disturbance during the Story Hour. Children are urged to be present when the appointed hour arrives, as doors being opened at one o'clock, fifteen minutes ahead of the start of the story telling, Mrs. Harrison announces that the program has been arranged to appeal to children of the first three grades in the school.

Among new books arriving are The Best Plays of 1926-27, by Burns Mantle, When Tott rests Tott, by Arthur Train, Art Appreciation for Children Carnegie, How to Paint Signs and Show Cards by Matthews, and The International Automobile Hand Book.

JAN. 1 TIME LIMIT ON ADJUSTED COMPENSATION

Unless world war veterans apply to Uncle Sam for their federal adjusted compensation (so-called bonus) by Jan. 1, 1928, they will be out of luck Legion post service officers are particularly urging members of ex-service men to be certain their wards apply to this number are cared for. Meanwhile, Legion state headquarters will furnish blanks by mail on request.

DISTRICT COURT FOR MARSHALL COUNTY SITS

With a scheduled calendar of 70 cases, of which 33 are personal property cases, on the docket of the fall term of the district court for Marshall county which began at Warren Monday, a heavy court calendar is in store for court officials, according to the list of cases filed with Clerk of Court Grandsland is presiding.

ALFALFA ACTIVITY OF J. J. M'CANN IS BEST IN STATE

Earned Free Trip to Chicago Sponsored by Bee Growers of Western States

J. J. McCann left last week for Chicago to attend the 1927 International Live Stock exposition and Chicago show, including the meetings of the International Crop Improvement association, the National association of Corn County Agents, etc., having recently won the trip as a reward for his efforts in increasing the growing of alfalfa in Pennington county this past season. Similar awards were made to county agricultural agents in each of 12 middle western and eastern states. Mr. McCann was chosen for Minnesota after a careful study of accomplishments by A. C. Arny, state extension specialist for the University of Minnesota.

Rules of Contest

Following are the rules of the contest as announced last spring, and the work done in that connection by Mr. McCann:

1. Total number of farmers individually cooperating with the county agent (on Jan. 1 and Dec. 1). A total of 1,200 was reported here.

2. Number of meetings held between Jan. 1 and Oct. 1. 87 were held, Mr. McCann is credited with holding.

3. Number of people present at these meetings. 2,000 is the record count places the total at 15,715.

Alfalfa Acreage

4. Increase in acreage per farm (counting all farms in county). This is estimated at 34 acres.

4a. Report the average alfalfa acreage per farm on Jan. 1, 1927. Mr. McCann's records show this to have been 8.5 acres.

4b. Report the average acreage per farm on Sept. 1. The records here show 42 acres.

4c. Report the total alfalfa acreage on Sept. 1. Compilation of figures received by Mr. McCann give this as 10,040 acres.

5. Number of farmers in Pennington county sowing alfalfa for first time in year of 1927. Late reports give this as 184.

Each of the above five items entitled the various entrants to 20 percent toward the total. The highest number in each item taken as 20 percent.

Sponsored by Bee Growers

At the time of these meetings in Chicago, announcement will be made of the county agent winning a free trip thru the most productive sections of the west. This trip will be given to the agent showing the best results of the twelve selected, as was Mr. McCann. The section to be visited will include parts of Kansas, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and South Dakota, the trip starting about Aug. 1, 1928.

Announcement will also be made during the show in Chicago this week of the winner of the silver cup and shield in the interstate contest for 1927. Mr. McCann's record and shield in the interstate contest for 1927. Mr. McCann's record and shield in the interstate contest for 1927. Mr. McCann's record

In Memoriam

James H. Barnett—In loving memory of our dear husband and father, who passed away one and year ago, Nov. 30, 1926.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear;
He has far away out of sight of speech,
But not too far for thought to reach.
Sweet is remember him who once was here,
And who, though absent, is just as dear.

—Mrs. James S. Barnett and children

Card of Thanks.

To our friends and neighbors who so tenderly assisted and comforted us during the sickness, death, and funeral of our beloved wife and mother, we wish hereby to extend our deepest thanks. Especially we wish to thank Rev. O. J. Lundell and Rev. O. O. Jacobson for their kind visits, their untiring efforts to console her during her illness, and their inspiring words to us as per her. Also, thanks to the American Legion, the Legion Auxiliary and the Luther Ladies aid of Middle River for their beautiful floral offerings at the funeral. May the grace of God, our Heavenly Father, be your reward.

To Members and Friends of the Methodist-Presbyterian Church;

Let's conduct a "Stir-up Sunday" campaign from now until Easter, in an effort to rouse the people to regular church attendance. I believe that our church can be filled to capacity every Sunday if the people are only aroused. It is needless for me to tell you that, no minister, however well he may be supported by a staff of workers can accomplish the work to be done and meet the responsibilities of the kingdom tasks, in addition to all this, there are men and women and young people who are willing to dedicate to the various tasks of the church their voluntary part time service.

Let us also work and pray for a real brotherhood. It is the Church's greatest asset in rousing disordered lives, and in its approach to industrial relations and is one of its finest contributions to the life of the community. It expresses itself in ministries of kindness, in the care of the stranger and in a sincere and loyal friendship which knows no class distinctions in social gatherings.

The fellowship of a local church should be a forecast of the larger brotherhood of the nation, which is being created slowly and painfully out of diverse groups and interests. It is unreasonable to expect the minister to be responsible for the application of the gospel and I believe that the working plans of the church should be reamended and interpreted as to hold the laity responsible for the application of the gospel. In closing I beg of you to do the best you can and take an active part in the affairs of your church.

With cordial good wishes and anticipations of seeing you and your friends in church at least once every Sunday from now until Easter, I am,

Very sincerely yours,
L. M. RAYSON.

ST. HILAIRE COUPLE MARRIED 50 YEARS THANKSGIVING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Hauge Have Been Residents of Community for 25 Years

Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Hauge, highly respected and honored citizens of St. Hilaire for the past twenty-five years, distinctly observed their golden wedding anniversary by a family re-union and gathering of friends and neighbors at their home in that village on Thanksgiving day. The home was artistically decorated with gold and white streamers and white wedding bells. At one o'clock a sumptuous appetizing dinner was served to about sixty people.

Mr. Hauge was born at Stjermern, near Stavanger, Norway, and is 52 years of age. His wife, aged 71, was born near the same place. The latter came to this country in 1870 and the latter in 1886. They were married in Norman county, Minnesota, Nov. 24, 1877, and were among the first settlers in Halsted, undergoing all the hardships of pioneer days. They farmed there till 1902 when they sold their farm, purchasing another near St. Hilaire and moving to that village in 1912 the sold their farm to W. L. Hanson, Sanda, Jr., Fiskie to spend their declining years.

Their union has been blessed with 12 children. There are also 19 grandchildren and 2 great grandchildren.

Rev. H. G. Jacobson, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church of St. Hilaire, of which the venerable couple have been members since coming to this section, was present and delivered a pleasing address fitting to the occasion. Among his remarks Rev. Jacobson said that very few couples were privileged to journey long enough on the pathway of life to permit them to reach the fiftieth milestone, therefore at Thanksgiving more. At the close of his talk, he presented the couple with a purse of gold from all the latter's friends and relatives.

Among out-of-town guests who attended the re-union were Mr. and Mrs. Ole Vike, Mrs. C. A. Hegge and daughters, Bertine, Cora, and Julia and son, Allen, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hauge and children, Mrs. H. Peterson, Laura and Andrew Hauge, all of Hatfield; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Arneson of Shelby; Joe Hauge, Gladys Wiman, Mrs. Pal Thompson and daughter, Jean and Dale, of Bemidji; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hauge of Bemidji; Mr. and Mrs. Marie Hawkins who resides northeast of Thief River Falls, the last named of whom was present at the wedding of the couple, fifty years ago.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Hauge have suffered ill-strikes in this community who join in extending them congratulations on having reached the fiftieth milestone of their married life.

The stones intended to be used in the making of the monument were kept in the dining room by the bedside, that they might be somethings supposed, but to keep them evenly tampered.

ST. HILAIRE

Erskine Defeats St. Hilaire

The St. Hilaire high school basket ball team opened its season at Erskine last Friday evening and were defeated by the close score 19 to 9.

The game started slowly with both teams playing strong defensively. The only scoring done the first quarter was two free throws made by Gladstad for St. Hilaire and one by Bakey for Erskine. In the second quarter, St. Hilaire held the lead when Captain Hallstrom scored the first field goal of the game and Imes made a free throw. Johnson of Erskine contributed three points to Erskine's total giving St. Hilaire a 5 to 4 lead at the half ended.

The second half opened up with the St. Hilaire team showing superior form and which resulted in four field goals by Imes, from the field point on, to the end of the game Erskine took desperate chances at long range, and managed to make three field goals. The last ending just as the game was over and it gave Erskine the lead for the first time, and also the game by a 19 to 9 score.

The St. Hilaire team started with four new players playing their first game of basketball. Capt. Hallstrom, center, being the only veteran from last years championship team. The showing made by the green material in their first game, shows promise of development into a real team.

Lineup: 14 as follows: St. Hilaire—Halstrom, center, Gladstad, Imes, forwards; Wm. Sanda, guard; Johnson Ness, fiWellen, c; Petersen, Bailey, Helgerson, guards.

HOLIDAYS

For some of us they mean relief—long ago in grade six the first of next week and upon which we should have been working for something, others a means to catch up on work with which we are behind. In still others a chance to earn extra money; and to the largest—those—some of whom may belong to the first or second also, a period for having a good time. But whatever class we belong to we should endeavor to refresh ourselves mentally and physically during a holiday and be ready for a good period of work and pleasure, just as we are now, of course.

JUNIOR PLAYS

It was only four years ago that Lincoln first boasted a Junior class play. Previous to that almost all had been privileged to exhibit their dramatic talent. Now the activities of the school would not be complete without the annual Junior class play, which is as well attended as the senior play.

Last year's play, Seventeen, under the direction of Miss Agnes Tandberg, was the hit of the season, and it is expected that Aid Hunter and Ted Welch Miss Hagne Steenerson to so ably ensemble, will be equally as popular when it is presented tomorrow.

It is to be regretted that freshmen and sophomores do not have an opportunity of dramatizing; since they are not sufficiently grown-up in appearance. To dramatize a play successfully requires not only good material, speaking, and acting talent, but also the will to succeed accompanied by hard work and effort.

SENIOR PARTY

The Senior party, given in the high school gymnasium last Friday evening for the winning side in the recent class-line drive, was enjoyed by all who attended. About twelve couples of mates gathered at eight o'clock to engage in many old-fashioned games, which were accompanied by hearty laughter. Immediately following these were walkies were given by Margaret Bjorkman, Earl Isaacson, and Julius Ericson, while Selmer Severson played and gave an impromptu act of walking on his hands.

Following the entertainment the refreshment committee, served a lunch consisting of fruit salad, cake and coffee.

KEEPING UP WITH THE JANITORS

In Lincoln High we have a certain group of students who seem to be especially anxious in getting the most out of their studies. Every hour each morning they take a stand at the door. As to whether they are appointed this position remains to be seen but still their number increases as the years roll by. Usually when the thermometer is about forty below, and the stars are still shining, they keep their watch. A passerby at this early hour would wonder if this was the correct time of a night school. If these early birds would set the alarm hours, instead of a couple of hours later, fewer frozen, kind to yourself and kind to us and tired pupils would be roaming purchase a 24 Prowler, MM reviews. Print the address of some room. The line is up very neatly. I'm giving you notice that you are a little fly time for yours sincerely fast, so around your girl friend if Chester Myron, business manager, you have an auto take her to school." explained the sales campaign, which is This should remedy it beyond perfect being held this week. Why the campaign is being conducted, and what it means to the students in general were only answered and explained. Upon Chester's appointment, he took the responsibility of financing the Prowler, and he is to be commended for the time and effort he is spending and exerting for the good of the Prowler and the school.

That the assembly was enjoyed was shown by the keen interest and appreciation of the student body.

CLEVER PLAY, FOUR SPEECHES FEATURE MONDAY ASSEMBLY

Prowler Staff Member Present Program to Further Annual Sales

Monday assembly was probably the most student-represented of the assemblies conducted so far this school year. About twelve students took part in the program, which was very well appreciated.

Sarah Birch's witty little play, written for the sales campaign, was greatly enjoyed immensely by the student body. The action of the play was centered around the rivalry which existed between a brother and sister to determine which could sell the greater number of '28 Prowlers. The aim of the play was to encourage the sale of Prowlers, both amongst the alumni and the students, and to sell the Prowlers for their own needs as well as for school honor and spirit. Eugene Lieberman and Leonard Hegland portrayed their parts as the sister and brother in a truly dramatic manner. Ione Aanstad, as the father, exhibited the same fine speaking and acting that she has heretofore. Georgia Williamson, "grandma," kept the assembly in constant laughter with his humorous antics and speaking. Ivar Swanson, Clifford Nesheim and Clifford Wikel portrayed their parts as Prowler salesmen very well indeed.

After the play Harold Will, editor, gave a well prepared and interesting speech concerning the Prowler. He began by telling the purpose of the Prowler from the time it was a little copy, finished in brown paper and having most photography within, to a volume that won first place in its class at the Press conference held last week. Upon completing the historical account, Harold expounded on the structural theme of the Prowler, immediately after which he introduced the Prowler staff.

Harriet Fuller, associate editor, spoke on the humorous part of the Prowler, drawing many good hearty laughs from the student body. The account of the "1930 Romeo-Sheba," a group of young men quite skilled in some art of an amorous nature, aroused the curiosity of all present. Many "chubby" girls looked worried upon hearing about the "Shrinking Violets" (girls dieting or reducing for the sake of beauty). Harriet also said that there would be many cartoons and jokes in the Prowler which would concern the faculty as well as the students.

Lenore Lieberman, associate editor, expounded in her good speech on the meaning of the Prowler. She began by saying, "The Prowler signifies various things to different sections and classes of this school. Further, meanings in varied periods of time. A majority of you at this time, when your dear Prowler meetings announced think that we of the staff are going to save some more fun. But we want you to understand now that, all the making of our annual is fun and some parts of its construction fairly easy, in the words of Roosevelt, Fortune may find a kettle, but your own industry must make it hot!" Continuing Lenore brought out the purpose of the Prowler, so as to show the parents and general public what students have slipped from the cup of knowledge, and to arouse and entertain themselves. After telling of the would wonder if this was the correct pronunciation of the Prowler, when time of a night school. If these early the students would become old and fairly black would set the alarm hours, instead of a couple of hours later, fewer frozen, kind to yourself and kind to us and tired pupils would be roaming purchase a 24 Prowler, MM reviews. Editor Grafton H. S. Paper Named President N. I. P. A.

At the Northern Interscholastic Press association convention of North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Montana high school journalists, held at the university a week ago, Mary Altendorf, editor of the Maroon and Gold, Grafton high school paper, was elected president.

Mary, as editor of the Maroon and Gold, has played an important part in the improvement of the paper from a four-column sheet, irregularly published, to a regular 8l weekly journal. The paper won several honors at the convention including the large sweepstakes loving cup for being the best all-around publication in the association. The cup, presented by Mary Hetherington, Maroon and Gold faculty adviser, for the best publication in a school under 200 students, was also won by the Grafton paper.

BOOKS

I picked up a book whishing to go
To the land where the source of all fairy tales grow.
Then with eyes that sped o'er the printed page
I enjoyed the tales of an earlier age.

It took me to a fairyland
Of elves and gnomes and fairies grand.
It took me to the flowery beds
Where dainty flowers nod their heads.

The elves they were dancing and prancing about,
The fairies, so daintily swung in and out
Between each flower which nodded its head
As page after page of the book I read.

I wish each girl that had time to spare,
Would find some good book and read with care,
For wisdom she'd get and enjoyment, I'm sure
Since books are friends that are good and true.

Getting up in Years.

The small girl was on a visit to her aunt and grandmother.

"Granny," she said, after her aunt had left the room, "how old is Auntie Arabel?"

"I couldn't tell you, dear," answered the old lady, without looking from up in the family Bible."

"Gracious!" gasped the child, "she she old enough to be mentioned in the Bible?"

Whippets Begin Season Against Middle River

The Lincoln High Whippets will open their basketball season Saturday, December 3, when they play Middle River here in the city auditorium.

Both the Lincoln and the Whippets, led by Captain Bounty Ericson have been practicing for the first few weeks in the high school gymnasium and on the auditorium floor preparatory to their opening game with Middle River.

The Middle River team has the reputation of being a fast snappy outfit, as may be seen by their showing in the sub-district contest held here last year. It is expected that they will offer stiff opposition to the local boys in this starter for the Basketball season. Admission prices have not been decided upon, but they will probably be the same as last year.

Gridiron Rink Fails, So Students Skate on River

Lincolnites as well as the public were greatly disappointed over ascertaining of the failure to complete the gridiron skating rink back of the high school. Tuesday's rapid progress had been shown by clearing off the field, but when the flooding operations began, great delay was caused by the water leaking off to the west of the field, which is somewhat lower. Those at work, however, hope to have it completed at the end of the week.

Regardless of the absence of this rink, students have been able to clear off several rinks upon the river, which is a source of much amusement and spent over the vacation days.

WASHINGTON NOTES

The Hi-Light of Washington school doesn't claim to have a second Clara Bow, but nevertheless they are proud of Clara Rambeck, who has written the following poems:

Oh, I love to see the snow
On a wintry, wintry day,
When the sun forgets to shine at night
And it's dark all day.

The snowbird cuddle in their lofty nest
And wait for the wicked wind to rest,

The chickens strut in their coop so warm,
And wonder till they will be out of harm;
And when the pine trees sing merrily,
The wind keeps on as wearily.

And while the children are in the house,
In the cold cellar—there 'is the mouse;
And while the owl is sitting at ease,
You can hear the wind and howl of the trees.

The Thanksgiving Feast

"What are we going to have for Thanksgiving, Mama?"
Asked little Sue very anxious to know.

"Oh," said Mama, "just wait-till-it comes,
Then what we'll have I will show."

"When will dinner be ready, Mama?"
Asked little Jack in eagerly ;
But Mama was busy sweeping up crumbs,
And could answer her boy but meagerly.

When they all were seated at the table white,
And waiting for a piece of pie;
It surely was a wonderful sight,
To see them eat with such a cry.

Whippets Win Over Middle River Five

The Lincoln High Whippets won their first game of the season from the Middle River basketball team by a score of 31 to 27 Friday evening in the high school gymnasium. The game was fast throughout and was featured by the excellent passing of the Lincoln team.

Middle River started the scoring by caging a field goal in the first minute of play. Lincoln soon tied the score and the game was nip and tuck throughout the first half. Lincoln led at the end of the first half by a score of 16 to 14.

Lincoln started the second half with a rush and soon had a safe lead. Middle River made a desperate effort to overcome the lead but failed to do so.

STATE TO SELL MUCH LAND IN THIS SECTION

Pennington County Credited as Having 5,750 Acres of State Owned Land

OWNERS GIVEN CHANCE TO REDEEM PROPERTY

Sale Just Held During October Did Not Include Any Land in Pennington

Five thousand seven hundred and fifty acres of Pennington county state owned land will be offered for sale by the state, according to the announcement of Sherman C. Bailey, sales manager of the State Auditor. Land departments, who resides in Detroit, Minn. This land is only a small fraction of the state owned land in the northern part of the state. Similar sales of which were held during the month of October just passed.

During that month state owned lands in seven counties brought in $26,064 to the state and converted 3,200 acres of previously delinquent land into the ownership of almost entirely paying lands that an outsider to Mr. Bailey, after the results of each sale had been summed up.

These sales have nothing to do with the recent forfeiture tax sales, it should be remembered. However, a few parcels of Pennington land that were listed for the spring sale will be withdrawn as a result of the recent sale, he said.

Immediately before the sales, some of the land owners slow in paying their taxes came forward and redeemed their land by the payment of their debt to the state which cancelled a large number of acres from the list of lands to be sold during the October sale.

Several purchases of forties in various northern counties were made outright by Bailey, he said had been very successful in finding clever and skillful farmers for their cutlie, and growing a few potatoes.

Sales in October

In Clearwater county, 12 forties were sold for $3,182; 37 forties were withdrawn from the list and withheld from sale in Clearwater county at last month. Ten forties were sold in Hubbard county for $1,360; seven forties were sold in Koochiching for $2,440; 20 in St. Louis for $5,842; 21 in Aitkin for $5,342; 2 each in Itasca and Beltrami counties for $1,600 and $1,700 respectively.

"The sale last month was greater than in October of 1926," Mr. Bailey said, "and it was probably the best sale we've had in the correspondence month for five years in the number of inquiries from the Dakotas, Illinois, Iowa, and this state, were taken into consideration.

Spring May Hated

"May 1, Chase, state auditor, has always given instructions to permit land owners to have all the time they want to meet their payments, and this assistance is expected to result in a larger number of the 194,000 acres from the list of state lands which are slated to be sold in Roseau, Marshall, Kittson, Norman, Polk and Pennington counties early next spring. In Roseau county alone there are 115,000 acres that are now booked for appraisement in preparation for the sale in the spring.

"Possibly one-third of this tremendous Roseau county acreage, which is in itself about one-sixth of the county, will be held from the spring sale by late payments of interest."

5,760 Acres in Pennington

In Marshall county there are 33,120 acres to be sold in this sale, from Kittson county, 24,480 acres; Norman county, 8,320 acres; Polk county, 11,200 acres; Pennington county, 5,760 acres.

State Auditor Ray P. Chase has made arrangements to have Mr. Bailey notify owners of pieces of property so that everything will be in shape for the spring sale.

"I am always glad to give any information that I can from my files," Mr. Bailey answered when the manner in which these sales are conducted or advertised was questioned as to what might desire to know. Mr. Bailey said.

Teachers Favor Continued Efforts Along Same Line Same Week Next Year

The consensus of opinion of the teachers in the various various sections into which the school districts of Pennington county is divided under the Teachers' Progressive league organization, is that the observance of Education Week be continued next year, the teachers having absorbed valuable information as well as the pupils in their care. All of the seventeen sections have reported to County Supt. of Schools Geo. M. Gunderson with the exception of sections four and 17. However, in five sections no sections meetings were held, while in one other section only one school observed the week, the inclement weather having much to do with the non-observance. The total attendance at these meetings was placed at 853.

Much Good Accomplished

One teacher expressed herself as follows: "The observance in the following language: it gave the people an idea of how they could continue their education in the homes it served as a good get-together project. Another teacher said that the parents become more enthused in the schools, the teacher reported; it gave us all a better realization of what education means to all, and of what it can do; it drew a social gathering also and brought together the four communities comprising the section. The people who came were really interested in the meetings and many more only the meeting brought out how much education is to the people." Were other reports of those in charge, in which it is declared the week held for the teachers were busy preparing programs for their respective districts, preferred to postpone the observance till after the first of the year. However, the teachers, one believe they made a mistake and should be observed in the nation wide movement. The five districts in section 12 held individual programs in their respective schools, following the program announced for each day, certain topics therefor having been suggested. The scholars wrote compositions on the subjects and these were displayed on the walls, and have been quite interesting to visitors since then.

Thanksgiving Day Fall Fractures Hip of Aged Rosewood Pioneer Woman

Inrid Nordhagen, aged 76, one of the pioneer residents of Rosewood, slipped Thanksgiving day on the steps of her home while carrying coal, back by fracturing her hip. Her calls for help were heard by a railroad worker who assisted her into the house and called Dr. C. F. Melby. The hip was set, but owing to her advanced age, Dr. Melby fears the patient will be bed-ridden for six months. She will remain at her home under medical care, as it is not advisable to remove her to a hospital.

Mrs. Nordhagen, together with her husband, were pioneer homesteaders near Rosewood. On the death of Mr. Nordhagen in 1919, Mrs. Nordhagen removed to that village, where she has been living alone ever since. There are no children or other close relatives.

SEVERE BLIZZARD RAGED SOUTH AND WEST OF HERE

Train Service on Various Rail Roads Suffered as Result of Wind and Snow

Train service north and south thru here on the Soo Line, which has been tied up more than two-by-four hours due to a freight train being stalled in drifts south of Glenwood, will be resumed tonight according to local officials. Weather forecasts for this section state that cold will continue another two days with temperatures from 15 to 25 below, moderating slightly Friday.

While we have experienced some rather cold weather, Thief River Falls for the past week, yet this section has been better off than in other places, the coldest recorded here up to last night so far this year according to L. M. Rayson, weather observer. Ten below zero was the minimum mark reported by the local weather bureau during the week, while the highest mercury registered was 26 below, this being two degrees lower than the maximum for the week. Dec. 1 a year ago. The minimum 28 degrees lower than the coldest mercury up

Thief River Falls Couple Celebrate Anniversary of Golden Wedding on Friday

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Malin were the guests of honor at their golden wedding anniversary celebration at the Malin home, 615 Arnold Ave. on last Friday, Dec. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Malin came from Sweden in 1882 and made their home at Black River. In 1903 they moved from the farm to their comfortable home on Arnold avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Malin have three sons, Richard, Alex, and Henry Malin, who are on the old homestead at Black River, all of whom were present with their wives at the celebration; they also have one son, Arthur, and daughter, Mrs. Anton, who live in Canada, who were unable to be present. Other guests were Rev. and Mrs. Axel Nilsson and John Johansen of this city. August Johnson, who attended the wedding in Sweden fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Melanstrom of St. Hilaire, Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Forsberg, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carlson and Miss Nina Mallberg all of this city.

After a short program consisting of songs and greetings to the honored couple by Mr. Johanson and Rev. Nilsson, a delicious turkey dinner was served. In remembrance of the day a number of beautiful gifts as well as flowers and greetings were presented to the happy pair. Thus was marked the close of fifty years of happy, active married life.

The custom of wearing orange blossoms in the bridal veil is believed to have originated at the time a French nobleman in the Spanish court bribed the royal gardener's daughter, in love, with a man too poor to marry, to secure for him a small plant of a jealously guarded orange tree for his own garden. Jealoding over the fact that the bribe enabled her to marry, the bride entwined orange blossoms in her hair.

Girls' Club Leader Here Last Saturday

Miss Edna Brown, Girls' club work leader for the extension department of the state university was in the city Saturday, conferring with County Agent Robert M. Douglas relative to the formation of girls' clubs in braidmaking and garment making this winter and next spring.

These projects will shortly receive the attention of Mr. Douglas after a meeting of the county extension service some time this week. Miss Brown was pleased to learn that there is a class in home economics in the high school as it would greatly assist in the formation of a Thief River class. It is also hoped to be able to form clubs in Goodridge, St. Hilaire, and possibly other places.

Motor Truck Receipts Break Record of 1926

Truck receipts broke all records at the South St. Paul market, Nov. 29, when 473 truck loads were brought in over Minnesota highways direct from the farm. The previous record was set on Nov. 30, 1926, when 456 loads were brought in. On Oct. 25 and 26 three were 444 and 440 loads brought in direct from farms to market.

Trucking of live stock has grown to such proportions with the improvement and expansion of the network of trunk highways that the Union Stock Yards company has been forced to expand the loading and unloading facilities repeatedly and during the past summer long cue of autos were kept exclusively for the receipts of trucked in stock.

Clearwater County Is Almost 25 Years Old

It will be 25 years on the last day of this year since Clearwater county was formed, according to the various newspapers of that county, and plans are being formulated by the county association. Quit a few Bagley men met last week to devise ways and means for a Silver Anniversary, the result being the naming of a committee for that purpose. The celebration, according to tentative plans, will be held on Thursday, Dec. 29.

Scramble For Places On Congressional Committee

Representative C. G. Selvig of the ninth district is making every effort to get a place on the house committee on agriculture, according to the Minneapolis Journal. Representative August H. Andersen of the third district is now a member of that committee, which is important to his constituents, and he will not yield his preferred status. There is a possibility that Mr. Selvig will land on the committee on immigration which is being enlarged. This will be helpful because of the large number of Scandinavians in this section of the state, particularly now that an effort is being made to repeal the national origin provision of the immigration law and further restrictive legislation is being considered.

School Board To Meet

The school board of Independent school district No. 18 will hold its regular monthly meeting in the Lincoln high school on Monday evening, Dec. 12.

Main Street Not Safe For Christmas Trees

The State Highway department will follow the rule adopted last year of refusing to grant permits for placing Christmas trees or similar holiday decorations on streets which are designated as trunk highways. In 1926 several serious accidents occurred where community Christmas trees had been placed on streets which carried trunk highway traffic.

The department has no desire to discourage the fullest observance of Yuletide festivities, says the announcement, but it is believed that every town has some more suitable place for a community tree than a heavily traveled street. Many towns have parks which are better locations for a tree than the middle of the street. In other places a side street, close to main street, will serve the purpose well. A side street is also closed to all vehicles and thus insures safety to the children and grownups who gather around the tree.

Spreading Christmas Joy
The joy of giving comes only to those who put themselves into the gift. And to do this, one must enter whole-heartedly into the spirit that is—Christmas. Merry Christmas is more than a passing expression. It means the renewal of family ties; the strengthening of the bonds of friendship, and it means a state of mind—that "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" prevails.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

Christmas is a period of delightful excitement. The preparations making on every side for the social board that is again to unite friends and kindred—the presents of good cheer passing and repassing; those tokens of regard and quickeners of kind feelings—the overgreens distributed about houses and churches; emblems of peace and gladness—all these have the most pleasing effect in producing fond associations, and kindling benevolent sympathies.—Washington Irving.

Many of the stores are now beautifully decorated for Christmas. Unfortunately, however, these decorations are nearly all on the inside, and from the outside the business section of the city has a rather bleak and frozen appearance these cold days. The windows of course present many lively and lovely color combinations, but with the thermometer constantly registering below zero there aren't very many people stopping to admire the effects. Wouldn't it add much to the appearance of the downtown streets if they were decorated in evergreen. This could be done very easily and at comparatively little expense if each merchant would place a Christmas tree in the tubes provided for the regular flag street decorations. And it isn't too early now to hang holly wreaths in the windows of the home or to keep a candle burning in one of the windows during the evening hours. Nothing impresses us quite so much with the "Peace on earth, good will toward men" spirit as a little candle throwing its light, out through a frosted window pane.

"FREE" ADVICE

We received an offer some time ago from an organization which specializes on information on investments, to furnish us free of charge a weekly advice bulletin to be published as a regular feature of the Times. The bulletin is in the form of a question and answer column and the readers of the paper would have the privilege of asking for advice on any bond or stock issues. The offer stated that this service was being given in co-operation with several agencies working for the protection of a gullible public.

For obvious reasons we did not accept the offer. In all probability the advice would be ninety-eight per cent right but it might be ninety-eight percent wrong and we be none the wiser. If we ever get so rich that clipping coupons becomes a part of our daily exercise we may still read the free tips to investors, but for serious consideration we would want our advice to come from responsible sources where we would have some assurance that it was based on reliable information and well seasoned with actual experience. Very often "free" advice is quite expensive.

THE QUESTION OF CO-OPERATIVES

According to an article published in last week's Farmstead, Stock and Home, a war on farmers' co-operative marketing associations of various kinds is being planned on a national scale. The article states that a call for a meeting to be held in Chicago November 30th, was issued by the American Association of Butter Manufacturers, the object of which appeared to be to organize to fight co-operation. "The call for this meeting," says the writer of the article, "is one of the most astonishing documents that I have ever seen. It is an explosion of hate against co-operative marketing and is the result of official action of this huge centralized cotton butter organization."

Action of this kind indicates that co-operative marketing has, to some extent, made itself felt by what might be called the regular marketing organizations. The action probably is not brought about by what has already been accomplished so much as by the fear of what might be accomplished if co-operative marketing continues to develop. Under the present laws co-operative associations have a few privileges not enjoyed by regular business organizations, and there are some reasons to believe that any farm relief measures passed in the near future will be designed to help agriculture by further extending the privileges of co-operative marketing associations. It is perhaps with the view of checking this tendency of the government that the centralizers are organizing for battle.

The history of co-operative marketing is interesting. It is a record of a few successes and many failures. The successes have been beneficial to the farmers. The failures have cost the farmers considerable money. Whether the net result of all the attempts at co-operative marketing in the past is good or bad would be difficult to say. The discouraging thing about co-operative organizations is the lack of co-operation they receive from those whom they are designed to benefit. For instance in this community the farmers' creamery is an outstanding success. Patrons are subjected to no unusual tricks in marketing their cream thru this creamery and are assured the greatest possible returns on their product. And yet there are many farmers in this community who are not selling their product thru this organization which operates solely for their benefit. With such a condition existing in an enterprise which has proven itself worthy of their confidence, it is not strange that many of those projects of doubtful benefit have failed.

In other words the fact of the matter is that many farmers of the country are not co-operative minded. It is said that the farmers of Minnesota have made greater strides in this direction than the farmers of most states. This doesn't speak well for the farmers of the other states, and we very seriously doubt that any attempt at the present time to build a farmers' co-operative marketing organization on a national scale will be successful. Therefore we naturally question the logic of President Coolidge's statement to the effect that the proper remedy for the present plight of agriculture is the further extension of privileges by the government to co-operative marketing associations. It takes quite a few years for a business to get on its feet and any benefits that might be derived from associations formed now would not be felt for a number of years. What agriculture needs in immediate benefits. In the second place broadcasting privileges would probably result in the forming of many more wildcat co-operatives which would merely be an additional burden on agriculture.

The statement by the President that more co-operative organizations would be beneficial, is an admission on his part that the protests of the farmers are not being properly handled by the present marketing organizations. If this is the case why not take steps to remedy the evils that exist with the present methods. Farmers don't want to form marketing associations merely to provide jobs for a few organizers; and if Coolidge and the mighty Andy will eliminate a few of the things that are wrong with the present system they will benefit first the farmers, by sparing them the necessity of gambling in a business they know nothing of, and second, the men who now operate this business, by sparing them unfair competition with a subsidized organization.

FREEDOM OF THE PRESS

The suppression by a court order of two Minneapolis newspapers has aroused some controversy on the question of "Freedom of the Press." The papers in question, the Twin City Reporter and the Saturday Press, have been saying some nasty things about each other and about certain citizens and officials of the city, which resulted in the temporary restraining order issued by the Hennepin County District Court. Until after a hearing on a charge of "nuisance," which is scheduled for December 12, neither paper is allowed to publish or sell any copies.

The Pioneer Press of St. Paul severely censures the action of the Hennepin county officials on the grounds that the law on which their action is based violates the rights of the press as guaranteed by the state constitution. The St. Paul paper holds no brief for the defendants in this particular action, stating that, "it holds those two newspapers in contempt and displays the kind of journalism they represent. But the Pioneer Press cannot forego its own principles merely because it has a low opinion of the newspapers against whom this assault happens to be directed."

The Pioneer Press further explains its position as follows:

"The court has taken this action under a statute passed by the 1925 Legislature, declaring certain kinds of publication to be a nuisance. The law applies, first, to "obscene, lewd and lascivious" newspapers and, second, to "malicious, scandalous and defamatory" newspapers. It permits a judge to issue such an order as Judge Baldwin's "upon such evidence as the court shall deem sufficient." It is not Judge Baldwin's action in this case that is open to criticism but the law of the state.

"If freedom of the press is right, it is right in all cases. If a single judge can suppress the Saturday Press and the Twin City Reporter for three weeks, a single judge can suppress any newspaper in the state. If it lies within the power of Judge Baldwin to declare that the Saturday Press is a "malicious, scandalous and defamatory" newspaper, then it lies within the power of any judge to decide that any newspaper coming under displeasure of the court may be suppressed as "malicious, scandalous and defamatory."

"Not one person defends or condones the publications of malicious, or scandalous, or defamatory matter. But who shall say what constitutes a malicious, scandalous or defamatory newspaper without trial and hearing?

"The state of Minnesota has laws of libel, both civil and criminal, with which to belabor newspapers that are "malicious, scandalous and defamatory." If such remedies are not enough, it should be possible to proceed against them as public nuisances without invoking a weapon of suppression which can be used if desired to vent official vengeance.

"Freedom of the press calls for jealous defense whether it happens to involve some flimsy sheet or the most respected metropolitan daily."

THE BUNK ABOUT MOTHERS
(William Allen White)

Charity workers in every town know of scores of instances where men earn fairly good wages, and where the women in their shiftlessness, laziness, and meanness have put the family in poverty and want.

They can't cook, and they know nothing of taking care of children; they live out of sacks and cans; they eat the streets by day; and go to picture shows at night; they sew, and they won't clean up the children.

They haven't the character to make the children mind, and they are the thriftless and idle-minded to keep the house much better than a pigsty.

A mother is the only thing alive* only when she is the embodiment of intelligent, consecrated love.

When she is merely a breed animal, when she is either a slattern if she is poor, or a gadabout and a bridge fiend if she is rich, she deserves no more credit for being a mother than she does for having warts or a high instep.

The cult about motherhood being so holy a function has fostered a lot of feel females in their folly.

And the blessed time is coming when the soft pedals are going to be taken off motherhood and put on womanhood plus horse sense.

I am in favor of a strict law which will prevent men with communicable diseases from marrying and breeding fool and vice into their generations.

But along with that law should be a companion law which will prevent issuing a marriage license to—

A woman who can't cook.
Can't keep house.
Can't clean up children's dirty noses and necks.
And can't pass a decent examination on the feeding and care of infants.

When women know something about what they are going into, as married women—whether they are rich or poor—there will be more in the sacredness of motherhood than the pats ever have sung about.

Now civilization has taken women from the home; it has put them in stores and offices and shops and factories.

But it must be learned, and the sooner the law cracks down on fool girls who go into matrimony cubed in ignorance and breed fool children who raise hell in the world, the better will this old world be.

When an aeronaut was sent to a zoo in Philadelphia to record the reactions of the animals to jazz, Pootre, a twelve-year-old Asiatic elephant, blew a trunkful of water over the members.

The Reverend James Allen, a missionary, has written a 400-page Bible in the Bobuke language. This is the first written work in this language as the Bakubas had their spoken language but no form of written word until Mr. Allen began his task.

"Trees slightly damaged by field mice will usually recover soon if the injured parts are completely covered by mounding up soil around the base so, or if paper or other material is used to prevent the wounds from drying out. When the injury is severe or the trees are entirely girdled, bridge-grafting should be resorted to.

"As a broad conclusion," says W. B. Greeley, chief of the Forest Service in the U. S. Department of Agriculture, "the Forest Service has tremendous faith in the commercial promise of timber growing to American landowners. The law of supply and demand is working steadily to create timber values which in large portions of the United States will pay fair returns on Forestry as a business. The economic history of other countries which have passed through a cycle of virgin forest depletion similar to that which the United States is now traversing points to the inevitable conclusion. The timing is fast approaching when forestry alone, will supply the enormous quantities of wood demanded by American markets."

Minnesota Butter Output Shows Remarkable Gain Says U. S. Dairy Chief

Regardless of the fact that southern states have shown a remarkable increase in buttermaking in the past 20 years, Minnesota still produces three and one-half times as much butter as the southern states. This state also produces twice as much as the northeastern states produced 20 years ago and more than seven times as much as all other states produce, according to Dr. C. W. Larson, Washington, Chief of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

"Those concerned with our tremendously growing butter industry," said Dr. Larson, "cannot fail to observe the remarkable changes which have taken place in the creamery butter business in recent years."

"The demand for fluid milk and cream in the rapidly growing centers of the East now requires the entire output of the dairies surrounding the same. Large cities, and gradually the creamery business is disappearing in those sections. Transportation and improved sanitation are affecting the milk supplies of distant creamery centers. Our population is growing rapidly and all this has come in a period when our butter manufacture has rapidly shifted from the farm to factory system."

Lodges and Their Names

A writer in the Nation has collected some astonishing particulars of American fraternal secret societies. He reports that their membership exceeds 20 millions. They have names adapted to the ante at kingdom in their search for titles. There are Orders of Bears, Beavers, Elks, Geese, Buffaloes, Bisons, Camels, Coatimundi, Deers, Dogs, Eagles (first and second), Elks, Foxes, Goats, Orioles, Hawks, Larks, Lions, Monkeys, Moose, Mules, Orioles, Owls, Red Roosters, Reindeer, Sequoias, Shrimps, Storks, Swans, Western Bees, White Rabbits and White Shrine.

It is mentioned that the order of the Elks would have been the Moose if it were of its founders had been left for vetoed in nature here. They rejected their name from a large moose head in Barnum's museum, which some of the members mistook for that of an elk.

Martin Van Buren, born at Kinderhook, N. Y., December 5, 1782, was the fourth president born under the American flag.

SERVE NUTS AFTER CHRISTMAS DINNER

FROM the days of our venerable forefathers it has been the custom to close our holiday dinners with nuts. Not only do they balance the more cloying sweetness of plum pudding and iced cakes and after-dinner bon-bons, but they represent in themselves the observance of the pleasant art of eating.

Many of us have seen on the shelves of confectioners and high-class grocery stores jars and boxes and cans of salted nuts, plump, brown and inviting. We have inquired the price, of even dared to ask timidly for a very small quantity. They were deliciously, it's true, but prohibitive in price for the ordinary family.

Happily one can be salted and spiced just as well at home, and those best adapted for this use—peanuts and almonds—are not fabulously expensive, bought in quantity and in condition for home treatment.

In purchasing nuts, however, whether shelled or in their shells, insist on being allowed to make sure that they are sound. Rotten kernels and imperfections. Aweitain as well as you can that whether they are really fresh, otherwise your labor will be in vain. If peanuts are a favorite in the family, it is best to buy your supply already shelled, for they are difficult to remove. Peanuts bought for home use should be raw. To blanch your ball dry bulk, place them in a pan and pour boiling water over them, allowing them to remain in it for two minutes. Then the water is drained away and cold water is run over them until they are cool. The skins should then slip off readily. When they are removed the should be dried with a towel. Occasionally nuts, such as filberts and Brazil nuts, part with their skins rather unwillingly. They will have to take a hot bath of three to five minutes' duration before their coats will come off.

Four "home-made" nuts may be browned at the top of the stove, in the oven or in deep fat, as is most convenient. Previous, however, has proved that the latter method is by far the most uniformly satisfactory. Mixed vegetable fat or olive oil is necessary for browning. It must be put in a deep kettle and brought to a heat of 360 degrees. To insure success, a deep fat thermometer should be used. The nuts, thoroughly dry by now, are placed evenly in a layer in the bottom of a frying basket and immersed in the hot fat to fry for two minutes. When a delicate brown they must be removed immediately and placed on a sheet of brown paper or toweling to drain. They should be sprinkled with plenty of table salt and spread out to grow dry and crisp before serving.

If you prefer even browning to the above method, throw your blanched nuts in a shallow pan containing fat, put in a 250 degree oven and roast the nuts until delicately brown, stirring them often. For browning on top of the stove a tablespoonful of fat oil is allowed to each cup of nuts. They are distributed evenly over the surface of the pan and fried with constant stirring until they are the right color.

When your nuts are browned you may make a mixture of three-fourths of a teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful each of cayenne, mace and allspice to each cupful of nuts and sprinkle it's spicy mixture freely over them. Toss it. Sweet.

Africa, China, India and Japan are the principal peanut growing countries besides the United States.

MERRY CHRISTMAS... AT THE POOR FARM

MRS. BRIGGS sat at the window looking out at the snow. Mrs. Penn was sitting in the opposite window.

"Mrs. Penn," said Mrs. Briggs, "did you happen to have a turkey for Christmas?"

Mrs. Penn sighed. "Yes, we always had a fine one, an' I'm used to my turkey on earth could roast a turkey better or make better stuffin' than I could. We always had it here, too.

"So did we," said Mrs. Briggs, "till Nancy died. Then we got sister one of the nations. Christmas didn't see but without a chick or a child to it for."

"I'm glad you had to some Mrs. Murphy, "there's one comfort about bein' poor. You don't have to make Christmas for nobody."

"I got a red petticoat—it's the frill," said Mrs. Briggs. "I could make him some mittens."

"Indeed," said Mrs. Murphy, "Who wouldn't be pleased with red mittens! Now you be thinkin' an I'll come back."

In about twenty minutes she returned bearing some odds and ends.

"I thought we'd let them together an' have a tree. Old Mr. Gates is dyin' an' he's got candles on the tree, candles at the tin clair stores."

Mrs. Penn put a big pair of mittens and a horn," cried Mrs. Penn; "I got twenty cents."

"Good," said Mrs. Murphy. "An' here is four ears of popcorn the gardener just give me. Miss Penn, you pop an' we'll string it for the tree."

The next night Mrs. Briggs and Mrs. Penn were sitting at their accustomed windows.

"I've sent Hud the mittens," said Mrs. Briggs.

"Mine as well as he did the hats and marbles I spelled Mrs. Penn generously.

"I wasn't it Digest to have of Mr. Hogan with his white whiskers for Santa Claus?"

"An' have you rung the dinner bell an' said 'Whoa!, you reindeers,' I could have died a laffin'."

"An' wasn't the tree pretty?"

"And wasn't he sweet when he said 'Merry Christmas'"—Jane Burr.

BETTER-LATE-THAN-NEVER XMAS GIFT

EVERY other Easter in Grant Street received some sort of Christmas remembrance from their children, but one year a belated message that drifted through the transom of Ike Hasbrock home to the ears of Ike and Mrs. Hasbrock was the latter. "I've tried so hard to please them all my life, and now—now, but I guess I'm just a dismal failure."

True enough, the girls of the graduating class of the high school thought to break Miss Hasbrock, their teacher, of being strict with them, they would see that she received no Christmas present. They had gotten it into their dear heads that Miss Hasbrock was their enemy, but now—Dorothy and Grace had discovered that Miss Hasbrock was only human and that—well, it couldn't be possible—she loved them.

Almost two o'clock, the Hasbrock sisters were startled by the peal of their doorbell. Most every student of the graduating class of Grant school was there on the little porch. "We thought we would do something different this year," they chimed when she opened the door. They had brought along a gay tree, all decorated and a whole shower of nice presents. Perhaps there were last minute presents, but Miss Hasbrock didn't know that, and since the children were sorry for the way they had misjudged her and she was so happy, what did it matter?—L. H. Lyons.

The Ladies aid will hold their annual supper next Tuesday afternoon. There will be a covered supper at 6:30 p. m. Sunday evening and will hold their annual business meeting with this meeting. The program is unable to arrive in time for it to be sent here, and will be given at a later date.

About two o'clock, the Matlocks sisters were startled by the peal of their doorbell. Most every student of the graduating class of Grant school was there on the little porch. "We thought we would do something different this year," they chimed when she opened the door. They had brought along a gay tree, all decorated and a whole shower of nice presents. Perhaps there were last minute presents, but Miss Matlocks didn't know that, and since the children were sorry for the way they had misjudged her and she was so happy, what did it matter?—L. H. Lyons.

GREATER USE WAS MADE OF THE LIBRARY

November Showed Renewed Interest in Institution by Young and Old

BOOKS OF FICTION AGAIN IN FAR GREATER DEMAND

Books in New Traveling Library Include Many Popular Volumes of Present Day

A more general use of the Carnegie library in Thief River Falls is apparent from the report of the librarian, Miss Hazel Ireland, for the month of November which shows that 32 new book borrowers were added to the lists during that month, 16 of them being adults and 13 juveniles. The reading room attendance was also up an average of 100 daily, there having been 2,925 in that department in 30 days.

Fiction was in nearly twice as great demand as non-fiction, 1,779 volumes of the former having been borrowed in November while only 918 non-fiction volumes were taken out. Adult book borrowers in fiction greatly outnumbered the juveniles, the two classes standing: books as follows: adults, 1,296, and juveniles, 474. However, when it comes to non-fiction the juveniles were in predominance, they having borrowed 624 volumes to 726 taken by adults.

Many Juvenile Patrons

A further analysis of the borrowers show that there were nearly as many book borrowers among the juveniles as there were adults, the respective numbers being 1,222 and 1,474. Total borrowings in the past month reached 2,707, which was also close to 100 a day.

A new traveling library has been received at the Carnegie library, and quite a number of books found to be in greater demand are included in the shipment, which contains the following books:

New traveling library

mas Seal history was given by Miss Gladys Blair, school nurse, who stated that the penney stamps are now generally sold throuout the city, as well as the entire world, originated in Denmark in 1904. From a simple start, the stamp has gradually spread to other countries, till at last it was adopted in its present form by all of the countries of the world.

Pennington County Activity

The sale of these seals in Pennington county in 1925 totalled $1854.15, while last year it was up to $1959.79, Miss Blair related, the per capita rate being recorded as a little over 3 cents in the county, which ranks thirty-second in the state, the highest per capita being nine cents. As the result of sale here 1,214 health posters were awarded those showing the greatest activity therein, while 416 more seals were also allotted to the county workers, as were also 30 first aid kits.

Out of the receipts from the sale of the Christmas seals in this county last year was paid the cost of the present orthopedic clinic held in Thief River Falls for northwestern Minnesota counties at which over 120 tots were given free medical benefits and which if followed will do much to improve physical imperfections of those whose ailments are not permanent Miss Blair also stated that 700 subscriptions to the Health Journal also were made possible.

At the conclusion of the evening program a dainty lunch was served in the school kitchen by Miss Anna Cook, Sig Matson, Victor Roharge and Herbert Strandell, while a number of general sociability for quite a while, during which many of those present met Dr. Lockeu and compliented him on his talk.

THIEF RIVER ALSO ASKS TONY REAMER TO GO ELSEWHERE

Tony Reamer, who recently was arrested at Warroad on a charge preferred by his wife, and who two years ago was charged with murder in the Northwest Angle country, was in Thief River Falls last week, but did not remain long here after his presence was discovered. His wife had charged him with living with another woman, and after a preliminary hearing before Roseau county officials Tony was admonished to move on and not come back to that country.

Wife's Charges Not Dropped

It is state that he followed the woman to this city, and when his presence was discovered the authorities at Roseau were communicated with, the result being that they advised requesting him to leave the woman alone and to move on to other parts, or the charge against him up north would be pressed.

Following receipt of this word at the office of Chief of Police A. W. Erickson, Tony was told to leave this city, which he promptly did, taking the bus bound for Grand Forks last night, presumably to Polk county as a traveling salesman.

Tessum Company Receive 87,730 Pounds of Sweet Clover Seed in Carload

Medity was made in The Times last week of a large car of sweet clover seed being transported south over the Great Northern railway lines, but the Tessum Company of this city has now received a final Plummer over the Soo road a car that contained 817 bags of sweet clover seed.

This large shipment—possibly the largest ever handled in the city—contained 87,730 pounds, and the car in which it was brought here was one of the largest of the Soo Lines.

4 CARIBOU SEEN NEAR RED LAKE

Four caribou were seen by a road patrolman north of the Red Lake early this week, David Bane of Bemidji, district superintendent for the state highway department, reported to F. J. Gould, state game and fish commissioner. Two cows and two calves comprising the herd which was moving west eight miles north of the lake, he said. Some years ago caribou cows used to spend the summer near the head of the Black river in Koochiching county and these seem are believed to be survivors of the old herd which was large.

STATE TREASURY REPORTS $13,078,370 ON HAND

The state treasury had a balance of $13,078,370 at the start of business Dec. 1, Julius A. Schmahl, state Treasurer, announced.

This compares with a balance of $14,702,542 at the close of business October 31, Since that time payments of school aid have been made, Mr. Schmahl said that the present balance is considerably more than the same date during the past several years.

MRS. BRANDT DIES

Funeral services were held Saturday afternoon for Mrs. Laura Brandt who died at her home near the Scroundstone Hall Thursday at the age of 70 years. Deceased was preceded in death by her husband, Herman Brandt, who passed away in June, 1926. Four brothers are left to mourn her passing, John, August, Oswald and Constantine Hoffman, all of Thief River Falls. Rev. H. E. Schroeder officiated at the funeral services which were held at the home. Interment was made in Greenwood cemetery.

Provincial Government Takes Over Piney Road

Word has been received in this city that the Provincial government in Manitoba has taken over the highway between Winnipeg and the Minnesota boundary, passing thru Piney, and will maintain it as a trunk highway in the future, the same as the Minnesota state highway department is caring for the trunk roads of this state.

Those in charge of the work, according to the letter from A. C. Emmett, will push the work on that particular piece of road this coming season so that it will be in first class shape by the close of the year, thus making it an all weather road.

'I Can't Afford Christmas Gifts This Year"

"I can't afford Christmas gifts this year." How often we hear it as we hurry thru the crowded streets, and how sad and untrue it is after all.

People who can't afford Christmas are indeed bankrupt—bereft of the only things that make Life worthwhile, kindliness of heart, happy unselfish thoughts and tender dreams. After all, just what is a Christmas gift? Is it something—any sort of thing—wrapped up in tissue and broad red ribbon? You can remove the price tag from such a gift, but you cannot hide the poverty of heart that is responsible for it.

Can't afford Christmas! Ah! Don't say it. Let your gift be only a simple nosegay, a gay, painted toy or a cheery greeting. Make it as simple or as expensive as you will, but give.

"The gift without the giver is bare." It is an old rule, but it has stood the test of years. Don't forget it this Christmas.

TURKEYS FROM HERE ARE HIGHLY PRIZED IN NEW YORK CITY

Turkeys shipped a year ago from this city to eastern markets are now selling there at top prices, according to Herbert Fuller, who the other day was so informed by a commission man from the Twin Cities, who happened to be in this vicinity. The commission man had been down to New York City and went thru one of the large cold storage turkeys, all bearing the label Thief River Falls Minn., Co-operative Poultry association. These were only a few of the many barrels so stored, but, as he stated, it shows that the poultry from this city is considered good enough to carry over a whole year.

Fuller, turkey buyers should not delay too long in disposing of their turkeys intended for the Christmas and New Year dinners. Christmas is only a little over two weeks away, and the best time to ship is before Dec. 15, as by that time the turkeys reaching the eastern market in sufficient time to be sold at what will be considered top prices.

Turkey Receipts Gaining

Already there has been a notable increase in receipts, but the various shippers all suggest that there is as little delay as possible in bringing in the poultry. Thief River Falls last year perhaps handled more turkeys than any other point in the country, and residents are especially anxious to see this situation continued in the future, the coming year.

The colder weather prevailing in the northwest for the past few weeks has done much to help in fattening the late birds, according to local buyers.

Christmas Tree Loads Cause Several Accidents

Several complaints that trucks carrying Christmas trees are loaded so that trees project and damage or endanger passing vehicles and their occupants, have reached the State Highway department during the past week. Some cases have been reported where the projecting trees have broken the glass on vehicles meeting the truck, and several instances have been reported where other vehicles have been forced into the ditch.

The highway department lacks authority to enforce the provisions of the traffic law relating to the size of loads, but many local officials are taking steps to enforce the law and prosecute violators. The law fixes eight feet as the maximum width of a vehicle with load. Exception was made in the case of certain farm machinery, so that hay and grain stalks, but Christmas trees do not seem under any of the excepted cases and the width of the load should in no case exceed eight feet.

Hamlet had 1,569 lines to speak, the largest of any of Shakespeare's characters.

Farmer at Elbow Lake Finds Baby Chicks in Hay Mow Thanksgiving

Turkey has become the accepted fowl's favorites for Thanksgiving, but when Ole Ellingson on the K. E. Skelton farm near Elbow Lake went up into the hay mow Thanksgiving day and pulled a hen from a nest of her own choosing, he found that something different in the way of Thanksgiving fowl had come to his place. In the nest were eight newly hatched baby chicks. It is a trifle late or perhaps early for baby chicks, but they have lived up a nest for them and hope to have early spring broilers.

Minnesota Butter Output Shows Remarkable Gain Says U. S. Dairy Chief

Regardless of the fact that 1927 southern states have shown a remarkable increase in buttermaking in the past 20 years, Minnesota now is, and for over a half century has been much butter as the southern states. The states also produces twice as much as the northeastern states produced 20 years ago, and more than seven times as much as all those states produce, according to B. H. Larson, Washington, chief of the bureau of dairy industry, United States Department of Agriculture.

"Those concerned with our tremendous dairy butter industry," said Mr. Larson, "cannot fail to observe the remarkable changes which have taken place in the creamery butter business in recent years."

"Changes in the feed and cream in the rapidly growing centers of the East have required the entire output of the dairies surrounding the large cities, and gradually the creamery business is disappearing in those sections. Transportation and improved sanitation are also affecting milk supplies of distant creamery centers. Our population is growing rapidly and all this has come to a period when our butter manufacture has rapidly shifted from the farm to factory system."

Carbon Monoxide Nearly Claims Two More Young Men While Driving Truck

Mention was made in these columns two weeks ago of two different auto truck cabs becoming so filled with carbon monoxide that the men in each truck were nearly killed as the result of breathing the death gas. Similar tragedies were both in this part of the state.

The same thing happened to two young men at Sanborn last week when they were making a trip in a truck and stopped at a filling station to get gas and oil, and in stepping from the cab to the ground find one of their number lying on the ground. Both of them had fell the effects of the exhaust pipe. Neither of the young men had felt the effects of the gas till they fortunately stopped and stepped outside the car.

Poultry Raisers of Todd County Find Peat Better Than Straw as a Litter

The use of peat for poultry purposes was suggested in recent issues of The Times, wherein it was told of possible large shipments in the future to how poultry raisers, some of whom have been trying it out this fall in a small way.

Poultry raisers in Minnesota were quick to see the possible saving in the cost of caring for chickens by the use of peat from their own farms when it was found, following the wide publicity given the use of peat by poultry raisers of Douglas county near Long Prairie, according to The Dodge of that city. Mrs. A. C. Hayes, one of the leading poultry raisers of Todd county, was interviewed by a reporter for the paper, the reporter telling about it in the following manner:

I noticed that she was using dried peat for litter in her poultry house. She said she liked it very much. I find that many of our poultry raisers even in the county are using peat this year, and they seem to like it well, so that they think it simply cannot be beat. I know from experience that it is very good in the poultry house. I have it in all my poultry houses. It is very clean and easy to handle and it can be dug on most any farm without much expense. Only three or four inches of litter is used in the winter. It is way ahead of straw or any other kind of litter. It also makes a better fertiliser than straw when distributed back on the land.

MINNESOTA FARM BUREAU AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

Sending the largest delegation in its history to a national convention, the Minnesota Farm Bureau federation party, representing practically every county in the state, left the Twin Cities for Chicago, Saturday night and Sunday night, to attend the ninth annual convention of the American Farm Bureau federation, which was in session at the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec. 5, 6 and 7.

A. J. Glove, of Renville, and G. W. Peterson, of Goodhue, represented Minnesota on the floor of the convention as voting delegates.

President J. F. Reed and Executive Secretary J. S. Jones of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, with a party of more than fifty other members, were in attendance at all sessions of the big convention.

STATE TESTS PEAT AND MINERAL SOIL FOR TRUCK GARDENS

Agriculturists Aim to Determine Crops Best Suited to Conditions

Farmers and truck gardeners of this section will undoubtedly be pleased to learn that the state is to undertake this division of horticulture of the department of agriculture, is making headway in its efforts to standardize truck, having started on experiments not only on mineral soils but on peat lands as well.

How this is being done was recently told to a group of Minnesota's vegetable growers in a conference at the university farm. The aim is to find out just what soils are best suited to vegetables are best adapted to Minnesota.

Will Save Much Money

Once this is found out in the case of any vegetable, truck gardeners and those growing vegetables for the canneries will be saved much money, as contended by attempting to grow vegetables on soils not conditioned or suited to running.

Several years ago the department of agriculture of the university, with the aid of others, succeeded in establishing standards and varieties of potatoes which are adapted to conditions in different parts of the state. The growing of these varieties is now almost universal, and has helped to make Minnesota potatoes what they are today. The same kind of thing is to be done with other vegetable, except that the standards have not as yet been established. The same kind of thing is to be done with other vegetable, except that the standards have not as yet been established. At the conference of truck growers, held on the university farm, Dr. H. A. Kramer in charge of the work with vegetables, outlined the history of the work.

Medity was made in The Times last week of a large car of sweet clover seed being transported south over the Great Northern railway lines, but the Tessum Company of this city has now received a final Plummer over the Soo road a car that contained 817 bags of sweet clover seed.

This large shipment—possibly the largest ever handled in the city—contained 87,730 pounds, and the car in which it was brought here was one of the largest of the Soo Lines.

AUTO TAX LICENSES YIELD $10,181,541 FOR 11 MONTHS

Receipts of motor vehicle license for the first 11 months of 1927 total $10,181,541, compared with $9,084,367 for the entire year of 1926, Mike Holm, secretary of state, announced Friday.

A total of 649,942 vehicles have been registered this year while during the 12 months of 1926, 637,691 were licensed.

A series of 52 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON VII.

CREAM COOLING TANK: Cream raisers that have the most cream cooling tanks in use among the patrons receive the most Sweet Cream for making the highest quality butter.

A cream cooling tank may be bought for $10 to $12, or it may be made at home. The cooling tank may be made out of a barrel for a small herd. It should be large enough to hold at least one large and one small cream can, as the fresh cream should always be kept separate until it is thoroughly cooled.

The cream cooling tank is set up well and the water pumped directly into it and then piped on to the stock tank so that all the water flows through the cooler. A small hose should be built over it to help keep out the heat in summer and the cold in winter. Properly installed, with flax straw it will not freeze in the coldest weather. Cream should be kept in cold water in winter as well as summer, so it will cool quickly and keep from freezing.

Your cooperative creamery can supply pamphlets on cream coolers and the care of cream so that Sweet Cream of fine flavor can always be delivered.

Mayor Prichard Urges Support of Christmas Seal Sale

Mayor W. W. Prichard, Jr., yesterday issued a proclamation endorsing the annual sale of Christmas seals, sponsored by the Pennington County Public Health association, the Minnesota State Public Health Association and the National Anti-Tuberculosis Association, to finance work to defeat the flood of white plague and all in other health work. It is proclaimed by Mayor Prichard as follows:

"In calling the attention of our people to the Twentieth annual Christmas seal sale to raise funds for health and anti-tuberculosis work, I wish to give my hearty endorsement to the movement. There is no cause which has made as small demands on the individual citizens and which has made as great returns. A penny, a dime, a quarter or a dollar from each of us according to our means has supported a campaign which has cut the number of tuberculosis deaths in half, has saved hundreds of lives—perhaps those of people dear to us. Let us buy the life-saving little stamps as generously as possible and use them on all our mail—thus publicizing to the nation that our community is back of the tuberculosis fight."

EASTERN MARSHALL WESTERN BELTRAMI FEARFUL OF FLOOD

Congressman Selvig Appealed to for Protection From Annual Recurrences

A meeting of farmers from the extern part of Marshall county was held at Holt last week, at which the flood water situation of eastern Marshall and western Beltrami counties along the county line was discussed.

The meeting was called by the Holt Commercial club which has started a movement for federal aid for the area affected by flood waters in the eastern part of Marshall county. It is the contention of the settlers in that section that the Thief River is too small, and that it also does not have the sufficient fall, to take care of all the flood waters that accumulate in the Moulake and Thief lake basins in wet seasons, and which have no other outlet than the Thief river.

Selvig Appealed To

A committee was organized to handle the matter, Lars Hanson, the elected chairman, R. B. Palmer secretary, and several others were named as members of the committee who drew up a resolution which they sent to Congressman Selvig, asking that he will assist the affected district in getting some relief in the matter as soon as possible.

REV. VAINAKER RESIGNS FERGUS FALLS PASTORATE

Rev. S. J. Vainaker, the able pastor in Fergus Falls in point of service and length of pastorate in the First English Lutheran church there, has resigned to accept a position as financial secretary of Augsburg college at Minneapolis. Rev. Vainaker has labored this city several times, and was one of the prominent speakers at the Red River Valley Lutheran Church of America convention held here last summer.

100,000,000 PULLETS NEEDED FOR REPLACEMENTS

On the average, each individual in the United States has approximately three hens working for him in the year round. Of these three, at least one dies or is culled from the flock annually, and there is a demand for more than 100,000,000 pullets to take their places.

Under average conditions, one layer does not produce the same quantity of eggs in each year of production, but will produce decreasing annually each succeeding year. It is important, therefore, to cull the layers from the flock and replace them annually to remove those hens which will not produce profitably the following year. Only in this way can the most profitable producing pullets be kept.

SUPREME COURT ORDERS REFUND OF MOTOR TAX

Auto of Telephone Company Here Is Only Car Effected Locally Thereby

Under a ruling of the state supreme court handed down last Friday one automobile of this city which has heretofore been exempt from the state automobile license tax will in the future bear some other kind of a tax, for the higher court held that the motor vehicle tax is a property tax and the state cannot impose it on concerns paying gross earnings tax which is the next in lieu of all other property assessments. The car in question here is that of the Northwestern Telephone company.

It fell in favor of the American Express company in mandamus proceedings brought against Miles Holm, secretary of state and registrar of motor vehicles, affirming the findings of the Ramsey county district court. Holm's office was ordered to make refunds of motor taxes paid by the company in 1924, 1925 and 1926, answering about $8,000 each year.

The court holds invalid a law passed by the 1927 legislature providing for the taxing of motor vehicles partly on a gross earnings basis. The ruling will affect the vehicles belonging to railroads, telephone companies, sleeping car firms and other lines of business taxed on the ton basis.

1-DAY COURTESY SERVICE TO BE EXTENDED BY EXTENSION

One-day courtesy schools are a new feature of work offered by the university of Minnesota extension division.

Such schools will be conducted once a month for four months in Bemidji, Lake of the Woods, Kodchiching, Itasca and Hubbard counties, it was announced by P. O. Anderson of the extension department.

The classes, which will be for businessmen in the districts, will deal chiefly with planting and caring for windbreaks, home beautification, wood lot management and estimating and distilling farm timber.

Lowly Onion Classed as Leading Truck Crop in the Red River Valley

The Red River Valley onion will be given its inning at the forthcoming Crops Show at Crookston, according to the monthly bulletin of the Northwest School of Agriculture, which states that the lowly onion is the leading commercial truck crop in the entire Red River Valley. This crop is being grown successfully in all parts of the valley, the production, however, being most concentrated in the Western Polk and western Clay counties.

The Red River variety will constitute one class, and for this year all other varieties will compete together in another class. If conditions warrant, the list will be revised another year to include more varieties. Three prizes will be given in each class, namely, $4.00, $2.00, $1.00, per variety entry. In the 1928 show, sections on exhibit should conform to the variety type in shape and color, be sound and solid and uniform in size, quality and condition. Onions should not be peeled. Dry outer scales which hold should be left on the bulbs.

LOCAL POST OFFICE PREPARES FOR BUSH

The former office of the Electric Supply station at the southeast corner of Second and Laflave has been rented by Postmaster Daniel Skow as substation No. 2 for the holiday season, and will be used for the purpose of handling parcels for Thief River Falls, and for delivery in the city.

Postmaster Skow has made plans to improve the facilities for handling outgoing parcel post, the same being installed in the small room at the west left of the entrance to the post office. A clerk will be stationed there the last week before Christmas, who will weigh the parcels and collect the required fee.

CONGRESSIONAL AID FOR NORTHWESTERN COUNTIES

Among $4,000,000 bills introduced in congress on Tuesday, the opening day, was one by Representative Knutson providing an $175,000 appropriation for the construction of drainage ditches on public domain in Beltrami, Marshall, Lake of the Woods counties; also a bill for a $50,000 appropriation for the fish cultural station on the Lake of the Woods.

SUGAR OUTPUT AT EAST GRAND FORKS SHOWS GOOD GAIN

Sugar Content Showed Slight Drop from 1926 Figures of 16.92 Percent

Two hundred and ten thousand sacks of beet sugar were turned out at the East Grand Forks factory during the 1927 fall campaign, which closed about two weeks ago, according to J. R. Bingham, manager of the plant.

This exceeded by 20,000 sacks the record of the last year's run, when 190,000 sacks were produced.

The increase in the number of sacks turned out does not quite keep pace with the increase in the number of beets sliced, due to the slight decrease in the per cent of sugar content in the beets this year, due to unfavorable conditions.

Poor Start Last Spring

These bad conditions which included the late planting start and the excessive drought during the growing season, kept the average yield per acre down to 7 tons this year, a disappointing figure, according to Mr. Bingham. However, all the crops in the valley suffered a similar disappointage, he said.

Fifteen thousand more tons of beets will be sliced at the factory this year than last. There was a total of 85,000 tons sliced this year, as compared with 69,000 tons sliced during the 1926 campaign.

The sugar content of the beets this year was 15.75 per cent, while last year the sugar beets contained 16.92 per cent of sugar. This shows a decrease of 1.18 per cent per beet.

Factory in Good Condition

An increase in acreage by 3525 tons per day caused the campaign to run seven days longer and days shorter than in 1926, in spite of the increased number of beets, Mr. Bingham said. During 1927, 1,175 tons of beets per day were sliced, while the daily average in 1926 was 1,021 tons sliced.

The 1927 campaign was very satisfactory in every way, a rapid speed accomplished and little trouble with machinery, according to Mr. Bingham. The factory started on the 20th of September.

Many improvements and little troubles will be made during the winter months, and in some up on the floor. definite statement can be made on the factory's operations for next year until fill work on this line has progressed further, Mr. Bingham said.

The 1927 campaign of the 1927 campaign was cleaned up Friday, when checks for delivery of beets for October 21 up until the end of the campaign were mailed out to the growers. This was done 20 days early, as the payment was not due until Jan. 20, Mr. Bingham stated.

No Beets Raised Here

Although the acreage of beets raised locally this past season yet several farmers here are hopeful that it will not be long until sufficient acreage can again be secured from this section to warrant contracts with the backers of the East Grand Forks factory. The soil in this immediate section is especially adapted to the raising of sugar beets and the average sugar content here is one close to per cent two years ago, the beets on Warren farm scoring the highest with 6.22 per cent sugar content.

Motorists Are Warned To Dodge Snow Plows

A warning to motorists to watch for snow plows and to use caution in meeting or passing them, was issued this week by the State Highway department. All the larger snow plows have wings or blades extending several feet beyond the side of the truck or tractor by which they are attached or clasped.

The snow plows cannot dodge vehicles, nor can they be put in ditches by the policies they meet. Each one thing it cannot be done quickly enough to avoid a collision, and if it were done, it would leave a pile of snow impassable to traffic.

To make the wings or blades visible, the outer ends, both front and back, are being painted with six inch stripes of black and yellow. Sometimes the yellow is used on the front and the black. The yellow is more clearly visible in the dark than white paint.

For the protection of the motoring public and the snow plow operators, all snow plows carry an abundance of lights, the regular headlamps are supplemented in front, mounted high and slanted downwards. Whats and yellow flood lights are used to illuminate the wings. There are also blue lights, visible from both front and rear, and two red or yellow tail lights. The lights are used wherever it is snowing or foggy, as well as at night.

"4H" SCHOOL AGRARIAN TO HAVE BIG EXTENSION

The Agrarian, the year's yearbook of the Minnesota School of Agriculture at the University Farms, was the best annual to be produced, in 1927, by any university, college or other educational institution in this country having an enrollment of 700 or less, high schools not included. This is the verdict of officials of the Art Crafts Guild of Chicago, organized to promote art and craftsmanship. The prize is a large bronze cup.

The Agrarian for 1927 was published by the senior class of the school and features Minnesota, the Land of 10,000 Lakes. The out-of-doors note is struck on most of its pages. This linking of the school and Minnesota's great out-of-doors was prompted by the fact that students have undertaken to survey many of the lakes as a part of their community betterment work connected with their summer project work. Another impelling reason was the interest that these boys and girls from the farms have in the natural beauty that surrounds them.

BLACK BASS ARE PLANTED IN THE RIVER AT RISEAU

A small shipment of black bass was received from the federal government a week ago by Reseau county, specifically Roseau, and planted in the river above the city.

While the shipment was smaller than anticipated, it is enough to be a fair trial as to whether game fish will thrive in the Roseau river. If it does more fry will be supplied for to be planted in that and other Roseau county streams.

Jump for Their Lives as Auto Goes Thru Ice on Lake of the Woods

Lou Hoger and Edgard McCarerty, both of Warroad, who were saved from death a few weeks ago by a radio message from Fred Peterson to John Gjelhaug of Baudette sent aid to them when their boat froze in the Lake of the Woods, staged another thriller last week.

Three young men ventured out onto the ice of Lake of the Woods in their auto, when suddenly it broke thru the ice, sinking to the bottom of the lake. Both men jumped for their lives into the water, and after climbing on the ice walked fifteen miles back to Warroad.

Mentor Defeats St. Hilaire

The St. Hilaire High School basketball team lost its second game of the season last Friday night when it lost to the Mentor quint by the score of 23-15.

St. Hilaire's green team was entered in the form by not playing their veteran rivals throughout the first half, the latter half of the game showing much improved, and it kept the score down to a close one. They managed to get a field goals and a free throw in the first half, while Mentor managed to get a like number of field goals and the first half ended with St. Hilaire in the lead 7-6.

The first five minutes of the third quarter was a repetition of the first half of 11-8 and at this juncture of the game Mentor started making a little headway, and in a manner up on the floor. Cart. Hellstrom was hit or kicked on the face which made him slightly groggy, and from this point and on, was handicapped to some lack to his own. Up to this time he had outplayed his opponent, but after the end of the game and registered 2 field goals while his opponent had failed in this department of the field. But this time on, Sykes, Mentor center, ran wild and gave Ample support to the forwards in the generous way. This was done 20 days early, as the payment was not due until Jan. 20, Mr. Bingham stated.

Miss Florence Dunn, who has been employed down in Nevada, arrived Tuesday evening for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. Dunn.

James Hanson motored here Thursday from Crookston to attend the funeral of K. O. Gilstad. He returned the same day.

Misses Nanette Erickson, Hazel and Florence Dunn shopped at Thief River Falls Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Kvenne motored here Thursday evening from Middle River to attend the funeral of K. O. Gilstad.

Miss Vivian Landis who has been in Dakota the past summer, returned home Tuesday.

The following motored Friday evening to Thief River Falls to attend the Mentor-St. Hilaire basketball game: Misses Mary Hilaire, Hazel Erickson, Norman Patterson, Gordon Bearman, Norman Olson, Thomas Hoard, Miss Gladys Hoard, Miss Ruth Peterson, Mr and Mrs. Wendell Cox, Mr. Hoard, Mr. and Mrs. Valdez Larsen, Marie de Cathelineau, Bernice Hilaire, Mrs. Ole Hilaire, Mrs. Fred Hudson, Alice Fricker, Sylvia Wallin and Evelyn Wendahl.

Mrs. Vicel Ellstrom came Tuesday from Rushford, Minn., being called by the death of her father, K. O. Gilstad. She returned to Rushford Saturday.

First Aid Instructions Given Phone Employees and Light Dept. Men

William H. Watts, first aid expert for the Northwestern Bell Telephone company, spent last Thursday in this city, conducting a class in first aid and accident prevention, for the employees of the local telephone company, here. The matter of first aid is deemed of such great importance by the Telephone company, that they have adopted a system whereby each employee in a sixteen hour course with a three hour examination at the conclusion of the course. During the past few years considerable time and energy have been expended in order that Telephone employees might be well served in first aid, and in this manner be prepared to handle emergencies which might arise.

Mr. Watts, the instructor, is well versed in first aid work, having taken a course under Capt. Fisher of the American Red Cross, and having conducted classes throughout the Northwestern Bell system during the past few years.

Employees of the City light department were invited to attend these classes, and availed themselves of this opportunity, Thursday morning. Mr. Legvold, superintendent of the light department, realizes the value of a knowledge of first aid in the work of his department. Besides city employees who attended the classes were G. A. Russell, W. E. French, A. M. Langseth, of the Northwestern Bell Tel. Co., and Messrs. Bennett and Luvern Dahlquist of Roseau.

4-H GARDEN CLUB HERE IN 1928 A POSSIBILITY

No attempt was made by Pennington county 4-H club boys to start a corn or garden club work endeavor with the arrival of Robert McDougall, county agent, there may is a possibility that 4-H garden clubs will be organized this coming year.

The All-Falls champion gardener of Minnesota for last year is Stanley Carlson of South Minneapolis, according to Mr. McDougall. Members of the office of the state club leader at University Farms, St. Paul, state that he furnishes the state champion garden seeds with Kenyon Stubbert, Fred Bristol, and Robert Marston the high scoring members of the club. The latter two boys were the first Polk county 4-H club members to win a trip to the state fair.

There were 2,459 boys and girls in garden clubs this year. Members of garden beautification clubs numbered 1,099.

ENROLLMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS IS INCREASING

Boys Outnumber Girls Considerably in Lower Grades But Less Numerous Later on

REGULAR BOARD MEETING WAS HELD MONDAY NIGHT

Treasurer Reports Favorable Progress in Reducing Bonded Indebtedness

Emil Krause was awarded the contract for hauling the 1928 cords of wood to be received by the board of education during the winter, his bid being the lowest of seven opened at the regular monthly meeting of the school board Monday night. He was also given the job of hauling wood from the gifts to the school buildings as needed through the winter.

Graph of Budget Conditions

Supt. Russell submitted the regular monthly report, which also included the report of the school nurse, and presented a graph of the large growth showing the budget for the school year, together with present conditions to date, the graph vividly showing the condition of the books each month and enabling the directors, at all times, to keep within the budget. The graph also showed conditions each month for a table of estimated statement would do.

Bonds Being Retired

Treasurer L. M. Rayson reported favorable progress being made in calling the bonds for retirement in the next few years, which he expected would be fully completed before the close of the present year. He also reported having received the distribution of county funds, which leaves the financial condition of the district in excellent shape for the next few months.

Enrollment Shows Gain

There were 31 more grade pupils enrolled at the end of the second six weeks' period than at the end of the first, the greater number of these being children given ample opportunity to move into the city during this period, the high school showing the same more enrollment than at the time of the first report. Altogether there were 29 more pupils enrolled in the public schools at the end of the first two weeks than at the corresponding time last year. The increase is in the grades where there are 35 more pupils than at the same time last year, while in the high school there are six less enrolled.

Proportion of Boys and Girls

The attendance report of Supt. Ryan also discloses the fact that while the girls in the grades, the proportion being greater in the first than in any of the other grade buildings, with the boys slightly ahead in the Washington there is very little difference, in the Central and the high school the girls are in the lead, this being more pronounced in the high school. The statistics are as follows:

School	Boys	Girls	Total
Knox	147	100	247
Northrop	144	121	265
Washington	94	89	183
Central	89	110	199
High school	173	244	417
Total	647	665	1312

Weight of Pupils Improves

The value of a school nurse and her work among the pupils of the public schools was manifested in the report of Miss Gilday to the board, which stated that out of 362 children weighed during the month, both front and back 556 were found to be of normal weight, there being from 75 per cent of this standard at the close of 12 years in school than at the close of the first six weeks. Three were 20 per cent or ten per cent underweight, and 11 less children of 10 per cent underweight, while 11 more showed improvement in regaining their weight. Fifty less children were reclassed as entirely satisfactory at the six weeks' examination.

Less Scarlet Fever

The decline in the scarlet fever situation was also apparent only ten having been absent at the close of the second six weeks period, while 12 in 17 at the height of the epidemic, indicating that at present there is not any serious danger from the disease.

Minor Defects in Pupils

Individual examinations of pupils as well as classroom inspections revealed quite a few defective children, most of the trouble being with their teeth, while quite a few had poor vision. After parents had been advised of the defects a noted improvement was observed.

TURKEY THIEVES BUSY IN VICINITY OF HOLT

C. Rustad, living south of Holt a short distance, has eleven of his turkeys taken from his farm while he was at Warren one day last week, the children needing medical care. It is believed they were the first turkey stolen in that locality this fall.

MIDDLE RIVER WILL HAVE FIRE DEPARTMENT

WARROAD MAN DIES HERE

Sigfrid Bergman of Warroad died at the Quirin Park sanatorium on Thursday, Dec. 8, having entered the sanatorium less than a week before his death. He was 44 years of age. Remains were sent to Valol Saturday.

Many People Inspect New Model Sedan at Local Ford Garage

Sanden's garage in the rear of the auditorium has been visited by a number of people this forenoon with the new Ford sedan which has also advertised to be on display today.

Favorable comments were made on the new features and the employees were kept busy answering questions, of those who were particularly interested.

The tremendous demand to see the car and the inability of the manufacturers to have a sufficient number of cars shipped in time for when the first showing of the cars was announced created a situation that it was impossible to satisfy everybody, whom, Mr. Sanden, have been obliged to merely show photos of the car until such time as the demonstrating cars are received.

EXPLOSION BURNS WOMAN; SETS FIRE TO T. R. F. HOME

Building and Contents Were Totally Destroyed Before Firemen Arrive

Mrs. Tillie Olson, who for the past year anes coming here from Henriton, was severely burned about the face and hands when fire destroyed the building in which she resided about the noon hour Wednesday, the flames also being responsible for the total destruction of her home and furniture, together with contents, on Tuesday afternoon.

Hands Wet With Gasoline

Mrs. Olson, who is about 60 years old, had been cleaning some clothing in the rear of the building, and entering the kitchen she went immediately to the stove where she was baking bread, intending to put the fire out immediately the fumes from the gasoline burning her hands and setting the grease on fire. Before she could extinguish burns Mrs. Olson was unable to put out the fire which rapidly spread to the entire building.

Fire Makes Clean Sweep

The fire department was called but by the time they had reached the scene of the fire, which was several blocks beyond the most easterly hydrant on Bridge street, the house was completely gutted. Nothing was saved was also burned to the ground, with the exception of a piano.

Mr. Olson had been home for dinner and had just returned to the Soo depot where he was employed, when informed of the fire, being in the employ of the Soo railroad company for a number of years, and is related to a representative of The Times stated that the loss on the property building was insured for $1,000, which was about half of what it would cost to reproduce, while he carried no insurance on his personal property.

Mrs. Olson was taken to the office of Dr. G. E. Melby where she was given medical attention without any delay, and is believed to be well as can be badly scarred, altho the pain is excruciating. She was at home alone at the time the accident occurred, a child of Mr. Olson having gone to school.

Roster Now Complete for Boy Scout Troop, 4 Joining Last Week

Boy Scout troop No. 46 has a full roster, according to Scoutmaster H. W. Froehlich, four new members joining on last Thursday, they being Lloyd Vreeland, Ralph Ashwood, Froseth and John Wang.

Eugene Hess and Charles Prissel have qualified for Merit badges, first aid.

Dr. Froehlich is in receipt of the troop flag, which will be used on various occasions, the troop also having a fine U. S. flag to be used in connection therewith.

Shortly after the holidays it is planned to have a court of honor, which is one of the special occasions of the year, and which always draws a good audience. The next meeting being open to the public at any time Scoutmaster Dr. Froehlich and he or his wish to thank The Times for the free privilege of having a corner in the paper each week.

LIVESTOCK BOARD WILL AID CATTLE BREEDERS

Under an agreement entered into Tuesday between the University of Minnesota and the state livestock sanitary board, the services of personnel members of the university will enable the latter to offer advice to the livestock farmers of the state. A fund of $4,000, $2,000 each, is provided by the university and the other half by the board. It is used to maintain a veterinary staff to carry on its work of diagnosing diseases of livestock in the state, and to hold meetings as need on since 1912 at the expense of the state. The service is also given to such proportions that special diagnostic appropriation was required to finance it. Last year about 21,000 specimens were examined.

AGDER FARMER DIES

Funeral services were held at Bethlehem church Tuesday afternoon, Dec. 13, for William Rude, a farmer, who died last Thursday at the age of 41 years, death being caused by heart trouble. Rev. O. G. Haaland officiated at the services. Interment was made at Bethlehem cemetery. Mr. Rude is survived by one son, Herman, aged 13, his wife having preceded him in death few years ago.

NEW PASTOR AT HOLT WILL BE ORDAINED HERE

Rt. Rev. Axstad Will Be Assisted by Four or Five Neighboring Pastors

An unusually impressive service will be that on Sunday, when Rev. Leroy Iredal will be ordained in the Trinity Lutheran church in the city, with Rt. Rev. I. T. Axstad of Detroit Lakes, Minn., in charge of the ceremonies, scheduled for 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Rev. Iredal was raised at Oslo, where his father, Rev. J. L. Iredal, now of Berlin, N. H., served as pastor of the church for a time, attending the North Dakota university at Grand Forks, he entered Red Wing seminary, and while there was a student he was also on the faculty as an instructor in music.

Graduated Last Summer

Later he attended the Theological seminary at St. Paul for three years, from which institution he was graduated last summer, being called to and received a call from the committee of the northern Minnesota district of the denomination to serve the Holt parish as pastor, which he has since done.

Assisting Rt. Rev. Axstad, who formerly was pastor of the church at Detroit Lakes, to become president of the northern Minnesota District of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, will be a number of the Thief River Falls ministers, the invocation being given by Rev. Iredal's father, Rev. J. L. Iredal, of Berlin, N. H., and the ordination prayer by Rev. Axstad. Rev. Iredal will preach the sermon, and Rev. Haaland will read the liturgy. Rev. Alfred Alm of Hoople, N. Dak., will be assisted by him at the age of 73.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED WHEN EIGHTH WERE OUT

A chimney fire at the residence occupied by Frank Erickson, 318 Knox avenue, was extinguished last Friday just before six o'clock, and at which time the fire department was called to the scene, but by the time the apparatus arrived the fire was under control, as the fire was soon burned itself out without setting the building on fire, altho the blaze was a very hot one.

FEW ATTEND OPENING OF ELECTRIC PLANT

The intense cold last Saturday had a tendency to keep many away from the opening of the new hydro electric plant of the city at the dam, but those who did brave the weather to visit the plant found it modern in every respect and running smoothly.

Supt. Ole Legvold states that there are visitors every day or two, showing interest in the city's project, coming from as far away as Bemidji, and the municipal undertaking is quite general. After the snow disappears in the spring and warmer weather the plant can be improved, a more general reception and opening is planned.

Library Story Hour Made Big Hit With Children of City

Altho only one announcement was made in The Times of the inception of the story hour at the Carnegie library last Saturday, yet when the hour arrived one of the most appreciative groups of children was present that has ever been seen there by the attendants, according to Mrs Hazel Halgrim, librarian.

The story of the Nuremberg Stove was told in a pleasing manner by Miss Ruth Ashwood, a pupil of the junior high school, and also the story of The Gilded Child. Both stories were well suited to the audience, and all present were delighted to hear again this evening Saturday at 1:15 o'clock, or a little earlier, so that the story telling could start promptly at that hour, and at one o'clock for those children who live in the country, so that they may be in time for completion before the regular hour for the afternoon movie.

Quite a few more books were received for the library from Santa Claus (Mrs. King of the Mens), Patsy Hennessy; Farnham, Rebellion; Dillon, Silver Child; Lucille Gilbert, Jack Gaisay; Deming, Kitty; Shaw, Dr. Antonio; Bell, Hero; Bell, Lucky Bell; Lane, trial; Wright, Great Detective Stories; Hewlett, New Heart; Hewlett, Hero. This last named volume deals with the life and career of Alfred Alexander Hero, it having been written by him at the age of 23.

POWER PLANT TROUBLE PUTS CITY IN DARKNESS

A circuit breaker at the new power plant became overheated last Friday afternoon when a heavy load was suddenly thrown onto the generators at the plant, and before the engineer could be summoned the city was plunged into darkness for a short time. The up town plant was resorted to and the heavier circuit breaker control later installed as the new plant, which was completed light and power.

Supt. Ole Legvold states that there is no danger of a recurrance of the trouble in the future

"Annie Laurie" Will Show At Lyceum Tues. and Wed.

Theatre-goers of Thief River Falls will have an opportunity to witness one of the biggest and best pictures ever shown here, next Tuesday and Wednesday, Dec 20 and 21, when Manager Hanson presents the local theatres, will present "Annie Laurie" at the Lyceum.

Annie Laurie is tremendous! According to Arthur James, editor of Motion Picture News, "No matter picture since The Big Parade, well may it be a year ago, possesses the power to stir the blood and seize the spirit as does John Robertson's magnificent Annie Laurie.

The lovely Lillian Gish, as Annie, the heroine, ably supported by Norman Kerry, as Ian McDonald, the young Highland swordsman who became chief after the treacherous murder of his father, Gilbert Berwarth. The scots students in the University of Minnesota, Carleton, St. Johns, St. Olaf, Hamline, St. Thomas, Princeton, and Yale competed for the honor of being the seventh Rhodes scholar elected from Minnesota.

Stores Generally Will Be Open Evenings From Now Till Christmas Eve

The committee of merchants on closing hours, thru its chairman H. E. Nelson of the J. C. Penney Co., has decided that the stores of the city generally will start keeping open evenings beginning Saturday night of this week, and continuing till Christmas Eve, on which night they will all close at six o'clock.

This has become quite general thruout the country, it having been found that one week was sufficient for evening shopping. The plan of closing Christmas eve has also become quite general, it permitting people to enjoy the festivities of that occasion.

CIVIC ACTIVITIES OF 2 LOCAL MEN DULY RECOGNIZED

Fair Association and Commercial Club Fittingly Entertain Departing Members

Former County Agent J. J. McCann and Fred H. Herrick, recently named a farewell dinner by the Pennington County Agricultural association and the Commercial club, last Thursday noon in the club rooms, at which time a representative number of the two men are held they were presented with a fountain pen, Herrick making the presentation to Mr. McCann in behalf of the association, while Dr. Froehlich acted in behalf of the Commercial club.

Mr. Fuller acted as agent over the leaving of Mr. McCann, who has gone to Ada where he accepted a position similar to that which he had filled in this city for five years, wishing him and his family success in his new field of endeavors. Dr. Froehlich stressed the hearty co-operation of Mr. Herrick on all matters of a civic nature during the time he has been a resident of this city. Both men responded with a few words, thanked their many friends for their kind words.

Previous to the presentations Hans Anton reviewed the work of Mr. McCann as county agent, touching on the many things that had been accomplished during the county agent in Pennington county.

TURKEY SHIPMENTS FROM HERE REACH PEAK OF MOVEMENT

Local Shipments State Quality of Birds Even Better Than One Year Ago

Shipments of dressed turkeys the past week in charge of freight cars from Thief River Falls has averaged about 2,000 pounds daily, according to railway officials and officers of the various local shipping organizations, which is considerably in excess of last year, after which there will be a gradual dwindling till the middle of the coming week. Starting with Wednesday night, express shipments for turkeys became the rule, altho the mixed will not materially shorten the time for the reaching of the destination of the poultry, most of which has gone forward by express for the Thanksgiving season.

The consignees of the dressed turkeys is far above that of a month ago, and while the birds are not quite as large as last year, according to local shippers. The birds have shown a much improved quality, and it is said that the local product will command full prices at the market.

Two Act Operetta Will Be Presented Next Week by Juvenile Music Club

The Coast Patch Fairies, an operetta in two acts, will be presented at the Sons of Norway hall Monday, Dec. 19, at 7:45 o'clock by members of the Thief River Falls Juvenile Music club for the benefit of the club treasury. The cast is as follows:

Cast of the characters: Mrs. Brink, Herman Bischoff, Thief River Falls' Harry Lauder, and Mrs. A. Holmberg's strong quartette, comprised of Dorothy Carlson, Ida Justus Larson, and Harry Robinson.

The story of The Coast Patch Fairies deals with a little girl, Carol, who has been sick before Christmas and has become very cross, and when the Cross Patch Fairies appear they cause a great deal of trouble for Carol. It is a Christmas fantasy that will delight children, full of the spirit of Christmas and with funny parts by Santa's merry little elves, the Toyland brigade, the Cross Patch fairies, and the trip of Carol into Santa's workshop. Miss Mary Hilaire, Little Bo Peep, and all the juvenile characters in Toyland. There will also be a solo by the local juvenile, making this one of the best juvenile events of the season, interesting to young and old alike.

The following program will be rendered:

HE HAD FOUND THE JOY OF CHRISTMAS

OVER Judea's hills the Star shone resplendent. The ancients believed that stars were windows through which God disclosed a glimpse of the dawning glory of heaven. They regarded the stars as guides and when the star could not be seen it was a token of impending danger. On the first Christmas Eve a star shone. Kepler, the noted astronomer, calculated that conjunction of Jupiter and Saturn took place. The star attracted the attention of three wise men who followed it. Tradition informs us they were three kings and "in one of the cathedrals of Europe can be found their skulls, each adorned with a jeweled crown." Another tradition says they were three ministers, representing the three great families of the earth. They came from the East, people from Saxony Arabia. They brought costly presents with them. The first had in his hand a casket of gold; the second, frankincense, and the third, myrrh. Some persons have seen in this three-fold gift a heretical symbolism; the myrrh having been offered to a mortal, the gold to a king, and the frankincense to a God.

Tradition tells us of a Roman prince who, while feasting in his palace on Christmas Eve, heard a rap at the window. Looking toward it he saw a beautiful face of a little child, and then heard a voice which, like music, whispered, "The Christ Child is hungry." Angered at the interruption, the prince commanded his soldiers to drive the child away and immediately the food upon his table turned to sand. Again he heard the voice, "The Christ Child is cold." The soldiers drove the child away once more. At the same time the fire upon the hearth turned to darkness and the cold of winter dispelled the warmth of the palace. The selfish heart of the prince melted. He commanded his soldiers to search for the child. Presently they brought the child, together with other hungry children, to the palace. Henceforth his table was their table, his palace their home. The prince had found the joy of Christmas by first giving it to others.

The banner of the new is three-fold for God, truth, and God. Those hungers are satisfied not by heaping all our gifts upon our own Christmas tree, but by sharing with those less fortunate than ourselves the blessings of life.—Leonard A. Barrett.

The Funeral Home

Although a comparatively recent innovation, the funeral home is rapidly establishing itself as one of the necessities of modern civilization. The conditions of present-day life make it unobtainable and often impossible, to manage the funeral service and its preliminary details in the residence.

When a funeral home is used, the bereaved family is relieved of many unnecessary burdens. In addition, the facilities of an establishment intended for the purpose eliminate many possible hitches and make the ordeal easier for every one concerned.

Our funeral home is complete in every detail. Its use does not increase the cost of our work, and it enables us to offer a more satisfactory service.

BIG MEETING PLANNED FOR METHODIST MEN

The men of Methodism in the St. Paul Episcopal area, which comprises the two Minnesotas, the South Dakota and the West Wisconsin conferences, are to gather in convention in Simpson Methodist church in Minneapolis on Tuesday, Dec. 20, to discuss laymen's activities. All of the district superintendents will be in attendance, and lay delegations and visitors from every district.

In addition to the convention business, there will be a number of all-star dresses, and the Twin City laymen's will sponsor a men's supper to be served by the ladies of Simpson church in the church dining room. Dr. E. D. Kohlstedt, the secretary of the Methodist Board of Missions, and former president of the Dakota Wesleyan University, will be the chief speaker at the supper.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

FLOOD CONTROL

One of the big problems which the present congress will be called on to solve will be flood control. The lower Mississippi disaster last summer has given force to the demands of that section of the country for government assistance on a big scale. The states effected by the Mississippi flood will probably ask the government to stand all of the expense of whatever work is done. It is doubtful, however that this request will be granted. In his message to Congress President Coolidge intimated that while the administration would favor government co-operation with the individual states in any engineering project they might undertake, it would not be in favor of the government assuming the entire responsibility for the reclamation.

It would seem that this would be the proper attitude for Congress to take on this problem, and it is our opinion that any action taken by Congress should be general in character. A definite policy should be established that will enable flood sufferers, not only in the Mississippi valley but in any part of the country, to secure government aid in flood control projects. This aid could be distributed in the same manner as road construction aid is distributed, the government paying one-half the cost of any worthy projects providing the communities would pay the other half. Only communities that are willing to help themselves should be entitled to this aid and under no circumstances should such aid be extended to assist land selling projects of a speculative character.

Establishing a general policy that would benefit all parts of the country would be the only fair way to solve this problem. Flood victims of New England or Minnesota or any other state suffer just as much as the flood victims of the lower Mississippi valley, and are just as much entitled to the assistance of the government. Whether he flood drowns out a hundred farmers or a hundred thousand farmers, the effect on the individual is the same. There are many sections of the lower Mississippi valley that are not worth saving from floods. If they are worth saving, those communities will be willing to pay a fair share of the cost involved. If the government agrees to assume the entire responsibility for such reclamation much needless work will be done and much public money will be wasted.

BELTRAMI COUNTY'S PROBLEM

The Civic & Commerce Association of Bemidji is raising money to defray the expenses of a court action which is going to be taken in an effort to relieve the county of its indebtedness for ditches. According to the statement of the Association the county owes nearly two and one-half million dollars in the form of ditch bonds, which it claims is an unjust debt because, first, when the courts gave permission to construct the ditches, they acted on untruthful evidence and therefore without proper authority, and, second, that even if it is granted that the ditches were properly authorized, the state was responsible and not the county. The statement calls attention to the fact that the tax levy sufficient to pay the interest and retire the principal would drive out hundreds of tax payers, which in turn would further aggravate the situation by increasing the taxes year by year of those attempting to pay.

Commenting on this situation the Bemidji Sentinel recently made the following statement:

"The law has passed when it is either wise or fair for us to go in this section to close their eyes to the situation as it exists. No possible plan of taking care of the ditch indebtedness has yet been proposed. It has been made clear that the debt is not one of our own choosing, the general taxpayers had no voice in the construction of the ditches and were powerless to prevent them and there can certainly be no argument as to the impossibility of the land owners in the affected area taking care of their obligations. Certainly the time to pause and take stock of the situation is before we have been so badly crushed that a comeback would be impossible.

"If reasonable assistance can be provided, if some assurance is given as to just what the program will be and if an opportunity is afforded those who survive the period of depression to recoup their losses, the old fighting spirit that has marked Bemidji and Beltrami County will again assert itself and there can be no doubt about the future prosperity in this section.

"While our own county of Pennington has not been, and is not now, threatened with bankruptcy, it is true that certain sections of this county have suffered because of the too great enthusiasm for ditches of a few years ago. Most of the ditches built here were necessary, however, and are serving a good purpose. Several of them are entirely paid for and practically all of them will be paid for in a few years. In other words ditches have ceased to threaten the financial condition of Pennington county, and to a large extent can now be written down as an asset. This is undoubtedly due to the fact that Pennington is a small county and comparitively well settled.

"We can appreciate the difficulties of Beltrami county with her thousands of acres of thoroughly ditched lands west of the Red Lake and few settlers to carry the burden. While we are not sufficiently versed in the laws to venture an opinion on the legal status of Beltrami County's present claims, we do feel that the state should assist that county in getting back on a financial basis that will enable the large territory, now bankrupt, to develop. The state of Minnesota as a whole cannot progress until northern Minnesota progresses, and northern Minnesota cannot progress with large sections of its territory bankrupt. Call it justice or charity or whatever you will, the fact remains that the state owes it to itself to help remove at once the question mark that now hovers over Beltrami County's future. . .

We haven't heard anybody wondering about whether or not we would have a white Christmas this year.

What a fine place home is these cold winter evenings.

TAX-FREE STATE OWNED FARMS

During the past few years the State of Minnesota has acquired possession of approximately one hundred Pennington County farms through the foreclosures of the Department of Rural Credit. When it is considered that these farms cease to pay their portion of the local taxes as soon as they become the property of the state, it is apparent that this condition presents a problem sufficiently serious to warrant some concern. The state loans money only on improved farms, which means that these hundred pieces of property acquired by the state are good farms and not merely wild and undeveloped land. In most cases these farms are occupied by renters who require schools, roads and other things provided for by local taxation. This means that the entire burden of local government falls on those farmers who do pay their taxes.

This situation is entirely different from that of the ordinary state owned property and there is no good reason why the department of Rural Credit should not pay taxes on the lands which are acquired by foreclosure. There is no need for going into greater detail on the facts at the present time. The injustice is apparent and is admitted by officials. The reason that steps have not been taken to adjust the situation is because of the hope that improved conditions would make it possible to re-sell the land and thus put it back on the tax lists. But, until there is a general land movement thruout the country there can be little hope of selling these farms and steps should be taken now to present to the next state legislature the need for a law that will give to the department of Rural Credit the authority to pay taxes on these lands.

An industrial news bureau makes the statement that "Taxation which takes from those who have and gives to those who have not is one form of communism." The statement is true but we had assumed we haven't been able to become horrified over the fact. This form of taxation has long been accepted as proper in the state of Minnesota and in the United States of America. We admit that it is communistic doesn't outlaw it from respectable society either. While we are heartily in favor of deporting every fool communist in the country who believes that equality can be obtained by turning the present order upside down, we also are in favor of deporting a few of the fool capitalists whose only god is money and who look upon every social reform as an unpardonable sin. To them the only just tax is that which takes from those who haven't and gives to those who have.

At Merrill, Wisconsin, the city council has taken a step for industrial growth that offer municipalities will watch with interest. It has voted in favor of the purchase of twenty-seven acres of land to be offered as sites for industries, that may give consideration to the proposition of locating at that place.

Thief River Falls has something more important than a site to offer manufacturers. Our city offers cheap power.

There was a time, so many years ago that even our wives don't care to remember the date, when we resented very much the interest other people took in our love affairs. Now it requires an effort on our part to keep from meddling in the affairs of those who are threatened with matrimony. If the desire to help along somebody else's wooing is a sign of advancing years, we must admit, that we are growing old. Whenever we come in contact with a young couple that has that peculiar sick-calf expression in their eyes, we immediately feel an almost irresistible urge to exchange confidences with them. We refer to most the activities of the official match-makers, but right now our natural inclination is to become one of those pests.

We read a little yarn the other day about an old negro who didn't plant any cotton because he was afraid the boll weevil would take the crop, and he didn't plant any corn because he figured the season was going to be too wet for corn. The point of the story was that this particular negro just played safe and didn't plant anything at all.

If young Lindbergh keeps cruising around among those foreigners the first thing you know old Uncle Sam won't have an enemy on earth except in the United States.

When old Farmer Wright starts championing Cautious Cal we know that the dawn of a new day is near at hand. Blood may be thicker than water but Vermont syrup is stickier. These Vermonters surely do stick together.

The Herald-Review of Grand Rapids thinks that most of those fur farming propositions are skin games.

A CONTRAST IN ATTITUDES

(Detroit News)

The News recently has come into contact with the attitude of two public officials who furnish a striking contrast. One, in our opinion, is essentially right in his conception of the duty of public officials in relation to publicity; the other is entirely wrong.

It was the county attorney of Dakota county, Mr. Alfred Joyce, who furnished the wrong attitude. In response to a long-distance telephone call made to Mr. Joyce by the newspaper for information on an indictment returned by the grand jury at Hastings, the Dakota county attorney made the caustic remark: "What are you fellows running down there, some kind of a yellow sheet?"

Then apparently realizing that this might not sit so well with a newspaper that has a large circulation among his Dakota county constituents, Mr. Joyce volunteered the opinion that he guessed "it's all right." He ended up by agreeing that the reports of the grand jury are public records,—"perfectly legitimate news," to use his own words. But his first reply to a courteous question for information still rankles, for it seems to portray a fundamental attitude that does not square with genie public policy.

Contrast it, for instance, with the attitude of County Attorney Thos. H. Quinn of Ince county. With some of Mr. Quinn's actions and policies The News differs decidedly, and we have not hesitated to publish our editorial criticisms, believing that public matters can be discussed on their merits without resort to personalities. Mr. Quinn apparently shares this viewpoint, for in spite of differences of opinion that have sometimes arisen, he has been extremely courteous and helpful in providing information about public affairs. And the requests of The News for such information have been numerous.

We take the liberty to quote from a letter written by Mr. Quinn in reply to one from The News complimenting him on his attitude: "* * * I like to have the newspapers on the job, for then I am more careful (like any other human) in the things I do. I have always felt it a good policy to have all sides of every public question aired in a fair and decent manner and I think that newspapers generally try to do this. I hope that your paper will continue, in its active and honest way, taking an interest in county affairs, and you may be sure that I will always appreciate and respect your right to comment as you deem best."

PublicForum

Editor Times:

I hope I will be pardoned for writing so often. A little "Pep" and "Get" will be all right but too much is all wrong. But if I am not taken too seriously perhaps all will be well. I have found that in the busiest and most gloomy periods of my life a little laugh always made things look a lot brighter, and so in my rough, haughty way I try to pass along the recipe for happiness.

I noticed an editorial on co-operation in the paper. I thought I had read the same thing in the Farmstead, Stock and Home and didn't pay much attention to it, but with a mad cry of almost insane joy I married up another credit for my idea. But, anyone called my attention to the fact that I was not as good and a typist as the acid test and I found my idea (my dyed in the wool Republican) had fast clay, as in other words I stepped over again. He says the history of co-operation has a history of few successes and many failures. Now how do you suppose he got that way. I bet the Co-operative Poultry Association had shipped all the rubbers and he had an old, tough hen for Thanksgiving dinner.

The history of co-operation is as old as the history of our country. Where would the fifteen colonies have been if they had not co-operated, and even King George had to admit it was a blooming success. I suppose the editor had in mind the potato association that has been causing "many failures." What could we expect when we get a big bald headed theorist like Belvig into the association? He reasoned that the crop was short, he won't be able to do much damage, and from the reports we get from Washington he has only been right. Then even a dog catchers committeeship, so I don't think we should be too severe on the editor a little history on the co-operative enterprises of Denmark, the co-operative banking system of Germany, the Federal Land Bank of this country, the state of Canada, the fruit growers of California, the Land O' Lakes creameries, the cattle shippers association, the farmers elevators, and even the co-operative stores, if this little article makes you the big ones sit up and take notice, and also that co-operative enterprise of which he is one of the heads which runs the best paper we have ever had in Northern Minnesota. So altogether, let's go. We don't mean to infer that co-operation will be a cure all for our ills but it is the best that we know at this time. Nothing is the best and Congress thinks it is the best and till a better way is found, let us stick.

WE BELIEVE

To be inactive is to be sick, while to be totally inert is to be dead.

THE WRONG PROVERBS

Ben Franklin or some other philosopher who laid down adages of the world, wasn't thinking about the modern generation when he cited that fable about "slow but sure." For many years the value of such a proverb has been extolled to students. Thoroness would come only thru slow and lengthy study—so they were told. The story of the tortoise who beat the rabbit by plodding along was continually being quoted.

Now the modern motto is "quick and sure." The students who succeed are those who are not only speedy and silent but always accurate and conscientious. We see this illustrated very well in the athletes, for the ones who must have speed, yet be exact. However, students aren't the only individuals who observe the modern motto. Business men demand its observance by their employees. The world is constantly progressing and, Industrially, the rules will never cease to be supported.

THE LADDER

There is something inspiring about a ladder. Harriet Fuller puts it that it isn't a ladder. There is a sermon, an essay, in that. Perhaps it doesn't want to make a little "rest pocket" suggestion for you to use it.

First, the ladder always begins at the bottom. And there is always room at the top. The ladder you most desire, you yourself may choose. You can select it with a thorn in it or a thousand rounds. The longer the ladder, the more the higher you are sure to be when you reach the top.

Lincoln decided that he wanted a ladder with many rounds. Think of it—from that little Kentucky log hut to the presidency of the greatest free nation in history! And Napoleon—he didn't even give a glance at any of the little stubby ladders that were lying around by the military academy, he wanted one that would take him over the Alps!

As you climb do not forget that the strength accumulated at the lower rounds increases with every added pound. Remember, too, that it is better by round always. The more ambitious who, thinking to play a trick on fortune, seeks to skip a round or so, nearly always slip or fall—compelled to begin all over again.

Pick a big, long ladder—then climb it slowly, confidently, honestly and well.

Never mind the crowd below. Keep your eyes at the top.—Gregory Matthew Adams.

44 PUPILS WIN PLACE ON SECOND ROLL OF HONOR

Seniors Lead in Numbers, Having 16; Class Averages Remain the Same

The end of the second six-weeks' term finds eleven per cent of the pupils in Lincoln high school on the honor roll with an average grade of 90 or above. Only seven per cent failures are recorded for the same period.

The class averages as a whole, however, are practically the same as those of the last term record, with 45 out of the total enrollment of 403, qualified for the honor.

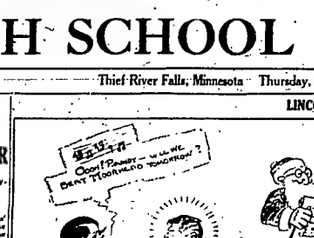
Only two teacher-training students made the honor roll: Alice Brodgo and Blanche Swanson. Five freshmen's names appear on the list: Louis Burklund, Violet Jacobson, Ruth Johnson, Burghild Norbeck and Virginia Quale. The Sophomore delegations made a place: Geneva Allen, Theron Brekke, Kinder Gudmundson, Violet Griffin, Thea Gunderson, Junior Pritchard, Violet Sedergreen, and Agnes Warner. Eleven Juniors won distinction: Laura Bowers, Viola Bredeson, Ruth Brekke, Gladys Hansen, Harry Hendricksen, Richard Hanley, Josephine Nalder, Jessie Ostrom, Harry Severson and Mildred Wilson. The Seniors achieved the highest record when names of 18 from the total enrollment of 81 students appeared on the list: Margaret Barsell, Margaret Blokkum, Chester Bowers, Harriet Fuller, Manfred Gunderson, Marguerite Johnston, Ruth Kelly, Elvina Kerkhoff, Elaine Kurstad, Lenore Lieberman, Chester Myrom, Lillian Quist, Henry Shaw, Edith Stenseth, Leslie Sundahl, Beatrice Van Pelt, Hilalys Weeks and Harold Will.

The special Merit students are ranked as those of the seniors: Elaine Kurstad, Lenore Lieberman and Leslie Weeks; each received five: Harriet Fuller, Lillette Quist and Edith Stenseth each had four A's and a B point while Marcella Gunderson and Chester Myrom earned four A's. Of the Juniors Hazlie Bronson and Estelle Hanson earned five A's and Harry Hendricksen four. In the Sophomore class Violet Griffin and Eunice Carlson had five and Agnes Warner four A's. Linda Backlund alone in the Freshmen class distinguished herself by gleaning five A's.

Christmas Seal Program Tells Purpose of Drive

Let's bay Christmas seals! That's the thought the little play put on by the Health Club in assembly, conveyed to the student body. Instructive and entertaining, the play, under the able direction of Julius Ophelm, was enjoyed by all.

Clifford Wikel and Chester Dahle, who made up the cast, portrayed their parts in a commendable manner. They know their lines very well and spoke effectively.



As a new offer who was learned of father and mother by tuberculosis, Clifford Wikel instructed Chester Dahle, a luscious son, of the true purpose and aim of Christmas seals. So impressed was the business man by the boy's speech that he gave him a check to further the good cause.

The aim of the play, which was received from the Minnesota Health Association, was to encourage the sale of Christmas seals. This seals be now conducted by the local school children.

Christmas seals to an amount known to exceed the years' sales of 1926, and those of the year before for 1925, when the total sum for the two is estimated, were sold in Thief River Falls during the campaign, December 3 to 11 inclusive of a Christmas Seal Sunday and Christmas Eve. Mrs. Ole Sandness, county chairman, reports that the results are the best in the county. Mrs. Sandness attributes the success to the fine co-operation of the school children.

LINCOLN LITES

G. F. HIGH CHALKS UP 39-9 WIN OVER LINCOLN WHIPPETS

Locals Weak in Shooting, But Strengthened Up in Second Half of Game

Playing their first out-of-town game of the season Coach Ilos Heidal says the game was a typical opener with both teams playing rag-ed basket ball, and neither able to penetrate beyond the center of the floor until the end of the first quarter. Then Fitzgerald eluded the defense, received a long pass from Duchow while under the basket and gave Grand Forks an edge that was never overcome.

Grand Forks' defense was far below the defensive standard, but gave promise of developing with practise. Thief River was able to carry the ball down the field time after time, but failed to score, due probably to stage fright on the form was there. Bow's Whinnets made but two goals from the field during the game.

Weak At Shooting

The chief weakness of the local boys was their inability to find the basket. Until near the end of the second quarter Thief River had secured a field goal, altho at times they had the ball comfortably Centered basket with shot after shot on follow-up attempts. The first half ended with Central 17 to 4 in the count.

In the second half Captain Erickson and his henchmen returned to the contest determined to overcome Central's lead. They succeeded in doing this, but the final count was 39 to 9.

The line-up for Thief River Falls was: Dahlen (f), Erickson (f) Carlson, (ten), Sorenson (c), Hall, R. Hendricksen (g), Wikel (g). Substitutes: Hanson, Bowers, Nelson, Lee, Lundeen, Lundquist, Lindberg, Hall, Lee, Lundeen, Lundquist, Lindberg, Hall, Lee, Lundeen, Lundquist, Lindberg, Hall

ATTORNEY GENERAL GIVES OPINION ON NEW SCHOOL LAW

Treasurers Are Exempted From Liability When Depositories Are Properly Designated

Since the passing of the law governing depositories of school moneys by the past legislature, several requests from school treasurers have been received by County Supt. George M. Gunderson asking for blank forms to use in exempting school treasurers from liability. The same question was also propounded to other county superintendents, all of whom referred the subject to the attorney general. After a careful study of the statute, he prepared a form for general use throughout the state.

District Treasurers Relieved

Mr. Gunderson this week received a communication from M. L. Jacobsen, director of rural education, in which was enclosed a copy of the form as suggested by the attorney general's committee on the form. Mr. Jacobsen says that under this law, when a depository is properly designated, the treasurer and his bondsmen are exempt from liability to the school district for the loss of any funds due to the failure or bankruptcy or other acts of the bank or any of its officers where the school funds are deposited. Such depository may be designated for a period not to exceed three years.

Designations Required

It seems practical and convenient to designate a depository for the remainder of the term of the treasurer and redesignate whenever a new treasurer is installed.

This form may be used for independent districts by changing the word common to independent where ever it occurs and $1,500 to $2,000.

Depositories of school funds may also be designated under Chapter 173, Laws of 1925, when the bank desiring to be designated will furnish security for such funds.

Copies of the above, together with the new forms, were mailed this week to various school boards through Pennington county, and Mr. Gunderson feels that a strict compliance therewith will be generally made by the various districts.

WOMAN WHO RODE FIRST TRAIN TO CASS LAKE DIES

Mrs. William Auringer, mother of Arthur Auringer of this city, who lived in Grand Forks in the early days, died Sunday in Cass Lake, where she had lived since leaving Grand Forks.

Mrs. Auringer, whose husband was a Great Northern engineer, moved into Cass Lake on the first train that pulled into that town from Grand Forks upon the completion of the railroad to Cass Lake line. She had lived in Grand Forks for about 25 years before that time. She was a member of the Eastern Star lodge.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Auringer is survived by three children, Harry Phelps of Bemidji, Mrs. E. G. Olson of Cass Lake and Mrs. Curtis Monroe of Ft. Jesters; one son, Arthur Auringer of Thief River Falls, and a sister, Mrs. William McCormick of Minot.

Mr. and Mrs. Auringer left for Cass Lake Sunday immediately after receiving the message. Mr. Auringer is the mother's death came as a great shock to Mr. Auringer as she had been in the best of health, seemingly. Heart trouble caused her death. The elderly lady's sterling character, Mr. Auringer is proprietor, was closed Tuesday afternoon, the day of the funeral.

JUDGE GRINDELAND FALLS ON ICE WRENCHING LEG

Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren slipped on the ice while at work and badly wrenched the muscles of his leg, necessitating remaining at home, and forcing the cancellation of a special term of court here today and tomorrow, where he was scheduled to hold a session with E. Seek More State Aid on Road to Red Lake Narrows for Coming Year

The county commissioners of Helmtaal county last Thursday took favorable action toward the further construction of the road to the Red Lake Narrows, asking for $10,000 state aid on the project for the coming year. This will be used on the piece of road across the reservation from the Pennington county line eastward to the two mile stretch running north and south on the ridge constructed during the past summer.

The Helmtaal commissioners have realized the importance of this road and are willing to back the completion thereof, now that it is started, confident that Bemidji will receive much good therefrom the same as Thief River Falls.

This highway, one of the most valuable to the union of northern Minnesota points and the opening of Red Lake to tourist traffic, will cost more than $100,000 to complete. Engineers estimate that it will not be really for four years. A contract for $50,000 was granted for work on the east end of it this year.

Independent Basketball Team May Be Formed in Thief River Falls Soon

Efforts will be made to form an independent basketball organization in Thief River Falls Friday night, tomorrow, when all persons interested in such a movement are requested to meet in the American Legion hall under the First & Peoples State bank.

The call is issued following word from Crookston Legionnaires vowing the club, with a view to having a six or eight club league in the second part of the state, possibly comprised of Warren, Crookston, Moorhead, and Thief River Falls, or some other place in case any of these failed to join in the movement.

In the past there have been independent basketball teams that have been a credit to this city, and the formation of the league might bring to the city several outside spots, other than those belonging to the league.

HOMEMAKERS OF STATE INVITED TO UNIVERSITY

Miss Wylie B. McNeal, chief of the division of home economics, University of Minnesota, will open the program for farm and urban women who attend the fourteenth annual Farmers' and Homemaker's Week Short Course at University Farm, St. Paul, January 16 to 21. Members of her staff and of the extension, dairy, and horticulture divisions and the Institute of Child Welfare will assist in the presentation of the program from day to day.

Short Lessons In Dairying

A series of 32 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON VIII.

FEEDING HISTORY: Feeding cows may be divided into three periods. First, the wild hay—straw stack period, second, the timothy clover—fodder corn period and third, the alfalfa corn silage period, which is the greatest one.

When wild hay and straw is the only roughage fed, cows require 1 pound of grain a day for every 2 pounds of milk produced. When a mixture of timothy and clover and fodder corn is fed 1 pound of grain is fed for 3 pounds of milk. With good alfalfa hay and corn silage the grain may be reduced to 1 pound for 4 pounds of milk.

The poorer the hay the better the grain needs to be. Ground oats, barley and corn as well enough with good alfalfa or clover, but for wild hay, timothy or corn stalks, such grain as oilmeal, cottonseed meal or cocoanut meal do as high in protein are necessary for a part of the grain ration.

Good cows and good feeding should go with good cooperative creameries.

Geo. A. Russell, Manager of N. W. Bell Tel. Co.

George A. Russell, manager of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company of this city, is shown herewith demonstrating a pair of lineman's climbers, used by employees of the company.

The climbers illustrated here-with are different than those commonly used. Those pictured are a pair made by a former resident of Sweden, who on coming to this country and finding employment with the telephone company at Karlstad, was unable to use the spurs commonly seen strapped to the legs of linemen in this country.

The native of Sweden proceeded to fashion this particular pair for his own use and Mr. Russell in his rounds of this section of the state, borrowed them and has had them out on various occasions. He is seen part way up a pole, where he posed for a picture.

After many years use to the manager of the Karlstad local following the climbers are still in excellent condition. Mr. Russell stated that they can be used on any kind of pole, making it impossible to walk with them attached to the legs, being for climbing purposes only. The Karlstad manager, however, uses a belt when climbing poles, which is also of his own make after the courtesy of the company's trade magazine, The Northwestern Bell.

The Christmas Bells

The bells of Christmas ever ring,
They awaken rhythm and music not yet sensed at any other time.
The best within us awakens with the first joyous pealing of these bells, and we are glad . . . Everyone is glad on Christmas.

Frivoling and feasting become only the joy of the occasion. The bountiful platter, the full cup, and the hearty greeting indicate but faintly the warmth of friendliness and good will which lies so deep within us.

Let the bells continue to ring "A Merry Christmas"—W. D. Pennywacker.

Merely War Slogan?

Myths attaching to vivid words are numerous. The years of the World war, over-ripe, gave birth to numerous fiction and fiction fact in the effort to sift chaff from wheat. Did Kaiser William ever refer to England's troops as a "contemptible little British army?" A few newspapers in 1914 carried the information that he did, but later investigation failed to authenticate the rumor. It was finally put down as just one more war slogan.

Understanding

Most of life's troubles come from misunderstandings. If we know each other we shall understand each other; if we shall understand each other we shall trust each other; if we trust each other we shall work together in unity of purpose; if we work together in unity of purpose there is nothing with which we cannot accomplish.—David R. Blair.

MARSHALL COUNTY MAN KILLS TEN WOLVES IN 17 DAYS

Mention was recently made of the fact that only a few wolves were being killed in Pennington county this year, but it now appears that there are plenty of these animals close in the borders of this county, for only last week Charles Johnson of Eckvoll township, Marshall county, caught ten of them in 12 days time.

Practical Gifts Always Welcome At Christmastime

When your Christmas list stretches itself out to alarming proportions, why not try this plan. It has saved several of our customers not only dollars, but hours of anxious thought.

With possibly only a few exceptions, choose gifts of extreme practicability but of the highest possible quality. Bathtowels, for example, kitchen sets, sheets and pillow slips, or a hundred other like articles, make charming gifts and are always welcome. One never has too many of these things, and they can be exactly graded as you wish.

Then, too, they are the ideal gift when your friend seems to have almost everything that her heart desires. They are in excellent taste, and are sure of a welcome in any home.

Our store is filled with practical, yet lovely gifts. Warm blankets, lustrous damask, dinner cloths, cheery bed spreads—these are only suggestions and a stroll thru our store nowadays suggests many other possibilities.

Let's give practical gifts this year; something useful as well as handsome. It's the sensible way to celebrate Christmas.

MAYFIELD TWP. SCHOOL BURNED LAST THURSDAY

Heating Plant Was Inspected Closely Before Closing by Teacher and Clerk

FIRE DISCOVERED JUST AFTER BREAK-OF DAY

Arrangements Being Made to Continue Sessions in Building In District No. 13

The one room frame school house in district No. 60, located in the southwest corner of section No. 4 of Mayfield township, was burned to the ground last Thursday morning between the hours of six and seven o'clock, at the same time as the Nereson school was destroyed by fire at St. Hilaire.

Arising at four o'clock that morning Ola Wedul, clerk of the school board, who lives about a mile distant, looked in the direction of the school building and there was no school house to be seen in the darkness, although the structure being clearly visible in the light of the full moon. Miss Ruth Hegness, the teacher, who had been staying at the Wedul home, walked toward the school house at six o'clock when she saw no one there and was on sign of anything wrong at that time.

Cause of Fire Unknown

When she arrived at the school about seven o'clock smoke was issuing from all the windows. Before anyone could get to the building only the walls were standing and there was left in the building nothing completely destroyed before eight o'clock. The cause of the fire is unknown.

Partially Insured

The building was insured for $600 the valuation thereon being placed at $1,200, while the equipment was insured for $200 and was valued at $350. The school had been recently inspected by the state board of education, a meeting will be held today by the school board of District No. 60 to determine if the school house in district No. 13 should be leased till a new building is erected. This building can possibly be had for the remainder of that district are attending school in district Nos. 11 and 61 this year. If this is done a few additional seats will be added to the present library of district No. 13. Saturday morning with state inspectants, while a bus service for pupils will also give the district transportation aid.

FEDERAL COURT WILL BE HELD IN DETROIT LAKES

The January term of the federal court for the eighth district of states will be held in Detroit Lakes, starting on Tuesday, Jan. 3, and probably continuing for at least three weeks, it is being held in Fergus Falls where court has been held for several years past.

This action was taken on receipt of an invitation extended by the county commissioners of Becker county on morning that the federal building at Fergus Falls was undergoing repairs that would not be completed in time for this term of court. It is the first time in the history of the court that such action has been necessary, Judge J. W. Molyneaux of Minneapolis and Judge John B. Sanborn of St. Paul will preside at the sessions.

CITY INSTITUTIONS HERE USE MORE COAL THAN WOOD

The City of Thief River Falls in its various heating plants, including the auditorium, library, poor farm, and public schools, consumes about 200 cords of wood, the various boards believing that coal is more economical here than wood. However, of late, the situation is reversed on account of the large supply of wood at present in advertising for 1,000 cords of wood, or five times as much as Thief River Falls uses.

Congressman Selvig Is Placed on Four Important House Committees

According to newspaper dispatches from Washington on Tuesday Congressman C. G. Selvig was given committee appointments on flood control, roads, census and invalid pensions committees.

According to George F. Authier, Minneapolis Tribune representative at Washington, these four committees will be extremely active during the year, especially flood control. While Mr. Selvig would have liked agriculture, he has to be content with these excellent assignments and flood control during the next two years will be one of the most important committees in the house. The committee census is one which may result in the representation of the next house, and therefore will assume much more than ordinary importance.

Congressman Hendrick Shipstead has been placed on the agriculture committee as well as being continued on the foreign affairs committee.

Prosecution of Auto Headlight Violators Up To Local Officials

Thief River Falls, or some other city in the state, has the right and also an opportunity to secure the holding of a two day session for automobile lamp adjustment, similar to one that was held in Minneapolis Jan. 23 and 24, 1927, when a number indicated they wish to have a school held here the same as Minneapolis will hold a school or such requests.

The Zuckerman brothers are retired economically and also raise gigantic potato production, 492's sacks of potatoes from all the winnings. The last year yielded 427,471 pounds of potatoes.

Dairy farming will do more to help the farmer than anything that Mr. Sary and Hagen can think of. When farmers apply to farming methods what they learn at the agricultural college, they will get rich."

Zuckerman brothers this last year sold one of their fine cows in this city for three months, to carefully inspect the various plots of potatoes which were to be used for seed by this big Minnesota firm. The potatoes have been shipped from this city by the Peterson Biddick company, one of the largest seed grain concerns of this city.

Minnesota "U" Students Beat Average American Height by 1¼ Inches

The average male student at the University of Minnesota is fat, and slender, weighs 141 pounds, has a lung expansion of 2.5 inches and a blood pressure slightly above normal. These facts are disclosed by data in a study made by Dr. C. M. Jackson, head of the department of anatomy at the University of more than 1,000 men, most of them freshmen. The Minnesota student is 5 feet, 7-10 inches tall—1-4 inches taller than the average American, the study also ands. Men students at Harvard, Yale, Wisconsin, Cornell and Amherst, are shorter than Minnesota students.

The percentage of the men students showed a preponderance of Scandinavian ancestry, but only a small percentage were pure Norwegian or Swedes.

Board of Regents Visit Agricultural Schools of State During Big Storm

Braving what turned out to be the worst storm in several years, the Board of Regents of the University of Minnesota made a tour of the schools of Agriculture and Experiment Station branches at Grand Rapids, Crookston and Morris last week for the purpose of seeing the schools while the students were in attendance. Arrangements have been made from time to time to inspect the experimental and demonstration work in the agricultural schools, but this was the first time the regents had been able to see nearly 600 students at the three schools at their studios.

There are now 304 students at the Northwest School and Station, Crookston, which is largest in point of attendance, and 246 at the Central School and Station, Morris, and 270 at the Northern Central School and Station, situated a mile outside the city of Grand Rapids. In addition to those, there are 270 students at the University Farm, St. Paul. Students at the University have more than 19,000.

LOCAL GROWN SPUDS PRODUCE ENORMOUS CROPS ON COAST

Zuckerman Brothers Ship Several Cars From Here Which Break World Record

The quality of potatoes raised in the territory immediately adjacent to Thief River Falls is considered one of the best in the entire country by the largest growers of spuds in the Pacific states, for the Zuckerman brothers of California have each year for several years past shipped several carloads from this city to their large ranch in that state, using the local crop for seed out west.

The Zuckerman brothers are noted for their aggressive business policy, and they have recently made a success of growing potatoes, if one is to judge from the following item written by the noted editorial writer, Arthur Brisbane.

"Another shows his neighbor pictures of modern machinery used on Zuckerman brothers potato farm in San Joaquan county, California. One man drives a huge machine and gathers three rows of potatoes at once. One man with a small tractor pulls a potato digger, shaking earth off. He delivers potatoes into the wagon as he goes along and gathered. Two men do the work of 60 workingmen under old methods."

Hazel Boy has Ankle Broken By Kick While Riding Pony Home from School Friday

One of the sons of Clarence Tuoney, is farmer residing near Hazel, suffered a broken ankle last Friday while riding home from school with his brother, both of whom were mounted on ponies.

The one pony which was a little flower traveller than the other, obliged to the classroom at the second animal, and without warning started homeward at the rear sled. One of the blows hit the boy's ankle breaking it, and necessitating his being brought to this city for medical attention.

The injured member was set by Dr. Frechlich at the Physicians hospital and he has been resting comfortably since.

BABCOCK MADE MEMBER OF INTERNATIONAL BODY

Minnesota was honored this week by the appointment of Charles W. Babcock, state highway commissioner, as one of the representatives of the United States on the commission of the international Association of Road Congresses. Mr. Babcock is one of fifteen men representing the United States on the commission. The appointments were made by Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg, upon recommendation of the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

The permanent commission determines where the international road congress shall be held, determines questions to be considered and makes all arrangements for the meetings. The last international road congress was held in Milan, Italy, in 1926. A resolution extending an invitation to hold the next meeting in the United States will be introduced in the House and Senate at Washington this winter.

FALSE ALARM SOUNDED

The fire department was called out last Friday shortly before six o'clock, but just where the blind system of the city was turned on after a short investigation, a phone call stating that there was a fire on the east side, but no fire could be located.

OVER 35,000 TONS OF GRAVEL IS USED ON COUNTY ROADS

280,000,000 Tons Used In United States Government Reports Indicate

Gravel is a very interesting amounts is being used in the city and county in the improvements of Pennington county's road system. Also the city also uses a considerable amount. Being located in small communities of one or two cube yards at a time people fail to realize the vast amount that is used.

A rough estimate by County Highway Engineer Bert F. Umland this week placed the county's share of gravel used in patch work at nearly 20,000 cubic yards, with close to 6,000 cubic yards for other construction this year. A proportionate amount is also used by the city in placing the streets of Thief River Falls in excellent condition.

45,000 Tons Used Here.

Based on the assumption that a cubic yard of gravel weighs close to one and a half tons, it means that over 45,000 tons were consumed locally the present year. Also assuming that 20 cube yards will fill the average freight car, it means that over 1,500 car loads were distributed over the highways of this county. Add still other sand and gravel was used in the construction of buildings, but this amount was negligible.

R. R. Consumed 183,000,000.

It is doubtful if very many people have any conception of the vast amount of sand and gravel used in the entire country, and the following table compiled by the government at Washington is rather amazing. The United States in producing 183,000,000 tons of sand and gravel last year in effect excavated a ditch one yard wide, one yard deep and extending from ocean to ocean around the globe. Most of the 255,675,000 worth of sand and gravel was mined for building and paving purposes. More than one-fourth of the production of 19,234,260 tons led the state list.

Independent Basketball League in Northwestern Minnesota a Possibility

Efforts will be made to form an independent basketball organization in this city on Friday night, tomorrow, when all persons interested in such an organization are requested to meet in the City Council chambers in the basement of the First & Peoples State Bank building.

The call is issued by Ole Lagerquist, acting on the matter with a view to having a city league or at least a team from one of the state, possibly competing with Warren, Crookston, Stephen and Thief River Falls, or some other team or teams may or may not be formed to join in the league.

In the past there have been independent basketball teams that have been a credit to the city, and the tournaments of the league have drawn to the city several outside quints, other than those belonging to the league.

VISITS GRAVES OF PENNINGTON BOYS ABROAD

Mrs. J. M. Bishop in Concluding Letter Further Tells of Interesting Sights

BONES OF 52 DIVISIONS INTERRED IN ONE PLACE

Shortly Before Leaving Visited Room Where Treaty of Peace Was Signed

During her recent trip to Paris and other European places of interest in connection with the American Legion and Auxiliary national conventions, Mrs. Bishop favored readers of the Times with descriptions of what she had observed, but there was a part of the trip during which time she only had an opportunity to jot down notes, which she has rewritten in a manner that will again make interesting reading for our subscribers. This story is given herewith.

On Leaving Paris

We went from Paris to Aix Les Bains, a famous watering place where many soldiers went for furloughs, we passed thru Dijon, also a large area. The beauty of the mountains and lakes of the Alps soon began to hold us entranced. We arrived at Aix Les Bains by car we skirted the lake and launched where the League of Nations had finished at Tolloires near Annecy and drove up an avenue named for President Wilson. Every inch of land was farmed that could be, even to the edges of the mountain sides. There were crosses and statues skirting the road. Pear trees were as large as oaks.

We were on our way to Chamonix, the highest town in the Alps, and wound in double and triple S's up the mountains. As we thrilled beyond words at the scenery which was at last begged as the Rockies yet we left with venture as the Cascades. Falls came tumbling down the mountains—often dashing us with a mist of spray and far, far up in the mountains were tiny farms and chalets—all land cultivated like a park. Our driver was a marvel of skill but finally when we wondered how it could be done, a connection broke and we were stuck on the Alps with Mount Blanc in sight capped in snow.

Like Sky Upside Down

After waiting several hours another car came and we were taken to St. Gervais. A valley below looked like the sky turned upside down. The lights were the stars. Back of our hotel towered Mt. Blanc. This was a famous resort for winter sports. From Chamonix which we reached the next afternoon we drove over to the Switzerland side. We saw streams that looked like aqua marine, marvelous feats of engineering in roads, slate and granite mines, and logs being hoisted down or across mountains.

We drove from Chamonix to Geneva. It appeared to us more like an American city than any we had seen and more home products were sold there. As the Swiss army remained neutral during the war the buildings of France are not seen here. We saw where the Peace Conference was held—Sara Barnhardt's home across the lake besides other historical places.

Trip Into Germany

From Geneva to Strasbourg was a long jump. Here was a strange blending of France and Germany. The square chimneys where real storks build nests, the cathedrals and clock famous over the world are seen every day. We saw the clock strike twelve and the apostles come out one at a time. We drove down the "avenue" where Germans marched into France crossed the Rhine and into Germany. We also enjoyed strolling through the Grand Ile famous in Napoleon's time and which could require a lengthy description.

Trench of Bayonets

From Strasbourg, the Alsatian capitol, we proceeded to the leading city of Lorraine, Nancy. The university, famous art glass work and wrought iron made here interested us. Now we proceeded back to Paris over the shell torn, blood soaked regions of Verdun and Reims. We traveled far over the battle fields, some were unchanged in nine years. We saw the trench of bayonets where soldiers were buried alive, bayonets sticking up, an American built concrete road over them as a memorial. Where we saw 1,200 Americans buried in cemeteries we saw 15,000 French at the cessary in Bonneuvent where the bones of 52 Divisions are being interred; the only attempted classification is by divisions.

Picked Up Relics

I picked up a German helmet and some other relics of those ghastly days. We saw trenches, dugouts, and ruins of ruins. The Hindenburg line, holes 100 feet deep made by mines. The nation of death, the sacred soil which remained untouched save which supplies were brought into France. Here the fortunes and name of the body of the unknown soldier was selected. At Reims we saw what was a completely destroyed city but now more rebuilt than before. We saw the wine cellars built in the time of the Romans where people lived until forced to evacuate the city entirely. We stood in the cathedral where Joan of Arc's saint on stilts had been destroyed.

Restful American Cemeteries

Our first sight of an American cemetery will forever remain—beautiful, so peaceful, and all are carefully tended. We could not help but shed tears even. We saw two here—the Aisne Marne at Belleau Wood 12,000 graves and the Meuse Argonne (5,073 graves) and visited the graves of many we knew. The wooden crosses are fast being replaced by the marble and granite of Suresnes near Paris on the Seine. We note that all are now marble. The cemeteries all seem to be kept with a hillside and as we stand among these graves, row on row, the Stars and Stripes floating out in the stillness, we feel the benediction of peace everywhere as large as oaks.

Graves of Pennington Boys

We also saw the Romagne cemetery (14,000 graves). At each of these places I visited the graves of Pennington boys I knew. At Romagne I visited the grave of Oscar Bakken, and as we were waiting to go to another section of the cemetery, something seemed to make me turn, and I was looking at the grave of George Preston.

I visited all but one of the six cemeteries in France.

Returning to Paris from Reims I went out to Pontainbleau for Sunday which has been the home of all kings some time or another but especially is associated with Napoleon. One could imagine fairies and nymphs in the forests. So large was the palace Millet painted the Angelus also his home and that of Robert Louis Stevenson. Monday I spent in Versailles way where my son, Morlan, spent six months after peace came. My parents written and shown opened the doors of his friends who were most cordial. The chateau where he was stationed—grounds of 9,000 acres and magnificent castles were gorgeous. They tried to show me how this he was when he came and how fat he was when he left. Tuesday—two short-seeing trips included the Palace of Justice, Pantheon, Louvre, Invalides, Notre Dame and we saw where France buried their beheaded dead besides many other sights.

On To England

In London we visited Westminister Abbey, old Curiosity Shop; saw guards change at Buckingham Palace, parade of house guards, London Museum, etc. The next day we saw the House of Parliament. We went by water from Dover to New Haven and saw the shores of France fade away in the mist. We came from Paris through many orchards in Normandy. We can now understand "Apple Blossom Time, in Normandy." When we reached the station we were surprised to see the trains run right down the city streets to the boat landing. American Legion boys were on this trip with us all others we met always took us as all felt protected. We had then the privilege of dining with good food, shillings, and peace in England, just which could require a lengthy description.

From Southampton, the Alsatian exploited, we proceeded to the leading city

I could die happy if we never reached home.

Visited Peace Treaty Site

It is hard to do any writing immediately after the convention as we were traveling so fast and were always sleepy after the first trip. Before leaving we went up Eiffel Tower and to Versailles and to Suresnes cemetery. This is on the Seine river. Versailles besides being the home of kings and of great historical interest was of unusual interest to us because here we sat in the room and also the table where the peace treaty was signed. We entered the Daily Register at the ex-Kaiser's desk in the French sign. The curtains and screens were strikingly beautiful but the nudity shocking to some of us. However anything suggestive was missing.

Our last days in Paris were motor show days and here in London we found another motor show. The policemen and train men were so very polite to us in our own language we were almost sorry we had not had a war with England. English men are so up and coming—one is king—really "Top-Hole" in our an English expression.

CHRISTMAS
(Washington Irving)

"Of all the old festivals, that of Christmas awakens the strongest and most heartfelt associations. There is a tone of solemn and sacred feeling that blends with our conviviality, and lifts the spirit to a state of hallowed and elevated enjoyment. The services of the church about this season are extremely tender and inspiring; they dwell on the beautiful story of the origin of our faith, and the pastoral scenes that accompanied its announcement; they gradually increase in fervor and solemnity during the season of Advent, until they break forth in full jubilee on the morning that brought peace and goodwill to men. I do not know a grander effect of music on the moral feelings than to hear the full choir and the pealing organ performing a Christmas anthem in a cathedral, and filling every part of the vast pile with triumphant harmony.

"It is a beautiful arrangement, also, derived from the days of yore, that this festival, which commemorates the announcement of the religion of peace and love, has been made the season for gathering together of family connections, and drawing closer again those bands of kindred hearts, which the cares and pleasures and sorrows of the world are continually operating to cast loose; of calling back the children of a family, who have launched forth in life, and wandered widely asunder, once more to assemble about the paternal hearth, that rallying-place of the affections, there to grow young and loving again among the endearing mementos of childhood.

"There is something in the very season of the year, that gives a charm to the festivity of Christmas. At other times, we derive a great portion of our pleasures from the mere beauties of Nature. Our feelings sally forth and dissipate themselves over the sunny landscape, and we "live abroad and everywhere." The song of the bird, the murmur of the stream, the breathing fragrance of spring, the soft voluptuousness of summer, the golden pomp of autumn; earth with its mantle of refreshing green, and heaven with its deep, delicious blue and its cloudy magnificence,—all fill us with mute but exquisite delight, and we revel in the luxury of mere sensation. But in the depth of winter, when Nature lies despoiled of every charm, and wrapped in her shroud of sheeted snow, we turn for our gratifications to moral sources. The dreariness and desolation of our landscape, the short gloomy days and darksome nights, while they circumscribe our wanderings, shut in our feelings also from rambling abroad, and make us more keenly disposed for the pleasures of the social circle. Our thoughts are more concentrated; our friendly sympathies more aroused. We feel more sensibly the charm of each other's society, and are brought more closely together by dependence on each other for enjoyment. Heart calleth unto heart, and we draw our pleasures from the deep wells of living kindness which lie in the quiet recesses of our homes; and which, when resorted to, furnish forth the pure element of domestic felicity."

MERRY CHRISTMAS

Judging from the literature of various periods of history, it seems to be the impression of each generation that the world is growing steadily worse and worse. Writers almost invariably refer to the splendid rounds and customs of the people of the time of their youth, and hold up the corruption which surrounds their maturer years as a sure sign of the gradual decay of humanity. Living back in the early days of the last century, painted beautiful word pictures of the customs of the generation which preceded him, and regretted that so much materialism had crept into the world of his day. Emerson, a few years later, regretted that the fine ideals and beautiful customs of the period in which living lived, had become tarnished by the sordid commercialism of his time. And so on all along the line. It is the same story today. The world is growing worse and worse. The finer things have become corrupt. Everything is commercialized. The fine ideals and the beautiful traditions of our youth are going to the bow-wows.

Something is wrong somewhere. We either see things in too rosy a light when we are young or our vision during our declining days is clouded with too much rheumatism and indigestion.

We really don't believe the world is growing worse. It is changing, of course, with new conditions, and there are undoubtedly many backward steps—but the general movement is forward.

And so with Christmas. The old timers tell us "it ain't what it used to be." The children of today are going to tell their children the same thing fifty years from now. Maybe in a few more years we'll be occupying a reserved seat on the mourner's bench and adding volume to the dirge, but we're not there yet, and so right now we're passing along to you the season's greetings and expressing the sincere wish that your Christmas may be merry, with the honest conviction that such a condition is possible even in this day of commercialism and materialism.

Merry Christmas.

The left hand is a blundering thing—that is, providing you are right handed. We discovered its incapacity the other night when we tried to find a match in the dark. The right hand was occupied so we groped around with the left. We knew exactly where the matches were but somehow we couldn't make the left hand work in the dark. It didn't give us any co-operation and we became thoroughly disgusted with it. This isn't of any special importance except that it reminded us that knowing how a job should be done and being able to do it are two entirely different things. The mind may know how but unless the hands are experienced, little will be accomplished. It is an inspiration to see the educated hand at work—an expert in action, whether the work be repairing shock, slicing round steak or playing a piano.

There is a big difference of opinion in regard to the real character of jolly old Santa Claus. Some of us think he is a robber and a thief. Others, and especially the children, are convinced that he is indeed a saint. But whether robber or saint, he exercises a magic power that doesn't do a bit of harm and perhaps does a lot of good. While we must agree that the old fellow extracts money in a high-handed manner, it has been our observation that those whom he robs of the most, complain the loudest about his depradations. To those of us who have our generous impulses well under control and to whom the act of "giving" is considerable of a novelty, the spirit of St. Nicholas serves as a good annual tonic. May his power never diminish.

Every day in every way we think more and more of Lindbergh. It's positively uncanny the amount of good sense the kid has got. When he first made his big hop we were frankly of the opinion that he was merely another flash in the pan and that the football season and the next big murder would crowd him out of the spotlight. But here he is, booming right ahead like an express train and hob-nobbing with royalty. If we had a couple of more Lindys in the diplomatic service of this country we could scrap the navy this afternoon.

Occasionally, for lack of a more useful occupation, we examine the photographs reproduced in the newspapers and try to figure out from the pictures themselves the reason for their being published. When we arrive at a conclusion we never let the reading matter that goes with them and compare our guess with the facts. It is a pleasant diversion in spite of the fact that we seldom guess right. Frequently our conclusions are in ridiculous contrast with the facts.

"The American working girl does not earn enough to have a sufficiency of both food and clothes," according to one investigator. "If they put as little on the inside as they do on the outside the girls of today must be a hungry lot at that.

A Montevideo department store received a mail order the other day for a pair of "hoes." The order was filled with a pair of stockings, the management concluding that the young lady was a gold digger.

When we read the papers and get a glimpse at the trouble some people have, our own puny difficulties lose a lot of their weight.

The youth of this dull generation is frequently a disappointment to us and that result is to a certain extent true of the younger generation of the present time as the distinctive flavor of cultivated minds. President Neelin of the University of Colorado refers to it as the distinctive aberration of thinly cultivated minds. The symptom of the present day is something that does not manifest itself among youth alone. It is found everywhere, in the literature of realism, sculpture of the nude, defiance more and more of the traditions and ideals of unquestioned respectability and scouring the world for titillating sex stunts.

"If it turns out of youth is the kind which does not greet but which on the contrary asks for facts not flatties, demands truth not veneer, then it will be attended with no great danger, if youth still wishes to learn and is willing to pay the price of learning and at the same time does not seek the destruction of traditions and conventions merely for the sake of destroying them, if it will pay heed to the wisdom of the ages and profit by the advice of the sages, then will cynicism give way to insurgent realism. The determined demand to know the truth is nothing but the manifestation of a healthy mentality whose glorious fruitage is yet to come." Lotus D. Coffman.

CHRISTMAS IN THE APARTMENT HOUSE

JEANETTE KIRBY hurriedly finished dressing and proceeded to tap at the bathroom door and inform her husband, Edwin Kirby, that if he didn't hurry, they'd be late for the Christmas party. Edwin didn't want to go, she knew, but she had insisted, so he acquiesced.

On the other side of the wall, or rather in the other half of the house, dear little Mrs. Whitley opened the door greeted in a genial old dress of former days, and a modest little bonnet topped her silver locks. The Union church had promised to call for her by motor to carry her to their annual holiday party and she was very happy as a result.

That it was, when the clock sounded out the hour of eight, tears flooded the eyes of both women—one because she had been forgotten and the other because her sponsor wouldn't hurry. Both sensed that the other was in front doors of their apartments and had stepped out upon the porch. A beautiful snow had begun to cover the ground and Jeanette knew Edwin hated tramping through a snowstorm, while she, herself, loved it. Mrs. Whitley contended that the young folks of their church had decided she shouldn't venture out in a snowstorm. Neither women noticed the other until a low sob escaped the lips of the elder one.

It was but a few moments until the two women had sobbed out their own pitiful griefs and had decided to have a Christmas party all their own. Edwin Kirby joined most heartily in their plans and made numerous trips to the basement for canned fruit and potatoes, and to the attic where he found the folding cabinet decided that one, some candles, some red bells and popup, and a huge sack of dry popcorn.

What a party! The Kirbys forgot their differences in making dear Mrs. Whitley happy and—in turn, Mrs. Whitley loved the company of young folks. "Never since I died, have I had such a wonderful Christmas party," declared Mrs. Whitley, when she bade the happy child-like couple good morning at her door a number of hours afterward.

"Some good must come out of every misunderstanding, though both women go they closed their eyes to sleep at the end of such a happy Christmas eve."—L. D. Lynde.

Oldest Feast Period

"As a time of feasting the Christmas period is one of the oldest in the calendar. The ancient Scandinavians gradually slotted it with their celebrations and rejoicing over the return of the sun, signifying the beginning of the end of winter—Capper's Weekly.

CHRISTMAS CLIMAX THAT WAS WELCOME

THIS practical and pleasing gift was planned by a son and daughter for their aged parents, who claimed that the joy it carried through all the year was a serious to all questions" Christmas love tokens. When the package, on which was written, "Dear father and Mother, with greetings and our love," was opened there were received twelve parcels of various sizes, shapes and colors.

In the December envelope, which was decorated with seals, Santa Claus pictures, holly, etc., was a five-year subscription to the home newspaper, with snapshots of the grandchildren, the scenes in the son's and daughter's home, friends, etc.

The January package had a small January calendar on it which held a receipt for a year's subscription to a fashion magazine.

The February box contained a sewing time with an original verse which explained a surprise that would arrive early in the month. The surprise proved to be two current magazines, one on Hunting, Trapping, Winter Sports and a woman's Household and Handiwork Magazine.

Cupid pictures of March capers decorated the March parcel, which presented, by a receipt inside, a Home and Gardening publication.

April was in the form of a joke, with a note on which was written in large letters, "Where? What? Why?—April Fool." Through the month a popular weekly Farm and Home Journal arrived each week.

A May basket held coins with lines to the effect that the father and mother could purchase whatever they most desired.

For June was a letter, fittingly decorated, in which were congratulations on the wedding anniversary of the parents, one occurred in this month. There was also a forthcoming an "outing" publication.

As July and August were the months in which the birthday anniversaries of the parents occurred, these packages were wrapped together. In a paper host, on which was pasted a flag, was wrapped a check to cover a trip to the homes of the son and daughter with instructions to purchase a popular Recreation Magazine, as well as highway guides and maps, for the father had a hobby of studying road guides and maps.

When the September magazine arrived it contained a number of greeting postal cards which the parents could send to their friends.

October's envelope was an order for a religious publication.

November's was a copy of a magazine reviewing the interesting topics of the past twelve months, as a fitting climax to the year's reading material which had given such satisfaction.

The son and daughter had arranged with a book stand to deliver the magazines. What a joy they must have experienced in planning this gift, which was indeed a Christmas clinic that lasted throughout the year!—Leslie Welters.

SCHOOL CLOSES FRIDAY GIVING FINE PROGRAM

The local school will close for its annual Christmas vacation on Friday, Dec. 23, which will continue until Jan. 2.

The grades will terminate their work Friday at noon, while the afternoon will be devoted to parties and programs. The fifth, sixth, seventh and eighth grades are planning parties in their respective rooms where games and contests will be played, and small gifts exchanged. The third and fourth grades are giving a charming little program to which the mothers, fathers and all others who are interested are cordially invited to come, and which will be followed by a Christmas party. The primary grades are planning a party to be given for the little folks of the town, and it is expected, if weather permits, that more than fifty children will attend, including the pupils of the first and second grades. All little folks are specially invited to come, for whom special entertainment is being planned.

The faculty members will leave Friday and Saturday for their respective homes. Supt. E. Reiersgord, and Miss Bernice Haseth leave for Ulen Saturday to visit at their parental homes. Principal H. Peterson leaves the same day for Lansford, N. Dak. Miss Florence Haslam leaves Saturday for Devils Lake, N. Dak., and Miss Bertha Thompson leaves Friday for her home at Leonard, N. Dak. Sunday School Program

A series of Christmas programs will be given by the local Sunday Schools during the next few days in the respective churches. The children have been practicing most faithfully and they extend a cordial invitation to attend.

The Swedish Mission Sunday school will give their program at the local church Thursday evening beginning at 8 o'clock. Rev. H. Peterson of Crookston will deliver the Christmas address following which the program will be given.

The Methodist Sunday school will give their program Friday evening at the church beginning at eight o'clock. Rev. H. C. Schonberg of Thief River Falls will speak, after which a fine program of singing and speaking will be rendered.

The Norwegian Lutheran Sunday school will hold their program, Christmas night, beginning at eight o'clock. The Swedish Lutheran will be giving theirs in the local church Monday afternoon beginning at two o'clock.

Seriously Ill

Word was received here the first of the week that Mrs. G. W. Hooper of this village, who has spent the last few months with her daughter Mrs. Ida Peck in Washington, had been taken seriously ill in Tacoma Mrs. Hooper left Tuesday for that city to be with his wife.

A wide circle of friends hope that this illness will be brief and she will shortly be on the road to recovery.

Entertains Friends

Misses Bertha Thompson and Bernice Haseth entertained a number of their friends at the A. Biden home last Saturday evening, by means of a Christmas party. The hosts were assisted in playing progressive games, after which a dainty lunch was served, following lunch gifts were exchanged by the guests. Those present were Edwin Reiersgord, Lloyd Biden, Reuben Peterson and Misses Ellen-ore Hoidare, Alice Ecklor and Lilly Johnson.

Whist Tournament

The local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America held a whist tournament at the A. O. U. W. Hall last Tuesday evening. Despite the bad weather, about sixty people attended. George Bokey, Jr. was winner of the first prize, at 862, while Pat Peterson was given the consolation prize. Lunch was served to all following the games.

Wendell Beebe, who attends Concordia college at Moorhead arrived Saturday to spend his vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Beebe. Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Allen, accompanied by Wendell Corbett, motored to Thief River Falls Tuesday evening to meet with Mr. Corbett, who was a patient at the Sanderling Hospital. ST. PAUL HOG RECEIPTS BROKE ALL U. S. RECORDS

An all-time record in hog receipts was established at the South St. Paul livestock market Wednesday when a total of 47,264 head passed thru the gates.

This number exceeds by more than 2,000 head the previous high record of 46,620, set on December 19, 1924.

Besides setting up a new high mark for the South St. Paul market, the heavy run Wednesday topped receipts at all other markets in the United States, stock yard officials said.

SPOONER SAW MILL DESTROYED BY FIRE

The third fire discovered on property of the International Lumber company in Spooner within the past month destroyed the saw mill and threatened the village. The plant had been idle for some time. The state fire marshall's office had under investigation a fire which was discovered a few weeks ago on a loading platform. A short time previous to that a steam rig was found to be on fire.

Chris. Nesheim spent Saturday afternoon at the Jens Letnes home.

R. A. Gausen was a business caller in Detroit on Tuesday. On Wednesday morning Mr. and Mrs. Gausen left for Gillette Hospital, Thief River Falls, with their little girl who will receive treatment there for a few days. They expect to return to Thief River Falls on Saturday.

HAZEL

John E. Peterson plans on leaving the latter part of the week for a visit at over Christmas with relatives at Fergus Falls where he taught school, to spend the Christmas vacation with his parents.

According to letters received here by relatives from Wisconsin the snow is eight feet deep there on the level and in many places all traffic was at a standstill at the time of writing.

Hearing the musical sounds, his goats handedly suddenly appeared a the foot of the stairs.

"Mr. Dana," she shouted, her fingers in her ears, "What are ya doin'?"

"Playing a violin I've just bought," returned the boarder.

George Gunderson, county superintendent of Schools, visited in our locality on Thursday of last week.

Mrs. Clarence Rees, called on Mrs. Ben Rosland Monday afternoon.

Carl Freeby carried on some fun from himself—resorted to using his finest skill on the roads Saturday. He was assisted by his substitute, Oscar Odegaard.

NEW SCHOOL HOUSE WILL BE ERECTED IN DISTRICT 60

School Will Be Resumed Temporarily in Solberg Home One Mile East of Site

On receipt of plans from the State Board of Education work will be started at once in the erection of a new school house for district No. 60 in Mayfield township, to replace the one destroyed by fire two weeks ago, this action being decided upon last Thursday night at a special meeting of the school board of the district.

The meeting was well attended, all board members being present as well as all other interested parties, including County Supt. Geo. M. Gunderson. Tentative plans call for use of the old foundation, which it has been found is still intact. This will provide a school house about 20 by 70 feet in size, ample room to provide seating capacity for 70 pupils. There are only 78 in the district. The

To Build of Tiner

The present plan is to erect the building, but not to let the exterior finish, as was stated, until such time as the district will be able. Interior work will be installed, for the remainder of the school year, sufficient to suit the needs of the children.

On receipt of a new supply of books school will be opened in the latter home of John Solberg, being made east of the old school house, and in which home the special school is now being held. The teacher, Olga Hegness, was on the city Monday of this week selecting some books from the county superintendent's office for temporary use, and in an interview with a Times reporter stated that she would open a week sooner than the first of the year as supplies permitted. About two and a half months of the present school year have elapsed, leaving four and a half months after school reopens.

ROTARY CLUB MEETING

E. F. Haines continued his talk on Rotary Education at the regular meeting of Rotary club held Thursday noon in the Evelyn hotel, following the special Christmas dinner served the members and guests on that day. Various club members will be called on next week to tell a story, that day having been chosen as Story Telling Day.

WEEFALD STILL CONTESTS

ELECTION OF C. G. SELVIG

The House of Representatives at Washington will probably reach a decision shortly in the charge of former Congressman Knud Wefald that Congressman elect C. G. Selvig is not entitled to a seat in the seventieth congress.

Four other Republican members of the house face similar contests, the first hearing on which is slated for Jan. 6. The senate has been hearing evidence in the two contests, these being the South and Vare cases.

SLAT SNOW FENCES ARE PROTECTING HIGHWAYS

Reports from motorists coming into Thief River Falls the past few days indicate that up to this time the slat snow fences erected by the state and county along the various highways are keeping the highways free from drifts.

Motorists report that a stretch of road north of the city, which in the past always drifted up with some of the first snowfalls, is still free from snow due to the protection afforded by the slat fences.

Another motorist reported that the snow halted in its course over the ground on the road west of the city by the snow fences had piled up to a considerable height over the fences.

1,110,000 TOURISTS SPEND $82,107,000

More than 1,440,000 visitors from other states spent $82,107,000 in Minnesota during 1927, H. C. Hotaling, secretary of the Ten Thousand Lakes association, told 400 delegates to the eleventh annual meeting of the organization at the Curtis hotel today.

Estimated expenditure by visitors increased approximately $11,000,000 over 1926, he said. His investments in resorts have been made during the last three years, with an increase reported seasons to 1926 to 1927 over 600 in 1924.

"Most of the natural new features about the state, which have the greatest appeal will be done," Mr. Hotaling said. "In the end of the state's underground resources for the encouragement of the natural growth of our tourist business."

FIREMEN MAKE EXTENSIVE PLANS FOR NEW YEARS BALL

All those who enjoy tripping the light fantastic toe may begin shining up their dancing pumps now as the Thief River Falls Fire department is planning no slow endurance to make this New Years Ball the best New Years Ball ever staged in the local auditorium. There will be decorations, and attractive confetti, a grand march and novelties galore, nothing of the peppy fox trots made popular by Thief River's favorite entertainers, Ellinger and Bischoff, and their seven piece orchestra. Remember the date Friday night, December 30.

Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, former Yale professor and noted archeologist, discovered a lost city of the Incas in South America.

Cong. Selvig Busy on Lake of Woods Flood Protection

Congressman C. G. Selvig has had several conferences lately with Major R. W. Crawford of Duluth, who went to Washington to report on conditions along the U. S. shores of the Lake of the Woods, Mr. Crawford having been ordered to that point by Chief of Engineers Edward Jadson, chief of engineers at the capitol. As a result an early report is to be made of progress for an appropriation of $400,000 to complete the Lake of the Woods flood protection work under the treaty with Canada.

Considerable alarm was recently felt along the Minnesota shores over the action of the Canadian government in advertising for bids for the construction of dikes along the Canadian side of the Rainy river, but the Ottawa authorities assured Congressman Selvig and Secretary of State Stimson that nothing would be done till after the report of the commission investigating the situation had been made its final report next spring.

Studies by the engineers show that approximately $750,000 will be need for the entire job. Under the treaty Canada advanced $275,000 and agreed to pay 50 per cent of additional expenditures found necessary, with the stipulation that the project be completed in five years. That period will end in June, 1929.

A dam on the Canadian side of the border raised the lake level and prevented valuable rice crops to grow, and the dikes are to prevent any further damage. The dikes do not apply to damage done in the past, however, Canada having paid $200,000 to settle for all claims. Canada will be credited in part for expenditures and flood protection work that the soon in excess of $275,000 that is expected will run it back to the present more eventually by Canada. The Canadian government must be at all the borders of the city.

The report of the engineers commission will be ready in April, it is understood. How dikes must be met, but Canada cannot be taken from the funds for the flood protection project.

WARRANTS UNNECESSARY TO INSPECTION, RULING

A search warrant is unnecessary for game wardens desiring to enter premises of licensed fur buyers for inspections, Clifford L. Hilton, attorney general, ruled today in an opinion given J. E. Godin, state game and fish commissioner.

The question arose when the Hudson Bay Fur company of Duluth recently refused game wardens entrance to fur rooms because they had no warrant.

NINE SHORTHORN HEIFERS DIE FOLLOWING DEHORNING

Octave Lefaive of Gervais, Red Lake county, had the misfortune to lose nine Shorthorn heifers, worth in all $600, last week thru the dehorning process.

The animals had been fed too much sweet clover with the result that they had bloat and become too thin and would not coagulate after the horns were removed. Consequently the animals died to death. Mr Lefaive has been dehorning cattle for 25 years and has dehorned as many as 50 in a single day, but this is the first time he has had disastrous results. He issues a warning to farmers not to dehorn cattle that have been fed on sweet clover.

REMODELS HOME ON SPRUCEDALE FARM

Henry C. Eckland, who several years ago became owner of what was then known as the Borgen farm, located six miles northwest of Thief River Falls, is having the dwelling house remodeled. The interior is being thoroly renovated and refinished, with a new basement of concrete construction for the farm crops and machinery.

Art Knox, who has had a lease for the last five years, will relinquish the same the first of the year, at which time Mr. Eckland will occupy the farm for up-to-date dairy farming.

Elmer Kron, a son of the present lessee, will be the future manager of the farm, which as a matter of identification has been registered under the name of Spruceale Farm.

DR. MELLBY RE-APPOINTED ON STATE BOARD OF HEALTH

Dr O. E. Mellby of this city, L. P. Wold of St. Paul, and Dr. C. G. Marx, White of Minneapolis were re-appointed by Governor Theodore Christianson as members of the Minnesota State Board of Health, their terms expiring in 1933.

ALFALFA HAY AND SILAGE TWO DAIRY REQUISITES

The use of good home grown legume hay and silage is the most economical feeding of dairy cows. The value of the grain portion of the ration will depend largely upon the quantity of these roughages available. The farmer who has a generous supply of good legume hay and a silo full of corn silage will find that his cows will need little grain. Every one should have these roughage feeds.

ELKS AND SALVATION ARMY WILL REMEMBER THE NEEDY

Thirty five baskets and boxes of Christmas cheer will be distributed by the Elks to needy families in the city Saturday of this week, thereby making Christmas a more enjoyable day than would otherwise be the case. The baskets and boxes contain groceries, with a generous quantity of clothing for children and young adults.

The Salvation Army is also distributing nearly as many more baskets to other families than those being taken care of by the Elks, both organizations coordinating their efforts in caring for those who are the most in need of such assistance.

Your Store Is Your Business Partner

Although the United States Census unfeelingly lists housewives as women of "no occupation," every homemaker knows that she practices a hundred professions every day. Being a successful wife is one of the hardest jobs in the world, and the business of homemaking ranks as one of the largest in the country.

The J. C. Penney Company likes to feel that our store is the business partner of every housewife in this town, constantly active and eager to assist her in finding more economical ways of apportioning the family budget.

Especially at Christmastime do we feel this responsibility toward the Family Dollar, and months ago we started to prepare for the time when your thoughts turn giftward.

If every Christmas dollar must do double duty this year, why not talk the matter over with us. Often we can suggest inexpensive yet pleasing gifts that may not have occurred to you. Think of us as your partner in the great business of homemaking. We shall always strive to be worthy of your trust.

SPELL-DOWN AT WINTER SHOWS IS ANNOUNCED

Rural Students in 13 Northwest Minnesota Counties Entitled to Compete

EACH COUNTY ENTITLED TO SEND A CONTESTANT

Costs Will Be Refunded While $18 in Cash Prizes Also Have Been Offered

Spelling lists to be used in the fourteenth annual Red River Valley rural school spelling contest to be held in connection with the annual Winter Shows, Feb. 6-10, 1928, have been prepared by County Supt. Geo. M. Gunderson, who will soon take steps to have Pennington County thus represented at the event in Crookston. The superintendent states that there are several good spellers in the county and that they should enter the contest under favorable conditions.

13 Counties to Compete

Similar lists have been sent to county superintendents in thirteen northwestern Minnesota counties as follows: Beltrami, Clay, Clearwater, Kittson, Mahnomen, Marshall, Norman, Otterail, Pennington, Polk, Red Lake, Roseau and Wilkin. It is expected that delegates will be sent from each of these counties to participate in the final contest.

Each county is to send one of its resident enrolled pupil selected from overruled one or more regularly rendered delegate from upgraded school, providing the delegate has not at the time of the contest completed the eighth grade, or more regularly rendered delegate from ungraded school providing the student has not completed the seventh grade. Pupils who have already won first place in any Winter Shows spelling contest or who have participated in a state spelling contest are not eligible.

Final Contest February 10

Friday, February 10, 1928, is the date set for the final contest. Tests will be given as follows:

1. Individual list of 25 words to be spelled orally by each contestant, in the presence of the director and judges.
2. Written list of 50 words to be given to all contestants.
3. A dictation exercise in which fifteen words have been selected by the judge—no credit for composition.
4. Spell-down.

These tests will be credited as follows: (1) Individual test 25 per cent; (2) written test 50 per cent; (3) dictation test 15 per cent; (4) spell-down 10 per cent.

Cash Prizes Offered

The Winter Shows management will reimburse delegates for transportation upon presentation of receipts by the secretary, practical route based on railroad rates. Boards and meals will also be provided while in Crookston. First prize will be awarded as follows: first prize, $7.00; second prize $5.00; third prize, $3.00; fourth prize, $2.00; five prizes of $1.00 each to the next highest. A championship award, an embossed certificate will be presented to the county scoring the highest in the contest. This award will go to the school from which the champion graduated.

POULTRY SUGGESTIONS WORTH FOLLOWING UP

Next week comes Christmas, the week after New Years and then comes Sheriff L. Morisel notifying the public that he will not allow any other profitable crop of poultry and Christmastown's edict that slot machines must go would be enforced.

Without Snow Warroad Faces Wood Famine Says Warroad Pioneer

Warroad is facing a peculiar situation, in that the city is right in a wooded district, and yet today has a wood famine.

Grand Forks with within the past year was also threatened with a wood famine, but this city has an ample supply of wood close by such as Warroad.

The trouble here was that shipments from up north and truck loads of wood from the surrounding country could not be had due to the excessive snowfall last winter, which prevented hauling the wood to market, and at the same time prevented the cutting of wood to be used for this year.

At Warroad, according to The Pioneer of that city, the fuel supply is on set—at least not sufficient to make, it necessary to be impossible to get into the timber with a wagon.

Wood dealers there state there is no fuel to buy shortage of wood or coal here this winter.

STATE GETS $232,505 IN INHERITANCE TAXES

Inheritance taxes totaling $232,505 were paid the state last week on the estate of Fred F. Stork of Minneapolis, the state attorney general's office announced. Mr. Stork, president of the Stork-Fisch Co., was a believer in reserves, a branch of which is located in Thief River Falls, Minnesota. After the death of his wife, Mr. Stork

The estate was valued at $7,584,544. The bulk of it was left to his widow and six children. Each of the four daughters and two sons received approximately $910,000.

Mr. Brown also said partial payment of taxes is to be made on the estate of William J. Dewey of St. Louis county. The tax was fixed at $166,776 by the St. Louis county Probate court, pending completion of evaluation of the estate.

Mr. Curran died November 27, 1926. Value given the estate was $1,779,913.

KITTSON COUNTY MEN ENTERTAIN LANCASTER

Rudolph Johnson of Kennedy and Ernest Anderson of Hallock were arrested last week east of Lancaster by a state game and fish department warden on a charge of carrying a gun in their auto contrary to state law, it is said, as that gun was not either taken apart or enclosed in a case when in an auto. The men pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Schoe of Lancaster and were fined $10 and costs, which were immediately paid.

SLOT MACHINES IN CITY DISAPPEAR ON ORDERS OF POLICE

No Raids Here Like Those at East Grand Forks by Sheriff of Polk County

Mint vending-machines, which for a few days a month ago disappeared from several places in the city and then made their reappearance, to the number of nearly 25 were ordered removed last week by Chief of Police A. W. Crowen, acting on orders of County Attorney H. O. Berve, the proprietors of the various establishments being advised that they would be confiscated if again brought into use.

Such was not the case last week with 22 East Grand Forks establishments where they, also coin vending machines of business, were raided by Polk county officers to the number of thirty one. These deputies under sheriff Ivey Crookston Saturday morning in trucks and automobiles arrived at East Grand Forks simultaneously raided the various places, taking 117 slot machines valued at over $25,000, and which contained close to $3,000 in cash. Some of the machines had been in operation for as a dollar, Sheriff Ira Hauven stated. No arrests were made, nor was there any search warrant.

"Any county officials easily this week could have started a clean-up," Sheriff L. Morisel notifying the public that he will not allow any other profitable crop of poultry and Christmastown's edict that slot machines must go would be enforced.

The Season's Greetings!

Another year is about concluded. To most of us it has represented a year of hard work—in fact often time difficult and discouraging—but during that time many tasks have been accomplished and the more difficult they have been the greater our pleasure in reviewing them.

No doubt the New Year now facing us will present its difficulties and problems as well, and we meet it with a clean slate and keen anticipation of whatever it may hold forth.

And so—

We Trust That Your Christmas will be Merry, and that the New Year will Prove Both Happy and Prosperous to You.

Hi Line Interests Buy Clearbrook Plant From Thos. Vollom of Erskine

A deal was consummated last week whereby Thos. Vollom of Erskine sells his electric light and power plant at Clearbrook to the Interstate Power company, according to H. V. Jensen, who represents the company in this section, and who has just located in this city, which he considers more central and better adapted for his inspection work.

The Interstate company by this addition to its numerous plants will now serve every village between Bemidji and Crookston, while north and northwest of here Warren and Roseau are about the only places not hooked up with the company, which has physical connections with the service of the Northern States company.

The electric plant at Clearbrook was established by Mr Vollom eight years ago, and was known as the Clearbrook Electric Co. It was one of the few private electric plants remaining in this section of Minnesota

Snow Fall Here Has Not Handicapped Rural Mail Carriers as Elsewhere

Thief River Falls and vicinity has had no more than a few storms and experienced thrumout the state in general, but two last week one of the severest this week. Automobiles are still in use, and the rural mail carriers, despite weather, not only by people in the city, but also by travelling men and by the rural carriers themselves.

Postmaster Daniel Shaw stated that the mail carriers on the various routes out of the city have been fitted with runners in front, and with two extra runners on the rear, the latter two runners on right after snowfalls only, otherwise they have no use for them.

The carriers have been able to cover their routes during the forenoon, to come to the post office generally before the noon train arrives from the south.

Ardent 4-H Club Winner Describes Chicago Trip

Natalie Woolson, owner of the champion 4-H Club calf in the Thief River Valley Crop show held at Crookston in February 1927, was awarded a free trip to Chicago to attend the International Livestock Exposition in December. Natalie completed this trip for having done the 4-H Club work in this city's territory.

Minnesota Club workers left St. Paul for Chicago in special trains, each group being in the care of a club leader, T. A. Erickson of the University of Minnesota accompanied the group of which Natalie was a member.

Arriving at Chicago, Natalie's first impression was of a dusty, musty, smoky place where there were so many, many people. Fifty per cent of boys and girls had never seen such a streetcar before, and were identified as "rubes" by the natives.

After unloading their baggage at the Chicago Central depot, which has the highest spire of any church and the deepest foundation of any building in Chicago.

The following days were spent attending sessions of the National 4-H Club congress, to which there were delegates from Ontario and forty one states, and viewing the many interesting sights of Chicago.

Probably the most interesting tour, said Natalie, was that to Lincoln Park where the greenhouses, fish, hatcheries, aviaries, and zoos were on interesting. The general tours of the city, were very instructive, according to her account of the Art Institute, the largest of its kind in South America, and other noteworthy large buildings.

Traveling on the elevated railroads, the Club members visited Hull-House and Dill Pickle Parks. One entire day was spent at the stockyards, where, as Horse Boy was appropriately named.

Talk of travelling into residence was said Natalie, all free trip was wonderful. I saw and learned more things than I can tell.

EXTENSION SERVICES PROVE WORTH, SAYS U. S. FARM WORKER

97 Per Cent of Farmers Are Affected, Asserts Speaker at University Sessions

A large majority of modern farmers make practical use and derive profits from agricultural extension work as conducted by state universities and the federal department of agriculture, according to M. C. Wilson of the U. S. department of agriculture, who was one of the leading speakers at the annual meeting of the county agents of Minnesota, attended last week by Robert M. Douglas of this city, who received accepted the position here as successor to J. G. McCann. Over 130 agents were present at the various sessions held at the university farm.

Farmers Appreciate Work

Mr Wilson said that the department of agriculture has just completed a survey which showed that essentially 9,351 farmers in 11 states to determine the effectiveness of extension work. On 97 per cent of these farms, he said, it was found that the farmers made practical use of extension advice, demonstrations and farm helps.

Demonstrations Prove Helpful

Demonstrations in extension work, as of actual methods of carrying out farm practices, such as poultry culling by the rural carriers, he also mentioned, proved the most effective in bringing the new practices into general operation. General meetings, short courses, news stories, correspondence and extension schools, were also effective, Mr. Wilson said, with the news stories showing the highest efficiency on the basis of actual results. He also stated that the agents spend only 4 per cent of their time in preparing news items concerning the work, Mr. Wilson said.

WE BELIEVE

Habit is a cable; we weave a thread of it each day until it becomes so strong we cannot break it.

WHAT IS HAPPINESS

Happiness is expectation, and nothing else.

To be always looking forward, to be always striving, that is happiness. Only when we cease to pursue, only when we look back and see that realization never brought the joyous thrill we expected, only then do we become unhappy.

So long as we press on, still hoping and expecting that the next realization will be all that we dreamed, we remain happy. To some this will seem a statement that happiness is an illusion and that it is foolish to pursue a rainbow. It is so. Think when you will. But before you do that, think. You will be dreaming, hoping, expecting once again.

It is the will to live that leads you on, the will to get somewhere, the eternal desire. You can only escape it by dying and even at the last moment it will likely be so to you, and the last expiring flicker of intelligence will be hope that it is only Sleep and not Death that calls.

PAST YEARS AT THIS TIME

December 16, 1926—

A successful party in the charge of Miss Marion McMillan, girls' coach, was staged in the high school gym Friday when the winners in the girls' volleyball contest enjoyed a Middy party given them by the losers.

The Colonial Art exhibit housed in the Central School building, for the student and city population toward its fine educational display of some of the world's masterpieces in art, December 13-17.

The Crookston Aggies roared out a 18-18 victory over the locals in a basketball game at the Northwest School, Crookston, Friday.

The members of the Glee Clubs and orchestra who made the operetta, The Lass of Limerick Town, such a pronounced success met in the high school gym for a party in their honor by their instructor, Miss Maude I. Johnson.

Attention Alumni!

With 125 left to sell in order to reach the 500 mark necessary for a one hundred per cent annual, the Prowler sale campaign is being renewed this week. Those alumni in town, as well as enlightment students, are being solicited by the senior girls, who constitute the reserve force.

Although upwards of one hundred letters with stamped self-addressed cards enclosed were mailed to alumni only a dozen local men and women signified their intention of buying an annual. Reduced to such a minimum of inconvenience, better results than this were expected from Lincoln graduates. Even if cards were not mailed you, just your name and address sent in flee fi, will insure you receiving an annual in the spring.

Every day this year-book comes nearer. Reserving the book utterly from a concern, it is becoming more of a reality. The ideas are there. The only thing lacking is, of course, financial support. This we must have; to you in turn for it.

Knox Building Has Christmas Program

The fifth and sixth grade pupils gave the following program at 3 o'clock this afternoon:

Instrumental music.
Song—Welcome.
Playlette, "A Christmas Want Supplied."
Instrumental music.
Dialogue, "Mrs. Randy's Christmas."
Instrumental Music.
The Knox Harmonica band, directed by Miss Borchert, will play, "Old Black Joe," "Good King Wenceslas," and "Silent Night."
Closing song.

Tomorrow afternoon there will be a general assembly at which pupils will sing the Christmas carols. After the singing, pupils will go to their individual rooms and exchange the Christmas party, promised by the teacher. Two Christmas gifts will be distributed.

GREETING

A right merry Christmas, a jolly new year,
Are just on the threshold—pretty soon they'll be here—
A festival to save on hand,
The children in school feet together to sing
About the Christ Child, 'bout the birth of the king;
There's rejoicing all over the land.

The tree is all trimmed, the parents are glad;
To prevent a grand rush—father Time is defied;
Are you sure that your shopping is done?
The kiddies have written to old Santa Claus;
The mailman brings bundles with a slip and a toss.
Oh boy! Won't we all have some fun?

School is soon out and our scholarly Will be rid of—for that we won't shed many tears;
Let's hope that we've all earned a rest (?!).
You know, I'm more blessed to give than to get;
If you stick to that motto, you'll be happy we bet.
For this Christmas—we wish you the best!

A Christmas Epistle

Dear Santa Claus:
This Christmas as usual you will find my grief stocking hanging by the fireplace. Last year you filled it with things to wear, but this Christmas I want something that I can enjoy and play with. Please, please, dear Santa, give me the following articles:

Three of the latest magazines—"Detective Stories", "Western Magazines", "How to Join the Movies", because I love good and instructive literature.

A small horn which I can blow tunes on, so that someday I might join Mr. Tolsen's band. I've got a clarinet but I'm too lazy to play it. I own one deck of cards as I gave away out my last deck playing Solitary, and a pair of skates so I can teach the girls.

A set of Tin Soldiers is my last request.

From a fitz, bitz boy who is very obedient, agreeable, polite, well-mannered, sweet tempered and a little gentleman whom you all love dearly,

Carl Swedenlure.

ADVANCED SHORTHAND NOTES

The advanced shorthand class has been doing transcription work since the beginning of the term. At the present time they are able to take dictation of business letters at the rate of fifty words per minute. and practice material between 80 and 90 words per minute. It is not only important for the stenographer to get all the dictation, but he must be able to read back his notes and also to reverse his measuring up to this standard.

Members of the class have made a few of the grades. Each individual has decided on the goal he wishes to attain in the December tests, with the lowest grade being from 40 to 60 words per minute.

LIBRARY GETS MAGAZINE RACK

A magazine rack, made by Mr. Pope, is a new addition to the high school library. It contains eleven spaces in which the magazines are placed according to their class. Those which have already been placed in the rack are: Minnesota Chats, Minnesota Journal of Education, Review, Weekly Week Forum, School Life, Health Journal, and Musical America. The remaining spaces still remaining provides room for more magazines to be added later. Besides being very neat looking, the rack makes it possible for the student to see at a glance the magazine he wishes to find. The removal of the magazines from the tables also provides more book room there.

CLEVER OUTFIT FROM MOORHEAD DEFEATED T. R. F.

Whippets Put Up Great Fight But Could Not Stem Onrush of Visitors

In wins proved to be the finest game of the season thus far and probably one of the finest that will be staged here Coach Boe's Whippet lead by Capt. Erwin Erickson, defeated and held the mighty Moorhead quint to a close finish with Moorhead taking the long end of a 25-19 score. The auditorium was packed with students, teachers, newspapers, and out-of town visitors drawn thither by the knowledge of the tremendous battle that was in store. The game was characterized by aggression of basket shooters and the Thief River Falls Whippets. The audience was evidently not lacking in vocal power judging from the pandemonium that was supreme in the hall when the game ended.

Moorhead presented a very clever outfit, exceedingly fast in team play, and the accuracy in shooting ability. Their defensive ability was of the strong, sure type characteristic of a team of its rank.

The Whippets put up a great fight, being practically equal to the visitors during the first half which ended 11-10 for Moorhead. When the score was tied 10-10 shortly before the whistle even the most skilful teacher and town-citizens gave forth such a variety of unearthly noises that the innocent zoulie feared for the sanity of some of the more enthusiastic. A foul shot by Moorhead brought the score to 11-10 when the half ended.

During the latter half the Moorhead quint started out with renewed vigor with the Whippets close behind. It turned out, however, that Whippets fell a little too far behind as Moorhead scored 4 field goals during the third quarter to advance the count to 19-15. During the final quarter the Whippets attempted desperately to overcome the lead and nearly succeeded. The Whippets scored eight points while Moorhead scored 4 points bringing the final score to 25-18.

Outstanding Players

In looking over personal playing of the players it was found that Boy Own and Capt. Erlson were tied for high point honors with 8 points each. Ole Pahlen, stellar Moorhead guard, scored two field goals while John Arnold scored another in the latter half which left Moorhead in the lead.

Moorhead's Offense, Good

The two teams had a somewhat different form of play. Moorhead excelled in the passing game due to the fact that their play was faster, that they were the instant they got the ball whereas the Whippets waited until everyone was ready, giving the opposition a better opportunity to break up the play. Thief River was equal to the occasion in their defense but Moorhead's spurt of attack proved too much for them.

The game was considerably delayed by the fact that Principal Smith of Fergus Falls who was to have refereed the game was unable to arrive because of delay in the trains. As a final resort when the crowd was ready to "kill" the delay, Harry Lawrence of Warren consented to referee the game. Although not entirely prepared to officiate Mr. Lawrence did a splendid job in very fitting manner, being very fair in all his decisions.

Line-up

The lineups were: Thief River Falls: H. Dahlby, rf; S. Severson, rf; R. Dan, c; G. Dahlow, f; R. Ericson, f; Boy Arnold for G. Dahlow. Moorhead: Neuhaus, rf; Freeman, c; Moran, c; Walker, f; Halmrast, f.

Points Toward Sweaters in Volleyball Are Announced

The Girls' Volleyball teams had their tournament last week. Those playing were as follows: Seniors, first team, Marguerite Johnson, Captain; Clara Grinde, Lillette Quist, Florence Erickson, Ruth Bradley, Dorothy Jewett. Second team, Ellen Grinde, Captain; Alma Olson, Ethel Patten, Hazel Lucille Rayson; Sophomores, first team, Hester Dahlen, Captain; Gervaise Fellner, Millicent Arnold, Harriet Helquist, Gladys Bowers, and Anna Hustad; Freshmen, first team, Ruth Bradley, Captain, Vera Erickson Evelyn Bradley, Alice Larson; second team, Bessie Carlson, Elanea Backland, and Lucille Hanson; third team, Mildred Keenes and Lois Stonfahl.

Those playing the best during the basketball tournaments were: Evelyn Bradley, Freshman; Harriet Helquist, Sophomore; Ethel Patten, Ellen Grinde, Lucille Rayson, Juniors; Clara Grinde, Senior.

The Seniors triumphed over the lower classmen by winning the championship. The Juniors ranked second, the Sophomores third, and Freshmen fourth.

The girls who made first team received one hundred fifty points toward their school letters. Those making the second and third teams received one hundred points, respectively. The All Star team will be chosen this week.

ORIGINALITY OF STUDENTS DEVELOPED BY MISS LEAVITT

To encourage the festive spirit of Christmas, Miss Minnie Leavitt, instructor of English III, has been stimulating the days of late work. Divided her rush class into four or five groups, the individuals have each prepared programs—these being presented to the class. Original dialogues and skits, as well as standard poems and Christmas plays, were offered.

Miss Leavitt's purpose in deviating from her regular schedule of work is to develop the originality of some students while providing effective training in public speaking for all.

Various forms of literature and classes found it interesting to attend some of these programs.

Let's Get Better Acquainted Thru Faculty Questionaire

Interview No. 31

Into the principal's office went the interview editor this week. The worthy authority was seated at his desk working, but consented to answer whatever questions were put to him, although he first examined what "Am I going to be put on the rack next?"

The old cat prohibited the hard-hearted questioner from beginning:

What is your full name?

"Harold Curtis Anderson," quoth Hand. I wish the first and second names were always spelled out. The owner of this name then unconsciously started to draw various pictorial figures on paper lying on his desk. Who he services? However, the editor forgot.

Why did you go to Macalester college?

"Hmmm—(the one being questioned looked down)—Oh, let me see—years there were a lot of Scotch-Irish people there, I guess, and also there was excellent chance to work my way through."

Why didn't you name your son Percival Harold Curtis instead of Tommy?

Mr. Hand promptly looked up and replied: "Because I wanted him to be a he-man. That's plenty enough. I didn't want to load him down with a handicap like that as well as his last name."

What is your opinion of a uke-ule player?

Following a "slow but sure" smile was the reply: "I really haven't any opinion."

Therefore all this time Mr. Hand had kept up his act well.

Would you advise all students to get married while in college?

The principal looked down at his work, his handsome profile was visible to the writer, and answered: "Just the good looking ones. It takes more nerve than brains. Not advisable."

Would you consider it permissable in high school?

"Oh no," was the quick retort.

Perhaps you, having experienced anxieties connected with Tommy's escapades, can answer the question—is he like some horse?

"Hmm—I've never looked into the psychology of the matter. Better ask Mr. Pye about that."

Did you ever own a racing stable? (The gentleman smiled.) Well, there are always referring to horses. (This evidently made the question much clearer.)

"No, I never have, I used to own a mustang when I was a boy and mustang pony. Maybe I inherited some of my enemy traits from that critter. (At this point the victim leaned back in his chair, and seemed to be lost in space, but after ten seconds time he went back to his drawing, which by now had a resemblance to something those of serial bridges).

What is your candid opinion about jazz?

After covering up the face and then rubbing his eyes, Mr. Hand answered: "That's a poser. A little is probably all right, but in large quantities it is rather sickening to me. Let me add that the jazz we had the way Mr. Tolsen plays it."

What is the value of a course in Commercial Law?

Mr.—technical questions. It's a rule and guide in many business cases."

Have you noticed any distinctive feature about our school?

"Yes, I have—one of these in particular. First and foremost, the enthusiasm and responsiveness of the students in spite of delay in the trains. As a final resort when the delay seems to be in high school for a purpose—myself included—I usually do a 'filly-dally' until (This a sincere manner and tone.) Miss Maude L. Johnson then entered with an announcement. Thereupon Mr. Hand gathered his art work temporarily. When she left—

Why is it that you always insist on suffixing "but it" to your statement? I'll like to be pleasant."

"With some students you seem to have to be severe. They're the ones I'm—"

What is your highest ambition?

"My highest ambition? (Mr. Hand, apparently at ease tipped his chair back. He must have been on the witness stand.) I guess it's to make my pencil ascending in the world some time during the next twenty years."

Seal Campaign Returns in Schools Hit $231.23 Mark

The Christmas Seal campaign put on under the direction of Superintendent Morris Bye and Gladys Blair, school nurse, netted a neat sum. The total sales in the elementary schools this year amounted to $231.23, or $76.57 more than last year, when the total was $152.66. The total for the city last year was $195, and some odd cents. What it will amount to for the city this year is not yet definitely known until after Christmas, when the business men check in their sales.

The total sales in the different schools were: Northrop, $64.47; Helen Hagglen, $58.53; Lincoln, $51.78; Central, $52.45; a total of $231.23 in the four schools.

The sales in nearly every room amounted to enough to secure one room setup, while in the right room enough seals were sold to get two setups. The record sale was made by Edna Larson's room at the Washington school, her pupils selling 1,371 seals. Aneta Dahquist's pupils were a very close second with 1,227 seals sold, and Alice Peterson's room came in a strong third, selling 1,200 seals. The other rooms selling seals in sales of $10 or more are: John Hem's room, $12.50; Carrie Johnston's room, $12; Ruby Soug's room, $11.35; Ruth Peterson's room, $10; Gladys Ryan's room, $10.

The pupils earned 244 "Linky" enamel and 645 buttons. Credit for being made to have the pupil award being in time so that they can be distributed on the day school closes for Christmas vacation. This may be difficult since the Minnesota Public Health association has the reports of 10,000 schools to check. The seals orders will probably not be here until after Christmas.

DIST. BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT WILL BE PLAYED IN T. R. F.

Eight Teams Assured Taking Part in Event Scheduled for Mch. 1 and 2

At a meeting of the district committee of the county, O. Hagen, chairman, Supt. Fred Ahlstrom, and Principal H. E. Hand of this city held last night it was decided that the tournament will again be held in Thief River Falls, March 1 and 2.

The committee prepared the plans for the tournament and are well worthy of consideration. This year's tournament will be an eight-team tournament instead of four of five as last year. This is brought about by suspending the rule requiring five consecutive games to be eligible for the tournament. In previous years three teams have always been eliminated last year they were Goodrich, Brooks and Roseau. The number between schools such as St Hilaire, Middle River and others will be permitted to enter. This year's Middle River team, giving them an opportunity to play a good they really are. The tournament will be the biggest ever held in this county with eight teams assembled at Thief River Falls.

Pairing of Teams Changed

The greatest and most important change is that concerning the pairing of the teams. It might be well to explain this change for the benefit of our readers in order that they may understand the reason for the pairings or they will look for Mentor. Each of the eight teams will receive a number. The lots will be numbered on the completion of their season's schedule. Mentor with the best percentage, record will be No. 1 the next low No. 2 and so on down. The graded school will be No. 8. Eight, if one of the eight teams fails to qualify, or the "deserving" team will be given a "bye" if they all register in the race.

Best Game Will be Last

According to this system strong teams will be matched against fairly weak ones during the first game. Then if things work out as expected the strong teams will of course, come out ahead of the weak ones. In this way the two strongest teams in the district, or the "deserving" two will be pitted against that is, if there is no subsequent upset in any of the games.

The idea behind the best game will be reserved till the last whereas last year the deciding game of the tournament was the first game, when Warren met and defeated Thief River.

Christmas Music Pamphlet Upholds Outside Caroling

So great has become the presentation of Christmas music by various groups and singers that the public has been evidenced a need for a clearing house for information on such music. An effort to meet that need has been made by the National Bureau for the Advancement of Music. The bureau has been active in promoting the practice of outdoor Christmas caroling, first received on a large scale in this country by the city of Detroit. To its informative material on caroling, the bureau has just added a pamphlet, Music for Christmas Caroling, in which various kinds of musical performances at Christmas time. That pamphlet is intended as a guide, not only for churches and Sunday schools, but for parent-teacher associations, public schools, young peoples' societies, girl scout and boy scout organizations, and for various community centers and settlements.

40 High Schools Enter Longest Essay Contest

Forty Minnesota high schools have entered the essay contest sponsored by the League of Women Voters, politics in which prof in names is offered to stimulate interest in local government.

"My Home Town" is the topic assigned for the essays, which must be in the office of the league at the University of Minnesota by February 20.

Professor William Anderson, head of the political science department at the university; Theodore Blegen, superintendent of the Minnesota Historical society; Harvey Wellsley, acting secretary of state, will be the judges.

Selection of the winners will be made early in March. Each school will be limited to 10 essays.

Few of Faculty to Go Home During Holiday Vacation

The following teachers will spend Christmas vacation at their homes or with friends. Miss Kreeger will visit relatives in Atkinson, Nebraska; Mr. Burlingame, Boone, Iowa; Miss Tolsen will spend part of the time with his folks at Hancock, Minnesota, and will then visit friends in Illinois; Miss Ellis, Minneapolis, Miss; Miss Stenson, Gary, Minnesota; Miss Mackenzie, Hilfred, North Dakota; Miss Stenerson, Moorhead; Miss MacMillan will spend a day with her parents at Grand Forks, after which she will visit at Chicago, Illinois, with her sister, Marion, who taught here last year.

Taken to Divide Band After Holiday Season

The boys' junior band is making remarkable progress under Director Schmeister, L. F. Tolsen. After rehearsing for the past few weeks they are able to play some peppy marches at the basket-ball games. This no doubt puts snap into the players as well as the attendants. The music played is very much to their liking.

The beginners band that was started last September will be divided up into two bands after the Christmas holidays. This will give those who have practiced diligently an opportunity to advance more readily than those who have been careless.

Mr. Tolsen wishes to increase the membership of the junior band after Christmas by the addition of approximately eighteen to twenty beginners. This will make the total number almost fifty. With the enrollment better work can be accomplished.

NORTHROP NOTES

All the grades will have their Christmas parties this afternoon. After a little "Jackson" program, there will be a distribution of candy in bags and boxes.

The second grades have a new language book called—the "Language Game", which they will start after Christmas vacation.

The fourth B grade, on their product map of the United States, have designated the products of the North Central states.

The third grade is getting some lessons in Geography in their study of "Homes We Live In."

Some of the children in Miss Soag's room made drums, symbols and tambourines for their orchestra.

Adrian Lorentzen has been confined to his home for the past two weeks with rheumatic fever.

The third grade has planned a Christmas for the birds during vacation. They will trim a tree with crumbs and other bird foods.

STATE DEPARTMENT OF BANKING SUING MARSHALL COUNTY

Effort Being Made to Recover Notes Given as Collateral on County Deposits

Marshall county is threatened with a peculiar suit, the State Banking department having started proceedings to recover notes now held by the county as collateral on a deposit made in the Farmers' State bank of Virgilia, which closed last summer, the matter being argued before Judge William Watts of Crookston at a special term of the Marshall county district court held in Warren last week.

First Case of Kind in State

The case is the first of its kind in the state, with only four or five similar cases in the United States, according to W. O. Hentges, county attorney for Marshall county.

The case came about after the closing of the Virgilia bank, wherein the county had made a deposit of $5,000. The deposit became due and the county wanted the money, but in order to not deplenish the bank's cash reserve, notes totalling this amount were turned over to the county as collateral for the deposit. The state banking department is the suit against the county is attempting to recover the notes given to the county.

GOVERNOR'S ENDORSEMENT OF CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE

The people of Thief River Falls and Pennington county still have an opportunity to buy Christmas seals which have been on sale for some time past. They can be secured at Lamberts, Gans, Penneys or The Times.

Governor Christianson has issued an endorsement of the seal campaign, saying that the twentieth annual Christmas seal sale, conducted by the Minnesota Public Health association, to finance the fight against tuberculosis, "carries the white-handed spirit of the people of Minnesota. Last year the deaths from this disease in this state numbered 1,566, and it is estimated that there are approximately 15,000 active cases within its borders at the present time.

The fine work of your Association in the prevention of tuberculosis and in the establishment of the facilities for care and treatment of those afflicted with the disease, convinces me that every citizen of the state should do something to promote this work by buying Christmas seals.

Wishing you every success in your endeavors, I remain

Very truly yours,

Census of Thief River Falls To Be Taken in 1930 Mayor Is Advised

Mayor W. W. Pelland is in receipt of a communication from the census bureau of the Department of Commerce under date of Dec. 7, asking for a map of the city, and any information that might be of assistance in the taking of the local census in 1930.

According to the government figures this city was credited with a population of 4,865 in 1920, which did not include the territory lying just outside of the city limits.

The last directory with this portion of the Township of North included, gave the population as close to 6,000.

The communication was turned over to City Clerk F. G. Peterson for the purpose of sending a map, which is the same as last time, there having been no enlargement of the city limits, nor change in the ward boundaries.

JUDGES SELECTED FOR WINTER SHOWS

Livestock, Farm Crops, Boys and Girls' Departments Have Been Enlarged

Outstanding judges have been selected to place the awards in the annual department of the forthcoming Red River Valley Winter Shows, which will be held at Crookston, February 6-10, 1928. Dean W. C. Coffey, recognized as one of the leading authorities in America, will pass on the sheep classes; Professor H. H. Kildee, Northwestern set forth. Kildee will judge horses; W. H. Peters, Cuba, Illinois, the dairy cattle; and H. L. Rummel, Omaha, the beef animals; H. L. Donovan, dairy cattle, and H. G. Zavoral, swine.

Crops Division

In the crops division, Professors J. Olson of the North Dakota Agricultural college, will judge the corn exhibits, exhibits of which in Minnesota Crop Improvement association, will judge the grains, while the seed exhibits will be made by A. G. Tolaas who is in charge of seed inspection and certification work in Minnesota. For the first time, prizes are being offered for bee and honey products, which will be placed by Professor J. W. Thompson of the University of Minnesota.

POSTMASTER NOMINATIONS

ATTEMPT IS TO BE MADE TO INCREASE SUGAR IMPORT DUTY

Sugar Beet Growers of Valley Cannot Compete Now With Philippine Growers

Sugar beet raisers of the Red River valley will be interested in learning that a restriction of the amount of sugar imported into the United States free of duty from the Philippines was advocated in resolutions adopted by the U. S. Beet Sugar Association at a meeting in Chicago last week.

The American sugar industry is faced with an economic crisis, the resolutions declared, due to increasing invasion of the domestic market by sugar produced in the tropical countries under cheap Oriental labor, and under standards of living with which the American farmer and manufacturer cannot compete.

Philippine Restriction Removed

Prior to 1913, it was pointed out, a limit of 300,000 tons was placed upon the amount of Philippine sugar admitted without duty. But since the enactment of the Underwood tariff act of that year, Philippine sugar up to any quantity has been admitted free of duty. The resolutions urged the restriction of the original 300,000 tons limit on Philippine sugar as a means of protecting the American sugar industry.

Production Trebles in 15 Years

Enormous expansion of sugar production in the Philippines since the repeal of the restrictions is a potential menace to the American sugar industry, the resolutions set forth. Exports of sugar from the Islands to the United States have increased 500 per cent since 1913. Production has risen from 345,000 tons annually to over 2,000,000 tons. With an enormous supply of cheap "Oriental" labor and vast areas of fertile land still available for cane culture and with capital planning the exploitation and expansion of the sugar industry of the Islands, the possibilities of further expansion, it was declared, are practically without limit.

COUNCIL WILL MEET LAST TIME IN 1927

The city council is scheduled to hold the second meeting of December next Tuesday evening, which will be the last meeting of the present council elected two years ago, but which was returned to office in November last. The first meeting of the city fathers in the new year will be Tuesday evening, January 3, at which time they will appear for the ensuing two year term.

REV. DAHLE ACCEPTS CALL TO ST. HILAIRE

Rev. M. L. Dahle, pastor of the Norwegian Lutheran church of this city for the past seven years, has accepted a call to St. Hilaire, Minnesota, and will preach all the final Sunday sermons in the Zion congregation of that place. His work here will be terminated in March, at which time he will move to St. Hilaire, where he will serve two congregations.

Her father John Hanson is a railway fireman at that place was out to Thief River Falls the same evening, but owing to the stormy weather and the impassable roads he decided not to include Rosewood in his brief visit.
Erick the Swede' all from Newfoundland was here on Friday evening, having rented the hall for a dance, but owing to the stormy weather the attendance did not warrant holding the dance. The boys furnished some excellent music to a few of the local folks and later went up to Grandpa Opseth's where they spent a social time.
Misses Evelyn Samuelson and Florence Mellem left on Friday evening for Thief River Falls where they spent the week-end shopping and visiting. Evelyn also attended her confirmation class.
Ole Steen and Harry Myrom from Nordan township were Rosedale Saturday visiting with Gust Opseth. Harry also attended the directors' meeting of the Rosedale Shipping association in the forenoon.
Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Furan were out from Thief River Falls on Thursday evening to visit with Mr. and Mrs. John Sagmoen.
A number of local people motored to Thief River Falls on Thursday to see the new Ford which was on display that day at the Sanborn garage.
Joel E. Skoberg motored to Viking on Thursday afternoon to some matters at the Viking garage.
The Rosewood Shipping association met on Saturday forenoon and re-appointed Emil Axelson manager for another year.
J. A. Hellquist was elected as president and Pearl Bunnell as vice president.
The Rosewood Farmers club entertained the members at an invitation party at the Ed Evelyn home Monday evening. Mrs. Clove Bergum was first prize among the women and Otto Bergum among the men. The consolation prize was played at four corners.
Mrs. Herb Severson and daughter Myrtle left on Tuesday for North Dakota and will visit for some time with Mr. Severson's parents Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Thorson.

I AM the Great Northern Railway...Eleven thousand miles of tracks, sixty thousand cars and twelve hundred locomotives are my body and sinew...Thirty thousand loyal workers are my heart and soul...You and I and the Northwest have all grown up together...When I came buffaloes roamed the plains; the mountain fastnesses held secure their secrets...I blazed my trail and laid my bands of steel.

All has changed since then...Christmas carols float through the air to thousands of happy Yuletide firesides where, when I came, no man abided.

Prosperity and disappointment we have shared alike—and together—during these many years...You have conquered the soil, the forests, the streams, and the mountains...Together we face the future with confidence, happy in the thought that the future of the Northwest is before and not behind us.

As You and Your Dear Ones gather around your Christmas trees, I wish you well...We are with you in spirit although many of my numerous family are scattered from their firesides because now—this minute—I am hurling snow from my rails, my trains are rushing to you with those you love, bringing to you from the outside world gifts and things that add to your Yuletide pleasures, and carrying the products of your toil and skill to distant marts.

Ceaselessly, tirelessly, vigilantly, I carry on...Your interests are my interests; your hopes, my hopes; your successes, my successes.

May all of you—and the 30,000 men and women who are a part of me—enjoy a happy Christmas, and the realization of your fondest hopes during the coming year!

There are no set rules for furnishing a home. If there were, the thing would be mechanical. Your home is, YOU—it is an expression of your tastes. You should have in it the things you like—the chairs, the tables, the pictures, the draperies, etc. So when you come into our store to look at furniture, we want you to tell us first your preference and your furniture problems. Then we will do everything we can to meet those requirements.

You don't need to buy expensive furniture to make your home attractive. There is as much beauty in a room furnished with a few well chosen pieces of furniture, as there is in a room richly and gorgeously furnished by an interior decorator. A pretty home is within the reach of everyone.

Have you ever thought of it, those literally every piece of furniture made today has one idea back of it—UTILITY PLUS BEAUTY. True there was never better looking furniture made then they are buying now, but they are getting that beauty without sacrificing the utility idea, comfort. We wish you would keep that in mind in looking around in our store and see if it isn't right.

WE WISH YOU ALL A MERRY CHRISTMAS.

New home comforts are arriving at our store. Here's a real pleasure for the whole family—all these pretty things.

Just arrived this summer yesterday. And we know you'll find that same way about it.

Just a word about rugs. We have a fine assortment of patterns in Axminster and Wilton. We honestly believe we can save you money on a rug and we invite comparison. We have a particularly beautiful pattern in a Wilton. It is a wonderful example of modern rug making.

Ah-h-h! That is the expression our customer always uses when he sinks into one of those davenports of ours.

Only two more shopping days left until Christmas.

CITY WATER NOT AVAILABLE FOR SCHOOL SKATING RINK

Earl Effinger, chairman of the Elmer L. Eklund Americanism Legion post committee on a skating rink, stated today to a representative of The Times that there would be no skating rink this year at least on the Lincoln football field west of the high school. The reason assigned was that the city council refused to furnish any more water for a rink there, altho Supt. Morris Engebretson in a conference with the legion committee stated that there will be sufficient water available for the rink next year.

Effinger, however, stated that he was not discouraged over the matter, and that he would endeavor to secure a recondideration of this decision on the part of the city fathers. The rinks on the river will probably be the only ones in the city this winter.

MANY ALUMNI HEAR J. H. HAY GIVE ADDRESS

Former Superintendent Here and Class of 1928 Mingle With Former Students

ELMER O. TANDBERG, '27, WAS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Greetings Were Received From Various Persons Unable to Join in Festivities

More than 150 Lincoln High graduates and members of the alumni class greeted J. H. Hay of St. Paul, former superintendent of the local schools, at the annual banquet of the Thief River Falls High school Alumni association at the Sons of Norway hall last night. This was Mr. Hay's first meeting with the alumni association since his departure from this city in 1919, when he became deputy commissioner of agriculture and dairying for the state, and his address gave evidence of the interest in which he is held by his former students.

Tandberg New President

Elmer O. Tandberg, '27, superintendent of the Middle River schools, was elected president of the association, succeeding Byron Bjornaraa. Milton Larson was elected secretary, the new officers being Dorothy Swedenborg, vice president, and George Wereillus, treasurer, succeeding Alexander Ayotte and Clifford Bjorkman, respectively.

The program was presided over by President Bjornaraa, who extended a welcome to the Class of 1928, which was exceptionally well represented there being 30 members present.

The address of the evening was delivered by Mr. Hay, who imparted his advice in his usual manner, calling attention to the accomplishments of Lincoln graduates and speaking optimistically of prospects for the future. He made this city's fine school system possible, he said, and a tribute to what was paid to the numerous students who had graduated from the school after overcoming many obstacles, Mr. Hay declared. Prof. Ralph Sawyer, who preceded Mr. Hay as superintendent immediately after his talk.

Brief remarks were also made by Superintendent Skoien; Dr. and Mrs. Wm. W. Pelland, Jr., Mrs. Pelland being Herman Bischoff and the piano solos by Miss Mildred Engen added much to the pleasure of the evening, the former's encore number bringing the audience with his delightful singing during the dancing. Music for the dance was furnished by Effinger's Entertainers and everyone had a real old merry-making as never before at a similar occasion.

Greetings were received from Mrs. Irene Patrick Nelson of Askov, former high school teacher; A. Sundby of St. St. Paul, former superintendent, and Misses Adella and Gladys Malmlof members who are patients at the sanatorium here

FLOOD OF MAIL IS HANDLED BY P. O. EMPLOYEES

Larger Number of Parcel Post Packages Than Ever Were Handled This Year

FIRST CLASS MAIL ALSO SHOWED LARGE INCREASE

Extra Help Took Care of Peak Loads for Several Days Prior to Christmas

The total volume of christmas mail handled the past two weeks by the Thief River Falls post office broke all records, in common with post offices throughout the country. This was true not only of packages, but also of first class mail and receipts. Employees of the local office are still busy compiling records of the volume of business.

The great volume of mail was put through without any delay, either in outgoing or incoming mail, as well as delivery within the city. As far as could be learned, all mail was weighed, stamped, sacked, and delivered to the trains on time. Extra men were needed to handle the increased volume, and when Monday noon came not a piece of mail was in the general mail had arrived early that morning.

"Peaks" Gave No Trouble

The mechanically driven canceling machine took care of the heavy mail after it had been "jogged" and "faced up" to insure proper cancellation. The only delays experienced in the local office was when the trains were late a few times, but little trouble was really overcome and the city carriers got the mail to the patrons of the post office in nearly as good time as ordinarily.

The peak of outgoing mail was reached on Saturday, December 17, one week before Christmas, with the peak of incoming mail coming Saturday, December 24. Delivery, there being about the same amount of mail on Saturday and Sunday, the latter day being a holiday, relieving the situation. Postmaster Daniel Johnson stated today that the public had apparently taken the suggestion of early mailing to heart, and that the rush, as usual, came on the last day or two before Christmas.

No Mail Undelivered

Not a package was left over in the local post office when Christmas mail was all out, it being quite certain that there had been extra persons employed to handle the unusually large number of packages. The only package left over was one that came in a week from Monday, Christmas, which was one that came in a week from Monday, Christmas, which was one that came in a week from Monday, Christmas, which

The attendance was exceptionally gratifying to those in charge and the event was declared the most enjoyable of the year in a large degree a result of the efforts of the F. F. Ueland in arranging the program.

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Anderson entertained a group of friends Tuesday evening in honor of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Blote of New Concord, Ohio.

Mrs. Ole Legstad, Jr., entertained a group of relatives at her home Tuesday evening. The guests included had been entertained at the L. J. Eckhoff home on Christmas day.

The Sons and Daughters of Norway Lodges will have a joint social at their hall tonight.

Miss Elizabeth Becrmer entertained a group of friends at her home yesterday afternoon.

Dorothy Bettelson, Times Reporter, Marries Alvin Holzknecht December 27

A marriage of special interest to Times readers was solemnized Tuesday, December 27, when the Times society editor, Miss Dorothy Bettelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Bettelson of this city, and Alvin F. Holzknecht, also of Thief River Falls, exchanged marriage vows. They were quietly married at the chapel of St. Bernard's Catholic church, Father Nicoll officiating in the presence of immediate relatives. The ring service was used, the ceremony taking place at 11 a. m. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holzknecht, prominent farmers of the city.

The bride was attractively attired in a gown of wisteria chiffon velvet, and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Attending the couple were Mrs. A. Northby of Grand Rapids, formerly Mary Pitchford of this city, and Donovan Selley of End Lake Falls, a cousin of the groom.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents, attended by Mr. and Mrs. Bettelson, daughter, Elinor, and son, Orvin; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Holzknecht, Mr. and Mrs. Northby, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Selley and son, Donovan.

Mr. and Mrs. Holzknecht left Thursday afternoon for Winnipeg, from where they expect to return the first of the week, to take up residence in the Mellinn block.

The bride is a popular member of the younger set of the community and has a host of friends. She has attended the local schools and was graduated from high school in the class of 1917, since which time she has attended Hamline and Northwestern universities and the state teachers college at Bemidji. She taught school before joining the Times staff recently and local reporter two years. Her cheerful disposition and pleasing personality, coupled with efficiency in her work has won her a large number of friends thruout the community and Times readers will be pleased to know that she will continue on the staff.

Mr. Holzknecht is also a Lincoln High graduate of the class of 1917, and the wedding Tuesday night is said to be the culmination of a romance dated back in the high school days. Since his graduation he has been employed by the Peoples State bank of this city and the Minnesota Co-operative Wheat Growers association in Minneapolis, but has represented the Liggett & Meyers Tobacco Company in the northern territories the last two years, making his headquarters here. He takes a prominent part in activities of the American Legion and other organizations of the city.

The Times joins the many friends of the couple in extending congratulations and wishing them happiness.

CHRISTMAS PARTY FOR YOUNG PIANO PUPILS

Yesterday afternoon a Christmas party was given at the home of Mrs. Doris Halverson Pope for her young piano pupils, members of the music club which was formed a number of weeks ago.

The pupils enjoyed an afternoon of games and contests after which refreshments were served from a Jack Horner pie. At five o'clock a dainty lunch was served and before departing, baskets filled with nuts and candy were distributed from the tree to all the guests.

This music club is a continuance of the club started by Mrs. Pope several years ago, also resembling the music club of Mrs. Ruth Chamberlain Miller, well known teacher formerly of this city and now of Long Beach, Calif. Mrs. Pope was a pupil of Mrs. Miller fourteen years ago and was a member of one of the music clubs.

Despite the cold night, there was a fair sized crowd to hear the pupils that Mrs. Pope presented December 16 in the recital in the Presbyterian church. The results played exceptionally well, from the beginners to the advanced. There were those who had taken lessons only a few weeks; those of some advanced and a number of those who have studied under Mrs. Pope, and all in all it is plainly their earlier year recitals in the early spring.

A daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nordine of Middle River at the Physicians hospital this morning.

HAPPY NEW YEAR

We now enter upon that season of the year when all good people wish each other a "Happy New Year" and make such resolutions, the practice of which, they feel, will increase their own happiness. This annual custom of wishing our happiness results in no harm and has some good effects. As an institution we are in favor of it. The habit of making resolutions, however, is more important. It is safe to say that the world has benefitted more from good resolutions than from good wishes. And as long as there are two holidays attending the birth of the New Year this time, why not devote one of them to the pleasant pastime of wishing our happiness, and the other to a serious consideration of ways and means of increasing our own happiness.

No two people are exactly alike and it is probable that no two people would find happiness under exactly the same conditions. Conditions which would mean happiness for one person might mean unhappiness for another. It therefore follows that it is impossible to measure another man's happiness. It often happens that those with whom we sympathize are fairly happy and actually feel sorry for us.

We read a little yarn the other day which brought out quite clearly this difference in people. One of the characters of the story was a negro laborer who, when eating his noon lunch, invariably ate the desert first. He started at the top, eating the best things on the table and only when he was real hungry did he eat the rougher foods that his lunch box contained. When asked why he followed this plan he explained he was always afraid he might die before he got to his cake. The other character of the story was a farmer. His boy asked him if he might go into the cellar and get an apple. "Yes," was the reply, "But pick out a speckled one." The boy then asked him what he should do if he couldn't find any speckled ones. "Then don't eat any," said the farmer. "You'll have to wait until they become speckled."

The story illustrates two opposite viewpoints which are quite common among us. Some of us prefer to eat our desert first and don't worry a great deal about whether or not we'll be on a bread and water diet tomorrow. Others of us choose to take the bread and water diet today in the hope that we may have the desert tomorrow. We refuse to eat our apples until they are speckled. Which attitude has the most merit is difficult to say. Perhaps a happy medium of the two extremes is proper. The point of the illustration, however, is that these two extremes actually feel sorry for each other. Both extremes are perhaps happy in spite of the fact that neither would understand how the other could be happy.

The beggar on the street is not necessarily unhappy. We have known beggars, who apparently have been quite happy and who have taken considerable pride in their ability to make a living without working. They would have been very unhappy had they been forced to go to work, and actually sympathized with those who did work. We also know men who work at least fourteen hours a day and who seem to be unhappy only when they are idle.

Old Ben Franklin had what might be called a practical mind. He was quite practical in everything that he did, even in his praying. His favorite daily prayer was to the point. "Increase in me that wisdom which discovers my truest interest," he prayed. "Strengthen my resolution to perform what that wisdom dictates." Accept my kind offices to Thy other children as the only return in my power for Thy continual favors to me." He prayed for a wisdom that would lead him toward his true interests and for the strength that would enable him to follow that wisdom.

Franklin's prayer might well serve as a model for all of us on this New Year's day before we undertake to chart out our course for the next twelve months. Try it. Then, if the wisdom that is given you tells you to eat your desert first, by all means eat your desert first. If that wisdom tells you to save your apples until they are speckled, then by all means save your apples until they are speckled.

We wish you, one and all, a happy New Year.

THUMBS DOWN?

If a popular vote were taken today there is little question but that a large majority of the people would express themselves as being in favor of capital punishment. The recent murder of a twelve year old school girl in California has aroused a feeling thruout the entire country that is akin to the spirit of a mob. If we explained in detail some of the milder forms of punishment that have been suggested by seemingly sane people of this city as appropriate for such a fiend as Hickman we know that our paper would be barred from the mails. So we won't explain them.

And while we agree that any person who would commit the crime which Hickman probably committed is a fiend, we still maintain that even in such an extreme case capital punishment is not justified. The only excuse for capital punishment in a case of this kind would be revenge. Those who believe in that theory of punishment which would exact an eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth would of course feel justified in demanding revenge. We are willing to concede, too, that a few people would demand the death penalty in the belief that only by exacting so severe a penalty can others be deterred from committing an awful a crime. They feel that the horrors of the death penalty inflicted in this case might act as example which would instil sufficient fear into other criminals to keep them from committing such crimes. If there were any justification for this hope then certainly the death penalty would be justified.

The facts, however, prove that there is no justification for such a belief. Fear of the death penalty did not deter Hickman from committing his crime in the state of California where the statutes provide for capital punishment. Nor did the fear of the death penalty deter the murderers of a boy in the state of Illinois a few years ago, where the statutes also provide for capital punishment. Had these crimes been committed in the state of Minnesota there would have been a great hue and cry for the need of capital punishment, and it is possible that under such circumstances this form of punishment would be reinstated. The fact, however, that these two most horrible crimes were committed in spite of the threat of death penalty, proves conclusively that the death penalty is not a crime deterrent. And he who advocates revenge should champion the cause of Hickman himself, who undoubtedly was prompted to some extent in this crime by a spirit of revenge.

If a popular vote were taken today there is little question but that a large majority of the people would express themselves as being in favor of capital punishment. If that vote were taken the day after a public murder on the gallows or in the electric chair were committed, few people would be in favor of the death penalty.

Among some of the native tribes of Africa it is considered undignified for the men to work and the women do all the hunting and fishing. Civilized man is more chivalrous than his barbarian cousin and the modern woman is spared the drudgery of fishing and hunting.

Ex-service men are urged to fill out and mail their application for federal adjusted compensation before January 1st. After that date it will be too late.

1928 is Leap Year, which means that there will be a lot of politicians leaping around again pretty soon.

Day by day the nights are now getting shorter and shorter.

All of the poultry show next week.

Minnesota is raising a $100,000 tobacco crop this year. Three hundred farmers around St Cloud are the growers and they are said to have found a splendid revenue producer in the crop. Thief River Falls raised a mammoth crop of turkeys this year, likewise cashed big money on clover seed. Minnesota soil and climate has unlimited possibilities for the farmer who will study, plan and labor with knowledge of the soil. Why not do a little experimenting around Nordlief and Sarsar counties?—St. Peter Herald

ROSEWOOD

M. W. A. ELECTS OFFICERS

Election of officers for the local camp of the Modern Woodmen of America lodge took place at the hall building last Wednesday evening, being postponed from the meeting two weeks before when, owing to the stormy weather, not sufficient of the membership were present to effect an election.

As officers for next year were elected: Harry Moore, consul; Alfred Anderson, clerk; J. A. Hellquist, banker; Victor Axelson, watchman; Ray Mellem, sentry; Norman Wolkness, advisor; Adolph Haugen, escort; Ed Johnson, trustee for 3 years; and Olof Opsata, auditor.

The annual business meeting, and monthly social meeting of the Rindal ladies aid will take place at the home of Mrs. Marit Hall near Anta on Tuesday afternoon, Jan. 3, when there will be election of officers for the coming year, and plans formed for the activities of the organization.

Ingrid Nordhagen, who broke her thigh bone in a fall on the ice near her home at Thanksgiving, is still confined to the hospital at Thief River Falls but is rapidly improving, and advices from the hospital this week indicated that she may be strong enough for removal sometime this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hellquist had as their guests on Christmas day the following relatives: Mr. and Mrs. Emil Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peterson, J. E. Hellquist, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Halvorson and Mr. and Mrs. Emil Hellquist and families.

Miss Hilda Ness of Thief River Falls spent the day after Christmas here visiting between trains with Mr. and Mrs. G. Nakken and family.

Christ Sostad of Holt motored here on Friday evening to visit with friends and to attend the Christmas festival at the Rindal church in the evening.

Percy Hansen and several members of the Haugen families motored to Anaka on Christmas day to visit at the Struble brothers home.

Miss Lyda Hatten, principal at Central school at Thief River Falls, arrived on Saturday to spend the Christmas vacation with her folks here south of this place.

Miss Judith Lockrem of Thief River Falls accompanied Rev. E. L. Tungseth to Rindal on Friday evening to lead the choir at the church, fest that evening.

Misses Olivia and Geneva Sweeson of Newfolden were here on Friday evening to call briefly on friends and attended the Rindal church fest.

Frank Halder is still an inmate at the Physicians hospital at Thief River Falls where he was taken some time ago from an infection of the chin which turned into blood poisoning. An accident happening thru a small cut is the result of many cases.

Mrs. Zenna Jacobs, principal at Rosebank, is spending Christmas as a guest with Mr. and Mrs. Ole Lee Jacobs and will later leave for St. Hilaire where she will spend the remainder of her vacation at the France Marshlen home, returning here in time for the opening of school on Jan. 9. Miss Helen Jacobson, junior teacher, left on Saturday evening to spend the vacation with home folks at Thief River Falls. She may return here on Friday morning to attend the church fest of the Union Sunday school at which she has been teaching this fall, and which will be held at the Rindal church in town that evening.

Martin Westby arrived here on Friday morning from Goodridge and will spend Christmas as guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Westby.

Miss Kay spent a few days in Thief River Falls last week visiting with friends and doing shopping.

A splendid program was featured by the Rosebank school at the Rindal church last Friday evening. About 150 persons attended. The Rindal choir sang two selections and Rev. E. L. Tungseth of Thief River Falls lead the devotional. Apples and confections were distributed to all present. Three other school programs were also featured that same evening, namely those at the Steiner, Bray Bee and Willowdale schools. Monday evening a cram was given by Simon Nakken, teacher at Columbus school west of town.

Miss Meyers spent Saturday shopping and visiting at Warren.

Wm. Gilbertson of Hazel and Miss Gladys and Violet Jacobson of Thief River Falls motored here on Friday evening to attend the Rosebank school program. Miss Rose Erickson of the Rindal district was also here that evening riding out with Rev. and Mrs. E. L. Tungseth.

Henry Eckland and Bernhard Ranum were Thief River Falls passengers on Tuesday evening to attend matters of business. Ranum has been in the employ of Eckland for some time remodeling the latter's newly acquired home on the old Wiberg farm south of town. Eckland is a civil engineer from Illinois and is here to supervise the improvements on the farm which will be operated by Axel Kron and sons as in the past.

Miss Minnie Axelson left on Saturday for Thief River Falls where she will be employed at the home of her sister, Mrs. Frits Christenson, for a few weeks. Miss Daughter arrived at the Christenson home that same morning. Alma Axelson who has been employed there all fall arrived home the same day.

Short Lessons in Dairying

A series of 52 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Cooperative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON X.

MAKE THE BARN WARM AND CLEAN: It should not freeze in the dairy barn during the coldest weather. Two boards with paper between is necessary for barn walls. Building paper on the inside and banking on the outside may be applied any time. This will be expensive as it requires more feed.

Most successful dairy farmers clean out the barn every day and haul manure direct to the field. When the manure is left in the barn more than two days fermentable bacteria and the air is polluted. Keep the barn clean the calf pen as well as the cow stalls.

Pigs should never be kept in the same building or in an adjoining building with cows as their odor is offensive where dairy products are produced. Water is desirable in a dairy barn and a clean barn is necessary if there is to be pure air.

RING IN THE NEW!

The old year is drawing to a close
With all its trials and cares;
A fateful new year before us glows—
It's time to make repairs.

This part of the future that's yours
And mine,
As a palace before us looms.
Where old Father Time is dwelling
In three-hundred-and-sixty-five rooms.

If habits gone you sadly see,
Enslaver to alert a clean slate;
Learn to make resolutions that may worthily be Retained thru the year '28.

Again the page of time has turned
And before our eyes a new and a better page is revealed. The curtain of the old year has fallen, and out of the dusty and cobwebbed corners comes a new light.

Vacation, with all of its recreational opportunities, takes the place of the somewhat tedious school days, with their tasks and toils. Over that, when looking back over the year, we should wonder whether we have received the most from our studies; whether we have performed our duties as they should have been done? The majority of us feel fairly satisfied, but, there are those of the minority wavering on the line which is a little too hard to cross. If we could be this new page, in plain light, act as an inspiration next year, we too can look with satisfaction at that on fast fading behind us when the year '28 comes.

WITH HOSPITALITY

Thru this paper, since all of you were once so vitally connected with Lincoln High, we want to greet the many Alumni who returned for Christmas. Your appearance at the assembly last week was an indication of never-dying interest in your graduate school; succeeding Christmases may not find so many of you present. The best of wishes for a welcome is extended to you by the class soon to join your ranks.

THE CORRECT VIEW

Often times members of the Honor Roll are misjudged. Frequently students who have not been able to attain the Honor Roll have said in reference to it, "Only a few study all the time—don't have a bit of fun—just to have their names read out in the assembly and printed in the paper."

That is an unfair and unjust statement for anybody, especially a Lincolnite, to make. Those who choose those who work energetically for success, education and strive for higher things should receive some reward for their efforts?

The Honor Roll is merely a recognition of successful hard work. A greater percentage of students could experience that honor if they but tried with a little more determination and persistence. Of course not all the good students get on the Honor Roll. A great number miss it by one or two points; but if they can say, "We've done our best," they have reached a worthy goal.

STUDENT OPINION COLUMN

Death To The Tyrant

Every individual has one great outstanding ambition. Ambition is the scientific power back of all success. Some people aspire to become "millionaires" while others want to be a star", so to speak. Others concentrate on the great benefits they can be in this world. Still others have the tremendous desire and that is to do some thing fellow's men particular in making an exhibition of their knowledge of "nearly" discovery across the hall from the American History room. Anonymous

Echoes Pro

During the last basket ball game the Freshie management contrived to take care of the American publics innate appetite while viewing athletic contests by the sale of "eats." Well and good, they tasted fine. The management had a right and chance to make how long been established but the Freshie management never stopped to realize that the tall wrapper of the pie might be put to use rather misuse.

At different stops during the game students who should have displayed some forethought and intelligence rolled the foil wrapping into small compact balls and threw them at fellow students and spectators, causing pain in some instances, but mostly aggravation.

Everyone concerned will have to admit that this class of entertainment should ever be below the mentality of the "greatest freshy" team as we are wish, the deed was done.

In the interest of the respectable behavior expected of H. S. students both in and out of the school room, it would be better for all concerned if this type of pasture was not on the menu from now on and labeled "taboo."

In other words, you dumb ox, cut out having stuff at the basketball games!

I'M THE GINK

I'm the gink everyone in the school knows as the kicker. I seldom yell at pep meetings, but after the game you hear me kicking about how terrible Lincoln High did. I'm the same gink that always talks about the Progress paper. I have been asked to contribute articles but I am too busy telling the rest of the students how worthless the paper is. I never see anything when I come to class meetings; I'd rather discuss the motions out in the halls after they have been passed, and tell the students why they should have voted against something. I could spend my time to better advantage, but I get a thrill out of kicking. I don't believe I need any further introduction.

SENIOR PHOTOS

"Are you going to give me one?"
"Well, I guess so, sir, are you?"
"Say you're saying one for me aren't you?"

Such are the cries of the members of the Senior class. The class pictures have arrived at last.

"Love," "heaps of love," sincerely yours," "yours truly," and other similar expressing tell the tales of students' affections for their classmates.

"Gee! They turned out just slick!" "You surely look the shark in that picture."

Thus the flatterer blurts out at the sight of the likeness of an acquaintance. The chances are he goes down the hall and says to some one "Jo knows better, "Gawsh, how they flatter you."

Of course the cause for all the excitement is rather a strain on the pocket book, but what's the dif, it's all in a life time.

Setting It Right

A man went to a newspaper office and complained that his death had been announced erroneously.

"Well," said the editor, "we never contradict anything we have published, but I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll put you in the birth column forever and give you a fresh start."

$54,264,674 SPENT IN STATE SCHOOLS DURING PAST YEAR

Over Half a Million Daily Average Attendance Shown in Recent Report

Mention was made recently in The Times of the favorable showing made by Thief River schools in comparison with other institutions of learning throout the northwest and the United States as well as to per pupil cost of school operation. Additional data has been secured by the state board of education as to state operations, which may also be of interest:

Minnesota public schools received $54,264,674 from all source in the last school year, in increase of 41 per cent over the amount spent for each pupil in 1920, but a decrease of $4,000,000 from the outlay in 1925 and $3,000,000 from the expenditures in 1926; statistics compiled for the report of the state board of education showed.

Average Attendance Good

The year's total average daily attendance was 530,230 and the average cost of maintaining each pupil was $72.67. The attendance was greater than in either the two previous years.

There was an increase during the last school year in the number of teachers employed in the public schools, 22,078 in 1927 compared with 21,358 in 1926 and 21,544 in 1925. Men teachers in the last three years 7,247 men teachers and 19,652 women.

The average monthly wage paid men decreased while that paid women increased.

Salaries Greatest Expense

Teachers' salaries consumed 62.4 per cent of the cost of school maintenance in the state for the year, followed in the way of administration costs, 3.8 per cent; texts, library books and instruction supplies, 5 per cent; janitors' salaries, supplies, repair and upkeep of buildings, 8 per cent, 10.2 per cent; transportation of pupils, 3.7 per cent, while other expense payments took 4.9 per cent.

Per Pupil Costs Vary

This year will be marked by a further increase in the number of pupils, J. M. McConnell, state commissioner of education, predicts. An increase in pupil maintenance in 1926 was $80.01, in 1926 it was $74.80, and $72.45, last year.

Basketball Games From the Standpoint of a Freshman

Basketball is played by a bunch of yelling people and ten players with short their sides of the court. The purpose of the game is to catch a round ball full of air and to throw it up in the air so that it will come down thru an oval shaped iron thing which is fastened to the wall. This requires much work on the part of the players, as they have to yell continuously for forty minutes. This exercise of the lungs gives them great endurance.

Then, the part of the game falls on the players without many clothes on. Their work is to do it to catch the ball and throw it to one of their teammates, thus shifting the responsibility for a real, hard, sweat-bringing work falls on the spectators, who stand on the floor by yellmen.

As I said before, there are ten players, five on one side and five on the other. Each team is supposed to run up and down the floor and yell at the others so they'll scare each other. Each team has two forwards, who are supposed to be on the backboard, forward, sideways, or stand on their heads, on their hands, count their noses, wiggle their eyebrows, etc. Then there is a center, who is supposed to hit the ball when the game begins and look wise during the rest of the game. Each team also has two guards whose purpose is to look after their team the rye so that they'll be afraid to play.

The spectators always yell, Shoot; but as the players have no guns they don't shoot anyone. If a spectator yells, Cover up, the players get bashful and look around for their pajamas and bathrobes. Everyone yells advice during the game and the side that makes the most noise wins.

In the basketball game there is a referee who is supposed to watch the game and take all the abuse of the crowd. He is supposed to blow a whistle every once in a while in order to allow the children who are playing to rest. Once in a while the referee slaps a player on the back and yells Foul. This is to let the people think the player is a kind.

The score keepers are men who are supposed to watch and see which player throws the ball on at the iron thing the most times and who run around with it. The timekeeper is so called because he takes his time in telling the players when to stop.

FOR PARENTS

Ask that boy of that girl how matters are going with them in their studies at school. Take an interest in their progress. See if you can help any. This is the critical time of the year in school activities. These weeks are determining whether the pupil will "make the grade." A wee bit of assistance and of encouragement right now, folks, may go so far with the children as to make it the turning point for them, toward success in their year's school work and toward success in their entire career.

Carols, Christmas Play Feature Entertainment

Closing the afternoon classes at a quarter of two, the remainder of last Friday was spent in observance of Christmas at the High school.

Miss Maude Johnson opened the program by leading in carols. The teachers, and a large group of Alumni joined in singing the hymns of Christmas, after which the assembly floor was turned over to the members of the Teacher's training division.

A spoken prelude to The little Christmas Carol, delivered by Alice Hendry, was followed by a one act play showing Mrs. Ruggles in the kitchen of her home. Her family of children and the two pupils of the society at the home of a wealthy family, and her work was to make them presentable in every way. The trials of doing so were thoroughly shown by the normal students. Blanche Swanson followed this act with a contribution of the last three verses of Christmas carols, 22,078 in 1927 compared with $1,358 in 1926 and 21,544 in 1925. The final picture of the little girl, Carol, as she dreamed of the Christmas fairy.

The students who assisted in this clever presentation besides those mentioned were: Mrs. Ruggles, Stella Sathwood; Carol, Evangeline Neaz; the Ruggles family: Lars Hanson, Ida Seegen, Melvin Seegen, Goldie Rosenau, Oliver Asp, Judith Lundgren and Agnes Erdmanczyk. Miss Alice Stephens directed the play.

SANTA CLAUSH COMIN'

The smallest Freshie girl: "Did ya hear the fifteen newth? I am thimpy thrilled."

Sophomore: "What did you ever hear that wasn't sour-ded? Huh! You Freshies talk like yaps, right now. Don't see that difference in me—that's why we have so many 'Golden Belles' in our class."

Freshie: "Fi-i-i-ch. I'll thay you've got some thilliest belles in your cloth, Sigwood! They're the dumb ones they don't know the differenth between 'catchy' and 'catching'."

Sophomore: "Say, Infant, speak so I can understand you. Shall I tell your mother still talk baby talk to you? Now don't tell me mamath's little darlinth lith gettin' away. No? Mustn't do that."

Freshie: "You'd better look out, look with a vengeance."

Sophomore: "Hallelujia! Santa Clause!"

Santa Clause: "Now, children, I was way up at Port Arthur when I heard you two start quarreling. I came way down to Thief River Falls to warn you. Don't you know that I know everything you say? It isn't nice to quarrel like that, really you don't deserve anything but a spanking for Christmas."

Freshie: "Boo! Hoo!"

Sophomore: "Wow!"

Santa Clause: "Freshie, don't cry! I'll bring you something nice, but Sophomore, you are going to get in your stocking a switch or a brand new Lawson book. Maybe both!"

Football Men Chosen for All-Northwestern Eleven

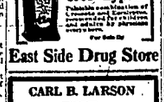
Three Thief River football players received positions on the all-Northwestern eleven selected by coaches of the district and published in the Grand Forks Herald by Coach Bohnoff, football mentor of Nazz Grand Forks high school. Hensler, Larsen and Severson were placed on the first eleven. Earl Hensler makes the left tackle position, being awarded the position on the basis of his stellar performance, during the last two years. Larsen is given the left guard position, being of the aggressive type who calls the player for losses behind the line. "Stout" Severson at right half back was described as being one of the outstanding none field runners of northwestern Minnesota.

On the second team Erikson, Amundal, C. Snyder, and B. Oen occupy the end, center, halfback, and full back positions respectively.

Undoubtedly there must have been some dispute as to this position between Head of Warren and Oen of Thief River Falls. But each every team in the district should be represented. Head was chosen and Oen being the captainer of the second team. As a defensive full back Oen had no equal in the district.

And a Lake of Ocean

The Scientist: "This is the last and eleven Sahara Desert—three thousand miles long and two thousand miles wide."



The Lady from Setauket: "O' what a lovely place for beach parties—if there were only some drift-wood!"

Prophecy Fulfilled

"I shall die," throbbed the suitor, "unless you consent to marry me."

"I'm sorry," said the maiden kindly, but firmly, that I will not marry you."

So the fellow went out west and after sixty-two years, three months and a day became suddenly ill and died.

NEW L. FIELDHOUSE PICKED FOR STATE BASKETBALL

Time Out Will Result In Longer Playing Time; Dribble Still in Use

Although maintaining that the dribble should be limited in basketball games, for the best interest of the sport, the Joint Basket Ball Rules committee has nevertheless recently remolded the basketball rules, has finally decided not to change the existing rules relative to this play, due to vigorous protests filed by followers of the game from all sections of the country. As a result, dribbling will be permitted, this season, under the same conditions as prevailed last year.

However, a number of changes have been made in basketball rules by the committee, which, in an introductory heading as published in the Official Guide for 1927-28, calls special attention to the fact that no change has been made in the dribble for this season. The changes which are in effect, this season are as follows:

Several Changes in Rules

Rule 3, Section 6—Note is inserted, stating how not to use numbers 1 and 2 in numbering players.

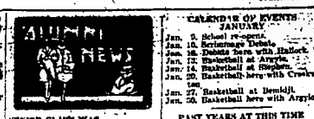
Rule 6, Section 1—Two minutes elapse and answers have been written to amplify this section on striking the ball from play, and the time made in the dribble for this season. The changes which are in effect, this season are as follows:

Rule 9, Section 5—When the ball is in play between two players, the whistle is not to be blown, except at the beginning of a period, or after time out.

Time Out on Fouls

Rule 11, Section 1—Time is to be taken out on all fouls, the watch to be stopped at the moment the foul is called, until: (a) in the case of technical fouls, or double fouls, the ball is tossed up at center; (b) in case of personal fouls, the ball is placed at the disposal of the free thrower for the free throw, or for the last free throw awarded.

Rule 11, Section 3—If the ball is in play and in possession of a player when time out is called, that player puts the ball in play from out of bounds, when play is resumed.



Rules on Dribbling

Rule 14, Section 10—When a player dribbles and stops for goal, he may recover the ball and dribble again, provided the ball has touched the basket or backboard. Also, if the ball is batted from the hands of a player, who has completed a dribble, the play may dribble again.

Rule 14, Section 10—The player who has the ball shall not put it down and touch it again, before indicated by the official who called the violation.

Rule 14, Section 11—Note—On a jump ball, if the ball drops without being touched by either jumper, it is immediately to the player indicated by the official who called the violation.

Rule 15, Section —Note—On a jump ball, if the ball drops without being tapped by either jumper, it is to be tossed up again, even though neither catches it before it reaches the floor. This is not to be interpreted as permitting a player to jump and catch the ball. In playing the ball in from out of bounds, a player is not permitted to touch the boundary line, unless the space out of bounds is limited.

SENIOR CLASS WAR

INVITED TO ALUMNI

A short meeting of the Senior class was held Thursday afternoon of last week. Ted Bjornaraa, president of the Lincoln High School Alumni association and now a student at the University of Minnesota, extended an invitation to the class of 1928 to the coming alumni to attend the annual reunion which was held last evening in the Sons of Norway hall. A representative gathering of Seniors was present at the party.

Local Music Instructor Is Attending Convention

Leaders in music from all sections of the country will go to Minneapolis to attend the sessions of the National Music Teachers' association on December 27-30.

Miss Maude L. Johnson, instructor in music of the public schools of Thief River Falls, left last week to spend Christmas with her parents at Red Wing. From there she planned on going to Minneapolis to attend the meetings.

Among the speakers who will occupy the program are Henry Hadley, conductor; Henry Hadley, former federal radio commissioner; Mrs. Carl Fisher, New York, director of the Juilliard Musical foundation; Frederick Stock, director of the Eastman School of Music; Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelly, president of the Federation of Music clubs; O. G. Sonneck, editor of Musical Quarterly, and Harry Verbrugghen, director of the Minneapolis Symphony orchestra. Features of the convention include the complimentary concerts by the Symphony choir. The annual dinner was held today with President Coolidge of the University and H. Augustine Smith of Boston university as speakers.

TO GIVE

St. Nicholas once said, "I have the supreme happiness when asked by a bystander what that was, to answer—Why, I was trying to rejoice and sing." How strange, we may think, that the good saint could give away all his worldly possessions yet derive recompense—at least not materially.

But we have no cause to wonder why he never tired of giving, or ceased to receive. A study of the facts and experiences of the ordinary Christmas shopper is evidence of the true Christmas spirit which exists, without doubt, in every civilized country. Time will not cause it to cease. It will only broaden the rejoicing and blessing of the Yuletide. The day approaches when the message of the Holy King was born to save mankind.

Just as a matter of keeping in tune with the rest of the world at this joyous season we extend to all of you our best wishes for a harmonious New Year.

We also take this opportunity of expressing our sincere appreciation for the many favors that have been shown us.

THREE MAJOR FARM RELIEF PLANS GIVEN

Congressman Selvig Issues Statement Giving Facts on One of Foremost Issues of Day

FIRST OF SERIES OF LETTERS TO THE TIMES

Without Unified Organization of Farmers Little Progress Can Be Accomplished

The Times herewith presents the first of a series of letters sent out by Congressman C. G. Selvig, treating on conditions as he finds them in the national capital and which undoubtedly will prove of interest to the readers of this paper. Regarding the series Mr. Selvig states that he is going to deal with facts as they are, rather than with opinions, as is so often the case with special correspondents. The intention is to give the people a general idea of what is going on at the capitol and elsewhere.

Washington, Dec. 26.—There are three major plans for farm relief before congress in Congress. They are:

Three Plans of Relief

First. The McNary-Haugen bill, which surplus control measures, which aim to rank the protective tariff effective on wheat and other crops and agricultural commodities of which we produce a surplus, by paying an export premium on the surplus shipped into foreign markets, leaving the balance of the crop to be sold in the home market at the world price, plus the amount of the tariff protection. Losses incurred are to be recovered by means of an "equalization fee" collected from the producers.

Second. The Jardine plan to establish a Federal Farm board and Advisory councils and to encourage the formation of farmers' co-operative associations and to lend them money for warehouses and operating expenses. The marketing of the surplus under this plan would be accomplished by means of "commodity stabilization" corporations to be owned by the farmers' co-operatives and to be financed by means of loans, chiefly from the government. A better adjustment of production to market requirements would be sought by making accurate information on supply and demand, at home and abroad, more easily available to the producer.

Third.—The "export debenture" plan of the National grange. This seeks to remove the surplus of crops by paying an export bounty in the form of certificates which would be legal tender for the payment of duties on imports.

High Lights in Each

The McNary-Haugen bill, has been somewhat weakened, as compared with that passed a year ago, in an effort to make it agreeable to the President and avoid veto. But the equalization fee and the essential features to make it workable remain. The main change is that giving the President a free hand in the appointment of the board to administer the law. Last year there was a provision that the members had to be selected from a list supplied by the farmers' organizations. This is optional in the new bill.

The Jardine plan has go-al points, and would have a good effect in stabilizing markets within the country by taking off the surplus that accumulates at harvest-time and carrying it over until demand overtakes the supply. But it does not appear to touch the main question of disposing of surplus that must be shipped out of the United States except by the very unwise to use the farmer fill require speculation, means of, consuming it. had been made to the church.

production in accepted surplus crops. It provides means for the distribution of profits, but none for the distribution of losses. For handling seasonal surpluses within the country the Jardine plan has merit, but for dealing with surpluses that have to be exported it seems inadequate.

The "export debenture" plan seeks to accomplish the same object as the McNary-Haugen bill. The main difference is that the Grange proposal seeks to divert money from the national treasury to pay the losses on the surplus, instead of collecting it from the producers by means of the equalization fee. The plan is used in Sweden and Germany, and was recommended by Alexander Hamilton, in Washington's administration, as a companion-policy to the protective tariff.

Need of Action Admitted

The position of those who are fighting for "farm relief" has been something like this: Everybody admits that what is meant by the admission, at all events, for the need of action along that line, and by the granting power of the three big farm organizations. In the past, many people contended that there was nothing the matter, that it was "a-1-1-right" with "prosperity" etc. The facts have now become well known.

In 1925 the wage level of workers in New York state factories—which are representative of the industrial centers of our country—was 185. At that time the index figure of agriculture was 269. Those figures are arrived at by using the average between 1910 and 1914 as being par. In October, 1927 this year the wage index referred to had risen 15 points and farm products have lost 20 points. Wages are 17 per cent higher than before the war and farm products are only 39 percent higher.

Unified Organization Needed

Labor has achieved prosperity through organization, acting along economic and political lines. Its members now get more than at the high-ing the other heads was dropped after water point during the war. Agriculture can accomplish the same result by following the same course. Three great agricultural organizations are now gathering strength rapidly and taking the place of the baled of mixed that in the past have climbed to speak for the farmers. They are the Farm Bureau Federation, the Farmers Union and the National Grange. When, and not before, more than half the farmers of the nation are gathered into these organizations and function with them, will there be any real progress. Without such unified organization progress is difficult.

Science, education and machinery have so greatly increased our capacity for production that it is no longer necessary for part of the population to be poor in order that another portion may be rich. By proper adjustment we can produce enough in this country to give every family plenty of food, a comfortable home, education for the rising generation and an automobile if they want it. There is plenty of room in our country for a prosperous working population in the cities and an equally prosperous farming population in the country. That is the condition that we should strive to bring about.

Farmers who wish to study marketing information of a nation wide and world wide scope should send 25 cents to the Supt. of Documents, Govt. Printing Office, Wash., D. C., and ask for "The Agricultural Situation" which is sent out the first part of every month. I know of no other source where they can get so much information for so little money.

TWO GRYGLA MEN FINED $150 EACH BY JUDGE WATTS

Caught With Two Moose Heads and Four Deer Heads by Game Warden Munch

Having in their possession two moose heads, one head and four green deer heads, fitting and Henry Gilbertson, living about 20 miles northeast of Gryglа, were fined $150 each, with costs of 45 each, last Saturday when taken before Judge William Watts in the Polk county district court at Crookston. The two men pleaded guilty to the gross misdemeanor charge.

Game Warden William Munch of Crookston made the arrest last Friday which resulted in bringing the two men to Thief River Falls, going to Warren that evening to take the cases before Judge Gunderstad in the Marshall county district court, following the seizure of the heads on Wednesday of last week. Mr. Munch learned of the offenses that the men were guilty of when it was learned that a number of moose had been killed in Beltrami county where the men live, but no search in the evidence was secured as regards to Marshall county the two men were first taken to Warren, where they were bound over to the district court of that county by Justice Watts, forgoing of that trip, Judge Gunderstad being ill, it became necessary to take the men to Crookston.

Mr. Munch asserted while here that there are many moose and deer in northern Minnesota than for several years past, especially in the more heavily wooded sections.

The $150 fine is the minimum provided by law for the offense, the maximum being $500. The charge of killing the deer heads was dropped after the men pleaded guilty on the moose charge.

SILVERTON

SIGWARD PETERSON DIES OF SPINAL MENINGITIS

The whole community was saddened by the sudden death of Sigward Peterson, 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Peterson, last Tuesday, with his twin brother, Orvin, and another brother, Clarence, were employed near Big Falls, Minn., when he was suddenly taken sick on Saturday with brain fever caused by spinal meningitis. He was taken to the hospital at Bemidji, but died shortly after arriving there. He was a young man of fine character and well liked by all who came in contact with him. He leaves to mourn his death besides his mother and father, two sisters and seven brothers. The funeral was held Friday at 2 o'clock at the Silverton church which was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and evergreens. Rev. Sabo preaching the funeral sermon. The pall bearers were Elmar Barstad, Lawrence and John Letnes, Carl and Adolph Christopherson and Henry Regenske, all school and confirmation classmates of Sigward. The floral pieces were numerous and beautiful, and neighbors and friends of the sorrowing family filled the church to capacity.

A precious one from us has gone,
A voice we loved is stilled;
A place is vacant in our home
Which never can be filled.

The people of the Silverton community extend their sympathy to the bereaved family.

Silverton Ladies Aid will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon, Jan. 6. All members should bring a pie, and everyone being cordially invited.

Christmas Program Given

A fine program was given at the Silverton church by the Sunday school on Monday evening, which was enjoyed by a well filled church of Silverton residents. Apples, candy and nuts were the treats and the beautiful Christmas tree was the center of attraction for the little folks. A short talk by Rev. Sabo and a speech of appreciation and acceptance was given by acting superintendent of the Sunday school, Geo. M. Gundersmoen, who was presented with a gift by the Sunday school.

Those Whose Business it is to Know

Lucky Strike "the finest cigarettes ever made," 11,105 doctors give written opinions about smoking and throat protection.

WHAT is the quality that Giovanni Martinelli, Mary Garden, William Hodge, Dave Elelasco, Lenore Ulric, Fiske O'Hara, Blanche Ring, and other famous singers, actors, broadcasters and public speakers have found that makes LUCKY STRIKES delightful and of no possible injury to their voices?

To the answer we turned to medical men and asked them it to question:

Do you think from your experience with LUCKY STRIKE cigarettes that they are less irritating to sensitive or tender throats than other cigarettes, whatever the reason?

11,105 & doctors answered this question "YES."

These figures represent the opinion and experience of doctors, those whose business it is to know.

Fiske O'Hara, Pleasing Stage Star, writes:

"The throat is a delicate instrument which all singers protect with the utmost care. To avoid irritation, I smoke Lucky Strikes. They are not only kind to my throat but have the finest flavor."

Do You Really Want A Happy New Year

Happy New Year! Is it just a catch phrase, a mere pleasantry, or do you really want one? So many people say they do, and then start gaily off along the same old paths that have brought them only discontentment before.

But if you're in earnest about this Happy New Year business, why not come in and let us show you how we can start you out on the safe and solid road of Pay-As-You-Go. You'll be astonished at the difference it makes in your outlook on life, when you have no stack of unpaid bills to face on the first of the month. "Charge it" is one of the most dangerous expressions in the English language. Let's all make a resolution to remove it from our vocabularies.

The J. C. Penney Company wishes everyone a Happy and Prosperous New Year. We'll do more than wish it. We'll show you how to have it if you will give us a chance.

EXHIBITS AT POULTRY SHOW ARE EXCELLENT

Judge W. E. Stanfield Enthusiastic in Praise of Showing Despite the Cold

EDUCATIONAL TALKS AND FREE LUNCHES

Plenty of Awards in Cash and Merchandise Offered to Winners This Year

The showing of poultry at the eleventh annual poultry show which opened yesterday afternoon in the auditorium Tuesday morning of this week, is as good as any ever seen in this part of the state, according to Judge W. F. Stanfield, who has acted in the same capacity for several years past. He stated to a representative of The Times that the birds were exceptionally fine specimens and the exhibitors deserve special praise for bringing them in, considering the cold weather which prevailed on Monday and Tuesday; many poultry raisers keeping their stock at home.

The judge arrived Wednesday noon and started the judging shortly after the dinner hour, stopping again for supper and in the evening to give a talk on poultry classing and the distinguishing points of birds on exhibit. He gave what was said by several of those present to be a highly educational talk on poultry breeding, raising and care.

Fine Turkey Display

A forecast by President Dave Gustafson the turkey exhibit passed the one hundred mark this year, a total of 101 fine specimens of Bronze Red, White Holland and Bronze turkeys being placed in competition by the turkey fanciers of this section. Naturally there were more of the latter named class, altho the showing of White Hollands was exceptionally good. The turkeys were placed in specially constructed coops along the north side of the hall in double formation. The geese were also placed in some of these larger coops and they were finer, peahaps, than any ever shown here in the past.

The poultry was given the greater portion of the remaining space, three long tables with double rows of coops being placed the full length of the hall, affording an excellent display of birds. The addition of more modern coops each year now affords the poultry association an opportunity to cooperate with the poultry raiser in displaying his birds, and gives the public at the same time a better chance to make its own comparison of exhibition birds.

Special Features

Free coffee and doughnuts were served by the association during the afternoon and this feature was greatly appreciated by the exhibitors and the audience. Other poultry meetings and talks have been having this lunch feature and it is to be hoped that much praise generally.

This afternoon and evening additional educational programs will be given, J. G. Haney, of the International Harvester Company, an experimental farm at Grand Forks being slated to talk on diversified farming. He will discuss also crop rotation weed control and other kindred matters, using at the Princess theatre this afternoon moving picture as well as lantern slides, while this evening there will only be the lantern slides, as no facilities are available for the movies in the Commercial club rooms.

Merchandise Offered

In addition to the $200 in cash prizes offered exhibitors by the association practically as much more is donated by the merchants and business men of the city, in the form of merchandise prizes, which are awarded by the judge in addition to the cash prizes. Many of the merchants have also donated prizes for the lunch counter and in the evening in give a talk on poultry classing and the distinguishing points of birds on exhibit. He gave what was said by several of those present to be a highly educational talk on poultry breeding, raising and care.

Initial Showing Today of New Pontiac Six Is Made by Tavernas Garage

The Tavernas garage will have on display late this week a carload of Pontiac Six, Jan. 5 being the second anniversary of the addition of this new line of Oakland Motor Car Company's products. The Pontiac Six is said to surpass in beauty, power and performance all previous offerings of the company in the four priced six cylinder field.

The new Pontiac Six chassis with four-wheel brakes, gasoline pump, an entirely new type of clutch which prevents evaporation, semi-coincidental lock, improved carburetor, and a new ventilating, new cylinder head, higher c pression, new clutch and steering ge easier frame and other mechanical i provements, appears to verify the statement of the manufacturer that it is now from radiator to tail light. Briefly stated, the company is offering infinitely "more car" at the same base price

But the beauty of the New Series Pontiac Six is not "skin deep." Under that sleek new hood is an engine which develops 45 horsepower at 2,600 r. p. m., a substantial increase over the power of the previous Pontiac.

One of the outstanding pioneering features of the new car is the radically changed principle of engine cooling as embodied in the Harrison "Vertiflow" radiator, from which it is practically impossible to lose either water or anti-freeze solution by evaporation. The water flows horizontally through the radiator cells instead of vertically as in other radiators. The water circulation is thermostatically controlled and the flow is maintained by a new water pump of the balanced impeller type.

Among other important changes are the adoption of the 7-M-R cylinder head and the replacement of the conventional vacuum tank with a gasoline pump, two late developments both of which are pioneered successfully on the Oakland All-American Six.

Tractor Drawn Snow Plow Throws Snow 50 Feet to Side of Trunk Highways

R. W. Sewell, [illegible] trunk highway superintendent at Crookston, was in the city Friday [illegible] week, having come down as far north as Fisher, inspecting the work done [illegible] the high speed snow plow sent out from Crookston over No. 32 and [illegible] 11.

The plow was here the [illegible] day and attracted much attention as it passed up and down Main [illegible] sue, throwing the snow over on the [illegible] vants a sufficient distance to insure its remaining off the right-of-way of the roadway proper. The plow is driven by two trucks and outside of the city limits travels at times at 25 miles an hour, throwing the snow 50 feet or more from the roadway at such times.

Supt. Sewell stated that the roads in this section of the state were in excellent condition, the snowfall being much less than farther south.

WEATHER RECORDS HERE UNBROKEN SO FAR THIS WINTER

Only 29 Below Recorded on Jan. 2 While Last Year It Was 39 Below Zero

While practically the whole country has been suffering from extremely cold weather the past week, in practically all previous weather records being broken, the people of this city have been enjoying excellent winter weather. At no time were the mercury readings below zero in advent of winter.

The coldest weather in December of 1927 was only 28 below zero on Dec. 9, while the previous year the thermometer went down to 32 below on Dec. 16. This year there were 10 days in December when the maximum for the month was reached, these being Dec. 8 and 28 with a reading of 28 above, a year ago the thermometer rose to 37 on Dec. 20. Thus the maximum, spread of temperature was only 56 degrees the past December as compared to 67 degrees the preceding year.

The mean maximum reading for December, 1927, was 16.4, while Mr. Rayson this past December was 7.42 degrees above zero, while a year ago it was 15.6 degrees. The mean minimum reading for Dec. 1927, was 10.64 below zero as compared to only 6.73 below the preceding year. This it will be seen that the whole December just past was colder than that of a year ago.

During the past week the thermometer got up to 22 above zero, that being on Thursday, Dec. 29, while the coldest recorded was on Monday of this week, Jan. 2, when a minimum of 29 below was recorded, this being the coldest day of the winter so far. However, on Jan. 3, last year Mr. Rayson stated today to a representative of The Times that the reading was 20 below—colder that day in three years. There were just two days this past week on which the temperature was above zero, those being last Thursday and this week Tuesday.

Only One School Holiday From Now Till Vacation at Easter Time, Apr. 5

Christmas toys will be packed away in another day of two in preparation for the reopening of school next Monday, following a two weeks' vacation, the first of which was enjoyed indoors on account of the severe cold weather, while a few of the larger boys and girls went skating and also enjoyed the new toboggan slide this week.

Those attending schools away from home started leaving New Years night, the state university having reopened on Wednesday, while practically all other colleges and state institutions opened that same day or today, Thursday. Most of the public schools of the state are to open again next Monday.

When class work starts it will be almost without interruption till the Easter holidays, for Washington's birthday will be the only holiday observed by the local schools between the spring vacation, Lincoln's birthday, Feb 12, falling on Sunday.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION HELD ITS ANNUAL MEETING

The Ministerial association of this city had their monthly meeting in the Commercial club room on Monday morning, Jan. 2. All the Protestant ministers of the city were present except Rev. Auer, O Bloom and Capt. H. E. Rolfe, who were detained by duties.

The following officers were elected for the coming year: president, Rev. F. L. Tungseth; vice president, Rev. L. Schroder, secretary-treasurer, Rev. H. C. Schelberg.

It was decided for good reasons to recommend to the churches not to conduct Religious Education classes during January, but rather to conduct a Vacation Bible Schools during the month of June, after the close of school.

It was also agreed that it would be advisable for the different churches to hold their Christmas programs on the same day, as far as possible.

SALVATION ARMY WILL HOLD SPECIAL MEETINGS

In keeping with the Do-Your-Best campaign being carried on by the Salvation Army for the next three months, the local corps will conduct special meetings Saturday evening and all day Sunday, next going to announcement by Capt. H. E. Rolfe.

These meetings will be in charge of Ensign and Mrs. Ouerry, Divisional Young People's secretary, of Fargo, N. Dak.

A special invitation is extended to all to be in attendance at these meetings which will take place at our regular hours, [illegible] elsewhere in this issue.

Fifth week, Monday, Jan. 30, Gamble-Robinsons vs. Night Hawks; Tuesday, Jan. 31, Thief River Grocery vs. Mechanics; Wednesday, Feb. 1, Round House Clerks vs. Swift's Hams; Friday, Feb. 3, J. C. Penney's vs. Round House Rats; Saturday, Feb. 4, Jung's vs. Soo Office.

Scores Low as Yet

George Mostue was high man at the initial rolling this week, making a 214 score. Ellho his team, the Gamble Robinsons had to the 3-cheers, the scores of each team being 2293 and 2146 respectively.

Ames Peterson was at the head of the pin men last night, scoring a total of 480 for his team, the Round House Clerks running up a total of 2276 points to 2127 made by the Round House Rats.

The match scheduled for Tuesday night was postponed till this evening, and it is expected that a large number of spectators will be present, over 50 having witnessed last night's bowling.

SPECIAL COURT TERM IS TO BE AT EVELYN HOTEL

Clerk of Court Adolph Ekland is in receipt of a further communication from Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren, stating that the special term of court will convene, Jan. 5, will be held in his room at the Evelyn hotel, beginning at 7:30 o'clock as previously announced.

This term of court will be for the purpose of giving local attorneys an opportunity to present any motions they have. On account of still suffering from his fall on a slippery sidewalk in Warren recently the judge is unable to go to the court house for hearings.

COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT'S OFFICE WAS BUSY PLACE

That the office of County Superintendent of Schools George M. Gunderson is a busy place is revealed in some statistics compiled this week and just announced. During the year 1927 there were received by the superintendent 3,726 pieces of first class mail, while 5,247 letters were mailed by this county official. During the twelve months that Mr. Gunderson has again been in charge of the office there were 268 visitors, which he states, is a material increase since his former term of office.

Auto Club to Elect Officers at Annual Meeting on Jan. 12

The annual meeting of the Pennington County Auto club will be held next week Thursday, Jan. 12, at 8:30 p. m. in the lobby of the Evelyn hotel, according to the announcement of President Julen Prestweber, at which time new officers will be chosen for the coming year, delegates named to the annual state convention of the Minnesota Automobile association, and such other business as may come before the meeting.

In discussing the accomplishments of the national and state automobile association today Mr. Prestweber said that it was the untiring efforts of the officers of these organizations brought about the cancelling of the three per cent war tax that has been maintained for the past few years on all sales of automobiles throut the United States.

The officers of the local association will have a report of the accomplishments of the Pennington county body and it is hoped that a large attendance may be had for this occasion. The present officers of the association are: Julen Prestweber, president; W. W. Prichard, jr., vice president; and Ernie Rude, secretary-treasurer.

SOW THISTLE MEETING HELD AT CROOKSTON

Hans Anton of This City Told of Methods He Used Successfully in Fight

NORTHERN PACIFIC MAN SAYS PLAN BEST ONE YET

Meeting Was Also Attended by New Pennington County Agent, R. M. Douglas

Another alfalfa campaign in Pennington county has been started on its way for 1928, a questionaire having been sent to farmers of this vicinity by County Agent Robert M. Douglas. The blank as mailed out also covers the possible assistance of the Pennington County Extension Service in the matter of supplying alsike and clover seed as well as oats and flax seed.

With a determination to maintain its rank of the leading alfalfa county in Minnesota, the directors of the Farm Bureau instructed Mr. Douglas to secure such information as the co-operative association can use to advantage in extending its services to the entire agricultural community.

Clover Included in Campaign

The questionaire as sent out last Friday by Mr. Douglas seeks to learn the number of acres now planted to alfalfa, and the intention as to an increase thereof this coming season. If there will be an increase, it is desired to learn how much it will be and whether any seed will be needed therefor, and how much. The Farm Bureau being in a position to assist in furnishing any seed if needed.

The idea of incorporating the alsike and red clover into the campaign this year, is that these two crops can be grown to advantage in land upon where alfalfa is liable to be drowned out, and that the feeding value of these two crops is nearly as great as alfalfa.

On account of a threatened shortage in oats and flax this coming spring, the association feels that the call for material assistance in supplying seed for these crops will be some, and at possibly a lower figure than it could be had individually.

Livestock Also Considered

With a view of bettering the dairy herds of Pennington county the farmers are also being asked to state the number of cows they have of each what kind; also whether a pure bred bull is their possession. The number of sheep is also desired. The Farm Bureau, will endeavor to form sheep breeders' associations the same as those of the various cattle organizations. Hereafter any breed of sheep has been placed on the farms here, but from now on special breeds will possibly be recommended.

The letter sent to the farmers also makes inquiry as to the number of acres planted to sweet clover, and the question is asked if there is any seed corn on hand; if not, how much is needed.

Holidays for 1928 Jump for Leap Year

The calendar for 1928 shows the effect of leap year by causing a jump of two days in the date on which important holidays and anniversaries fall, it was revealed at lodge in a synopsis of dates covering important occasions scheduled for the coming year, as compiled recently. February, the month which causes the quadrennial difference in calendars, starts Wednesday and ends the 29th, falling on that same day of the week.

January 1, 1928, comes on Sunday, always taking its lead as to day from the preceding Christmas. Lincoln's birthday comes on Sunday with Washington's birthday so Wednesday and St. Patrick's day on Saturday. Spring begins March 20 at 2.45 p. m.

April—Fool's day comes on Sunday. Good Friday is April 6 and, therefore, Easter is on the 8th. Memorial day is on Wednesday next, as always, the Fourth of July follows suit. Summer begins June 21 at 10 07 a. m. Labor day comes on Sept. 3 and autumn Sept. 23 at 1:06 a. m. Columbus day (Oct. 12) is on Friday and November will have election day on the 6th, Armistice day (Nov. 11), on Sunday and Thanksgiving on the 25th. Winter will arrive Dec. 21 at 8:04 p. m. and Christmas of 1928 falls on Tuesday.

NESS ELECTED CHAIRMAN OF COUNTY BOARD

Salaries of Superintendent, Sheriff, Attorney, and Jailor Same as Last Year

HIGHWAY DEPARTMENT REPORT WAS ACCEPTED

Chairman Ness Re-Appointed Same Board Members on Various County Committees

Andrew Ness of this city was again chosen chairman of the Pennington County Board of Commissioners at its annual meeting in the court house on Tuesday afternoon of this week, with J. S. Roy of St. Hilaire as vice chairman.

Before the conclusion of the meeting on Wednesday Chairman Ness announced the following committee appointments for the coming year, the same being duly accepted:

Committee on Court house and jail, Larson and Ness.

Committee on Ditches, Wilson, Roy, Thompson, Ness and Anderson.

Purchasing committee, Ness and Anderson.

County Board of Health, Dr. Dr. Swedenburg, Ness and Roy.

The report of the highway engineer was received and ordered filed.

Salaries of various county officials were fixed in the following amounts: J. C. Penney system, according to H. E. Nelson, local manager, who states in a representative of The Times today that the total amounts so distributed in all of the stores of the company was in excess of $320,000 this Christmas season. This is the largest bonus distributed in the history of the J. C. Penney company.

The J. C. Penney company has 554 stores operating in 46 states. Over 2,000 women employees participated in the bonus in their various stores and 145 women associates in their New York and St. Louis offices.

"They constitute a large and vital factor in our organization," said Mr. Nelson, when interviewed today. "In order to encourage them toward greater effort and to give them some special benefit within the keeping of the principle and policy of the organization—the Golden Rule—this special bonus plan has been adopted for 1927."

The bonus distribution for the women in the offices is based on salary and years of service. The women associates in the stores share in the bonus in proportion to their productiveness in sales and length of service.

The men associates have the opportunity to share in the profits of all J. C. Penney Company stores and to receive a substantial percentage of the profits of their stores when they become managers.

John Brumund Died In Minneapolis Sunday P. M.

The death of John Brumund, sr., of this city occurred Sunday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock in the Minneapolis General hospital, where he had been taken suddenly ill with bronchial pneumonia Saturday afternoon, death overtaking him the following day, Mrs. Brumund left for Minneapolis that night, learning his son's body would be taken to Walt Tuesday morning, and was met at the station by local undertaking parlors, the remains being placed in the undertaking parlors.

John was 71 years old at the time of his death, having been born at Lebanon reservation was owned Mr. Brumund was the first one to open a store in the village of Thief River Falls, coming here in 1901, at which time that John was born—the first white child that is living here. He came here in 1901, erecting the first frame store building in 1905. He enjoyed the confidence of the Indians during the Wild West days, and was appointed by Uncle Sam as postmaster in 1904, holding the following February. Since that time he has been engaged in the theatre business here with his father, and is well known nearby towns. He had a host of friends in this community who feel keen regret at his untimely death.

Funeral services with military escort were held from St. Bernard's Catholic church yesterday afternoon, Father Nicolai officiating, and interment was made in the Catholic cemetery, the following acting as pallbearers: W. L. Carlisle, W. E. Dahlquist, Joe Maruska, Dr. C. M. Hough, Carl Russell, Oscar Smith and Oscar Pauli; and Taylor Thompson and Verner Nelson were the color guards. H. E. Olson and Geo. M. Nelson the color bearers; F. C. Pederson the bugler, and A. Holmberg, Alfred Auringer, Herbert Hannon, Arthur Auringer, Alfred Lindquist, and James Caldis the firing squad.

$700 BONUS MONEY DISTRIBUTED HERE BY J. C. PENNEY

Over $320,000 Distributed to an Army of Clerks in 554 Stores Thruout Land

The J. C. Penney store in Thief River Falls distributed over a $700 bonus to its employees, several of whom have been with the company for several years past, this policy being in common with that of the whole J. C. Penney system, according to H. E. Nelson, local manager, who states in a representative of The Times today that the total amounts so distributed in all of the stores of the company was in excess of $320,000 this Christmas season. This is the largest bonus distributed in the history of the J. C. Penney company.

The J. C. Penney company has 554 stores operating in 46 states. Over 2,000 women employees participated in the bonus in their various stores and 145 women associates in their New York and St. Louis offices.

"They constitute a large and vital factor in our organization," said Mr. Nelson, when interviewed today. "In order to encourage them toward greater effort and to give them some special benefit within the keeping of the principle and policy of the organization—the Golden Rule—this special bonus plan has been adopted for 1927."

The bonus distribution for the women in the offices is based on salary and years of service. The women associates in the stores share in the bonus in proportion to their productiveness in sales and length of service.

The men associates have the opportunity to share in the profits of all J. C. Penney Company stores and to receive a substantial percentage of the profits of their stores when they become managers.

POOLHALL CHANGES HANDS

Laprose Wyman of Grand Forks, and Ben Weidenbach of Thief River Falls, have purchased the pool and billiard room establishment of Jas. Cosgrove, on Labree avenue taking possession immediately. Mr. Wyman, who has been in business in the same business at Grand Forks, has had previous experience, having been engaged therein at Rolla, Iowa, for several years.

Mr. Cosgrove stated that he had not made any plans for the future, but will remain here during the winter at least.

PRIZES ARE OFFERED IN COFFEE GUESSING CONTEST

The Thief River Grocery Co. received a solid carload of Nash's coffee that this carload will make. Auto Mileage During the Year 1927 Was 3,000,000 Miles

Much Paint Gravelling Done

Total mileage of unimproved state aid roads a year ago was 1,173 miles, and this year, according to the report of Mr. Hinland, it is 1,175 miles, 2 miles each on state aid roads numbers 1 and 2, and twelve having been improved, the former having been gravelled, while the latter was graded, but no surface. Five miles of state aid road No. 2 which a year ago was graded not ungravelled, was gravelled this past year, as was also four miles on No. 4, four miles on No. 11 and one mile on No. 12.

A noteworthy feature of the engineer's report was patch gravelling of practically all of the surfaced roads of the total mileage of which amounted to only 56,014.76, placing Pennington county's state aid roads in the best condition they have been in at the close of any year, according to the engineer and the county board.

New Whippet Cars Will Be Sold at Lower Cost Manufacturers State

There can be no monopoly in automobiles of the light class although there is, to many instances, a monopoly in the production of cars of this type during the coming year, John N. Willys, president of the Willys-Overland, Inc., declared in a statement received by the Thief River Motor Co., representatives of the Whippet, the new type of car brought out last year by the Willys-Overland company.

At the same time Mr. Willys announced that the new Whippet, the Type Four cabriolet, will be shown by many dealers this week Friday, Jan. 6. Just when the new cars will be received Mr. Hambeck of the Thief River Motor Co., could not definitely state. The new car, he declares, will have improved bodies and new and added equipment, and will sell at prices which will place it in direct competition with the lowest priced cars on the American market.

Production of the improved car is already under way and deliveries are promised at all dealer points in January. While the new prices will not be made known until Jan. 6, Mr. Willys stated that there will be a substantial reduction and the car will be the lowest priced in the history of the Willys-Overland company.

During the 19 months the Whippet has been on the market the car has established numerous performance records, including a national record run of 2,549 miles from Los Angeles to New York in which a fuel average of 43.28 miles to the gallon was maintained. It was the first light car in America to use four-wheel brakes as standard equipment.

SCOUTS WILL HIKE

The local troop of boy scouts will have a hike up the river tomorrow, Friday afternoon and will enjoy a bean supper on their return.

TAX ON MANY AUTOS IN COMING YEAR IS LESS; SOME HIGHER

Trucks Gain by New Law; Pleasure Cars Effected by Changes in Prices

Many car owners in Pennington county, when they apply for their new auto license after January 1, will find that due to the changes in R. O. D. prices, they will pay a lower rate than in 1927. This affects not only new cars, but the rate for cars in use for the present period of the same model, less ten per cent for each year of age to be over. All cars over 2,000 pounds are subject to the $17.50 minimum fee, and those under 2,000 pay a $10 minimum.

Special Changes Cited

Thus a five passenger Chevrolet coach was taxed $18.48 in 1927. The same car of the present model will pay $14.78 in 1928, but a year old coach will be taxed only $12.55. The 1927 tax on a new Whippet four coach was $16.68; a new car in 1928 will pay $15.00 while a car one year old pays $13.50. New model Dodge four-door cars will pay from $20.52 to $22.62. Last winter Dodge closed cars paid from $22.88 to $25.80.

Due to increased weight, the new Ford touring, roadster and two-door sedan will pay $13.20 each, the four-door will pay $13.64 and the sport coupe $12.76. A Ford truck will pay $10, the minimum on cars not exceeding two tons except the 1927 closed cars and the 1928 four-door.

Many truck owners will benefit by the reduction to be in force for 1928 into effect Jan. 1. The rate on "X" trucks is reduced from 2 to 3-4 and many trucks which required "Y" licenses last year will pay the new "X" license and pay the 10 per cent tax.

The definition of "X" trucks has been broadened to include all those used for carrying agricultural, horticultural, dairy and other farm products from the place of production to the place of shipment, sale or consumption. The right to haul 1,000 pounds of supplies for use on the farm is written into the law.

The 2.4 per cent rate applies on "Y" trucks as before. All trucks not directly in the service of the owner must have "X" licenses.

Changes in rates and change of classification of trucks, it is estimated, will mean a $500,000 loss of revenue to the State Highway department. This will be made up by increased registration fees and by the new heavier highway maintenance bill.

Secretary of State Mike Holm Explains Law

Secretary of State Mike Holm estimates that the mail duplex will promptly to all applicants by the first of the month, but between Feb. 1 and 15, due to the rush of business, there will be a delay of several weeks for their plates.

Banks and garages in Thief River Falls have received the new rate books and are ready to help fill out your application when you send for your new tags next week.

Our Little Corner

No. 2 JANUARY 5, 1928 Vol. 2

This is the first week we have written in 1928.

We hope we may be able to write other ones, giving a like year that will mean more than the ones etc.

Our walnut dining room suites are now made, to please.

Don't be surprised that you don't eat much for breakfast if you're dieting and you eat more because you look like looks so nice it makes you hungry. Have you looked them over recently?

First Sailor—Dan, what's a sailor—is a sailor a navigator?
Second Sailor—To tell you the truth I don't know much about poultry.

We wish to extend our sincere appreciation to our kind neighbors for their assistance to us the last days before the death of our beloved husband and father. The sympathy and kindness shown us, the beautiful flowers, and all those who helped in the last services.

Certain covers, Agent they may be comfortable a bed as you could wish for. You'll be interested in our day beds.

We've always endeavored to be the man who is forever saving the family. That's the reason you don't see us in bed. We just brush it off.

That's the sun out-doors. There's nothing to compare with reading in the darkness.

Or stay at that isn't there.

$3,287 NET PROFIT REPORTED BY STATE FAIR IN SEPTEMBER

Attendance Near Half Million Mark Despite Rain With Receipts Close to $400,000

A net profit of $3,287.50 was made on the operation of the 1927 Minnesota State fair and Northwest Dairy exposition, according to the annual report of Secretary-General Manager Thomas B. Cantrill, filed with the governor Saturday.

Rain on five days of the 1927 state fair cut heavily into the receipts, the receipts being $393,553.31. The expense was $390,265.81.

Resources of the state fair now total $2,607,277.50. Land is valued at $1,270,518.10, and buildings at $1,221,434.00. Cash reserve on hand, November 30, was $105,483.90. Personal property is listed at $768,611.46, and accounts receivable at $5,730.65.

The total amount of appropriations made by the state for land; improvements and maintenance since the Agricultural Society was organized is $1,259,499.90. The net surplus to the state from increase in value of land and profits of fairs amounted in per-

Soo and G. N. Roads to Spend $62,000,000 on Improvements in 1928

Announcement was made late last week that the Soo railroad will spend close to $7,000,000 in 1928 for betterment of right-of-way and equipment, which is considerably more than was spent the past year. The schedule of the Soo "Line includes laying of new and heavier rails, ballasting of equipment and purchase of additional cars.

The tentative budget of the Great Northern contemplates expenditures of approximately $55,000,000 in 1928, including a large amount of the equipment in its ocean ships in the north-west during the present year, in addition to the heavy rail purchases and improvements.

THE CRY CONTINUES

The cry for capital punishment continues. The sheriffs of the state have again gone on record in favor of the death penalty, and newspapers, from the city dailies down to village weeklies, are deploring the fact that Minnesota murderers cannot be put to death. Those of us who do not believe in capitol punishment are mercilessly branded as "sob-sisters."

Nobody likes to be a "sob-sister" and neither do we. We wish it could be otherwise. We wish we could be one of those brave, bold newspapermen who think nothing at all of sitting down to their typewriters after supper and killing off a couple of dozen criminals. It has been our ambition since boyhood to be one of those relentless, hard-hitting heroes of the swivel chair who apply the lash or the noose in sprint with nary a quiver or a qualm. How we envy them their stern, lantern-jawed fierceness. But it cannot be. While they write gallantly forward, half a ream, half a ream, into the valley of death—ours but to sob and sigh. So we sob.

In all the miles of writing that we have seen on this question of capital punishment, we have not yet read a logical argument in favor of the death penalty. The following paragraph, as near as we can figure it out, sums up the argument that is reinvented in favor of such punishment.

> In England the man or woman guilty of murder knows, that within four weeks the death penalty will be inflicted, but the man or woman who plans and executes a murder in the United States has the chances are six to one that they will not be arrested, fifteen to one that they will not be convicted and 120 to one that they will escape the death penalty.

It is fair to assume that this paragraph applies only to those states which provide for the death penalty, for of course there is not one chance in a million of a criminal being executed in a state where public executions are not provided for. Now we will set this writer at his word, to the effect that there is only one chance in a hundred and twenty that a murderer will be executed in a state which provides for the death penalty. And yet this writer actually believes that the death penalty is a crime deterrent, and guts all hot-up pleas of sob-sisters don't agree with him. Just how much worrying about the death penalty is a criminal going to do if the odds are 120 to 1 in his favor?

A little consideration of the statistics presented by this writer will drive home the fact to any intelligent person that the first step to be taken to reduce crime in this country is to increase the chances of arrest and conviction. If the six to one chance of arrest and the fifteen to one chance of conviction were reduced to a two to one basis, we venture to say that few crimes would be committed. Few men would commit crime if they had only two chances out of three to escape. And if the sheriffs of Minnesota should ask us our opinion we would suggest that they devote their time at their next convention to working out a better system of policing than we now have rather than worrying about what the penalties are; and if the lawyers of the country should ask us our opinion we would suggest to them that they forget for a few minutes the fancy fees they get under the present system of juggling and dragging criminal cases through several years of appeals, and work out a system whereby justice will be speeded up and convictions made more certain.

All this mad clamor for capitol punishment has about as much logic to it as the action of the old Indian who put a skin atop from on the top of the blanket, and sewed it to the bottom because it wasn't long enough to keep his feet warm. If we are going to kill criminals in order to impress upon the hateful consequences of crime then let's be logical and hold the execution in the public square, and leave the body exposed in public gaze for a few weeks in order that all may see and all be duly impressed. If we are going to kill criminals for revenge, then let's be logical and inflict upon them the same kind of a death they inflicted upon their victims, and eliminate all the effeminate niceties of a painless execution. Or if we are going to kill criminals because they would be a hazard to others if they should escape, then let's be logical and kill all the criminally insane people who are now confined in asylums. By all means, let's be logical.

CONSCRIPTING WEALTH

A movement, sponsored by the American Legion, which would make necessary the conscription of capital and labor as well as fighting men in time of war, is now under way and probably will be given some consideration during this session of Congress. Our first reaction to this proposition was the thought that it was certainly sounds reasonable. If the government is justified in sacrificing the very lives of its citizens why should it not be justified in sacrificing their wealth also. "Conscription of wealth." The words roll off the tongue in a pleasant way. Realizing that wealth is one of the things we have always been taught to admire, we must confess that for a few minutes we looked forward to the next war quite gleefully.

Then a doubt entered the beautiful picture, and pretty soon many more doubts, and now the picture has lost all its charm. We don't believe that it can be done. That is, we don't see how wealth can be conscripted any differently in future wars than it was in this past war. There is only one way to conscript wealth, alas, and that is by that time honored system known as taxation. If there is anyone who can enlighten us on this proposition, who can erase a few of the doubts which still persist and bring back the pleasure of that first enthusiasm we will be forever grateful.

We really don't believe that the rank and file of the people of this country would want wealth conscripted in the sense of its being seized without fair compensation. In fact we are firmly convinced that the people of this country will be exceedingly happy and very well satisfied if wars can be confined to the present wealth from becoming wealthier as a result of war. In other words if there were some assurance that a few people were not getting rich as a result of the war there would be little reason to believe that the war was being fought for the selfish interests of a few individuals and there would be little complaint from the taxpayers. Take the profit out of war and the public will be satisfied.

STRANGE INDEED!

According to the Redwood Falls Gazette, "A strange thing happened in St. Paul last week. Two youngsters were sliding on a street where no youngsters should have been sliding. A young man driving along the same street was given his option between running into the two of them, which meant certain and probably fatal injury to them, or seeing how far up a telephone pole his car could run. He chose up the pole, and his car was a ruin—cars whose engine is located in the space between the front and rear seats are not apt to be worth much. Now comes the strange part. The father of the children knowing that two live children are worth infinitely more than any motor car in the world, looked up the driver of the wrecked car and gave him the price of a new car—of the same make as the one wrecked. Things like that happen once in a million years—and then they revive our faltering faith in the human race."

WE DON'T PLEASE ALL

Quite often individual readers do not agree with us in what we say in these columns. It is not an unusual occurrence to have a person drop into the office and tell us we are cruel more than loons. In the course of a week we are accused of being both radical and reactionary and of straddling the fence. Which proves that we don't please all of the readers all of the time.

This is as it should be and is what makes the work in this department enjoyable. To a large extent we are shooting into the dark and we never know until its all over where or how our shots are going to land. Sometimes we figure we have given a blank load and discover that we have wounded quite a number. At other times we figure we are exploding a lot of dynamite and look forward to tremendous upheaval, but the upheaval doesn't heave for some reason or other and nobody is hurt.

Of course it isn't always battle and bruises and bloodshed. It's a funny thing, but almost invariably, when we offend some readers we please others. The result is that whenever anyone serves notice on us that we are lacking in common sense we look forward to a vote of commendation from the next visitor, and whenever anyone drops in to congratulate us for being able to see things in the same clear light with which they view them we know that trouble is not far off.

EXPERIENCED KNOCKS AND COMPLAINTS

The club women of Bemidji recently took over the publication of one issue of the Daily Pioneer of that city, taking full charge and doing all of the work. The result of their effort was a very creditable paper for the community and some interesting experience for themselves. In speaking of this experience, Miss Mabbie Bliss, who served as managing editor of the club edition, said:

"It has been great sport. We have learned much. News again will we call in at 12:0 to ask the city editor to put a club notice on the front page. Never again will we fail to complain that our name was omitted from a program published on the previous day. Nor will we ever again ask the city editor to write up an article from a few scratchy boat pencil notes. In this brief time we have had our trials, knocks and complaints. We have seen a bit of the hundred and one facts, thousand and one individuals a newspaper must endeavor to please. We realize that this is all a part of the daily routine and ritual of the newspaperman. And so next Monday morning we return to our own tasks and professes with profound respect for the people who are in the organized business of presenting the news to the public."

FOREIGN LOANS

(Long Prairie Leader)

The Saturday Evening Post calls attention to the danger there is in the policy of our big bankers financing foreign bond issues. The great harm would probably result if occasional issues for reasonable amounts were financed but the past few years of financing of foreign bond issues has become a settled and regular policy. About nine billion American dollars have found their way abroad in return for foreign securities. Many of the large banks have bought these bonds and, in turn, have sold them to their customers. These bond issues have come from England, France, Germany, Belgium and other European countries and have been issued for all kinds of purposes. It is charged that many millions of dollars worth of these bonds have been issued to pay interest on bonds already issued, indicating that the debt is piling up by the pyramid process. Our government should concern itself with these foreign investments because sooner or later a policy of unrestricted foreign loans will involve us directly in European social, political and economic troubles. The government should make investment and diligent hesitancy as to the extent to which American banking reserves are being used to finance European operations, public and private. It is apparent that if the policy is permitted to continue without restriction, the time will be here soon when American banks will find themselves deeply involved in the moral, political and economic solvency of foreign governments and foreign debtors—a very dangerous situation for the welfare of our country. If American wealth needs new outlets for investigation, let it investigate the development of America and aid that development—at lower interest rates.

"No free government or the blessings of liberty can be preserved to any people but by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality and virtue, and by a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles."—Patrick Henry.

HONEY FROM GALL

(Quotes)

If any speak ill of thee, fire home to thy own conscience, and examine thine heart; if thou be guilty, it is a just correction; if not guilty, it is a fair instruction; make use of both; so shalt thou distill honey out of gall, and out of an open enemy create a secret friend.

PublicForum

Editor Times:

A "missing thing" was being taken through a Ford farm and addressed a motorist. After he passed, "Just how many times can a fox be kicked for his weight?" he queried. "Three times," replied the guide very naively. "More than that would spoil his beauty."

So if I write too often I might spoil the temper of the editor. He is a little touchy, don't you know. He has handled many people, and I have figured out that he can be classed under once a month with ... and dandy. Other days the overall look out, for his teeth and claws are pretty sharp. I honestly believe in a reasonable amount of judiciously applied criticism is helpful.

But ash-sister sympathy for a friend like Hickman is repulsive. If that crime had been committed in Canada or any other civilized country in the world except the United States his body would have been in quick lime within twenty four hours. Here two of them, which meant certain and probably a fatal injury to them, or seeing how far up a telephone pole his car could run. It is charged that many millions of dollars worth of these bonds have been issued to pay interest on bonds already issued, indicating that the debt is piling up by the pyramid process. Our government should concern itself with these foreign investments because sooner or later a policy of unrestricted foreign loans will involve us directly in European social, political and economic troubles. The government should make investment and diligent hesitancy as to the extent to which American banking reserves are being used to finance European operations, public and private. It is apparent that if the policy is permitted to continue without restriction, the time will be here soon when American banks will find themselves deeply involved in the moral, political and economic solvency of foreign governments and foreign debtors—a very dangerous situation for the welfare of our country. If American wealth needs new outlets for investigation, let it investigate the development of America and aid that development—at lower interest rates.

"No free government or the blessings of liberty can be preserved to any people but by a firm adherence to justice, moderation, temperance, frugality and virtue, and by a frequent recurrence to fundamental principles."—Patrick Henry.

HONEY FROM GALL

(Quotes)

If any speak ill of thee, fire home to thy own conscience, and examine thine heart; if thou be guilty, it is a just correction; if not guilty, it is a fair instruction; make use of both; so shalt thou distill honey out of gall, and out of an open enemy create a secret friend.

PARENTS SHOULD SEND IN QUESTIONS FOR P-T MEET

Dr. O. F. Melliy, president of the Parent Teachers' Association, stated in a report made at the P-T meeting Tuesday that he would like to have parents send in their questions for the Question Box to be discussed at the next meeting of the association, in order that these questions may be turned over to the members of the teaching staff of the schools without further delay. The exact date of the meeting has not been set, but on the return of the teachers the coming week this will be done. Officers of the organization hope that the January meeting will be among the best ever staged.

Chevrolet Models Are Carefully Inspected at Reliable Motor Garage

Considerable enthusiasm existed in the city this week when the new Chevrolet line for 1928 went on display at the garages of the Reliable Motor Co., every car being particular account of the many mechanical improvements made in the new cars.

Hundreds who viewed the new models the first of this week noted that the wheelbase was increased and the models made roomier and more beautiful, also that the mechanical features had been developed to a remarkable degree, enhancing the low price class.

Outstanding developments in the engine and chassis that received particular attention were the increased speed and power of the new car, easier steering, four wheel brakes of new design, and absorber springs marking an advanced trend toward riding comfort, and smoother engine performance.

The last mentioned featured was achieved by the use of constant clearance alloy "invar strut" pistons which are a Chevrolet invention, and exclusive motor performances. Further contributing to smoother engine action is made by raising the compression ratio and by stepping up the valve lifts. Four speeds forward are provided.

Other changes in the engine are the addition of a breathing system to eliminate the dampness of engine fumes; a new two-part exhaust, and a new carburetor and manifold.

The four-wheel brakes are of non-locking design—the product of Chevrolet engineers in the facilities of General Motors laboratories and proving grounds.

The springs also are of extraordinary interest. Rattling due to the comfortable spring action is the result of rebound after striking a bump. Chevrolet engineers set about to increase the friction of the springs and thus check the rebound. This end was achieved by equipping the springs with rebound checks.

Greater ease of steering was made possible by adopting a ball bearing worm and roller steering mechanism, including ball bearings in the steering knuckles, and by changing the steering ratio from 8. to 9.5 to 1. The four inch increase in wheelbase contributes greatly to the riding quality of the car, with less pitching and better road holding ability.

Other details combine to make the Chevrolet for 1928 the best performing, most efficient and dependable merchandise unit ever built by the company.

Four brides in London in the past year were only 14 years old, and 24 were 15.

Sentiment

In the hurry and bustle of modern life there is a tendency to ignore the demands of sentiment. Instead of rings are sometimes brushed aside by highly specialized and technical writers.

While our profession has made great advances in technical education, by no means has it overlooked the importance of human feelings. The modern funeral director considers that no small part of his duty has to do with the feelings of the living.

Our entire service is planned well in view to making the funeral an impressive occasion, but not an unnecessarily cruel one.

James C. Penney, millionaire founder of the nation-wide chain of stores bearing his name, has been elected president of the Christian Herald, according to an announcement received today by H. E. Nelson, manager of the Minneapolis office of the Magazine Collegiate Reformed Church at Fifth Avenue and 29th Street and international President of the Christian Endeavor Society, who is also President of the Greater New York Federation of Churches.

In a statement prepared just before leaving for his Florida farm at Green Cove Springs, Mr. Penney declared: "I still believe in the principles which I semi-rounded to relatives and friends, and one relative reported that he put one up in the granary and that it kept the mice and rats away. It secured for that relative that it could be done on a large scale like this within twenty four hours. Here is a case will be accepted as to the value to the farmers as some of the reports from the farmers in the district recently for the salvation of the pocket book I remember.

But of course, the farmers would be allowed to vote on this proposition. It is part of my policy to try to get good for other people and I think I have the welfare of the farmers at heart.

And perhaps at this time I should explain the statement that Selvig had received an invitation to Washington. At the time I wrote the article he had not. But upon reflection it seems that for some unaccountable reason my letters have not been answered and he is in receipt of same as some damage after all, he being on the fleet control committee. But I have written to counteract that slip and feel sure that Selvig don't flood the capitol, and I myself am all right, all the time as we hope all will be well.

Yours truly

Next FRIDAY

Whippet will be the most valuable car ever offered for so little money

John R. Willys

President, The Willys-Overland Company

AFTER months of preparation, we are ready to present the perfected Whippet for 1928.

You will be satisfied and delighted with every detail of its equipment and performance. You will be amazed when you learn how low is the price. For Willys-Overland resources and equipment are now such that no car of equal quality can be built and sold at a lower price.

Engineering Leadership

Present light car standards are a tribute to the pioneering the Whippet has done. Four-wheel brakes—lower center of gravity—greater economy—greater roominess—quieter engines—faster speed and pick-up—greater beauty—no one today would think of buying a car that had not made these advances.

Many Added Features

Among the many things you will like in the 1928 Whippet are improved bodies in a wide variety of beautiful colors, and fitted with cadet-type visor, full crown fenders, an engine that doubles its rated horse-power, full pressure lubrication, silent timing chain, gasoline tank in rear, long, semi-elliptic springs, oversize balloon tires and snubbers, an adjustable steering wheel, automatic windshield wiper, rear view mirror and stop light.

Remarkable Records

Owners have driven and tested the Whippet for more than five hundred million miles. It has established record after record in proof of its superiority. It holds the A. A. A. Coast-to-Coast economy record, averaging 43.28 miles to the gallon. It set a record of 71.6 miles an hour in a speed test on Rockingham Park Speedway. It accelerates from 5 to 30 miles in 11.5 seconds; turns in a 17-foot radius, and parks in 16 feet of curb space.

We suggest you see the Whippet and get the new price next Friday.

MADE AT NIAGARA FALLS

Short Lessons In Dairying

A series of 32 articles by Land O' Lakes Creameries and published by the Thief River Falls Co-operative Creamery in the interests of its patrons.

LESSON XI.

There are over 600 co-operative creameries in Minnesota. They are the dairy farmers' factories and they pay from 4c to 7c per pound more for butterfat because they give the farmers the manufacturer's profit.

The yearly business of the average co-operative creamery is over $102,000.00. It is not only a profitable enterprise for the whole community but it teaches good business methods. Every creamery patron who takes an active interest in the creamery is a better business farmer.

Co-operative creameries hold their annual meeting soon after the first of the year. No farmer can spend a day to better advantage than to attend the annual meeting of his co-operative creamery and to study its annual report. Co-operative fraternities are successful through having a sufficient patronage, through making high quality butter and through good business management. The more farmers in the community who understand the business of the co-operative creamery, the greater the success of the creamery.

Quiet, Sober New Year In Thief River Falls Chief of Police Says

If the courts can be taken as a criterion of the dampness of Thief River Falls, then surely the city spent an exceedingly dry New Years holiday. Not a person was charged with intoxication after the two day vacation period.

According to police it was one of the most quiet holiday periods in the history of the city. The only thing that of bronze turkeys shown by O. O. De Mers, nearly all the display of which was made by Couch Poultry Yards of Grand Forks; Ben Thorpe, Wm. Yonke of St. Hilaire; Stephenson, Mrs. Oscar Dvotts of Vaking; of Bowlands Hdwe. Co., Fosston; Wm. Rock, Dave Gustafson of Minorcas, Chester Hanson of Rocks.

Sweepstake Winners

Sweepstakes winners were announced as follows: Cock, White Leghorn, Wm. Yonke, St. Hilaire; Cockerel, Barred Plymouth Rock, Dave Gustafson, Thief River Falls; Hen, White Wyandotte, Leonard Wentzel, Warren; Pullet, White Leghorn, Bernard Hanum, Rosewood; Best male in the class, White Orpington, Wm. Yonke, St. Hilaire; Best female in the show, Leonard Wentzel, Warren.

The Couch Poultry Yards of Grand Forks have the honor of securing an exhibit from the greatest distance. Mrs. Oscar Dvotts of Vaking was chosen as having the best display of three dozen eggs.

President Dave Gustafson of the Pennington County Poultry association stated just before the opening of business trip this week that the show next January would eclipse anything of its kind in the county if present plans are carried out, which include the raising of from $50 to $1,000 in special prize money for turkeys in addition to the $400 prize money for poultry. The directors of the association feel that the show of last week fully demonstrated the fact that the turkeys raised in this section are shown to better advantage than in the country, and well fact.

Citizenship Applicants Will Appear Before New Naturalization Examiner

Word has been received in the city that R. E. Doe, who for the past twenty years has conducted the naturalization hearings in Thief River Falls as well as other county seats in northern Minnesota, died last week in Fargo, N. D., following an attack of angina pectoris while conducting a hearing at Virginia.

The next hearing on naturalizations for Pennington county was set last fall for July 25, at which time Mr. Doe was to have been here with Judge Andrew Grindeland of Warren, George N. Danielson, who has been in charge of North Dakota hearings, working out of Fargo, was sent to Duluth and his permanent appointment from Washington is probably to be announced within the next few days.

Three applicants have applied for citizenship papers and will be examined next February when the court of Court Adolf Fiklund, they know Christ B. Kiesel of Thief River Falls who came here from Denmark; Jurgen Baldwin Schow, nonresident address is Oklee, and who came to America from Poland; and Lars John Strandberg, also nonresident of this city and who came Norway, as his former home.

First Local Fling Made by J. M. Bishop Tuesday

J. M. Bishop, local attorney, is the first political aspirant in this city to throw his hat into the ring, having on Tuesday filed as a candidate for judgeship in the Fourteenth Judicial district.

William Hughes of Crookston and Andrew Almquist of Warren have been the two judges of this district for practically 25 years, the former serving the counties comprising the district Kittson Roseau Marshall Pennington Red Lake, Polk, Mahnomen and Norman.

Judge Ira Hills was the first judge in the district, he being succeeded by Judge Ives, who in turn was followed by Judge Watts. When the work of the court became burdensome several years ago the state legislature passed an act authorizing the election of the district and Judge Grindeland was named by governor S. R. VanSant for the position.

There has been much speculation as to filings for the position of judge in this district this year, the campaign was given new impetus by the announcement starting on the history of the district, with five candidates in the field at the present, namely, J. D. Bishop, Andrew Grindeland, G. Harmon, William Watts and Carl Wilson. Mr. Wilson of this city was eliminated at the primary, and the campaign in the fall was fought between the two last-named, and the two local candidates, both having been appointed by City Attorney H. G. Lathe their hopes would mingle

J. W. Haw, St. Paul, of the Northern Pacific; C. P. Bell, St. Paul and M. A. Thomas, Halbek, county agent, also appeared on the program.

Group discussion summarizing the practices and results that have recommended for a campaign against sow thistle, and outlining of plans for a campaign, were matters taken care of at the conference, which was also attended by County Agent Hoyer, St. Hilaire of this city, who accompanied Mr. Anton to Crookston.

Quiet Holiday Season Is Reported by Police

Local police department will be extra in the observing growth in church membership of the Methodist church in the Delhi (India) area, which led the world by increasing its membership by 12,312 during the year, this area being that in which Kansas City showed the way to other church areas in this country by adding 4,261 members in the year.

An increase of 57,179 in membership of the Episcopal church was recorded in 1927, despite a drop in the roster of five of the 21 Porter, stop light; Berg Hardware, synodical areas in the United States, it was revealed in the new Methodist Year book, made public here last month.

Growth in the 16 other American areas and in foreign fields brought the Methodist Episcopal church membership this year to 5,220,000. Of this total, 4,774,439 were full members and 445,561 probationers, and 29,041 were ministerial members.

240 CROW AND GOPHER BOUNTIES THIS YEAR

There will not be any bounty on crows or gophers killed in Pennington county, according to the decision of the county commissioners, that body having decided that the county paid $4,240 during the year for the cost of this phase of activity. According to the annual report of County Auditor Ed. Lund, a total of 240 bounties were paid for crow and gopher bounties in 1926 was $1,040.

The annual meeting of the Bray Mutual Fire Insurance company of Pennington and Red Lake counties was held yesterday at St. Hilaire.

Are You Charging Off Depreciation On Yourself?

Every successful businessman knows that a certain sum must be charged off each year for depreciation on his plant. Are you charging off something on yourself for the day when your earning capacity will cease, and you must live on your savings?

Marshall Field once said, "If you want to succeed, save. This is true not so much because of the value of the money which the young man who saves accumulates, but because of the infinitely greater value of the system and organization which the practice of saving introduces into his life. I consider it to be almost the greatest element in making for a young man's success."

The J. C. Penney Company asks you to pay cash for your purchases and carry them home, so that you may have the chance to save a small sum each week on your daily needs. It is these small sums that will take care of that "depreciation fund" later on in life.

Judge Stanfield Sees Great Future In Section of Co.

WINNERS IN CLASSES HAVE BEEN ANNOUNCED

Poultry Association Will Raise $500 for Special Premiums Next Year

F. G. Dale and son of Rosewood were awarded the honor of having the largest display of birds at the recent poultry show held Jan 3-5, while Dave Gustafson's display was rated as being the best. However, F. G. Dale and son were given high honors for having the best pen, and for having the best male turkey—a large White Holland adult tom—and Mrs. J. Jan In was awarded the champion female turkey—a large adult hen.

The best display of turkeys, according to Judge Stanfield, was made by Couch Poultry Yards of Grand Forks; Stephenson, Wm. Yonke of St. Hilaire; Mrs. Oscar Dvotts of Vaking; of Bowlands Hdwe. Co., Fosston; Wm. Rock, land of Holt; of Wyandottes, Leonard, Dave Gustafson of Minorcas, Chester Hanson of Rocks.

Dates Set for Three Annual Meetings of Creameries in County

The dates for three annual creamery meetings in Pennington county have been announced this week, the Goodridge meeting being scheduled for Saturday, Jan. 28, the Thief River Falls meeting for Monday, Jan. 30, and the St. Hilaire meeting for Thursday, Feb. 6.

At the annual meeting of the Goodridge association to be held in the school house there, starting at 1:30 o'clock, the members will vote on an amendment to the bylaws, whereby the directors may give the patrons authority to buy the stock of members leaving the territory serving the creamery. There will be a short program given also which will be followed by a lunch.

At the annual meeting of the Thief River Falls association, Ex. Eelle; vice president, John S. Miller; secretary, Otis Erickson; treasurer, Ole Grinlie. E. K. Evans is the other member on the directorate, while Joe Gannon is the operator in charge of the creamery.

Two Routes Proposed

The proposed all-American route for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Atlantic ocean by means of a canal from the state of New York. The other proposed route is a joint project of the United States and Canada for deepening parts of the St. Lawrence river which connects the Great Lakes with the Atlantic.

The affirmative will be upheld for Lincoln high by Chester Myron of Grand Forks, John Ahern and Gladys Weeks.

Odds Favor Lincolnites

In preparation for tomorrow evening's contest, the affirmative team met the second team in a scrimmage debate last Friday night. The second team was composed of Clarence Lieberman, Harriet Fuller and Harold Hall.

For the last two years Lincoln high has won both its initial debates, however, is an untried opponent, whose strength has not yet been tested.

New Rules This Year

The rules of the Minnesota State High School debating league have been changed since last year. Previously a team was eliminated as soon as it lost a debate. This year every team must meet the other teams of the district. At the end of the series of the region. The whole state is divided into districts of four schools and regions of sixteen.

The judges will be Supt. M. Hallstrom of Goodridge, Prin. Albert Ellis of Middle River and Supt. H. E. Wertine of Newfolden. Prin. H. C. Hand of the local high school will act as chairman.

LOCAL TEAM DEFEATED

The American Legion independent basketball team of this city met defeat last Saturday night in the auditorium at the hands of the Fertile team, the score being 25 to 16.

PROSECUTE OWNERS NOT PAYING TAX ON RENTED PROPERTY

Routine Matters Quickly Disposed of By Council at Meeting Tuesday Night

Little business of importance came before the city council at the Tuesday night meeting, other than the annual appointment of some of the city's officers for the coming year, as outlined in another article in this issue of The Times.

The city clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for city printing and for the depositing of city funds during the ensuing year. The clerk was also instructed to prepare a list of city property on which taxes are now delinquent, and to have the same placed before the county with instructions to start proceedings against the delinquents at the time of the annual tax sale, as provided by a law passed at the last session of the legislature.

The American Legion was granted the city auditorium for a number of basketball games this winter at half the rental rate, the charge as agreed upon being $5 per night. Commander Kern Olsen appeared before the council in behalf of the local post of the Legion, which was trying to give added impetus to entertainment to the public during the remainder of the winter months.

Bonds Approved

The bond of City Treasurer Ed. M. Evenson, in the sum of $8,000 was duly accepted, as was also that of the First National bank for $10,000 for additional protection, both having been approved by City Attorney H. G. Chommie.

The soft drink license and the pool room and billiard hall license of Peter Clarence Wyman, he having purchased the business of Mr. Cosgrove. Dance permits were granted the Sons of Norway lodge for four dances in their lodge rooms on the following dates, Jan. 20 and 27, and Feb. 3 and 10. The necessary permit presented by the White Eagle Oil company was referred to the street committee, the company asking permission to erect a large sign at the corner of Fourth and Main, they stating it would not interfere in any manner with the passage along either street or sidewalk.

Following motions to disallow the bill of the Mckenzie Bagne Co., for nearly $12,000 presented some time ago, the council adjourned for one week.

Not Unusual to Have Mild Weather Here in Month of January Says Mr. Rayson

For the third time in the 12 years that H. M. Rayson has been weather observer in Thief River Falls the thermometer has registered a maximum of 40 above during January, these dates being Jan. 8, 1917, Jan. 17, 1919, and Jan. 10, 1926, which again demonstrate that the present mild spell is not without precedent. There was also a rainy spell during January of last year, as well as a rain one of last night, which again demonstrates that rain records are being broken this year. The coldest day in any January for the past 12 years was that of 40 below on Jan. 15, 1916.

During the past week the mild spell has been quite even as to temperature, starting with two days above last Thursday morning the thermometer gradually rose till it reached a climax that day, it being at above the warmest day during the past seven years. Tuesday, with a reading of 40 above, and the coldest day of last January was 27 below, with the exception of the two above reading mentioned.

FIRST DEBATE SCHEDULED FOR FRIDAY NIGHT

Hallock Team Comes Here, Its Ability in Debating an Unknown Quality

TWO PROPOSED ROUTES. GREAT LAKES TO OCEAN

Lincoln High Team Has Affirmative in All-American Route With Hallock on Negative

The first interscholastic debate of the year will be held in the Lincoln high school assembly room tomorrow evening at 8:15, when Hallock meets the local team.

The question for debate this year is: Resolved, that the United States should construct an all American Great Lakes-Atlantic waterway, rather than co-operate with Canada in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project.

Two Routes Proposed

The proposed all-American route for the Great Lakes-Atlantic waterway is that of the United States and Canada for deepening parts of the St. Lawrence river which connects the Great Lakes with the Atlantic.

The affirmative will be upheld for Lincoln high by Chester Myron of Grand Forks, John Ahern and Gladys Weeks.

Odds Favor Lincolnites

In preparation for tomorrow evening's contest, the affirmative team met the second team in a scrimmage debate last Friday night. The second team was composed of Clarence Lieberman, Harriet Fuller and Harold Hall.

For the last two years Lincoln high has won both its initial debates, however, is an untried opponent, whose strength has not yet been tested.

New Rules This Year

The rules of the Minnesota State High School debating league have been changed since last year. Previously a team was eliminated as soon as it lost a debate. This year every team must meet the other teams of the district. At the end of the series the team with the greatest total of judges' votes is declared the winner of the district. The same is true for the region. The whole state is divided into districts of four schools and regions of sixteen.

The judges will be Supt. M. Hallstrom of Goodridge, Prin. Albert Ellis of Middle River and Supt. H. E. Wertine of Newfolden. Prin. H. C. Hand of the local high school will act as chairman.

LOCAL TEAM DEFEATED

The American Legion independent basketball team of this city met defeat last Saturday night in the auditorium at the hands of the Fertile team, the score being 25 to 16.

EVERY AUTO OWNER INVITED TO ANNUAL CLUB MEET TONIGHT

Annual Election, Naming Delegate, and Free Lunch Are on Program Announced

Special efforts are being made to have a large attendance at the annual meeting of the Commercial club in the lobby of the Evelyn hotel of the Pennington County Auto club, of which President Lopez Provencher has some interesting matters that require immediate attention. To make the evening a more enjoyable affair Mr. Provencher stated today that he will serve coffee and lunch during the evening, this being done free to members.

Every automobile owner, or prospective owner, is invited to attend this meeting, not only those who live in Thief River Falls but also those who live outside of the city in Pennington county, for the association takes in the whole county.

Important Business

The most important piece of business to come before the meeting will be the election of officers for the coming year; then there will also be the naming of one or two delegates to the state automobile meeting at Minneapolis, Tuesday, Jan. 17 to 20. The local club is entitled to two delegates for each 100 members, or portion thereof, and it is hoped that the club will again have two delegates at this coming year.

ELECTION HELD MONDAY

OFFICERS POSTPONED

No change was made in the directorate of the First National bank of this city at the annual meeting of stockholders Tuesday of this week, the board as composed at present being John W. Black, Rasmus Iten, C. E. Benson, O. J. Lee and Thos. B. Thoreson. The directors postponed the election of officers until a later date on account of the absence from the city of C. E. Benson.

The annual election of stockholders of the First Peoples bank will be held Tuesday, Jan. 17, at which time C. F. Sholdon of Minneapolis will be elected director.

SANATORIUM DIRECTORS

ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

The annual meeting of the directors of the Oakland Park Sanatorium association of Lonsen, Marshall, Pennington and Red Lake counties is scheduled for this, Saturday, afternoon. The present officers of the organization are, president, Dr. O. F. Melby, vice president, C. E. Brant of Fosston and secretary, F. O. Nybroen of this city.

Mock Trial Eagerly Awaited by Members of American Legion

Charles Eicher will again be brought before a trial judge at the mock trial proceedings scheduled for tomorrow, Friday evening in the Elmer J. Ildahl post rooms, sponsored by the American Legion.

Paul Lundgren has been retained by Mr. Eicher to handle his case, on the charge of operating a house of prostitution if guilty, but which will be keenly investigated by the prosecuting attorney, W. E. Dahlquist. H. O. Chommie will act as judge, and the outcome of the hearing will be awaited for by Mr. Eicher's many friends.

Chesdahl at Red Lake Falls are sending delegations to attend the proceedings as arranged by the local post, which will be concluded by the following the announcement of the finding in the mock campaign started for some time past between the Crookston and Thief River posts.

Rolland's Delivery Truck Destroyed by Flames Friday

The Ford delivery truck of Eli Rolland was practically destroyed by fire while Leon Johnson was making deliveries for Mr. Rolland in the Rosedale district on the east side last Friday afternoon, shortly before the supper hour.

Johnson observed smoke coming from beneath the hood and on opening the same the fresh air and wind fanned sparks where the wiring was on fire. It is presumed that the constant jar of the vibrating engine may have worn off the insulation, exposing guts of the wires, which short circuited.

The fire department was called at once, however, as the driver was unable to extinguish the flames with snow, the firemen arriving in quick order and putting out the blaze, having only had time to but attached to the rear end of the car, and ice chains.

MRS. BISHOP WILL TALK AT FERTILE ON MAY 30

Legislatures and Auxiliaries will be the topic discussed by Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city, who has accepted the invitation of the Commercial club of Fertile to address the meeting of the Fertile auxiliary of the Legion, which will be held on May 30, according to announcement made this week by the local committee in charge of the arrangements.

TWETE ON PROGRAM

Dr. I. R. Twete left last night to attend the annual meeting of state veterinarians at Minneapolis today and tomorrow, Jan. 12 and 13, which will probably be attended by elsewhere 200 veterinarians from all over the state. Dr. Twete will deliver a paper, before the Northwest veterinary association, on Paralysis in Cows, a subject which he has given considerable study. Dr. Twete is recognized as one of the leading cattle experts in Minnesota.

Off-Take Ditch and Road to Narrows May Be Completed by Fall

Word has been received by County Auditor T. T. Anderson that most of the construction of the off-take ditch in the Red Lake reservation, that is being put in in preparation of the building of the road to the Red Lake Narrows, has been completed.

Nearly two miles of the west and west ditch is done and six miles of the north and south ditch, which will empty into the Red Lake river, is almost completed, leaving only about four miles to be dug the coming spring if it is expected that Beltrami county will call shortly for bids for the construction of the road across the reservation, extending from the east end of Elizabeth road to the present Thief road, a distance of ten miles. Information available at this time indicates that plans of grading will be let in one contract and it may be completed during the coming summer. This would then permit of gravelling the year from now, which will mean a short-cut road to Bemidji.

ROTARIANS LISTEN TO ADVANTAGES OF BOY SCOUT LIFE

P. T. Pote of St. Paul, Head of Tenth Region, Including This City, Gives Talk

P. T. Pote of St. Paul, head of the boy scout movement in the tenth region, which includes North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana and part of Wisconsin, spoke to members of the Rotary club at the Tuesday noon meeting in Evelyn hotel, being the guest of Dr. R. J. Froehlich, local scoutmaster, coming here from Crookston where he spent Monday while on a tour of the Greater Grand Forks area, which extends from Mc-Intosh on the west to Bemidji on the east.

Large Membership

Mr. Pote interestingly told of the scout movement, stating that it now has a membership of 2,250,000 in the world, and since its inception has invested a total of $2,000,000 in boys, for whom there are still 3,110,000 neither scouts nor members of other boys' work, to be over by 1929,000 scoutmasters serving without any pay.

Nation-Wide Benefit

The speaker went on to say that four of the leading railways of the United States today have found that the scout movement is a valuable one, undertaking to put boys who will show such assistance and before they realize what they have done they have committed some depredation that they afterward regret. By forming scout troops in cities and villages along the route of the railroad, the boys are given wholesome activities that relish otherwise befall them. He mentioned the Milwaukee as one of the four roads already following the movement, and concluding by stating that the 800 night scout leaders now on the U. S. Jaffrey, the head of the road, had become interested in this plan.

Mr. Pote also spoke before the assemblies in the Lincoln and Central schools on Tuesday, being warmly received by his listeners

AGRICULTURE AND LIVESTOCK AGENT WILL LOCATE HERE

Soo Railway Will Assist in Development of This Section Along Diversified Lines

The Soo lines have again recognized the importance of Thief River Falls as a key to development in northwestern Minnesota and eastern North Dakota by placing W. W. Davenport of their agricultural department here with offices in the Soo freight house, his title being that of agricultural agent.

Mr. Davenport was in this city last week, accompanied by Jess Thomas, general agricultural agent of the Soo lines in Minneapolis, and will both assist in arranging the completion of diversified farming. The former will be here all of the time—and the latter will be here off and on during the year, more especially during the rush season, it being stated that will be covered by Mr. Davenport will extend north and south along the Soo line from Greenwood, west on the Wheat Line to Bisbee, and east on the Duluth line to it's distance toward Bemidji.

The aim of the Soo railroad is to develop the present field as it now is, rather than to open new territory, to help farmers better methods of farming, especially the diversified lines, continuing the process till such time as the whole world is satisfied with the fact that this section is one of the best in the country and one in which it will pay farmers to locate.

Both Mr. Davenport and Mr. Chesdahl will work in conjunction with the county agents' office and the state agricultural extension department. They were present at the Commercial club meeting last week, meeting those present, spending a remainder of th day becoming acquainted with the business men.

IN MEMORIAM

Oscar A. Nordin—In loving memory of our dear husband and father who passed away one and year ago, Jan. 15, 1927.

Gone is the face we loved so dear,
Silent is the voice we loved to hear,
Too far away for sight or speech,
But not too far for thoughts to reach.
Sweet is the memory we hold so dear,
And when, though absent, is just as dear.

Mrs. Laura F. Nordin and Adaline.

Material Increase In Civil Actions Revealed In Court Report for 1927

There were practically the same number of criminal actions in municipal court in Thief River Falls during 1927 as in 1926, according to the docket summarized by Judge N. W. Tarrant. During the year just closed the cases entered numbered 42, as compared to 41 for the preceding year. In 1925 the total was 72 and in 1924 the number was 63, indicating a marked decrease in the violations in the county in recent years.

As noted in The Times last year, there were 253 arrests in 1925 and 72 in 1924.

Fines amounting to $573 were collected in municipal court the last year, Mr. Tarrant reports. Costs were added in most instances. Most of the cases were assessed against violaters of the prohibition laws. Of the fines collected, $241 was turned over to the city treasurer and $332 was paid into the county coffers on the 40% basis. Only two jail sentences were imposed for drunkenness, the violaters being unable to pay fines. These cases were dismissed.

Following is the list of charges and the number given hearings in 1927: 4 assault and battery, 4 assault and battery, aggravated, 1 disorderly conduct, 2; disorderly conduct, 21; liquor in possession, 21; liquor in public place, 2; violation of game laws, 1; violation of game laws after hours, 1; violation of game laws, 2; speeding, 2; speeding, bound over to grand jury, 2; petit larceny, 2; petit larceny, fine of $150, and one forfeiting a $50 bond.

The number of cases on the docket of the municipal court showed a material increase over that of a year ago, there having been 42 cases in 1927 as comp red to 47 the preceding year.

GOLDEN VALLEY FARMER DIES AT FERGUS FALLS

Gunder Gundersen Tveit of Golden Valley died last week at a Fergus Falls hospital from a prolonged illness, the outcome of which was a surprise breakdown, followed by pneumonia which caused his death. Funeral services were held from the late home at Golden Valley Friday, Jan. 6, Rev. L. M. Rudahl of Holt officiating, and interment was made in Golden Valley.

Mr. Tveit was born in Lille Topdal, Norway, Jan. 2, 1862, the son of Gunder Gundersen Tveit and Astrid Tveit. He was baptized and confirmed in the Norwegian Lutheran church of Aasuli, Norway. In 1885 he was married to Tonie O. Vraa, a friend of Lille Topdal, settling on a farm in the same community where they remained for 28 years. In 1913 they moved to Polk county, since which time he has lived on a farm near Golden Valley, where his beloved companion died only until a short time before his death.

Those surviving are his wife; three sons, Gunder, Ole, and Olaf, four daughters, Carrie, Mrs. Tellef Olson; Mrs. George Johnson; Mrs. Ole Tweet, Four sisters reside in Norway, and one sister, Mrs. Ole Hanson, lives in Tower, Minn. Mrs. J. F. Erickson of this city is a cousin.

IF WINTER COMES, WILL SPRING BE FAR BEHIND?

There were quite a number of people who bet fall prepaired that they would be an open winter, and the continued cold weather lately caused their friends to bet them on it.

"HAMLINE HALF HOUR" WCCO EVERY THURS. EVE. 8-9:30

The Hamline Half Hour over the radio, will be broadcast every Thursday evening from 8:00 to 9:30 over WCCO. All church members will be interested in the series of five brief addresses by Aubert Rain, Patrick, professor of Bible at Hamline University, which he will present the personalities and messages of the five prophets, Amos, Hosea, Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel. Each prophet is dealt with in his own historical setting, and each address is related in an appealing story form, with musical features by the Hamline family members and students.

Dates and titles of the series of talks will be as follows: Thursday, January 5, Amos, the prophet of Justice"; January 19, "Hosea, the prophet of Love"; January 26, "Isaiah, the prophet of Faith"; Feb. 2, "Jeremiah, the prophet of the Inner Life"; Feb. 9, "Ezekiel, the Prophet of Individualism."

OLD TIME T. R. FALLS RESIDENT DIES IN SEATTLE, WASHINGTON

Rev. and Mrs. O. J. Lundell received word this week of the death of Mrs. Lundell's mother, Mrs. Ellen Anderson, at Seattle, recently at Seattle, Wash. last Friday. Mrs. Paulson was 72 years of age and resided in this community, leaving here with her husband for West 20 years ago. Mr. Paulson died in Seattle last spring. Mrs. Lundell going out there at that time, and returning with her three sons and three daughters in January to Los Angeles, Calif., and a daughter, Mrs. Lundell, of this city.

COUNTY SEAT FIGHT ON TWENTY YEARS AGO NOW

A total of 651221 meter vehicles were registered in the department of motor vehicles, and $1,302,442 fees is expected to be higher for 1928 due to total registration of new buyers is 25 cents a day for 20 days in Minnesota, for more than two years, he states.

$2,000 Additional Levied By County Commissioners

At the annual meeting of the county commissioners last week the board authorized the levying of $2,000 additional in the sinking fund,—making the amount $8,000 for this coming year, this action being taken on completion of the transaction established by the board last March when a settlement was effected with the sureties of the closed Goodridge State bank, the latter having paid $9,000 which was paid to the county in settlement of the claim of $11,247.32, but of this there have been no funds available in the county's warrant account to take care of the $2,300.00 now still on the books of the treasurer.

A resolution was also passed doing away with the salary of the clerk in the office of the county treasurer at $240 per year, payable in twelve annual monthly payments, the one twelfth of a one mill levy being declared found as not violating sufficient consumption tax law restriction.

County Commissioner J. S. Roy was appointed as member of the Pennington County Welfare board, while Peter A. W. Swedenburg was renamed as county physician.

AUTOMOBILE LICENSE DISTRIBUTION STARTS

Distribution of 1928 automobile license plates started Monday, Secretary of state's office, with registration of the new year running high. Total registration is expected to reach about February 1 due to the heavily increased fees effective January 1, 1927 from a beginning February 15 as in the past few years. It is only reasonable that the standards of rural equipment and service should keep pace with that of living.

Today, custom calls for many refinements in the funeral service—refinements undreamed of a few years ago, but which do much to lighten the burden of sorrowful hearts.

We are prepared to offer a funeral service which is equitable in every respect and yet at a price as low as is possible without sacrificing quality. We have responded to the public demand.

DRAW BAR PULLS OUT; ENGINES GO ON ALONE

Train No. 110 on the Soo lines pulled into Alvarado recently minus its six coaches, according to the Herald, which says that the engine drawn by Engineer Glenwood and Fireman Hyde, which had two engines, struck a snow drift. This took up the slack in the train and when the engines straightened out again a drawbar let go and the two engines went on with only the baggage car. It was not noticed till the engines reached the N. P. tracks. They then proceeded in and another engine was sent, after the train.

RAILROAD NORTH OF HERE SUGGESTED 20 YEARS AGO

Among the items in the Crookston Times recently was one under the heading of 20 years ago, which is said that W. F. Hunt of Rosewood was in Crookston attempting to organize the building of a railroad between Thief River Falls and Roosevelt. His plans were to build a railroad by forming a corporation, and then try to interest the Soo Line in taking it over.

In All America no Better Built Car at the Price!

More power ... more speed ... more smoothness. A brilliant change of pace. You instinctively expect them. You somehow know that's what you get in the All-American Six ... But consider these other reasons for its stirring success. The exacting care and craftsmanship with which the car is built. How marvelously it surpasses the tests and trials of time ... Here are stamina and endurance that result only from All-Around engineering. Big, rugged, dependable units. Balance and simplicity of design. Month after month of pitiless testing on General Motors Proving Ground ... and super-precision construction throughout ... That's why its power, speed and smoothness are measured in tens of thousands of miles. Why economy and dependability are Oakland owners' by-words. Why All-American owners will tell you—"No better built car at the price!"

SPEAKING OF CO-OPERATIVES

Speaking of co-operatives, there is one form of organization along this line which receives little publicity and is seldom mentioned by the platform benefactors of the farmer, but which quietly and unpretentiously saves the farmers of this community and many other rural communities of the state many thousands of dollars each year. We refer to the farmers' mutual fire insurance companies, of which the Iroy Mutual of this county is a fine example. Through these organizations the farmers share each other's losses by fire and render for themselves an indispensable service at actual cost. They perform this service more efficiently than it can be performed by private industry, operating, as they do, in small territories, with practically no overhead expense. Those who have been active in the organization and operation of the Iroy Mutual Fire Insurance company, which now has policies in force to the extent of approximately four million dollars in force, deserve much credit for their work.

THE FUTURE OF TURKEYS

The fancy prices paid for turkeys the last few years, and the success of the farmers of this community in raising these birds, should mean a further increase in the volume of this profitable industry locally next year. To those farmers who are considering the advisability of increasing their flocks, the following information, secured from what we consider a fairly reliable source, will prove interesting.

The turkey population of the country as a whole has made a very marked decline in recent years. In 1909 it was estimated that more than ten million turkeys roamed over American farms. Ten years later this number had been reduced to nearly six million, and in 1919 the turkey population had dwindled to less than four million birds. In 1920 the census showed another slight decrease, and while no official count has been made since that time, it is the opinion of observers that there has been no great increase during the past seven years.

These figures indicate that there is little immediate danger of overproduction of turkeys. Whether the high prices of the past two years will continue is not certain, of course. This price will undoubtedly be determined to some extent by the prevailing prices on other meats and poultry. But, compared to the uncertainty of future values of other farm products, the prospects for a continuation of comparatively high prices on turkeys for several years are good.

WE DON'T FAVOR IT EITHER

It has been proposed that the 1929 Minnesota automobile license tags be made in the shape of a fish to further advertise this state as the playground of the north. To which we would like to add our protest with those of others who do not feel that the fish is a proper symbol of the state which leads in the production of butter-fat and which relies mainly on agriculture for its bread and butter. The tourist business has developed into quite a healthy industry in recent years, and it is proper that this industry be further encouraged, but let's not loose sight of our biggest and most important industry, which is farming. One good farmer is worth more to all of us than a hundred tourists, and if the state can afford to spend any public money to bring in visitors, this money should be spent in an effort to interest prospective settlers in the advantages of Minnesota farm lands.

In discussing the proposed fish design for license plates, Carlos Avery, former Minnesota Game and Fish commissioner and now of New York, writes:

"Proposed design of fish for state automobile license plate for 1929 or '30 appeals to me, and I think it will to many others, as not only absurd, but dangerous to the maintenance of the fish supply.

"Why do something to hasten the work of extermination? Minnesota has plenty of good talking points to attract tourists, besides fishing. Let that be incidental. Nature will supervise if given a chance, but she can't cope with the perfectly insane tendency of the age to waste and destroy. Our boasting sin is eagerness to expend. In order to be thrifty and wise about the biggest of everything, we waste our patrimony. Our natural resources, what is left of them, constitute our inheritance. We have no right to dissipate it. There is another generation coming."

DOES OPPORTUNITY KNOCK?

Some maintain that opportunity knocks at your door but once while others, of a more optimistic nature, are of the opinion that it knocks continually. We are not in a position to offer definite information on the subject, but we do know that most of the opportunities that go begging from door to door have a marked resemblance to slick stock salesmen. It is our impression that few of the really gilt edge opportunities make a house to house canvass, but rather lie hidden from general view. We know for a fact that they are seldom found where most people look for them, and when they are discovered, it is usually in a place where few people suspected they could exist. The following item, reprinted from the Grand Rapids Herald Review, tells of one instance of this kind, which is typical of many.

An instance arose in one of the larger cities was asked why he did not solicit business in a certain building. He replied that there were no prospects of business there—the building contained over fifty insurance agencies.

But thinking it over, he thought that he would try. He sold more insurance than he ever thought could be sold in any building. Everyone had overlooked an opportunity.

Business is where you make it.

The states of Oklahoma and Texas have provided much cheap entertainment in recent years with their state politics. When we consider some of the other states in the union we are satisfied that Minnesota voters have either been lucky or sensible in selecting their governors.

CHOOSING THE PATH

According to Abraham Lincoln: "The true rule, in determining to embrace or reject anything, is not whether it have any evil in it, but whether it have more of evil than of good. There are few things wholly evil or wholly good. Almost everything, especially of government policy, is an inseparable compound of the two, so that our best judgment of the preponderance between them is continually demanded."

It would be a fine thing if Good and Evil, not only in politics but in all other things as well, could be divided and properly labeled, so as to be easily identified. Such an arrangement would save all of us a lot of trouble. Under the present system, with good and evil walking hand in hand thruout nature and all else, it isn't strange if one becomes confused occasionally. Fortunately we all think we have the inside track and have a lot of fun either trying to convert the rest of the world to our way of thinking, or just feeling sorry for them. Sometimes we get mad about it and kill each other off.

An effort is being made to change the present division of the year of twelve months to thirteen months of four weeks each. From what information we have been able to get, this idea is neither a "selfish scheme" of the always-corrupt party in power, nor the "dangerous departure" of the always-virtuous party not in power, so it is not likely to become an issue in the coming campaign. We will content ourselves, therefore, by going on record merely as being in favor of any plan which would make it possible to be more months in each year, providing the extra months are inserted in that portion of the calendar during which time we store the storm windows in the coal bin.

"If your friend didn't receive the Christmas gift which you sent him or her, the chances is one it is now reposing in the dead letter office," says an exchange in a moralizing editorial, which tells of the thousands of Christmas packages which never arrive at their destination because of careless packing and addressing. Which makes us feel better, for certainly our friends who didn't receive the gifts we didn't send them are just as happy as they would have been if they had not received the gifts we might have sent them.

The warm weather of the past week has certainly been a welcome visitor. We were quite skeptical of its good intentions during the first day or two, and looked gloomily forward to another layer of snow which we don't need. The snow failed to appear, however, and the fine weather continued, which merely proves that as weather forecasters we are a total failure.

Just to put you all in a cheerful mood we want to remind you that it is now auto license time again.

WAS HE RIGHT?
(Exchange)

Not long ago a former resident of St. Peter died in the far west. He had spent a few of his declining years there and had established his home. He brought with him great wealth; and when he neared the end of life's journey, he bequeathed a handsome public edifice to the big town where he scarcely was known and is made conspicuous. The same man was born in the pioneer village of St. Peter, says the Herald. His parents were poor, very poor, and the good people of this town clothed, encouraged and influenced him into splendid manhood, and the town provided him with an education, the inducements for which he builded his success. Forgotten were all these favors when success came, forgotten by him who in his dying moments he wished to leave a monument to posterity, and a city that did nothing for him but take his money, became the beneficiary. He paid Los Angeles what he owed St. Peter. There is something fundamentally wrong with a man who can forget what the old hometown has meant to him and make no effort to repay it when he takes from the picture of life and leaves worldly goods behind in supreme ambience.

SUCCESS
(William Feather)

The contemptible definition of success is the making of money; with this I have no quarrel. There is, however, another, truer form of success. If, nightfall after nightfall, you can look back upon a day well spent with a thrill some of the thoughts and ideals that stirred your soul at daybreak and if, optimistic and seeking though you may be, you can still be touched by the sheer beauty of worship; if, above the din and strife, you can still hear singing in your heart some of the songs of your youth; if, at times, you can realize Nature's unspoiled loveliness and rejoice in it; if, above all, you have kept the child-spirit gift of supreme happiness in the daylight and of serenity at the sound of music; at the revealing of poetry's hidden music; at the revealing of poetry's hidden beauty—you are successful, though you owe all your trail-men and draw a 1922 motor car.

INTERESTING BUT UNIMPORTANT
(Duluth Herald)

Many people still think a good deal of ancestry. If they do not they should take a look at "General" Sholto Douglas. "General" is a duke or a king or a slayer of the Constitution or a Revolutionary soldier or a passenger in the Mayflower they are proud of it, naturally, and like to have people know about it.

That is all very interesting, but not very important.

Somebody has figured out that if you go far enough back pretty nearly everybody in our civilization may be a descendant of any given early king.

The Kensington "Runestone"
(Waseca Pioneer Journal)

A short time ago there appeared in the Minneapolis Tribune an article by Mr. Juul Dieserud of the Library of Congress, on the Kensington Runestone which ought to go far toward settling this much discussed subject in the minds of all unbiased persons.

Mr. Dieserud, who by the way holds a degree in Nordic philosophy in the University of Oslo, has all along contended that the language engraved on the Kensington Stone is amply sufficient to set the inscription down as a modern invention. On the other hand those who believe in the authenticity of the stone, feel that the reverse thereof, Mr. Holand, have insisted that the language is good Swedish from the Fourteenth Century, and the stone a remarkable antiquity, worthy of a great monument.

In his article Mr. Dieserud presents a letter from an unquestionably leading authority, Professor Elof Hellquist, of the University of Lund, which reads as follows:

"Regarding your inquiry concerning my opinion of a runic inscription, which you quote, and which was discovered in 1898 in Minnesota, I have the honor to make the following statement:

"There is no call for any research with regard to the genuineness of this inscription. Already by a hasty perusal it is found to be a very weak creation of the imagination bearing witness to unusually great ignorance of runology. Such is at the present time the knowledge of the Nordic language that it does not pay, with regard to this entirely clear question, to enter into details. The inscription is in every respect and from every point of view erroneous."

The Dieserud article adds that the time has arrived to put an end to this unsavoury comedy. Long ago the Norse philologists of the University of Oslo, Professors Heimer Falk and the late Professor Sophus Peugge, pronounced the stone spurious and unworthy of serious consideration. While we regret that this has proven to be the case, we have the consolation that the Icelandic sagas and annals have unquestionably established the fact that the Norsemen discovered this continent nearly 1,000 years ago and there is, to quote the article in the Tribune, "scant satisfaction in cheap antiquarian imitations."

Our Little Corner

No. 3 JANUARY 12, 1928 Vol. 2

Everybody all set for 1928? All right! Slide over 'bus and let's start.

Rosy cheeks, they say, are a sign of healthful living, but that's the case, we saw a girl yesterday, who had a healthier color than she was on the other.

Once we went to a party where they served no refreshments but left a one unsatisfied feeling, not because we were particularly hungry, but eating has always been the essential part of an entertainment. Which is the reason a number of Thief River Falls homes are equipped with our walnut dining room suites.

Speaking of speed, we read this morning about the derby by who has so fast one of the cars to catch a taxi in front backshot next day.

In the score of his feet.

What's home with-out a mother? Ask the young lady of the house if we're right. Levin's reports are good looking and stand lots of wear.

Just before we got to the railroad crossing, explained the victim to the hospital, "We had filled down to 45 miles an hour."

We know of one good way to relax, no other way better than in a comfortable pull-up chair. Come in and try them before you buy them.

For all practical purposes, we don't believe there is a floor covering made that equals Sani-dura rug. We have them beautiful patterns in stock in all sizes and what not.

When most of us men folks dress up, all we need is a clothes brush.

A man in this town has a new kind of pipe the other day and when we got it home, we discovered it was a corn cob pipe. The hole in the shank was small and the stem was petite. Evidently some one took the pipe back to the store and got one shaped pipe. The clerk took the pipe in his two hands, gently squeezed the cobs to make them oval, and said "Perfect." And now the least said about the episode, the better it will be for the customers.

Whatever the Weather During Past Few Years School Busses Get Through

The busses of the local school district have an enviable record, according to Supt. Morris Dye, who states that not once during the past three years has there been an occasion on which either of the busses was unable to make the trip into the country, even tho the snowfall last year was excessive.

The busses of many school districts thruout the state during the past few weeks have been shifted to cull out their trips for one or two days, which only serves to emphasize the fact that this section has been favored by the weather man.

During the past three years the busses here have been late in reaching the rural schools only a very few times. The present drivers of the two busses used by school district No. 18 are Charles Schwartz and Alfred Longren.

MUCH INTEREST DISPLAYED IN NEW TYPES OF AUTOS

The appearance on the streets of Thief River Falls of several Marmon cars this week, together with the announcements of new models by the manufacturers of the Whippet, Pontiac, and Essex cars, caused quite a bit of automobile circles the past few days.

Press dispatches regarding the New York auto show state that the 1928 automobile is a fast, low, long, streamlined model, with curved windshield, with narrow radiator, steak lines, and better fittings of all kinds, rather than ever before.

More roomy and more comfortable than any of its predecessors, it brought the last word in engineering and design to the 24th annual national auto show which opened Saturday at Grand Central Palace.

WELL KNOWN THIEF RIVER WOMAN DEAD AT HALLOCK

Mrs. Herman Kennedy died Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Gilda Kellner of Hallock, died very suddenly at her home at Hallock Sunday, January 8, 1928, at 2:30 p. m. She was born in Ontario, Canada, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Kellner, her maiden name being Mr. Kellner. She was married to Mr. Herman Kennedy in July 1920. Besides her parents, she is survived by one sister, Gilda, and a brother, Herman Kellner, who resides in Hallock, and a sister, Esther, who taught school at Kent, was killed in an auto accident last fall.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon in the Augustana Lutheran church of which Mrs. Kennedy had been a member.

A BRIEF HISTORY OF A GREAT ACHIEVEMENT

Two years ago Dodge Brothers embarked upon a program designed to place it and its Dealer Organization in a position on January 1, 1928, second to none in the industry. .

The astonishing results of this great achievement are now known to the world.

It is doubtful if industrial annals can cite, over a similar period, an achievement so outstanding.

A smart, swift, low-priced and immensely popular quality Four has replaced the famous predecessor.

The Senior Six, outstanding in performance, quality and luxurious appointment, has been created.

Graham Brothers Trucks and Motor Coaches (formerly exclusively Fours) have been supplemented by sixes. Fifty new types have been added. These capacities are branded as so range from one-half ton to seven ton, all resulting in the most complete and capable line of motor cars known, and with prices ranging from $675 to $4295.

Then Thursday came The Victory—a Six for $1045 and up—the most spectacular engineering achievement of the decade.

To the second phenomena, one following the other in steady progression, have now provided Dodge Brothers Dealers throughout the world with the most diversified and comprehensive line of passenger and commercial vehicles ever manufactured and sold by a single organization.

For every need and purse there is now a Dodge Brothers vehicle built dependably and in full recognition of the progressive ideals of today and tomorrow.

Ample Coal Supply at Head of Lakes While Lignite Is Abundant

Coal consumers of Thief River Falls and the northwest need have no fear of a lack of supply this year, Ed Jaquel last month by the government engineer's office at Duluth revealed. The receipts at the head of the lakes last year were the second highest in the history of coal movement and soft coal receipts last year set a new all-time record.

The total coal received last year was 12,433,216 tons, almost 6,000,000 tons more than a year ago and just short of the record breaking year of 1927 when 12,940,221 tons were shipped here. The largest month last year was May, when 2,141,512 tons were received.

Soft coal last year amounted to 11,472,444 tons with 960,772 tons of hard coal received. In 1923 the total soft coal amounted to 11,256,337 tons and the hard coal 1,419,984. The total for 1926 was 10,911,620 tons of which 9,958,256 tons was soft coal.

Lest the world should think that snow is the only thing they are digging in North Dakota at present, a few of that state have sent out word that all records for digging lignite have been broken, that 2,000 tons having been taken out and shipped in the past 40 days.

PROPOSED FAIR CIRCUIT

President W. H. Fuller of the Pennington County Agricultural Society is in receipt of a letter from R. E. Olson of Ada, member of the board of directors of the agricultural society, proposing the formation of a circuit of county fairs in 30 towns of northwestern Minnesota.

At present Red River Valley circuit is composed of Barnesville, Ada, Warren and Halbolt, and these towns would be the nucleus of the circuit, in addition to these towns the circuit would include Bemidji, Fergus Falls, Wadena, Perham, Detroit Lakes, Mahnomen, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Stephen, Hallock, Lancaster, Little Fork, Northome, Bigfork, Roseau and Badger.

Mr. Olson has sent invitations to officials of these fair associations to send representatives to St. Paul this week, at the time of the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

DEADLY REMOVER

CANDLEWAX STAINS

At Christmas and holiday times candlewax sometimes drops on clothing and makes a stain. Gasoline is usually consist of paraffin colored red with pigment. Soak the spot in gasoline, paraffin as completely as possible by dissolving away with a dull knife, or using a piece of paper and a warm iron. If a grease stain remains, set it with soap, such as naptha, carbon chloride, chloroform, ether, gasoline, naphtha or benzol which may at the same time help dissolve any dye stain in the fiber. Sponging with wool alcohol may be tried if any dye remains.

Hickman Kidnaping Train Enters Station Managed by Former T. R. F. Boy

Local interest in the big Hickman kidnaping case at Los Angeles, Calif., recently was increased one day by the announcement that the captured youth, charged with kidnaping and murder, had been returned to Los Angeles, the train which had brought him back entering the large station of the Southern Pacific railway. This fine station is in charge of a former Thief River boy, George Krehbiel, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Krehbiel, formerly of this city, and a nephew of former postmaster Frank Krehbiel of this city.

Former T. R. F. Man Began Railroading at Gladstone

W. H. Funnell, who was killed in the Soo wreck at Kenaston not long ago, was well known in this city, and his many friends will recall past events in connection with his residence here after reading the following obituary from the Glenwood Herald:

W. H. Funnell, engineer on the Soo line, was born at Mount Pleasant, Mich., Nov. 3, 1890, being at the time of his death a little more than 37 years old. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Funnell.

He began railroading in Gladstone, Mich., being transferred to Glenwood in 1910 as a fireman on the Soo line. He was married on March 12 of that year to Miss Frances Lemers. In 1917 he was promoted to the position of engineer, and was sent to Glenwood, which time he has resided there, holding the position of engineer till the time of his death, having been on the fatal run as a freight.

The deceased is survived by his wife and daughter, Joyce; also by his father and a sister, Mrs. Ralph Fergus Falls, Wadena, Perham, Detroit Lakes, Mahnomen, Red Lake Falls, Thief River Falls, Stephen, Hallock, Lancaster, Little Fork, Northome, Bigfork, Roseau and Badger.

Mr. Olson has sent invitations to officials of these fair associations to send representatives to St. Paul this week, at the time of the annual meeting of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

Poultry Pointers

Hens Work Hard

A 6-pound hen laying 144 eggs in a year produces more than 24 times her own body weight, and one laying 240 eggs a year produces about 5 times her own body weight. For such work a hen must be vigorous and in the best of health.

Profits in Winter Eggs

A study by government poultry experts shows fall and early winter chick-starting eggs and pullets to be more profitable than sales at any other time in the year. Prices usually are high, and the profit derived from the farm flock can be increased materially by timing production to take advantage of this market situation.

Hatched Rock Record

A nationals-record is believed to have been made during the last year by 22 Barred Rock pullets owned by C. L. Babcock of Bowie Lake, with an average production of 262 eggs per pullet for the year. This record shattered that made by Barred Rock hens owned by J. L. Harper of Brownsville, Texas, who believed his pullets held the national record with 165 eggs per bird.

Breeding Is Important

A few years ago poultry—the Barred and White Plymouth Rocks, Rhode Island Red, White Wyandotte, Single-Comb White Leghorn—were kept to a greater extent than all others combined, according to poultry experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, who say that these five varieties combine economy, quality superior to all other varieties, but that the importance of breeding should have been bred to a greater extent than it has been. The scientific breeding of the birds is more important to success than color or variety to which they belong.

200 Eggs Hen Produced

A record of 312 eggs in 365 days has just been made by a White Leghorn hen at the Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston. According to A. M. Pilney, poultryman at the station, the hen is the oldest of the flock and was fed a ration much like that used on many farms in the state. This is the first hen to enter the 200-egg class at the Northwest Station and the record of 312 eggs is believed to be the highest ever reported in Northwestern Minnesota. This record represents the results of years of breeding and culling at the station.

Mississippi in the space between Dennison and Philadelphia, and probably also have an open discussion on whether to run wet or dry in 1928.

Hoping this will bring prompt action, we are yours truly,

BETTER MUSKRELLONS, PEAS AND CARROTS ARE INSPIRED

Representatives of vegetable growers, canners, and seed dealers will hold conferences with members of horticulturists and other division staff members at University Farm on "Growers' and Homemakers' Week. Short courses, February 13 to 16, are offered the work for new or improved varieties and for the standardization of truck crops for canning.

They are asking the help of the horticultural staff in the matter of uniform that will mature more generally this year, and that there will be a good shipper and have the quality of the Sanless and the yielding ability of Harvest Hall Long. They are also interested in seeing how the Minnesota No. 1 pole More uniform stems of trailing peas are also on their program.

Mr. Mallory has completed to purchase the Peoples State Bank building at Newfolden which will be used as offices for the insurance company in the future. The offices and director's were selected at the annual meeting last week.

Mallory, who is a lifelong resident of Warren, Excel township, is a brother-in-law, secretary, and assistant manager of the Marshall County Semi-Annual Fair company, and has been associated with the fair since its organization. He is also secretary of the Excel Farmers' Mutual Fire Insurance company, which was organized in 1906, and has been in continuous operation since that time.

The present prosperous situation is due in no small part to the wisdom of the group of men, to one under Governor Alexander Ramsey set aside 2 of large tracts of land given to the state by the federal government, instead of using it all at the time, the School declared.

"In the last fiscal year we have added more than $4,000,000 to the total of land gifts to the state, the receipts from royalties and taxes on iron ore in the northeastern section of Minnesota."

PublicForum

Editor The Times:

Now that pres. Coolidge, Sec. agriculture Jardine, Bank presidents, limited presidents and other well informed men in farming conditions have let it be known thru our daily papers and otherwise that agriculture is being improved and farmers are quite prosperous there should be any doubt about it.

Therefore, if one should happen to get a glimpse of some of the literature in the county register of deeds' office in Pennington or any other county in the northwest to say nothing of our own personal financial condition, well we still have our doubts.

We notice the County Commissioners down in Pennington county, in order to still further the farmers' prosperity, have appointed a county agent. That is all very good. We are not out to knock the county agents' offices and besides we don't live in Pennington county.

But we feel there is something that we should call the people of this community's attention to.

In and about the city of Thief River Falls we had a hundred or more expert farmers and scientists who can't make from one to three hundred dollars clear profit per cow a year. They also know how to make a vast amount of money raising potatoes per acre at one dollar a bushel. You will find them around the pool tables or otherwise unoccupied.

We believe that Pennington should be appointed as a committee of seven to help the farmers. We do not believe it would cost the county to appropriate one cent to do so. We also think that the work of these committee men would be glad to do it gratis, for the glory of the profits mentioned above. This would not hurt business and the farmers themselves could afford to pay for their salvation.

We can plainly see this would make the McNary Haugen bill unnecessary and would be a success or this plan here would spread all over the country, thereby putting the entire nation on a solid prosperous footing also permiting Congress to devote its time by not having to waste it on farm relief and the Northwest Station would be the highest ever reported in Northwestern Minnesota. This record represents the results of years of breeding and culling at the station. In 1922-23 twelve hens produced 200 eggs or more in 1923-24 twenty-eight hens made the 200 egg record, in 1924-25 one hundred ten eggs each, and in 1925-26, one hundred eighty-six per cent of the flock passed the 200 egg mark.

Caribou Seen Northeast of Middle River Recently

Art Peterson, of Middle River was hauling some wood to town Friday when he noticed the horses to a stop after pulling the load a short way. Peterson was surprised to see their ears suddenly stand erect, the horses becoming uneasy. From the trees close by large bull caribou emerged, such as Peterson has seen in Canada, and stood and looked at the horses for a moment. Peterson did not seem to be alarmed at the horses on the road and slowly walked at up the road, disappearing into the woods a little farther on.

Caribou were quite common in eastern Marshall county several years ago, but now have been reported for a long time, and there is considerable conjecture as to where this one came from.

WINTER TRADE TRAINING IS OFFERED AT BENSWOOD

In rural centers are usually given much study work

A six-week course is being offered by the Christmas holidays at Benswood to boys and men are coming to Benswood Institute (Minnesota), which was given to the state of Minnesota by the people of the state of Minnesota for training in trades and industries.

The ever increasing number of boys and men who need to be trained for State would be glad to help themselves of the facilities of this state institution, making it necessary for advance reservations to be made to assure openings.

Boys and men desiring to secure skill and knowledge connected with various trades like machinists, carpenters, drafting, automobile, sheet metal, printing, baking, electricity or any of the subdivisions of the above, such as ignition, storage battery, radiator operation, welding, blacksmithing, tinsmithing, etc., are invited to write to Benswood Institute, Minneapolis, Minnesota, for information.

FIGHT PLANNED ON CARBON MONOXIDE

Representatives of the Minnesota Industrial commission may be expected in Thief River Falls at any time within the near future, for that body is determined to make every effort to reduce the danger of carbon monoxide poisoning in garages and workrooms throout the state.

The commission now requires the installation of adequate ventilation systems in all garages and workrooms. The men will be sent out by the Division of Accident Prevention of the above named commission.

Carbon monoxide gas, scientists say, is generated by combustion in a limited supply of oxygen and is dangerous to human life when diffused 15 parts to 10,000 parts of air.

4-H BOYS AND GIRLS ARE TO BE HONORED

Two 4-H Club boys and one girl were given a place on the speaker's platform at the annual convention of the County Fair Circuit of Minnesota alongside of veteran orators of the organization. The convention was conducted in St. Paul Jan. 10 and 11.

Placing junior farmers on the speaking program for the first time is indicative of the progress made by the boys and girls clubs, which in the last five years have become a major unit in the county expositions, according to R. F. Hall of Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota Federation of County Fairs.

The junior speakers and their subjects were: Theodore Franke, Bemidji, "How 4-H Club Work Helps Farm Boys and Girls"; Mildred Peabody, Owatonna, "My Experience as a 4-H Club Member"; and Walter Blakeslee, Spring Valley, "How 4-H Club Work Helps to Make Better Communities."

RALPH HIBSON AGAIN HAS PRODUCED FINE DRAWINGS

Ralph S. Hibson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hibson of this city, is again producing fine efforts in the field of art and in the November issue of Outdoor America he had two half page drawings, illustrations of an article entitled, "the Ironsides," written by Kenneth F. Lockwood.

One of the drawings was of an Indian scout, while the other artistically portrayed the anxiety of a fisherman in his efforts to land a game fish. His first illustrations appeared about a year ago.

Mr. Hibson, who is a resident of Chicago, is engaged in the interpretation of another drawing which he shortly to be used in the same publication, the field monthly magazine of the Izaak Walton League of America, quite a few people of this city are, doubtless, interested.

GOOD WAY TO DISPOSE OF CHRISTMAS TREES

What becomes of your discarded Christmas tree after the holidays? Ought to burn it in the fireplace, even if partially cut up. The fire of a little evergreen will start a roaring fire and you feel free to let it burn—endangering the chimney. The tree dragged away to a safe place for a bonfire, and use it as a subject to get rid of any other rubbish that can be burned up. The same precautions apply to any sort of Christmas present.

State Treasurer Predicts School Funds Increase

Predicting that state trust funds for investment in public schools and other institutions will reach $200,000,000, Julius A. Schmahl, state treasurer, explained the history of state finances in a radio talk recently.

In twenty years the state trust funds will give the public schools $12,000,000 annually, he asserted. This would be double the present yearly apportionment.

The present prosperous situation is due in no small part to the wisdom of the group of men, to one under Governor Alexander Ramsey set aside 2 of large tracts of land given to the state by the federal government, instead of using it all at the time, the School declared.

"In the last fiscal year we have added more than $4,000,000 to the total of land gifts to the state, the receipts from royalties and taxes on iron ore in the northeastern section of Minnesota."

ST. HILAIRE WOMAN DIES WHILE ON WESTERN TRIP

Word was received recently of the death of Mrs. G. W. Hooper, prominent St. Hilaire resident, which took place two weeks ago at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Johnson of Tacoma, Wash. According to the St. Hilaire Spectator, Mrs. Hooper left St. Hilaire in the fall of 1926 for a visit with her daughter. The Hooper family had resided in St. Hilaire since 1907 and established a telephone system which they operated until last fall. The husband and seven grown children survive.

Stockholders of the Marshall county fair association at their annual meeting a week ago elected the following president, William C. Miller; vice president, Ole Overland; treasurer, August A. Johnson.

CLUB WORK GAINING

The 1927 enrollment in 4-H club work in Minnesota counties totalled 4,696, this being an increase of 562 over the previous year, reports H. A. Stigbauer, state leader of boys' School, district club leader. Of this number 2,487 were athletic and 2,209 boys.

ROADS NOT KEEPING PACE WITH MOTOR VEHICLES

Despite the unprecedented increase in highway during the last quarter century, road building has kept pace with the building and buying of motor vehicles, C. M. Babcock, commissioner of highways of Minnesota, said in his address as president of the American Road Builders association at Cleveland, Jan. 10. The convention was the twenty-fifth meeting of the organization, and Mr. Babcock in his address reviewed the highway progress made during the time the association has been in existence.

Manufacturers of automobiles, trucks and accessories, he said, are place of fatigue when that sharpspending millions to advertise their products. Road officials cannot buy newspaper space, and manufacturers of road machinery and materials do not spend anywhere near the amount for advertising that is spent by the motor vehicle makers. Much of the advertising done by the makers of road machinery and materials is directed at the officials and contractors rather than the general public.

"I am not advocating spending any money for propaganda to induce the public to build roads indiscriminately," said Mr. Babcock, "but I think that they ought to use every facility to point out where there is waste in road building. I am certain that roads that are not adequate to the traffic, and built to suit the vehicles of ten years ago, are a source of operating vehicles on roads that are not adapted to modern traffic.

PREMIUM LIST ENLARGED

The premium list covering prizes offered in the various departments of the Thief River Valley Fair, the date of which will be held at Crookston February 28 to March 2, has been enlarged and is now ready for general distribution, being sent on filing a request with Secretary Ben Hanson. New departments have been created, the premium list includes other important features added.

In many cases prizes are offered for exhibits of beef and horse products. Options will also be given for the first time this year at the fair, which also includes potatoes. Prizes will be awarded in the Department of the Northwest School, Administration Building, Boys' and Girls' club division, will attract an unusually large exhibit in this department.

NEW BULLETIN READY FOR POULTRY RAISERS

Poultry raisers will be interested in a recently published bulletin issued by the University Farm, St. Paul. This bulletin is a report of the Record Book Project for the year 1925-26. In it Three Cook, extension poultry specialist, discusses what the records show as to the importance of feeding, brooding, breeds and some other factors in farm poultry business. This bulletin can be secured by writing to the Agricultural Extension Service, University Farm, St. Paul.

NUTRITION WORKERS TOLD CABBAGE RICH IN VITAMIN

The following information, issued this week by the U. S. Department of Agriculture will undoubtedly be received with considerable interest by the several hundred women of Thief River Falls and surrounding country, who were this past year members of the Pennington county nutrition class.

The bulletin states that the list of vitamin-rich fresh vegetables available in the colder weather is headed by cabbage. It need not be cooked the same way every time it is served, in fact it need not be cooked at all, but be used for slaw, or take the place of lettuce when that is desirable green-leaf vegetable cannot be obtained. There are many good ways of serving cabbage so the family will not tire of it. Turnips and carrots supply vitamins, and are among the stored root crops on hand during all winter. When grated and used in salads they are especially valuable. Spinach is in many markets during the winter and is an excellent source of vitamins. Onions, both raw and cooked, may be used. Potatoes too contain one or more vitamins but are not to be considered by other vegetables and fruits.

MANY VETERANS CARRY UNCLE SAM'S INSURANCE

Government insurance amounting to $7,587,339 is being carried by 587,339 World War Veterans at the present time, according to the Veterans' Bureau. Since the inception of the bureau in 1917 it has paid to 245,811 veterans, or their beneficiaries, $1,915,000 in death claims. Since the bureau became operative, 66,965 disability claims have been allowed, 10,000 of which have been made. Uncle Sam is generous to the American World War veterans.

CHRYSLER

27th in 1924
18th in 1925
9th in 1926
4th in 1927

3rd in 1928

National Automobile Chamber of Commerce sales records place Chrysler third for 1928.

In 12 months Chrysler, due to public endorsement, has come from 27th place to 3rd place.

All but two makes, far longer established, have been outsold by Chrysler.

The order of precedence at the National Automobile Shows is determined by the dollar volume of sales in the year ended July 1st. In these 12 months, Chrysler sold 133,750 motor cars—a volume of $275,000,000 paid by the public.

Even this remarkable pace is exceeded by the sales record of the second half of 1927. No other make of car has ever recorded such phenomenally rapid progress.

In three and one-half years, production and sales have increased six-fold over the original record-breaking first year of Chrysler.

There can be no more impressive public endorsement of Chrysler performance, Chrysler long life, Chrysler quality, Chrysler value, supplied in four great price fields by Chrysler's four great cars—the New "52," the Great New "62," the Illustrious New "72," and the New 112 h. p. Imperial "80"—America's most powerful motor car.

UNIVERSITY FRUITS

WIN WILDER MEDALS

Thirty-five seedling apples, exhibited by W. H. Alderman of the division of horticulture, at the recent meeting of the Minnesota Horticultural Society at Louisville, Kentucky, won for the university a gold medal and silver medal for the achievements of the fruit breeding farm near Excelsior, Minnetonka. The university's horticulturist also brought home a second gold medal, awarded by the society because of the adaptability, high quality and yielding ability of the Latham raspberry.

The medals are the highest awards in America, says Professor Alderman, for new fruit varieties of outstanding merit, for colonization, testing, and for achievements in fruit breeding.

FARMERS ARE URGED TO MAIL IN QUESTIONAIRES

Farmers of this community to whom questionaires were mailed the last week in December by Robert M. Douglas, county agent, are urged to return the blanks filled in as soon as possible, as it is necessary to get in the order for alfalfa seed as early in the year as can be done in order to insure a sufficient supply of the seed which is very scarce again this year. The same holds true regarding the supply of seed oats and flax seed.

DEBATE

Hallock H. S. vs. Lincoln High

Lincoln High Assembly
FRIDAY, JANUARY 13, 8:15 P. M.

RESOLVED: "That the United States should construct an All-American Great Lakes-Atlantic Waterway, rather than to co-operate with Canada in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Project."

DIVORCE RECORD HERE LAST YEAR VERY FAVORABLE

Smaller Percentage Compared to Marriages Than State or Nation Had in 1927

Despite the fact that there were 11 fewer marriages in Pennington county during 1927 than in the preceding year, with an increase of three divorces during the same period, yet Pennington county makes a better showing than the state of Minnesota or the United States as a whole in comparison of divorces to marriages.

Only nine percent as many divorces were granted by the district court here as marriages in the county, according to the records of Clerk of Court Adolf Ekhind, while the state records show the ratio to be 11.3 per cent with the country as a whole showing 16 per cent. There were five divorces granted here to 56 marriage licenses issued; the number of marriages in Minnesota last year is announced as 27,714 with divorces as working together as a means of accomplishing the most good form bureau here. The co-operation of farmers and business men in this town in the promotion of agricultural fairs proves that this co-operation could be had in Norman county.

The Norman County Index of Ada state that Mr. McCann created a very favorable impression upon his hearers.

Effects of Leap Year Shown

A study of the above table reveals the fact that the year 1920 was the high water mark in the issuance of marriage licenses in Pennington county, while 1912 holds the divorce record. Both years are leap years. Leap year of 1924 has only leap year mate since 1916 that failed to show an increase in either marriages or divorces, and there is much speculation at the court house as to the outcome of the present year.

Banquet Tendered McCann by Norman County Boosters

J. J. McCann was tendered a banquet last week by the citizens of Norman county in the Community club rooms at Ada, attended by a representative gathering of business men and farmers, presided over by A. P. Peterson president of the club, county.

Selma Thoreson of district No. 9 reported Thora Berghild and Sigurd Bjornstad as having perfect records. Laura Peterson of No. 56-3 and Oscar Nesheim was the only one in that school attending every day. Verna Becker, 70-2, had four pupils present, daily, namely, Orville Dahl, Adeline Arthur and Clarence Ruppprecht.

District No. 106, Elida Anderson, teacher, led in greatest numbers with pool records, her pupils being Agnes Peterson, Irene, Hubert and Norma Orthoff, Ruth Roy, Muriel Labbits and Evelyn Bengston. Mrs. Geo. Erickson, district No. 34, had the next largest number of scholars in attendance daily, they being Harry Neal, Lorraine Hollander, Christine Leral, and Ollie and Thelma Skaar.

ADDITIONAL PUPILS IN RURAL SCHOOLS ESTABLISH RECORD

151 Pupils in 34 Districts Out of 77 In This County Have Attained High Honors

Five additional rural school districts have reported the perfect attendance of 20 additional pupils over the 131 scholars in 29 districts as given in Tow Times of Dec. 29 for the first three months of school during the present year. This makes a total of 74 districts having 151 pupils with perfect attendance records among the 77 rural school districts of Pennington county.

Following is the list of pupils who have established the new county record to those present:

The various speakers emphasized the possibilities to be derived from county agent work, and Mr McCann stated that he had decided on locating in Norman county on account of the many opportunities offered in this line of work by Norman county.

Mr. McCann stressed the value of co-operation between farmers, and cited instances where such co-operation had resulted in greatest numbers with good records, her pupils being Agnes Peterson, Irene, Hubert and Norma Orthoff, Ruth Roy, Muriel Labbits and Evelyn Bengston. Mrs. Geo. Erickson, district No. 34, had the next largest number of scholars in attendance daily, they being Harry Neal, Lorraine Hollander, Christine Leral, and Ollie and Thelma Skaar.

213 HEARINGS BEFORE PROBATE COURT IN 1927

Judge Lars Backe of the probate court has furnished The Times with the following record of the activities of his court for the year 1927: Total number of hearings, 243; New estates entered for probate, 37; Wills admitted to probate, 10 (there were 23 in the estate of Ingeborg Lindaas, deceased); Value of real estate obtained by the Leland Brought, foreclosure of loans is given as $1,307,550. Delinquent installments now total $297,584, relating to 1,251 loans.

ROSEWOOD

Club Has Annual Meeting

The Rosewood annual meeting of the Rosewood Farmers club was held at the hall Saturday, January 7, with about fifty persons present. Vice president P. A. Swanson presided.

Corporate Personality

In the world of commerce there is such a thing as corporate personality—quite as definite and recognizable as the personality among individuals.

The names of large business organizations call to mind definite impressions just as the names of people characterize the individual.

Wherever the name of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is spoken in the Middle West it arouses a definite reaction. Nothing abstract or impersonal or vague about that name!

It stands for service, honestly rendered; for a friendly spirit to be called on for help or advice when a certain particular problem demands solution; for that spirit of fair dealing whose opinion is respected and whose judgment is trusted.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has earned the friendship of the people of the Middle West by years of reliable, efficient service.

It has produced and distributed to all corners of the United States petroleum products of unvarying dependability.

It has given employment to a great group of people—a constant source of opportunity for them to advance according to their energies and abilities.

It has made of itself—both corporately to all concerned—the interested investment of thousands of stockholders and thousands of individuals acting through the security of investing in a useful and well-run enterprise.

This very characterizes the corporate personality of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). Its creed of service is not sentimental idealism. It is a business proposition—a business of acts and facts and figures.

This Company is "hard headed" but not "hard hearted." Sure and efficient are but means to an end—and that end is service. The more efficient its business, the greater the service it is able to render.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) never loses sight of the human factors on which all business is built. Business is an achievement of civilization. Beyond results, more deeply than profits, men stand together and say, "We'll do this for you if we'll do that for us."

The vast business of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is simply organized helpfulness. The secret to be helpful is multiplied many thousands of times by the power of men and machinery.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is literally—but not—efficient—helpful. It has a personality unchanging, unchanged—interesting all that is best in more than 20,000 men and women—a personality held true from one generation to the next by the highest of creeds—service.

Found, Dog License Tag No. 34, Issued in 1894 Name of Owner Desired

Found, Dog License Tag, No. 30. Owner please communicate with R. J. Malone.

The above classified ad could have readily been inserted in The Times this week, but it is in doubtful if the owner could be found. Not that The Times could not produce results, for it may even in this case.

The tag in question was found last fall by Mr. Malone while plowing in the garden, and after it was issued by the City of Thief River Falls in 1894—64 years ago—the inscription on the tag was as legible as the day it had been made, other than showing signs of having been in the ground for a long time.

Inquiry at the office of City Clerk P. R. Pederson revealed the fact that the oldest records in the vault at the city auditorium go back only to 1905, which is nine years later than the tag was issued. However, Mr. Pederson stated to a representative of The Times that the records for 1894 might be located in some of the boxes containing older records than there is room for in the vault.

Later N. W. Tarrant states that the tag was not one for his dog as he presently received either No. 1 or No. 2, being one of the first approximately 100 dog owning dogs at that time. Milton Forney did not recall having a dog prior to 1900, so he was excused. N. C. Burns and Christ. Porter could not be located so they may be able to shed some light on the interesting question as to the ownership of the tag.

Can some other old-timer delve into the past and enlighten the present owner of the relic relative back to the early days of Thief River Falls' history?

Two County Agents To Be Stationed in Polk County in the Future

The Polk county board of commissioners has appropriated $2,800 for the support of two county agents, one with headquarters in the eastern end of the county, A. W. Aamodt, the present county agent of the southern half of St. Louis county, will be in charge of the office in Crookston, but a western office, which possibly may be located at either Fosston or McIntosh.

Because of 57 townships of first class farm land and 4,200 farmers and their families to serve, the county has prevailed on the state and federal departments to increase their annual aid from $1,800 to $3,800 to establish the farm service in the two above mentioned units. In addition to the $2,800 above appropriated by the Polk county commissioners recently there is the sum of $1,200 remaining from the last appropriation, making a total of $7,400 available from county, state and federal sources.

BAUDETTE SCHOOL BOARD FOLLOWS EXAMPLE OF T. R. F.

Following the example of Thief River Falls the school board at Baudette has just taken up $2,000 in bonds not due till 1931, but with plenty of money in the sinking fund and the willingness of the holder of the bonds, bearing six per cent interest, to dispose of them, the directors thought it best to take action along the lines noted.

The Baudette school board still has $18,000 in its sinking fund with no outstanding bonds and plans are said coming in this year to further increase the sinking fund for future needs.

All of the $28,000 outstanding private-bonds recently called by the local school board have been surrendered with the exception of $5,000 held by the City of Minneapolis in its sinking fund.

STATEWIDE DRIVE ON WOLVES IS PROPOSED

It is quite improbable that anyone from Thief River Falls or Pennington county will go to Duluth the first week to attend a special meeting called for that city by the Duluth Sportsmen club to promulgate plans for a statewide systematic wolf hunt.

The purpose is to have big game hunters of the state join in a hunt to destroy the wolves now making serious inroads on the deer and moose of the state.

The scarcity of rabbits brought about by disease is turning attention of wolves to deer and moose for food, the Duluth sportsmen's club having stated in its appeal to sportsmen of the state.

OWNERSHIP IS UNKNOWN OF AUTO BURNED ON ROADSIDE

Persons having occasion to travel the road southeast of Goodridge recently observed a Star coach parked along side the roadway, cars having been totally destroyed by fire with the exception of the two front wheels, on which the tires were still intact. Ownership of the machine had not been learned as yet, although reports reaching Middle River last week stated that all of the stock in trade of the merchant men of this section, who wished to remain anonymous, was the manufacture of the kind of stock and the approximate weight thereof that they intend to send to market. This information could be given to Sheriff Fahlen of Holt and Dr. H. M. Hagen at Peoples State bank.

The board of directors was instructed to look into the advisability of having the mentioned interpreted.

The manager was also instructed to have all trucks insured whenever the manager thanks the risk is too great for a ship without this precaution.

The charge on cattle was fixed for the coming year at 65 cents; on hogs, 20 cents; and on sheep and calves at 40.

WRIST WAS LACERATED WHILE SAWING WOOD

Harry Peterson, living five miles northeast of town, accidentally cut his right wrist in front of a saw while sawing wood last week, the cut severing the tendon of the fore finger and cutting into the wrist bone to some extent so that the hand could be withdrawn.

The injured man was brought to town and the arm given medical attention at the Physicians' hospital, where the tendon was sewed together, the young man now getting steady improvement and being permitted to return home on Wednesday.

Least Volume of Business Since County Organization Register of Deeds Reports

Register of Deeds Fred Lorentzen in the preparation of his annual report this week finds that 1,001 instruments were filed for record in his office during the past year, which is the smallest number since the formation of Pennington county in 1910.

Starting with 1911 there was a gradual increase in the total number filed each year, till the peak was reached in 1916, after which there was a variation each year till 1921 since when the decline has been quite even, Mr. Lorentzen stated.

The figures as announced since the opening of the office are as follows:

1911	2,141	1920	2,207
1912	2,301	1921	2,201
1913	2,540	1922	2,067
1914	2,584	1923	1,957
1915	2,541	1924	1,901
1916	3,010	1925	1,233
1917	2,477	1926	1,125
1918	1,955	1927	1,001
1919	2,270

BUREAU WILL LOAN MONEY ON BONUSES

If a former service man wishes to borrow money on his federal adjusted service certificate (national bonus-paid-up insurance policy), he can apply at the office in D. W. Vedaa's building, Fort Snelling, Minneapolis, together with a proof of claim, and he will receive the loan by return mail. The necessary forms are available from local installment loan companies.

Bank of St. Paul also loans money on these policies and will complete the necessary papers for the borrower at a very low interest rate which will be refunded to the borrower when the policy matures. It is expected that many service men will take advantage of this opportunity to keep the paid-up insurance intact for a rainy day, Legion leaders advise.

RACE TRACK ON RIVER

A track has been cut and been cleared on the river near the Squaw Point bridge and several of the local racing fanciers are going there to exercise theron. Quite a few spectators have been seen there on Sunday when the weather has been sufficient-ly warm to permit standing about.

Theige Elected President of Shipping Association

J. M. Theige was elected president of the Thief River Falls Livestock Shipping association at the annual meeting held in the Pennington county farm bureau office last Thursday, other officers named for the ensuing year being Christ Larson, secretary-treasurer, Hans Anderson, manager, Emil Gullickson, Ed. Grandahaus and Nels Torgerson were chosen directors.

A resolution was passed asking that all livestock men of this section, who wished to ship, get in touch with the manager as to the kind of stock and the approximate weight thereof that they intend to send to market. This information could be given to Ed. Grandahaus, or may be left at the First & Peoples State bank.

The board of directors was instructed to look into the advisability of having the mentioned interpreted.

The manager was also instructed to have all trucks insured whenever the manager thanks the risk is too great for a ship without this precaution.

The charge on cattle was fixed for the coming year at 65 cents; on hogs, 20 cents; and on sheep and calves at 40.

Poultry Association Suspends Business— May Be Reorganized

The Thief River Falls Cooperative Poultry Association has suspended business, having suffered through the failure of the Lake Region Cooperative Creamery association, of which it is affiliated. The Lake Region creamery, a central milling plant and local units throughout the section, failed to make settlement for December goods, the result being that the Thief River Falls' unit is approved by the Association held last night for plans for a reorganization of the business.

At a meeting of the directors of the Association held last night rational plans for a reorganization of the business were discussed and it is hoped that ways and means can be found whereby losses can be absorbed and the organization be continued.

A meeting of the creditors in the territory tributary to Thief River Falls will be held in the Commercial Club rooms Saturday afternoon commencing at one o'clock, at which time a statement of the present condition of affairs will be read and the whole situation discussed. Similar meetings will be held thruout the territory served.

The Thief River Valley Poultry Association has enjoyed a very increasing volume of business since its organization, the total for the past year having been approximately $75,000. This total was an increase of approximately $125,000 over the previous year.

Officers Re-elected

Dr. Melby was re-elected president of the association, Dr. Brandt, who is in California, will again act as vice president, while Mr. Bjerkum will also act as secretary for the coming year. Mr. Bernard was likewise renamed assistant superintendent at the sanitarium.

A report of the year was presented by the superintendent, which was approved and ordered filed. Resolutions of condolence over the recent death of K. O. Gjestad of St. Hilaire, who was a member of the board of trustees at the time of his death, being succeeded by J. S. Roy, were adopted as follows:

Resolutions of Condolence

Whereas, it has pleased God to call to the Great Beyond Mr. K. O. Gjestad, of St. Hilaire, Minnesota, one of the members of the Sanitarium Association; and

Whereas, Mr. Gjestad had been a member of this body from the time of the establishment of the Oakland Park sanitarium up to the time of his death, and had as such member of the association rendered unselfish service for the welfare of the sanatorium, and for the welfare of those afflicted with the disease for the treatment of which this sanatorium was established; and,

Whereas, we who have served with Mr. Gjestad on this board have learned to know Mr. Gjestad as a kind and sympathetic person, whose heart always went out to those afflicted with disease, and who have seen his work and services in behalf of same for him for his kindly and considerate assistance to us in our work as members of this body;

Now, therefore, be it Hereby Resolved, that it is the sense of this body that in the death of Mr. Gjestad we have suffered a great loss, we have lost a kind and considerate friend; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we extend to the family of Mr. Gjestad our sincere sympathy in the hour of their loss and sorrow; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we express our appreciation of the work that has been performed by Mr. Gjestad while a member of this body in behalf of the Oakland Park sanitarium, as well as in behalf of the unfortunates with the disease, for which this sanatorium was established; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of this body as a permanent record of our sentiments toward Mr. Gjestad and for which end a duly attested copy of this resolution be instructed to send a copy of the same to the bereaved family of Mr. Gjestad, to the St. Hilaire Spectator and the Thief River Falls Times.

Fine Church Destroyed After First Sermon Was Preached by Rev. Lorenz

Shortly after the completion of the first sermon held by Rev. F. Lorenz in the costly St. Benedict church to which he was recently called, the structure was destroyed by fire, and within five hours after the completion of the service was practically destroyed, the flames gaining such headway that the firemen were unable to save the building.

The fire presumably started from an overheated furnace, and the congregation and its pastor had the loss keenly.

The Wilson Memorial Presbyterian church, as it was styled, had only recently been completely remodelled, altho built as late as 1910, being mostly of a concrete construction. The loss is of such intense heat that the walls were damaged to such an extent that they were not considered safe enough to re-again used.

In a letter to The Times Rev. Lorenz states that the congregation is under-pay to rebuild at an estimated cost of $75,000, and he is very much forward to the time when the new church will be completed.

The present address of Rev. Lorenz is 1607 Sullivan Ave., St. Bernard, Ohio.

Secretary Submits Annual Report to Cemetery Board

Georges Wilson Re-Elected President and Robert Olson Endorsed as Board Member

The Greenwood Cemetery Commission held its annual meeting last Friday in the city council rooms, at which time the annual report of the secretary, P. G. Pederson, was submitted and ordered filed, showing that the organization is in good condition financially at the beginning of the present year, having a balance on hand of $6,513.22 as compared to $5,513.22 one year previous. The total receipts during the year totalled $3,-931.46.

The greater portion of the money came from the annual appropriation by the city council for the running expenses of the cemetery, this amounting to $1,563.94. Lot sales totalled $1,545, while $626.50 was credited to permanent care, $125.00 to annual care, and $101.84 to interest on certificates of deposit in the local banks. Listed as expenses are $1,380 to the caretaker and $360 to the secretary.

Now, therefore, be it Hereby Resolved, that it is the sense of this body that in the death of Mr. Gjestad we have suffered a great loss, we have lost a kind and considerate friend; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we extend to the family of Mr. Gjestad our sincere sympathy in the hour of their loss and sorrow; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we express our appreciation of the work that has been performed by Mr. Gjestad while a member of this body in behalf of the Oakland Park sanitarium, as well as in behalf of the unfortunates with the disease, for which this sanatorium was established; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of this body as a permanent record of our sentiments toward Mr. Gjestad and for which end a duly attested copy of this resolution be instructed to send a copy of the same to the bereaved family of Mr. Gjestad, to the St. Hilaire Spectator and the Thief River Falls Times.

Provencher Again Elected President for Coming Year

Automobile Association—Holds Annual Meeting, Transacting Important Business

Julien Provencher was unanimously elected to succeed himself as president of the Pennington County Automobile association at the annual meeting held Thursday evening in the Bowlerama at which time there were more automobile enthusiasts present than at any previous annual meeting of the association, Mayor W. W. Strickland was also named to serve again as vice president, while Paul Lundgren was elected to succeed himself as secretary-treasurer, succeeding Ernest N. Rude, who resigned. The new directors are gentlemen L. R. Johnston, Olaf Nesset, Dr. H. M. Hagen and L. J. Sundberg, who were elected as directors for the ensuing year. The president of the association was also instructed to appoint the executive committee for the coming year.

Considerable time was devoted to the discussion of the proposed new auto-dealers' license ordinance, which is to be presented to the city council at its next meeting to be held in September.

President Provencher has announced the following committees for the coming year:

Membership: E. M. Bjerken, O. Nerbovig, H. E. Nelson, Olaf Nesset, F. J. Sorne and A. J. Berry.

Good roads: A. E. Johnston, T. F. Anderson, W. W. Strickland, Jr., H. A. Hammond and Dr. H. W. Franklin.

Tours: W. W. Pritchett, Jr., Geo. Johnson and L. R. Johnston.

Resolutions: F. J. Stebbins, L. R. Johnston and Paul Lundgren.

Membership campaign: Limited to 42 for the year and the membership committee is practically destroyed. The entire drive in the hopes of securing the required number during 1928 having signed up and paid their fees at the meeting last week. The association's membership is also keen for the state convention for the first hundred members and a record in point of membership reaches 151. The desire is expressed that a more sufficient number be enrolled to be entitled to three delegates.

Resolutions were drawn up endorsing the work of the Minnesota State Highway association, being unanimously approved after considerable discussion.

President Provencher read some figures regarding the use will tax, the gasoline and the federal automobile tax. This showed that the total amount of gasoline sold in Louis paid into the state treasury a total of $874,276 and in return was allotted $153,000 by the state-aid for 1927 was $1,941,250, or less 45 percent of which was contributed by the three counties named above. The latter allotted only seven percent of the funds.

The three counties paid in on the gasoline tax $2,747,144, which was more than half of the federal auto tax paid by the three counties was given as $4,278,144, the total for the state being placed at $10,250,000.

Tuesday Is Registration Day for Primary Election

Milton Forney of this city advises strict adherence to the new system of registration, which will be in force for the first time at the coming primary election, Tuesday, June 19.

Under the new system, which was passed by the last session of the legislature, the voter must register in person on the day of the election, or on the day preceding the election, and must be prepared to answer questions relative to his qualifications as a voter.

Mr. Forney is chairman of the registration board for the city, and will be assisted by the city clerk and the city treasurer.

Teachers Are Preparing for Big Spell-Down

Sectional Contests Will Be Held In 17 Places in County on Saturday, Jan. 28

COUNTY CONTEST HERE IN FOLLOWING WEEK

Big Event Will Be in Crookston on Feb 10 During Week of Winter Shows

Rural school teachers of Pennington county, in common with those of the remainder of the Red River Valley, are already endeavoring to choose who will represent the school in the various contests of spelling to be held in the sectional, counties and the Winter Shows at Crookston, which complete instructions as to method of procedure in the contests have been sent the teachers by County Supt. George M. Gunderson.

Individual in the various schools who will compete must be between the ages of 12 and 20, for on that date the sectional meetings will be held, the first of which will take place at Crookston on Friday, Feb. 10.

Those Who May Enter

Any pupil in a one room school in the grades 5 and including the eighth, who has not before won first with in either one or oral spelling in any Farm Crops show spelling contest, or who does not hold an eighth grade diploma shall be eligible to enter the contest.

The sectional leader or someone appointed by her district, and shall report the result of the contest to the county superintendent immediately. She may call in her assistant any one or all of the teachers in her section to help conduct the contest in Pennington county.

Each teacher may select in her own way the best speller in her school to be sent to the sectional spelling contest to be held on Saturday, January 28, at such hour and place as the leaders of the sections may decide.

At the sectional contest there shall be conducted a test in oral spelling for each individual pupil, a test in written spelling, a test in writing from dictation, and a test in an oral spell-down.

DAIRY PLAY HERE ON JANUARY 23

"Joe Gress Runs a Boarding House," Shown Under Auspices of Tensum & Co.

"Joe Gress Runs a Boarding House" is the name of the play to be given in the Bowlerama evening at 8:00 p. m. in the form of Norway Hall. It is a three act comedy production and but a play with five real characters, Joe Gress, Mrs. Perkins, and three cows, Milly, Bess, and Susie.

This is the same play that was given in Thief River Falls at the National Dairy Show this year. It has also been given at Farmers Week programs and other big meetings.

The purpose of the play is instructional with that of a lecture, namely to arouse an interest in better feeding and handling of cows and in better dairymen and to show each dairyman that he is making milk at a lower cost per gallon.—But the facts are stressed into an interesting form with plenty of sketches of comedy to make it really an evening of entertainment as well as information.

The play is free. It is being given under the auspices of Tensum & Co. Company. It will be held at the Son of Norway Hall at 8:00 P. M. Monday, January 23rd.

There will be no charge for admission to the play. It is free to anyone interested in dairying.

A similar play was put on last year by the Tensum company and proved very instructive as well as entertaining.

FAIR DIRECTORS TO ATTEND N. D. STATE FAIR MEETING

Two or three of the Pennington County Agricultural society are planning to attend the annual meeting of the North Dakota State Fair association at Grand Forks next week, at which time contracts will be closed for the ensuing year, and many of those are hopeful of being awarded merit

Interesting Program Is Promised by Faculty for P.T Meeting on Jan. 30

The faculty of the local schools claim they are all ready for the Parent Teachers' meeting to be the assembly room of the Lincoln high school Monday evening, Jan. 30, and they promise an interesting program, according to Supt. Morris Bye.

A tentative draft of the program as arranged includes a talk on Nutrition by Miss Sara Stenson, instructor in the home economics department; special songs by members of the faculty as well as chorus selections by the entire group; a talk to parents by Supt. Morris Bye; Scandinavian and French songs by A. C. Mathewson in original play by faculty members, the title as announced being Jim Hafer Awakening (subject to change, the teachers stated) and a social hour in the Question Box; and a lunch in conclusion.

MEMBERS OF TRINITY CHURCH IN ANNUAL SESSION ON TUESDAY

Reports of Officers Show Excellent Condition Exists in All Departments

Reports of officers of the Trinity Lutheran congregation submitted to the members at the annual meeting Tuesday afternoon revealed a very satisfactory financial condition and a healthy growth in membership the past year. Annual reports of the various church organizations were also presented and evidenced the fact that the year had been quite active throughout the year of 1927.

Rev. N. L. Tallakson, pastor of the church, was unanimously elected pastor of the congregation, Morris Bye was elected president, Robert Land was elected secretary, Robert Land was elected treasurer to succeed H. S. Lindem.

Robert Land, Knute Jorde and Dr. O. F. Melby were elected trustees for the ensuing three years, the other trustees being Carl E. Larson, Olaf Tesaune, J. J. Weeks, Lars Eske, A. O. Thorstenrud and E. L. Rolland.

The board of deacons was left unchanged, being composed of Carl Christoffersen, S. O. Lee, N. A. Nelson, A. E. Mostue and Joseph Patterson.

Rev. S. L. Tallakson was re-elected president of the Sunday School; Mrs. Knute Jorde was also continued as assistant superintendent. Mrs. O. F. Melby was chosen as organist at the morning services for the coming year and Mrs. Gustav Wald for the evening. Robert Land was re-elected senior choir director and Rev. S. L. Tallakson for the junior choir. The matter of filling the position of janitor was left to the trustees. The same ushers as present were continued in office. Mrs. Tobias Rees was again chosen for the position of parish worker

Banquet in Evening

A banquet was served in the evening, following several talks by Rev. S. L. Tallakson acting as toastmaster. Among those who responded were Dr. Melby, Rev. Mr. Mostue, Mrs. Quale and Dr. A. E. Jacobsen. A reading was given by Miss Tessaune and a musical selection by Justus Larson.

The report of the church treasurer showed receipts during the year of $11,827.40 with disbursements of $11,--. leaving a balance on hand for the year after the overhead of the new church. The treasurer of the treasurer showed assets of $4,670 and liabilities of same at $16,000. The report also showed the cost of operating the new church to be only $1,000 more for the year than for the old church, the operation cost per member only increasing 49½ cents.

SECRETARY BOOSTS ANNUAL REPORT TO CEMETERY BOARD

Georges Wilson Re-Elected President and Robert Olson Endorsed as Board Member

The Greenwood Cemetery Commission held its annual meeting last Friday in the city council rooms, at which time the annual report of the secretary, P. G. Pederson, was submitted and ordered filed, showing that the organization is in good condition financially at the beginning of the present year, having a balance on hand of $6,513.22 as compared to $5,513.22 one year previous. The total receipts during the year totalled $3,-931.46 with disbursements of $1,-951.46.

The greater portion of the money came from the annual appropriation by the city council for the running expenses of the cemetery, this amounting to $1,563.94. Lot sales totalled $1,545, while $626.50 was credited to permanent care, $125.00 to annual care, and $101.84 to interest on certificates of deposit in the local banks. Listed as expenses are $1,380 to the caretaker and $360 to the secretary.

Now, therefore, be it Hereby Resolved, that it is the sense of this body that in the death of Mr. Gjestad we have suffered a great loss, we have lost a kind and considerate friend; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we extend to the family of Mr. Gjestad our sincere sympathy in the hour of their loss and sorrow; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that we express our appreciation of the work that has been performed by Mr. Gjestad while a member of this body in behalf of the Oakland Park sanitarium, as well as in behalf of the unfortunates with the disease, for which this sanatorium was established; and,

Be It Further Resolved, that a copy of this resolution be spread on the minutes of this body as a permanent record of our sentiments toward Mr. Gjestad and for which end a duly attested copy of this resolution be instructed to send a copy of the same to the bereaved family of Mr. Gjestad, to the St. Hilaire Spectator and the Thief River Falls Times.

PRESERVATION OF WILD GAME WAS ENDORSED

Sixty Members of Izaak Walton League Hold First Meeting of the Year

GAME WARDEN MUNCH GAVE INTERESTING TALK

Local Club Endorsed Stand of National Body in Opposing Lumber Co's. Demands

Preservation of wild game and the possibilities of improving the conditions which tend to make hunting and fishing more attractive were the main topics discussed when more than sixty persons gathered in the municipal court rooms in the city auditorium Wednesday evening to listen to talks by four well known game wardens of this section. A motion was passed at the meeting of the National Izaak Walton league in its endeavor to preserve the present playground of wild life that is along the boundary between Minnesota and Ontario. The Rainy River-Brooks Lumber company would like to lease for power and industrial purposes.

Talks by Game Wardens

The principal speaker of the evening was William Munch of Crookston, who gave interesting information about wild game, especially ducks, as observed by him in his duties as game warden. He told of the rapid falling off in the supply of fish in many of the lakes, and the causes thereof; also briefly mentioning the fact that fishing contracts of the state for taking fish with the fish traps would expire with the coming season.

The greatest need today for inland lakes is the establishment of resting places where the ducks may stop for a rest of either one day or a week as the weather may demand, Mr. Munch stated. These resting places, he stated, must be established, Mr. Munch stating that the present day methods of game birds and fish. He also referred to the unscrupulous hunters claiming that they have done much in the past two years to destroy breeding places and feeding grounds of game fish in the lakes. Parties, he stated, are a necessary evil for they assist in the killing off of snapping turtles, which kill off wild fowl, as well as tame ducks.

Game Preservation Obligatory

Milton Forney of this city advocated stricter adherence to the seal spirit.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD MONDAY FOR LARS THORSON

Funeral services were held Monday, Jan. 16, at the Trinity Lutheran church, Rev. S. E. Tollakson officiating, for Lars Thorson, for 25 years a resident of this vicinity, who died on the 12th of January, at the age of 72 years.

Lars Thorson was born March 12, 1857, in Hedal of Norway. He was one of a family of five children of the late Thor and Gunhild Forke County, N. Dak., and was married in 1886 to Gunhild Lee. He moved to Thief River Falls in 1910, since which time he has farmed in this locality. He became ill last spring, and has been confined to his home with a heart and stomach ailment and ill health steadily failing until his death Wednesday of last week. Mr. Thorson is survived by his wife.

Although Mr. and Mrs. Thorson have had no children, they have reared a number of children, bringing them up as their own, all of whom deeply mourn the departure of one so loved.

LAST RITES AT HALLOCK FOR MRS. G. K. NELSON

Funeral services were conducted at Hallock from the Lutheran church Wednesday, of last week and in the city Friday at the cemetery there, Rev. Herman Ericksen officiating. Mrs. Nelson formerly Miss Goldie Kellberg of Thief River Falls. The following item, taken from the Hallock Herald at Hallock, will be of interest to her many friends in this city:

Mrs. Hannah Madora Nelson was born at Thief River Falls the 19th day of January 1902. She was confirmed at the Augustana Lutheran church, Thief River Falls, by Rev. A. A. Lundeen, the 8th day of June 1919. She graduated from the Thief River Falls high school in 1921. She taught three years in this vicinity, one year near here and one year at Roosevelt. She was united in marriage with Mr. Herman E. Nelson at the bride's home on the 19th day of June 1926. The happy couple established a home at Hallock on Mr. Nelson's farm two miles south of that city. She was at her death 25 years, 11 mos. and 1 days. She would have been 26 years of age Saturday, had she lived.

Mr. Nelson was always active in the Church and Sunday School, a member of the Red River Valley Male quartette, choir and also of the Tabitha choir. Since moving to Hallock she has been very actively engaged in Christmas work in the Lutheran congregation. She took a very active part in the Choir work; she taught in the Sunday school, she was a member of the ladies aid. Gratefully does the Hallock Lutheran Church place a wreath of appreciation upon the casket of Mrs. Nelson who served it so well.

She leaves to mourn her sudden death; her husband Mr. Herman Nelson; her aged father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. John Kellberg; two sisters—Mrs. H. A. Haugen, Thief River Falls, and Mrs. Jens Kellberg of Thief River Falls; and one brother Heiner Kellberg. One sister, Miss Esther Kellberg, was killed in an automobile accident October 2, 1926. The floral tributes to the parents is indeed very severe.

Official Paper of the City of Thief River Falls and Pennington County.

There is a time in every man's education when he arrives at the conviction that envy is ignorance; that imitation is suicide; that he must take himself for better of for worse as his portion; that though the wide universe is full of good, no kernel of nourishing corn can come to him but through his toil bestowed on that plot of ground which is given to him to till. The power which resides in him is new in nature, and none but he knows what that is which he can do, nor does he know until he has tried—Emerson.

NOTHING SURPRISES US NOW

The following item, published in the New York Tribune in its issue of March 21, 1905, is interesting.

We noticed quite a few automobiles on Fifth Avenue yesterday. Looks as though these contraptions were here to stay, but we doubt whether they will ever become generally popular.

Most of us expressed this same opinion only a few years ago, and would have questioned the sanity of any one at that time who would have predicted that automobiles would ever be as popular as they are today. But the impossible happened. And many other impossible things have happened—so many, in fact, that nothing now seems impossible. An announcement was made last week that a scientist has now discovered a way to broadcast scenes by radio, and it is likely that at some time in the near future it will be possible not only to hear by radio but to see as well. We read the article with some interest but no excitement. If the article had stated that it would be possible in the near future to ship merchandise by radio we perhaps would have accepted the statement with the same credulity. Nothing surprises us any more—that is, in the field of science.

THE POULTRY ASSOCIATION

The Lake Region Co-operative Egg and Poultry Exchange, the organization through which the local poultry association sold its produce, has gone on the rocks, and there is some danger that the local association will be dragged under with it. At any rate it is quite certain that the local association will be heavily hit through the failure of the central organization, and will be unable to meet its obligations at the present time, which, in turn, will work a hardship on many of the farmers of this community who marketed their turkeys and other poultry products through the association in the month of December. To say that this failure is unfortunate is to express the case mildly. It is a hard blow, not only to those individual farmers who will suffer a direct loss financially, but to the entire community which suffers an indirect loss through the failure of an organization which has done much to encourage the poultry industry in this community not only by its efforts to increase production, but also by its influence toward higher prices in the marketing of poultry products.

It is a possibility that the association can be reorganized in such a way as to reduce the loss of the old members and at the same time carry on the important work the association has started. It is to be hoped that such a reorganization can be effected. The greatest obstacle that would be met in an effort of this kind would be the lack of confidence of the producers themselves, who naturally would be skeptical of the merits of any proposition along this line. If a plan can be worked out, however, that will salvage some of the old wreckage and offer reasonable security for future business, it should be presented for consideration, and it should be given fair consideration.

That the local poultry association was a big factor in maintaining a high price level for poultry and poultry products in this community is a fact that cannot be disputed. Just how great that influence has been cannot be estimated with accuracy, but it is probable that the association and its influence on the local market, has added more wealth to the community during its few years of operation than its present shortage will subtract. To accurately measure the value of such an association is impossible in this particular line of business but to a large extent its affect on poultry prices would be the same as the affect of co-operative creameries on butterfat prices, and this affect has been estimated with a fair degree of accuracy. For instance, in the state of Minnesota, where co-operative creameries are well established, the average value of butterfat received by the dairymen in 1926 was 47.45c per pound, while in North Dakota the average was only 38.7c. South Dakota averaged about the same as North Dakota and Nebraska was even lower. While it is only fair to assume that geographical location and lower production were factors in making for the lower prices in these other states, it must also be admitted that these prices in other states would probably have been lower yet had it not been for the influence of Minnesota's co-operatives on the markets in those states.

These things should be considered when the problem of reorganization is being weighed. In all probability the present failure can be traced to certain definite causes. Future activities can profit by the knowledge which this failure has brought. While it is our impression there is much unnecessary bunk and bias connected with most co-operative organizations, we are convinced that there is a definite need for such organizations in certain fields of marketing under certain conditions. And we believe that the poultry industry in this community is sufficiently large and sufficiently important to warrant a co-operative marketing association. As we see it, the possible good in this project outweighs the possible evil.

Sweden is making a big reduction in its armed forces, according to a Stockholm dispatch. It would seem that this is a step in the right direction, not only from the standpoint of peace but also economy. Armies and navies are terrifically expensive in times of peace as well as in times of war. And while this country has never maintained a large, standing army, it does seem that right now we are doing too much "keeping up with the Joneses" as far as the navy is concerned. We don't need much of an armed force to keep the enemy out of our country and if any foreign power should get too gay with us, we can't see where it would harm us to any great extent if we made them wait a couple of years before we ruined them.

THE THANKFUL HEART
(Oliver Wendell Holmes)

If anyone should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how it would draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction. The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day, and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find in every hour some heavenly blessings—only the iron in God's sand is gold.

WINTER SHOW'S PROGRAM

NOW FULLY COMPLETED

Final arrangements have been made for the Northwest School Farmers Week and Winter Shows program, Crookston, Feb. 6-10, 1928. Railroads have granted reduced rates, outstanding speakers secured for the evening meetings, judges appointed for all the many educational contests and exhibits, and speakers engaged for both men's and women's meetings.

An exceptionally strong program has been arranged for the women's meetings which will be held in the Presbyterian church beginning Monday afternoon and continuing through Friday.

In the agricultural section, Monday will be devoted to judging contests and lodging exhibits in the various departments. Tuesday is designated as Farm Crops Day Wednesday, Livestock Day; Thursday's program will include poultry, bee and beery products, and root and tuber crops; while the Friday lectures and demonstrations will include general farm topics.

STEPHEN MAN ATTACKED BY AN ENRAGED BULL

George Avery, residing in the vicinity of Stephen, was attacked by a bull, which threw him to the ground, but a farm hand came to his rescue, thrusting the tines of a pitchwork into the flanks of the enraged animal before it could follow up its advantages. Avery quickly rolled beneath a wagon close by and escaped on the other side, with a few minor bruises.

IN the perfected Whippet you will find all those features pioneered in the Whippet and now being adopted by other light car manufacturers—amazing economy, high speed and pick-up, big four-wheel brakes, increased roominess, low center of gravity and more attractive lines.

In the Whippet, too, will be found improvements lacking in some or all other light cars—gasoline tank in the rear, force-feed lubrication, silent timing chain, adjustable steering wheel, dry plate clutch, longer springbase and numerous mechanical refinements that mean longer, more satisfactory service.

This finer Whippet, selling at so much lower a price, reveals new attractiveness in color and body treatment, and provides added features of equipment.

NEW ORIGINAL BOOK FINDS PLACE AMONG LIBRARY NOVELS

Junior Theme Book, Assembled by Miss Leavitt, a Credit to Graduating Class

The Junior English Theme Book, product of the class of 1928, arrived Tuesday from its binder, Olaf Lokke, Northfield, Minnesota.

Bound in leather, and engraved with gilded lettering, the Theme Book and ability to retain possession of the pieces an appearance far superior to either of its former predecessors.

From the exterior the Theme Book looks pretty like a published book, it is compared to libraries selected from those that were written in the 1927 Junior English classes taught by Miss Minnie S. Leavitt and Miss Harriet Kruger, who, taking a personal interest in the book, spent a great deal of her time in aiding the typewriting students in regularly shape, and the students in regularly shape, and the spelled properly—five except for a few typographical errors. Miss Leavitt, the originator of the Theme Book, the typewriting students who typed the copy, and Miss Harriet Kruger, the wonderful, the best yet."

The book is divided into eleven parts, the chapters containing original short 50 sheets of 14, until 6. Dahlen stories and verse, themes about life typed in the second five centuries, travel and holiday themes. The second half was a new feature, pictures and poems of famous writers, with biographies and appreciations of their work.

Miss Leavitt called this, "a book which is the result of all-general harmony and

GENERAL SCHOOL NOTES

Coach John Herms announces that there will be regular basketball practice beginning tomorrow in preparation for tournaments among the grade school teams of the Northrop, Knox, and among the seventh, eighth, grades of the Central and St. Bernard. These interscholastic clashes will begin on Jan 27 and extend over a period of six weeks. A more definite schedule will appear in these columns in a later issue.

The eighth grade history classes have just finished studying the Civil War and are now ready to begin a study of the Reconstruction Period.

May and William Kavanaugh, just returned after a six months' sojourn at Cass Lake, are pupils of the seventh and eighth grades respectively.

Evelyn Gullingsrud, a seventh grade pupil who has been confined to the hospital for some time was remembered by her classmates at Central School with a well-filled Christmas box.

Thief River Victorious In 2 Basketball Games

The Thief River Falls basketball team celebrated last week-end by giving the Argyle and Stephen teams a few lessons in basket shooting and as a result Tuesday high now lead the district percentage column in games won with 1.000 per cent. Argyle went down to defeat Friday by a 32-22 score and Stephen suffered the following afternoon 18-14.

Although handicapped by small floors and low ceilings, the Whippets displayed championship style and in basket the natives of the northern villages both by their basket-shooting

Although Boomer Dahlow was started when Boomer Dahlow was shifted to forward in the second half he proved both speed and ability in practice.

Coach J. W. Ophelm announced the starting team for the practice debate was to give the debaters a tryout and give them experience.

Literary Battle Fought By Team In Scrimmage

For the second time in the last four years Lincoln High's old and bitter rival, Crookston High, will battle on the local auditorium floor Friday, January 20, to give the Valley city fast game.

Judging from all previous records of both this year and last Crookston will be one of the same stubborn fighting units that always characterized their teams. Crookston has already in the season defeated Ada and badly outpointed Warren. The Crookston teams, both on the gridiron and floor, have always been famous for their relentless fighting spirit and ceaseless drive.

Coach Ophelm has four teams in the district tourney to finish. Warren and Ada have already been defeated, two judges' votes, while Thief River Falls and Roseau have remained on safe ledge and are assured of a tie for district championship.

HOME EC. CLUB

The Pershing and Sophomore girls of the Home Economics Club met in their respective classes have organized a club consisting of forty members at present, and they have elected club officers which are as follows: president, Hazel Ness; vice president, Margaret Evenson, secretary-treasurer Esther

Every evening just before quitting time a small red headed girl comes through our offices, leaving his paper in the various desks. He remarkably quick witted, but shutters in build, and has a stutter in making his rounds, one of the stenographers remarked to him.

"Jimmy, do you always stutter?"

"Nun," replied Jimmy, "only w-w-when I-I-I t-t-talk."

Multiple Class Exams Slated for H. S. Assembly

The majority of the six weeks tests, the end of this semester, will be given under a new system. Instead of going to their classrooms the students remained in the assembly for certain designated subjects. This saves the teacher the time of giving the same exam several times and also prevents the transferring of questions from one class to another.

This schedule was carried out in the tests given on Tuesday: periods 1 and 2, Public Speaking; Period III, English 1, English III; period IV, American History; period V, Algebra and Geometry. On Wednesday Chemistry and Biology were jointly given during the third period; Industrial Training 1 and II, Ancient History, and Physics were left for the IV and V periods.

The examination in subjects not listed were those of daylight and were given during regular class periods and under the instructor studied.

Public Speaking, being a half year subject, connected with English IV work, had the following examiners: Harriet Fuller, Marcelle Gunderson, Leslie Hammond, Irene Johnson, Esther Mercer, Myrtle Gladys Wesley, Hazel Will, and Elaine Swanson.

Purpose of Scout Work Made Clear by Leader

H. T. Pelz of St. Paul, head of the district of the Northwestern, favor of the high school was made with an address at the high school Tuesday.

His address, a humorous subject concerning a cat and a mistake, Mr. Pelz pointed out the importance of associating with the right crowd. In connection with this he mentioned the Boy Scouts, Camp Fire Girls, Girl Scouts, and Y. W. groups as "good

That which is the fellow's ambition to be, and the kind boy respects ability in life, the slacker, he also respects the leading of the task. Quoting the Big Blue Hillers' Scout Oath, he gave rules of rules and how best to live. According to Mr. Pelz one more "do less" than any other type of citizen.

"Life is created by the contribution we give to society, by what you contribute to the welfare of your group. That motto was well exemplified and is now enlarged upon in the aim of all-general harmony and

18TH AMENDMENT ANNIVERSARY WAS OBSERVED MONDAY

Paul Lundgren, Local Attorney, Explodes Pessimistic Contention Over Prohibition

Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. temperance organization of this city, Paul Lundgren, local attorney, addressed the school Monday on Prohibition, on the occasion of the eighteenth amendment anniversary.

Remembering my subject will undoubtedly be dry," Mr. Lundgren started, I will give two stories of how liquor can affect the equilibrium of people. Following these he gave a detailed explanation of the workings of the W. C. T. U. He empowered the evil of liquor, and told how the temperance union has gone through.

Mr. Lundgren deplored many of the unfair attacks made against the eighteenth amendment, showing that the passing of this amendment is in the constitution not three-fourths but actually 45 states ratified it. In these states there were ninety-four million people residing and they represented 90 per cent of the United States. In addition these states a total of three million more than the majority of the entire population of the country.

The speaker continued to explode the theories of the opponents of prohibition. Calling up to it the silence shows that the eighteenth has been in effect for five years, he could not see that people could say that it was a failure. Before the school students had worked out the problem, also, was more than the exception. On the contrary, and that to be taken seriously, was a statement.

Mr. Lundgren's talk was impressive, for, in his being the second time he had addressed the assembly.

Crookston Coming Friday To Renew Ancient Fight

J. Julius Ophelm, Ecalish IV lieutenant, knows a bargain when he sees one, by joining the American Rifle Association he has purchased a brand-new .30 caliber Springfield of the 1906 army type for—well, I'm not telling, and why. Since deer are out of season, Mr. Ophelm cannot very well give the fatality report of a promised venison dinner. Of course flying are rabbits, but the writer is reported to have a kick like a contented mule. He is making each to practice for worth while.

Under cross-examination, Mr. Ophelm admits every time that he was not gunning for anyone, but that he bought it for hunting purposes only.

In this old Yuletide season, we would want to use our publicity if we were going to pay out faith to some

993 GAME AND FISH LICENSES ISSUED IN 1927

Nearly Half of These Were Individual Resident Angling License Report Shows

County Auditor T. P. Anderson reports that he has issued to date 993 Game and Fish commission as game and fish license fees from fishermen in this county for the year of 1927 the sum of $575, there having been a total of 1923 licenses of all kinds issued.

This is the first year that the resident angling license law has been in effect, and it is the first year that all licenses sold in each county of the state have issued thru the hands of the county auditor. However, this plan does not furnish the most authentic and accurate information available to state officers of the amount spent in each county for game and fishing licenses to be paid the State Game and Fish department has frequently appointed representatives to county auditorships throughout some of the counties where no such was for the purpose of securing the method in Pennington county, all licenses have been distributed from the county auditor's office.

Mr. Anderson said that in 1927 there were sold in Pennington county 416 individual resident angling licenses at 50 cents each, amounting to $208; 60 resident family angling licenses at one dollar each, amounting to $60; four non resident angling licenses at three dollars each, amounting to $12; 379 resident small game hunting licenses, at one dollar each, amounting to $379; four of non resident (bear) hunting licenses, at $2 each, or $8; and 130 trapping licenses at $1 dollar each, or $130.

The new law of aid to the game commission, whereby the municipal revenue fees can be collected with less difficulty in view of the fact that the angling license is now required by everyone except children.

Those who were granted hunting and trapping licenses must make their reports on amount of game killed to the state game and fish department thirty days after the season closes, says the county auditor.

The licenses that were written last year will expire on January first and will have to be renewed this year no matter at what time of the year they were issued last year. The first licenses were issued here last year for the opening of the fishing season on May 15.

PRESERVATION OF WILD GAME WAS ENDORSED

ment fostered by the Izaak Walton League—full of true preservation. He advocated the giving of information to game wardens where people violate the game laws, even tho that might cause a friend with a non-resident license, Mr. Forster told of his efforts to maintain duck hunting privileges on Thief Lake, where just before the opening of the hunting season a number of real game wardens that over 50,000 ducks were flying. However, Mr. Forster will not again attempt this task, and if the idea is to be carried it will have to be undertaken by some other party.

Phillip Nelson, local game warden, told of a 200 mile trip he and game warden A. J. Finley of Middle River had taken thru the marsh, penetrating the much of the wilderness north of the county—from Beltrami and Lake of the Woods counties, to the southern Lake of the Woods counties. He found that many evidences of moose, deer, wolves and bobcats, finding very few moose, partridges, during the past winter. Many rabbits, mink and rabbits. He was borne out in this statement by Walsh county, North Dakota, the banks, recovered from the effects of the drive will be shown. The losing team will then banded at Germantown, one daughter in the county at one of their meetings in 1910.

FARMERS ARE ASKED TO MAIL BLANKS TO FARM BUREAU NOW

Scarcity of Alfalfa Seed Makes It Necessary That Orders Be Placed Before Long

Farmers of Pennington county, and those who make Thief River Falls their trading point, and it is understood that a number of farmers in the county seat, Robert M. Douglas, are again urged to send in their reports without any undue delay, for there is a considerable shortage of inoculated alfalfa seed available this spring. Mr. Douglas and the committee of farmers and representatives working with him, have been lining up places where such seed can be obtained, and the shipping efforts that have been put forth in this line by Harold Tandberg, Miss Lyda Batten and Harold Hand have been commendable for the actions of the play, which is entitled, Rube Is Accusing.

Other numbers on the program are a talk on nutrition by Miss Sara Stronach, instructor in home economics; special songs by members of the faculty; a group chorus by the members of the faculty; short talk by Supt. Morris Bye; Spanish and French songs by A. G. Mathewson and answers to any questions that may be put to Question Box.

Lunch will be served in concluding the evening, a entertainment and the officers of the association hope there will be a large attendance.

There are nearly fifty members in the Excel telephone company, which operates two lines, with nearly 50 miles of wire

WHEATLENE TRAIN WAS DERAILED SATURDAY

The eastbound Wheatlene passenger train last Saturday morning went out of Fertile when it struck a small drift in a cut, the engine and cars remaining upright and no one was hurt, none of whom was hurt.

A wrecking crew was sent out late Saturday afternoon and had the train back on the track within three hours after the arrival at the scene of the wreck, the disabled train being delivering the night under its own power.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HOLDS TWO REGULAR MEETINGS

Routine matters were considered by the Commercial club at its Thursday noon meeting last week, and the same program has been announced for today. There will be no meeting next week Thursday, the club suspending its regular schedule to participate in the big Creamery dinner to be served at the Monday in the auditorium to patrons of the local creamery, the occasion being the annual meeting of the association.

BOWLING SCHEDULE HALF COMPLETED AT THIS TIME

Only 337 Points Between Highest Score and That of Lowest in 12 Games

Twelve contests have now been played off in the five weeks bowling league schedule and three teams have been able to retain a thousand percent standing, one team has won two of three games and three of them are in the cellar.

Only two teams have rolled better than 2,700 in the three game series, these being the Ramblers and the Red Road House Rats. On three occasions the winners lead by more than 200 pins, and on two occasions the losers failed to chalk up even 2,100 pins. Only 337 points separate the twelve scheduled have been rolled, and interest in the league showing is steadily increasing, more spectators coming out as the season progresses. The Reliable Motor company entered the ranks of contestants this past week, taking the place of the Ramblers. The Clerks, leading their first game, while the Clerks checked only one win in the series.

The schedules as rolled so far, together with the club standings follow:

Mrs. Detlif Dau Dies

Services were held at the Erickson and Lund funeral home, Rev. E. L. Tungseth officiating, for Mrs. Detlif Dau, who passed away at the Physicians hospital last Friday, Jan. 13.

Mrs. Dau was born in Schleving, Germany, Dec. 12, 1858. With her husband and family she came to this country in 1894 and settled near Orwell, Neb., where they lived on a farm three years. They then moved to Pennington county, homesteading near Germantown where they have remained since. On account of poor health Mrs. Dau was taken to the Physicians hospital here the 26th of December. She was 69 years of age.

Left to mourn her mother are her husband, three sons, Henry and Detlif Jr. at home, Frank of Lafayette, N. Dak., and two daughters, Mrs. Ed Erickson and Mrs. Louis Meyer, all of this city.

Funeral services were held at the Erickson and Lund funeral home, Rev. E. L. Tungseth officiating, for Mrs. Detlif Dau, who passed away at the Physicians hospital last Friday, Jan. 13.

Zion Y. P. Dinner

The Young Peoples society of the Zion Lutheran church are reorganizing their Young Peoples society and are sponsoring a drive for members. Former members are signed up also, as well as new members. Two teams are in the field, each team having five members, one team captained by Lillian Hanson and the other by Hazel Hanson. The competition at present is very keen and all who are interested in the work of this society are urged to sign up with the team with at the time of her death.

The losing efforts that have been put forth in this line by Harold Tandberg, Miss Lyda Batten and Harold Hand have been commendable for the actions of the play, which is entitled, Rube Is Accusing.

cent reasons, but is now even more rapid. At vital points in the structure reinforcing plates and brackets have been added. One large steel stamping now forms the entire rear structure of the cars, extending from one rear window around to the other.

For silence as well as strength the doors are built of three layers of stamped steel, with felt and other sound-deadened in as sound-deadening. Special precautions have been taken similarly around the door locks and a silencing pad cemented inside the roof. In the custom-built bodies the construction is of basswood frames. This aluminum construction has made the weight of these bodies no greater, thus improving performance. Rear quarters are covered with fabric. Windshield frames and interior window hedges are nickel-finished with extra distinction and richness to appearance.

Hudson-Essex engineers are no more than in any previous care, the lasting effect having been obtained with a new type of rear spring suspension utilizing, wellcushioned and specially designed shackles. Other changes combine to give an impression of rich distinction. Bodies are mounted on a cowl between the windshield and dash is of distinctive but subtle design. The instrument panel and glove compartment door are grained to match the body. Clocks, locking their first season, while the Clerks checked only one win in the series.

The Girl You Left Behind You
Didn't you promise yourself last year—"only a few short weeks ago—that you were going to turn over a new leaf"? That you really were going to start a savings account, stop frittering money away on unnecessary things and pay cash for everything.
"The Girl You Left Behind You in 1927 was very serious about it and completely convinced that putting the family finances on a pay-as-you-go basis was the only sensible thing to do. She realized that half of the monthly bills were unnecessary and that paying cash made you a keener judge of value and a more intelligent shopper.
Don't forget all about that girl — now that 1928 is two weeks old. Our cash selling means a cash saving, of course, which is handy to start that bank account, but it means more than that. It will help you face the future with confidence and in 1929 the Girl You Leave Behind You will look back over 1928 with satisfaction and peace of mind.

WILL HOLD AUTO AND STYLE SHOW MARCH 22-23-24

Local Legion Post Sponsors Big Exposition To Be Presented Here

MANY ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES ARE PLANNED

Auto Dealers and Merchants To Co-operate For Event. Style Show One Night Only

Thief River Falls' second annual auto and style show will be held at the auditorium March 22, 23 and 24, according to arrangements made by a committee of nine from the local post of the American Legion at a meeting held last night. At the last regular meeting of the post this matter was brought up for consideration and committees were appointed to look into new merchants and auto dealers on the proposition. At the meeting last night it was reported that the proposal had met with general approval, most dealers and merchants being enthusiastic for a repetition of the success of the show, which was a very successful.

According to present plans the show this year will be greater in every respect, more exhibits being secured in every department. Interest in the show will be increased this year too by the fact that a style show, a feature which have been presented in the past few weeks, will be staged the first night only of these new models at the show having already been spoken for. With last year's experience and plenty of time to plan for this coming event, the merchants promise to present a style show that will be worthy of the name. Other features being planned for the Friday evening only. Several novelty entertainment features of an amusing nature will be presented each night, and arrangements will also be made for dancing each evening.

The committee in charge of the various details are as follows: Chairman, Clarence Kern Olson; Finance, F. C. Pederson, Verner Nelson and E. H. Iverson; Auto Display, Manager, Varco and Ray Hicks; Harry Lund, Tommie Hall and William Sampson; Style Show, O. H. Smith, H. M. Olson, H. O. Melby, H. E. Nelson and Chas. Lieberman; Entertainment, Lloyd Carlisle, F. L. Anderson, Jim Childs, Hjalmer Hanson and Ralph Eicher; Dance, Joe Fallow, Dr. C. M. Hauge, Art Aufdencamp and Alvin Hedstrom; Publicity, Ralph Hall, Ralph Hall and Lloyd Carlisle.

SONS, DAUGHTERS OF SWEDEN WILL STAGE CELEBRATION FEB. 22

Annual Mid Winter Festival to Be Appropriately Observed in This City

At the meeting of the Sons and Daughters of Sweden at the home of Mrs. Fred Lorentson last Friday evening, plans were laid for the staging of the annual Mid-Winter festival on Wednesday, February 22.

Chairmen for the different committees were selected and authorized to secure such assistance as would be needed to make this festival a great success and a worthy precedent for succeeding years.

It is expected that all committees will be appointed at the next meeting of the general committee, which will be held at the court house on Friday evening, Feb. 3, at which time definite plans for the festival will be worked out.

Large Attendance Expected

If the interest shown at the picnic here by this organization last year is any criterion this mid-winter festival will attract a record crowd. Plans are also being made for a mid-summer picnic to be staged on June 24.

The purpose of the Sons and Daughters of Sweden is perpetuate the memory of the heroic services of their illustrious forbears in pioneering in this new land and assisting in the development of its resources for our great country. These associations also aim to keep alive and to pass on the legends of old to the new generation. The erection of the John Morton Memorial Park association in 1926 of the three Jonathan and Morton, the first Swedish colonists in America, will emphasize the importance of the accomplishments of the Swedish race in the new world.

Other communities in Northern Minnesota are also active along this line, Roseau recently planning for a John Morton Memorial Picnic about May 1.

It is requested that all who wish to assist in making this festival a big success should report to Mrs. Lorentson, secretary of the local organization, and to any member of the general committee on Feb 3.

One Tubercular Cow Found by City Dairy Inspector

One tubercular infected cow was discovered by City Dairy Inspector Dr. L. B. Teare in making his monthly inspection of the dairy herds which supply milk to the people of Thief River Falls daily, the cow being at once condemned and ordered sent to South St. Paul, the owner being ordered to have the cow killed and submitted to the city council at its meeting a week ago last Monday night. The herds given a tubercular test were found to be free of disease, while two other herds were also tested, one containing 294 cows together the two herds contained 324 cows during the past month.

Four persons now have cars fitted with licenses by the council three being Mrs. Alvera Myr, Mrs. Sol Erickson, Jos Erickson and Hans L. Saude.

COUNTY BOARD GETS TWO ANNUAL REPORTS

The county commissioners will be holding a special meeting today (Thursday) at which time the annual financial statement of the county for the year 1927 was presented by County Auditor T. P. Anderson. The delinquent tax list was submitted to the board for their inspection and approval, while other matters will come before the board for consideration and adjustment which will not take place till some time today, Friday.

BOYS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL DOG RACE

The big dog derby will be held four weeks from next Sunday afternoon, definitely having been selected for the event, and several boys have been training their dogs every day in preparation of the big event which will be under the auspices of the Commercial club. SALVATION ARMY DRIVE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Capt. H. G. Ralfe of the Salvation Army stated today that he had made some progress this week in clearing up the odds and ends of the drive for funds to carry on the work of the army in this vicinity, which was dropped for the period between the holidays so as not to interfere with the success of the special Christmas drive. The drive will be completed the next ten days or two weeks, when the entire work in connection therewith will be completed and the army will reopen it in a short time.

DR. C. E. WETHERBEE

Dr. C. E. Wetherbee, formerly of Fairmount, North Dakota, surrendered his license to practice medicine in this state to the board of medical examiners at a meeting held in St. Paul last week, and has moved to Thief River Falls, where he will engage in the practice of his profession. Dr. Wetherbee is a graduate of the University of Minnesota, and has been practicing in Fairmount for the past 15 years.

Poultry Association Meetings Being Held

Meetings of the creditors of the Thief River Valley Co-operative Poultry association are being held in various communities, at which the condition of the association is explained and plans for the reorganization of the association are discussed. The present plans, under which it is hoped business can be continued, are that the association will accept certificates of indebtedness for the amount of the claims, to be paid out of the money received through the liquidation of the association, a sinking fund to be established by setting aside a small amount of each check paid at a meeting. This plan was discussed at a meeting held here last Saturday afternoon, and at both meetings the creditors seemed favorable to this form of settlement. Similar meetings will be held at Holt this afternoon, at Crookston and Strathcona Friday, at Oklee Saturday and at Goodridge next Monday.

OVER 17 MILLION JARS USED YEARLY

Bingo Chain Parties

The first of a series of chain parties for the benefit of the American Legion auxiliary took place at the H. Kjos home Friday evening, with Mrs. Kjos as hostess. Eleven ladies were present, the first eight of whom will each be hostess to eight guests within the next weeks or two. Those present were Mrs. Harold Provencher, Mrs. Henry Froseth, Mrs. Fred Faust, Mrs. Kern Olson, Mrs. A. L. Aarhaug, Mrs. W. H. Halbert, Mrs. Jones Sloan, Miss Alvina Jones, Mrs. A. M. Olander, Mrs. A. J. Osmyra, and Mrs. A. H. Dorn. Bridge was played during the evening, Mrs. Froseth and Mrs. Aarhaug winning the prizes.

Mrs. Kern Olson and Mrs. A. L. Aarhaug were hostesses at the home of the latter Monday evening to sixteen guests, the hours pleasantly devoted to cards, after which a two course luncheon was enjoyed. Those present were Mesdames H. O. Malby, W. L. Carlisle, W. F. Dahlquist, E. J. Lund, A. E. Jacobson, C. M. Hazor, M. P. Erickson, H. A. Stumnad, Provencher, Henry Froseth, C. C. Granum, W. H. BonDurant, Sam Hough, Verner Nelson, Allen Erickson, and Miss Belle Hermanson.

Seventeen ladies were invited to the home of Mrs. James S. Sloan Monday night, with Mrs. Sloan and Mrs. W. H. Halbert as hostesses. Whist was played at four tables, Mrs. A. H. Dorn winning high honors and Mrs. Clara Frederick scoring low. Those invited to be present include Mesdames Oscar Paulson, A. S. Stenberg, A. M. Campbell, Martin Carlson, F. B. Patten, E. Stegmeier, M. Bebek, A. W. Swedenburg, Roy Erickson, H. Provencher, A. D. Dorn, Clara Frederick, Carl Hovi, Leonard Hanson, Carl Malby, A. Finstad and Miss Alvina Jones.

LITTLE BUSINESS BEFORE COUNCIL TUESDAY NIGHT

Petition of C. M. Rivenes for Reduction on Delinquent Tax In Up to County

A dance permit was granted Tuesday night by the city council, all aldermen being present, to the Woodmen of the World for a dance on Feb. 1 in the Legion hall, and the regular grist of bills was allowed. This was all the actual business transacted by the council, altho there was considerable informal discussion of various matters.

The resignation of Ed. Hill as assessor was read and action thereon deferred till the next meeting, which is set for Feb. 14.

Seeks Tax Reduction

A petition from C. M. Svenson for a reduction in the interest charges on the special paving assessment on the property occupied by the J. C. Penney company for the years 1923 to 1926 inclusive was read and referred to the finance committee of the council, who are requested to confer with the county commissioners in the matter and report back at the next meeting. Mr. Svenson asks that the 12 per cent interest rate on delinquencies be cut to 6 per cent, as well as he may have to pay the current taxes as they accrue, and also the arrearages, applying out of the rental the same as referred to old taxes and 4% a month on the current taxes.

Bond Issue Possible

The question of issuing bonds to cover the cost of the pavement laid last summer on Main avenue south and Riverside avenue was referred to the city attorney and the finance committee to be reported on at the next meeting.

The institution was read from the City of Crookston inviting the aldermen to participate in the special tax hearing in Crookston on Feb. 9 during the Winter Shows, but no action was taken. Notice of the annual meeting of the Northwestern Electric Power and Heating company was read from the Silverton building, Minneapolis, Minn., and Alderman Ramaeke will meet after the services. The Ladies aid will be entertained Friday afternoon, Feb. 3, by Mrs. Halver Waale at the Waale home.

Old Time Blizzard Overtakes Salesmen After Leaving Town

Thief River Falls, in common with other places thruout Minnesota and North Dakota, experienced a regular old fashioned blizzard last Thursday. Local traveling men encountered the storm shortly after leaving the city, some of them turning around and coming home before the storm became too severe. Quite a few of them had to be towed in, the wreckers of the various garages being kept busy late in the night bringing in stranded cars.

In the city the wind loosened the signs of the Motor Inn cafe and The Tribune on Main avenue, necessitating their removal. Several street intersection lights were blown from their places, while a few electric light cutouts suddenly found themselves without light or power when the wires were blown down. Trees were also uprooted by branches of bending trees tops. Radio wires were also put out of commission in some instances by the strong northwest wind.

FUNERAL RITES FOR FORMER LOCAL GIRL HELD MONDAY

Funeral services were held Tuesday of last week, Jan. 16, from the "Church of the Nazarine" at Minneapolis, at N. E. 5th street, Minneapolis, for Miss Ruth Thorson of that city, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Thorson, former residents of Thief River Falls.

Ruth was eighteen years of age at the time of her death. She was born at Hill, April 15, 1909, but lived in Crookfield and Thief River Falls, and confirmed in the Zion Lutheran church of the city by Rev. George Larson, former pastor. She grew up in the city, also attended the local schools, and was employed at the Thief River Falls Specialty shop. She moved with her parents to Minneapolis two years ago, where she has since made her home, employed with the I. W. Woodworth company.

Illness overtook Ruth last spring, since which time she has been gradually failing in health. Besides her parents, she is survived by a sister, Evelyn, and one brother, Lincoln. Four of Ruth's friends were pallbearers at the funeral, including Leo Zarn, Delores McGuire, Marcus MacLennan, and Merton Rustad. Rev. A. O. Aasen of Minneapolis officiated at the services, and interment was made at Hillside cemetery, Minneapolis.

New World Record Made by New Jersey Boy Scout Is Target for Local Boys

Members of the Methodist-Presbyterian troop of boy scouts of this city will have to do some tall hustling if they come anywhere near equalling the matchless fire record held up last week by Eagle Scout William Lussof of West Orange, N. J., who performed the feat of starting a fire by rubbing two dry sticks in less than two fifths seconds. This is a new world record, and as a press report has it, about one half the time required to ignite some of the expensive cigaret lighters.

The previous official record for familiar fire making was 13 seconds, Scoutmaster Dr. H. W. Froehlich stated today, and he is in hopes that some member of his local troop will be able to duplicate the former record when they stage their big Jamboree week here the week of Feb. 5-12. Making fire by the above process is one of the six special events planned for that week, the other five events being making fire with a flint and steel, first aid contest, bulging, individual hand tieing, and signaling by play having been staged under the auspices of Tesaum & Co.

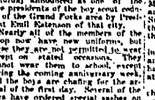
ROSEAU AND THIEF RIVER PASTORS EXCHANGE PULPITS

Rev. Wallace Johnson of the Methodist churches at Roseau, Badger and Greenbush exchanged pulpits last Sunday with Rev. H. C. Schoberg of the Methodist-Presbyterian church of this city.

Rev. Johnson is a young man, having until recently been at Willmar, and is just entering the ministry, having received his first appointment at the conference in Duluth last fall.



Rev. Schoberg in making the exchange was afforded an opportunity of telling the churches on the Roseau circuit something of his missionary experiences in India.

ACTION WAS DEFERRED ON MARSHALL COUNTY DITCH

The county commissioners of Marshall county have postponed action till Feb. 8 on the proposed ditch now running from the vicinity of Hallerwisely to a point near Newfolden, and the other from New Maine township in a westerly direction to Middle River.

The hearing on the two ditches was attended by a large number of farmers from both vicinities, as well as taxpayers from the vicinity of Argyle, considerable opposition to the ditches being brought to light at the hearing.

HUGHES AND NICARAGUA

Charles E. Hughes said a few things at a dinner party in Cuba the other night in regard to the foreign policy of this country, and inasmuch as Mr. Hughes was the spokesman for the United States on this occasion, the things he said are not only interesting, but quite important. He stated that the United States respects the territorial integrity of the smaller American Republics—that we have no policy of aggression and that we do not wish for more territory. When this county has been forced for one reason or another to intervene in the affairs of these countries, he insisted that it had always been with the desire merely to restore and aid in the process of setting up a stable government. He stated that the past policy of this country in dealing with smaller nations indicated what our future policy should be, and he expressed the opinion that our past record justifies the confidence of other nations in the good faith of our present operations in Nicaragua.

In discussing this past record and our present purposes, Mr. Hughes said in part:

We cherish the thought that Cuba in her stability, and independence, is the vindication of the idealism of the people of the United States. It is that idealism, which, at the very beginning, during the struggles of over 100 years, nurtured our policy in this hemisphere. It is that idealism which has ever been the guardian of our liberty at home.

You will find as keen in trade, zealous for the advantages of commercial intercourse, but no one knows as well who fails to recognize, despite all our shortcomings, the dominance among us of the ideals of independence and self-government. These brought us to the aid of Cuba in 1898 and again summoned us with imperative command to take our part in the titanic contest of the World war. You cannot adequately explain the United States in statistics of population, in commerce, or of wealth. There is a power above all these which gives final direction to our public opinion and establishes the standards of our statesmanship, according to which we take measure of executive and legislative.

If you would find what we worship in our inmost thoughts, do not rest content with going to our marts, but visit our shrines. We like to be thought shrewd, but we erect no monuments to mere shrewdness. We reserve our highest veneration for the greatest exemplars of liberty and independence—Washington, Jefferson and Lincoln. They are still, and I trust ever will be, the true spokesmen of the American spirit.

If a person insists on weeping there are plenty of things to cry about. Fortunately, however, for those who enjoy sunshine, there is generally a ray of light near enough to get glad about. We have been able to forget many of our troubles this week by checking over the annual statements of some of the co-operative creameries of this community. The local creamery, for instance, increased its business this last year by about $40,000 and enjoyed one of the most profitable years in its history. Creameries in neighboring towns have all made good progress too and the encouraging thing about it is that there's almost as many creameries in this county as there are gasoline stations. Butter makes the future of this county look golden.

Congressman Selvig has had his first argument on the floor of the lower house. Mr. Selvig is urging an upward revision of the tariffs on farm products. In several cases the present tariff has considerable effect on market prices, for instance butterfat and flax. There are several other items on which there is under production in this country also. A higher tariff on such commodities would raise prices to our benefit.

A large number of local people made the discovery last Friday night that the Lincoln High School has a real basket-ball team, for the team demonstrated on that occasion that they possess not only knowledge of the game and skill in playing, but plenty of that fighting spirit which never admits defeat. Local fans will have an opportunity to see another Thief River quint in action tonight when the local independents meet the Crookston independents at the Auditorium. A good game is always assured when these towns play.

The county agent has issued the first number of what he hopes to establish as a regular monthly bulletin. It is a creditable issue and should be continued.

THE STATE'S RESPONSIBILITY

In discussing the tax delinquency problem of several of the Northern Minnesota counties, the St. Cloud Journal Press expresses the opinion that the state of Minnesota as a whole is responsible for this condition to a large extent, and believes that the state as a whole should assist these counties in getting back to a solid footing financially. The Journal Press states:

Some years ago the state legislature passed a most pernicious law, that drainage of land on a single petition of a land owner. In the light of subsequent events it possibly would be fair from error to say that this bill was put over by the ditch contractors.

There was much drainage in certain of the northern counties, swamps and low lying land. When the bonds became due the owners of land in the ditch districts naturally refused to pay because the assessment exceeded the value of the lands.

Three million acres have thus been placed on the default list, and there are some two millions more that may follow.

Three counties in the state are thus facing possible bankruptcy—because if they default in payment of their bonds, judgments will be taken against them and all the property of the county will have to stand the gaff—which in some of the counties means confiscation.

Very naturally and logically the legislature will be appealed to for relief. The outstanding bonds amount to millions of dollars, which would not be so serious a matter for the state, but disastrous to these few counties.

The condition, if we understand the proposition, was forced on these counties with no opportunity for adequate protest, by the state law. If that is the case, the state surely has a very serious and moral responsibility.

One suggestion is that the state shall assume the payment of the bonds, taking over these three or five million acres, and make the best use possible of them.

If they were planted with spruce or other valuable trees, they would in time pay back to the state all they cost. The afflicted counties are not in a position to do this.

If these millions of acres produce timber, they would be a good investment for all the people. Even the freight we are paying on lumber from the Pacific coast would more than pay the interest on the investment, and under intelligent reforestation these now wasted areas would become valuable. It is just a waiting investment.

Another thing—the default in bond payment of any county in the state will seriously affect not only the credit of all counties, but of the state itself in some measure.

Foreign investors in bonds would hesitate to invest in a state where the bonds could only be collected after expensive litigation. Because of the state law, which it is alleged, left the counties helpless, some of these northern counties are facing a most desperate situation.

It is but a way become a state matter. It calls for serious consideration of the state legislature.

The Indian reservations are open to the discussion of this problem. The people need information, and how millions are pulled by a well considered and pronounced public sentiment, as they should be.

We recently read some figures on the sizes and formations of the heads of great men. Some of these heads were large; others were small. Some were square; some were round and some were pear shaped. Which suggests that size or shape doesn't make a great deal of difference. The main thing seems to be to give what's on the inside a chance to operate.

SOUTHERN FLAGS GO BACK

New York Times

The decision of the governor of New Jersey to return to North Carolina flags of that state captured by New Jersey regiments during the Civil war will be approved in the north as well as in the south.

Ever since the World war brought the sons of northern and southern veterans into close contact the last remaining vestiges of regional feeling have disappeared. The north has taken to heart as a great American, The south has recognized the splendor of Lincoln.

As we mark of the spirit many Confederate flags taken by northern troops and Union flags taken by the southerners have been returned. In following this custom New Jersey is contributing her share to the obliteration of unpleasant memories.

KIPLING'S POEM, "IF"

If you can keep your head when all about you
Are losing theirs and blaming it on you;
If you can trust yourself when all men doubt you,
And make allowance for their doubting, too;
If you can wait and not be tired of waiting,
Or being lied about, don't deal in lies;
Or being hated, don't give way to hating,
And yet don't look too good, nor talk too wise;
If you can dream and not make dreams your master,
If you can think and not make thoughts your aim,
If you can meet with triumph and disaster,
And treat those imposters just the same;
If you can bear the truth you've spoken
Twisted by knaves to make a trap for fools
Or watch the things you gave your life to, broken,
And stoop to build them up with worn out tools;
If you can make one heap of all your winnings,
And risk it on one turn of pitch and toss
And lose, and start at your beginning,
And never breathe a word about your loss;
If you can force your heart and nerve, and sinew,
To serve long after they are gone,
And so hold on when there is nothing in you
Except the will which says to them: Hold on.
If you can talk with crowds and keep your virtue,
Or walk with kings and lose the common touch
If neither foe nor loving friends can harm you,
If all men count with you but none too much,
If you can fill the unforgiving minute
With sixty seconds worth of distance run
Yours is the earth and all that's in it,
And what's more, you'll be a man, my son.

Letter from Washington

By C. G. Selvig

The declaration of the American Legion at its annual convention for permanent peace and national security without militarism and without undue expenditure of public funds" is probably of such great importance as to more than most people realize.

For we are standing at the cross roads. Within the next few years we will either gradually become a great military power, enforcing our will on the world by our superior resources and manpower, hated and feared by the small nations, or we will definitely and for all time commit ourselves to following the advice of George Washington.

Soldiers Fallow Investments

Nine billion dollars of American capital has been invested in foreign countries—not counting in the war debts—and this amount is increasing rapidly. Wherever American capital goes a few American citizens go with it—usually to manage the enterprise the money is invested in. Then when trouble comes we are called on to protect American lives and property with our army and navy. And at present our soldiers are chasing "bandits" in Nicaragua, apparently one of the supreme aims of American-owned mines are concerned with. I do not claim to know the exact merits of this case but prefer it merely as a sample of what we must expect in the future if we are to protect American capital wherever it may chose to go in the world over.

Those billions of dollars in foreign investments are practically lost to the United States. There is no way of bringing them back to this country, or of bringing any considerable portion of the profits back here. We already have half of the gold of the world and have no use for more. It would be in the form of industrial or agricultural products to be sold in our markets they would prove a disaster to our own industry and agriculture. They cannot be loaned to this country. There is no valid reason why we should build up an army and navy to protect them.

75% of Money Goes for War

In the 121 years from 1789 to 1920 the United States government spent sixty-six billion dollars, of which fifty-three billion dollars were spent for war and the military establishment and thirteen billion dollars were spent for all other activities of the national government—75 percent for war and 25 per cent for peace. The proportion is probably about the same at this time.

In the past the military policy of America has been of the defensive variety. In a world bristling with armament we have kept an army and a moderate navy. We have been armed for defense, and not for aggression. Should we pursue our present policy of encouraging our citizens to lend to the rest of the world poisoning the supreme would be tremendous.

Should we face the facts the American Legion had in mind when it declared for "permanent peace and national security without undue expenditure of public funds". It is fortunate for the nation that the soldiers who fought in the great war, though most of them are yet young, have the ability to see the dangers that lie in the immediate future in the world and the courage to express themselves clearly and forcibly in opposition to the international fiasco of the pacific back here. We should heed their warning.

World's Greatest Curse

Militarism is the world's greatest curse and heaviest burden. We shall probably not be able to abolish it—but would be highly desirable and a commendable object to work for—but we can and must keep it from growing on us. The measure of our military establishment should be its ability to defend the country against aggression and no more.

Senator Borah has a resolution to "outlaw war" and there are several other similar proposals, all of which may not amount to much except as an expression of sentiment, for war does not recognize law and never did. In the words of Mr. Burton, of Ohio, "to prohibit the sale of arms and ammunition to nations engaged in war would be forbidding the means whereby to carry on war.

LACK OF SNOW AID IN FILLING ICE HOUSE

The Booth Fisheries have several large ice houses on Lake of the Woods and it only required the cover of snow they had 17 days to fill the houses with ice. Storage is estimated to 25 cents per year. The men stated that the small amount of snow on top of the ice there was the best assistance they ever had. The company has been buying practically all of the fish from the Red Lakes this past season but maintains no ice houses on those lakes, the state doing the icing of the shipments that have been made.

Editor Times
Dear Sir:

Here are a few facts concerning the marketing of cream. If we have good cream the best market for it is at the co-operative creamery.

Co-operatives can fail in three ways, namely through bad management, lack of capital or lack of patronage. Just because a concern is called co-operative is no reason why it should not be recognized as a business. Businesses are successful only when they run on sound, efficient rules, and I call your attention, cream producers, to the fact that our creamery is recognized as a successful business.

Talk is cheap, therefore there are many ideas, both real and imaginary, concerning our co-operative creamery. So let us get the facts and be fair about our co-operatives. Find out if it is a fact or not.

Being a member of the Land O' Lakes has helped us farmers in the following ways. Butter is protected in cartoned lots. This is a saving over the old way of small lot freight rates. The saving is no small figure. Second the old system our butter was shipped to two markets, namely Chicago and New York. Under the present system our butter is shipped to eight markets. Land O' Lakes has a supply department that has paid a cash dividend that is the figure to all members. Did we get any dividends under the private system of supply? No.

Another question is whether or not the field man's service is any thing. According to the facts fieldmen are used by other prosperous successful business, only the fieldmen's name is often called service man, because he gives service where it is needed. Fieldmen have helped us in two ways. First, since 1925 the overrun in butter has been cut from 7.5% down to 2%, 5½% is the legal limit. Overweight is meant when butter is packed in tubs. Each tub is marked 32 lbs. the tub is marked 24½ lbs. We get paid for 24½ lbs. therefore we farmers would lose 7½%. Second I am not saying this happened in our creamery but it did in some. Therefore fieldmen have saved us farmers many pounds of butter. They have also demonstrated the grading of cream. They are paid by the Land O' Lakes Co. therefore they carry out their orders. As a result of this better grades have been produced because we have been rewarded with a good price for a good product. The state average in 1926 was 37.46c. The North Dakota average was 38.7c. So the most important advantage of Land O' Lakes creameries is that they have forced the independents and centralizers to pay the highest possible prices for butter.

It is human nature to make mistakes. There is no person or animal who has no faults or makes no mistakes.

Our creamery meeting is going to be held soon and I know that the directors can show a real report for 1927. There is a great contest on in the United States, which includes Minnesota, between two systems of marketing. One is the co-operative system that seeks to join different units into large groups, in order to lessen expense and give the producer more of the consumers dollars. The other is the old system in which the purchaser has little or nothing to say about how his commodity should be sold. There is no escaping the law of cause and effect. We reap as we sow. Loyalty faith is an investment that pays service and reap its fruits.

Yours truly
Henry Oen

R.-W. CHAIRMANSHIP IS OFFERED MRS. BISHOP

Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city, president of the Women's Legion Auxiliary, has been offered the chairmanship of the northwest division—membership by the national president of the organization, according to information received by The Times this week. As yet she has not reached a decision in the matter.

Reports on membership throughout the United States showed that Minnesota was second in the percentage of membership gain among all states of the union last year, being outdistanced only by Mississippi, which has but a small membership, thus permitting that state to easily outdistance all other members.

One of Finest Caribou Heads Seen Here Came in About 25 Years Ago

Milton Pryder recalled today that the last caribou head he had seen, brought into Thief River Falls was about 25 years ago, at which time one of the finest specimens ever seen in this section was brought in by a hunter.

Recognizing the head to be an excellent one, Mr. Morgan bought it quickly, sending it to Washington to a friend there, who was in the government service. The new owner had been a taxidermist here for a time and Mr. Morgan was working in the capacity of a cruiser.

Mr. Morgan paid $25 for the caribou head, which could as readily have been sold for $100 at the time, according to Mr. Pryder, but the former only made the trip by car, being one of the first cars after the blizzard.

CONVENTION CALL ISSUED ON SATURDAY

Pennington County Entitled to Five Delegates at District Convention in March

Republican campaign activity for the 1928 election was formally opened as a meeting of the state central committee held Jan. 14 at the St. Francis hotel, St. Paul, its attorney since years 44 men and an average nearly every county in the state being represented, including Pennington, was announced by Bernard Knutson of Thief River Falls. J. F. Mattson of Warren was the Marshall county committee member present.

Call for Conventions

The official call for the conventions names the following dates:

Precinct caucuses, to select delegates to county conventions, March 14.

County conventions, to elect delegates to state and district conventions and select county committees, March 17.

District conventions in the fourth and fifth districts to select two delegates each for the national convention, to meet in St. Paul and Minneapolis, immediately following the county conventions March 17.

Eight other district conventions to meet at designated cities March 23, to select their delegates to the Kansas City meeting.

State convention, to elect seven alternates, and nominate 12 presidential electors, to meet March 24 at 10 a. m. in the St. Paul auditorium.

Delegate Appointment

The coming state convention will have 1,000 delegates. The call gives each county three delegates at large, and one for each 200 votes or major fraction cast for Governor Theodore Christianson in 1926. On this apportionment Pennington county will have five delegates, the ninth district having a total of 36 delegates, the others being distributed as follows: Becker, 2; Clay, 2; Clearwater, 1; Mahnomen, 1; Marshall, 2; Norman, 2; Otter Tail, 17; Polk, 7; Red Lake, 2; Roseau, 2; and Wilkin, 2.

The ninth district convention will be held at Detroit Lakes, it was announced.

Governor Seeks Re-Election

The state committee was entertained at a luncheon by W. F. Brooks, Minneapolis, national committeeman, Mrs. Hanley Fosseen, Minneapolis, national committeewoman, and Mr. Brooks reported on the recent national committee meeting in Washington.

The St. Paul meeting was addressed briefly by Governor Christianson, who was expected to give some indication of his plans for the coming election, but no clue was given. However, since the meeting the governor has thrown his hat in the ring for reelection, his filing for a third term of the governorship having been made Monday by his secretary, Ludwig I. Hoe. The committee members were warned against overconfidence in the coming campaign.

Mike Holm, secretary of state, and W. I. Nolan, lieutenant governor, also spoke.

Other Filings

J. A. A. Burnquist, former governor, Saturday filed for United States senator, while Arthur E. Nelson, former St. Paul Mayor for two terms, on Jan. 19 also entered the race for the office now held by Henrik Shipstead. Burnquist's petitions, it was also, will undoubtedly file shortly.

Money Fines Paid After Polk County Grand Jury Condemned Slot Machines

Close to $2,000.00 in fines were paid in the district court at Crookston this county, following the return of 30 indictments by the Polk county grand jury recently, this action being the result of raids conducted by the various authorities in this county in their endeavor to stop the use of slot machines and violations of the prohibition laws. The fines were paid by about one third of the total indicted on the former charge, while several of those charged with the latter have pleaded not guilty.

The grand jury in making its report three rides East Grand Forks and Crookston, made a report as follows: "We find that the practice of keeping slot machines in the various cities is common in all parts of the county, and we have returned indictments against those consenting whom we have been able to discover. They are an evil, particularly when in confectionary stores and places where children have access to them and thus develop a passion for gambling. The local authorities including fire and police are able to do away with this evil, and we trust they will see to it that an end is put to the practice of allowing punch boards and other gambling contrivances.

And further recommend that prosecutor be brought by Village and City officers to enforce liquor and gambling laws.

We further recommend that diligent care be exercised in granting liquor and dance licenses, and having same properly policed.

GREENBUSH MAN NEAR DEATH WHEN GUN BARREL EXPLODES

S. A. Matson of Greenbush had a narrow escape recently while hunting wolves. He was riding a horse, which stumbled and threw him, causing the gun barrel became filled with snow in the fall and when Mr. Matson pulled the trigger, the barrel burst, a piece of the metal striking his face, causing the most of much blood. Tom Hendrickson of Greenbush happened on the scene at this time and assisted the wounded man to his home.

Disturbed Sleep

Relieved for Wisconsin Lady. Wrote to the Cause

Mrs. Allen Lee Hamilton, Wisconsin, says in her own words, "Sometimes I was so nervous I could not sleep, so I wrote anyone who was troubled with nervousness to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I had to get up nights so much and was so nervous that I was all run down. The Vegetable Compound has relieved me of nervousness, I sleep better, and I am stronger and healthier than I have been for years. I have not taken medicine for two years, but I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house."—Advertisement.

CONFERENCE CALLED

ON REPRESENTATION

Invitations were sent out by the local Izaak Walton league chapter and to Mrs. Laura A. Naplin, state senator, to participate in the conference called to meet in the state capitol on Jan. 23, according to Mr. Nolan, lieutenant governor, and chairman of the legislature's interim committee on reforestation.

In his invitation Mr. Nolan stressed the fact that reforestation is the biggest problem today confronting the state.

QUALITY AT LOW COST

On a Basis of Mutual Benefits

Russell Connell, in his biography of John Wanamaker, explains that great American's business success in one paragraph.

"Because he thought of the people first, of their needs, of how he could serve them most helpfully, reckon ably, honestly, and of profit last, they thought of him first when shopping was to be done, and the business grew."

The growth of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has been a closely parallel case. This Company has put service first and profits last. The needs of the people of the Middle West have been its chief concern. It has thought constantly of how it could serve them most helpfully, honestly and economically.

They in turn have thought first of this Company when in need of petroleum products. More and more they have come to depend upon it. Thus it has grown—and is growing.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has proved, as Mr. Wanamaker proved, that successful business is built on a basis of mutual benefits—benefits to the owners of the business—and benefit to the public.

Mr. Wanamaker made money. The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) makes money. But in both cases money making represents the smallest part of the achievement.

Service—rendering to all people and all places in the Middle West—the same service for all, whoever they are, wherever they live—service that never fails from day to day and from week to week and from year to year—service that is expanded to meet expanded needs, improved with improved knowledge, such service is the aim and the achievement of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Whether you live in the heart of Chicago or spend your days on a far-away farm, if you are in the Middle West, all the resources of this Company are at your service.

Scientists are at work in its laboratories for you. Engineers and mechanical experts are investigating and testing. Men are drilling wells and driving tank wagons and working in offices. Directors are managing and planning.

Twenty-nine thousand men and women are working at their various tasks, employing the capital of 65,000 stockholders, with one purpose—to make the best products from petroleum it is possible to make and bring them to you where you need them—at a price which is fair and equitable.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) stands first in the hearts of the people of the Middle West because this Company has strived by its far-reaching, unfailing service that their needs are its first concern.

GETTING OUT A PAPER

Getting out a paper is no picnic.
If we print jokes, folks say we are silly.
If we don't, they say we are too serious.
If we publish original matter, they say we lack variety.
If we publish things from other papers, we are too lazy to write.
If we are rustling news, we are not attending to business in our own department.
If we don't print contributions, we show proper appreciation.
If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.
Like as not some fellow will say we purloined this from another paper.
We did—and we thank him.

Instructor of Literature Lauds Value of Course

Literature, the natural English IV course, was resumed Monday of the second quarter by present Seniors and those who were previously taking Public Speaking. The standard book for this course, "Twelve Centuries of American Poetry and Prose", was discarded in favor of a new and complete volume.

"Students and grown people often think of literature as uninspiring and shrink from studying it," states J. W. Ophelm, instructor, adding, "this fear is really the result of ignorance. Knowledge leads almost invariably to an appreciation of such a course."

SHOT NOTES

The second year students in Industrial training are finishing a series of mechanical drawings showing the wiring of motors. In a short time they will be working on a group of architectural plans.

The first year students are learning the essentials of plan reading and making.

An average list of the products of the wood working section of the shop includes: sewing cabinets, desks, magazine racks, end tables, pedestals, foot stools, book shelves, ironing boards, snow shovels, telephone tables, tea stands, loop seats, radio cabinets, fernaries, writing desks, plate benches, medicine chests, step ladders, tabourets and plant stands. Lathe projects include: bowls, spoons, potato mashers, stocking darners, fancy chair rungs, table lamps, candle sticks, chisel handles, rolling pins, Indian clubs, mush bells and ten pins.

The shop bulletin board lists safety notices, photographs, charts and drawings related to wood working, electricity, or automobile engines. Instruction as to caring for tools is also posted.

Interclass Tournaments To Feature February Sports

Plans are now being laid for the inter class tournament, which will begin in the middle of February, to determine the champions of the school.

The system to be followed will be entirely different from that of last year when all the games were played in one week. It is planned, this year to have boys' games and girls' games every week together with one grades school game. Beginning in the middle of February the games will run until nearly the end of March, at which time the fortunate with the highest percentage will be declared champions. The various class teams are practicing regularly to get in shape for the coming tournament.

It will be remembered that last year's tournament, which the Juniors won, was wonderfully exciting at times resting at a triple tie. Al-

ENGRAVERS ARE TO RECEIVE FIRST OF PROWLER PANELS

Photographs, the Annual's Backbone, Reach Office in Large Numbers

Saturday afternoon four of the Prowler editors met with Principal Hand to form the Senior panels, which are to be sent to the engravers this week as soon as a few tardy pictures are received and posted.

The plan for the art work on title pages, entirely different from that of previous years, was decided upon, while considerable attention was focused on printing bids for six pages of two-color-with-a-process prelude feature of the '28 Prowler.

The business manager, who has been considering the many financial plans for the Prowler, reported that a net profit of $12.75 was realized from the Eskimo-pie sales, conducted by the senior girls the Friday basketball game. Other financial plans and drives will be announced soon.

Some Features

The Senior sayings, personal remarks concerning the characteristics of every Indian senior, have been written by the literary editors with the assistance of members of the various departments, whose witty remarks will add much to the humor and originality of the Prowler. The senior accomplishments were also collected and organized.

Accounts of the basketball games are being written by the athletic editors, in charge of the feature. The fall squad and games have already been sent to the publishers. Since the athletic season has been so productive in the past as brilliant as it is the present time, without doubt the student body will look forward to reading his section with anticipation.

Pictures Being Taken

Professional photographers are [illegible] January 25-27 the various classes and organizations had their Prowler pictures taken. The schedule was as follows: Monday, N. I. F. A. delegates; Tuesday and Wednesday, the Juniors; Thursday and Friday, Sophomores; Monday, Progress staff; Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, the large Freshmen class; Friday, Sophomores; Monday, athletics and other organizations will be photographed in the near future.

The Kodak editors reported taking many good, clear snaps of the different activities of the school last year. Something altogether different in snapshot entertainment and featuring is promised.

Local Basketball Team Is Only One in District With Perfect Score at This Time

The local basketball team of the Lincoln high is the only one in this district that has a perfect score at this time, having played three games and winning all of them. Stephen has played one more game than Thief River but lost, having a 750 percent average. The standing of the district teams at present is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Thief River	3	0	1000
Stephen	3	1	750
Argyle	2	2	500
Warren	2	2	500
Roseau	1	3	250

St. Lawrence, All-American Question In Debate Friday

Debaters of Lincoln High School will meet Warren there tomorrow, January 27, while on Friday, the Hallock will meet Roseau in the second series of debates within the district.

The negative team, speaking for the St. Lawrence canal, is piloted by Lenore Lieberman, Harriet Fuller and Gerald Will. The speakers who will represent Warren in forensics are Doris Swenson, Lois Edgar, and Ralph Hegnes. The affirmative side of the question: Resolved that the United States should construct an All-American Great Lakes Waterway rather than cooperate with Canada in the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence project."

The contest on Friday will be the first one between Thief River Falls and Warren since two years ago, when Warren was given a two to one victory over the Thief River Falls team.

Both the local teams will leave tomorrow by car accompanied by Coach J. W. Ophelm.

NORTHROP NOTES

There are ten new pupils in the first grade at the present time.

In a fifty word spelling test the following pupils range in grades from 90 to 100: Rose Reed, Phyllis Johnson, Violet Andersen, Donald Thorpe, Celeste Crown, Douglas Heaton, Lorraine Anderson and Shirley Margaret Larson, Donald Dybvick, Lois Clausen, and Helen Berg.

In the art of letter writing the following deserve mention for good work in arithmetic: Betty Jane Marquard, Larson, Violet Andersen, and Phillip Prichard.

Having completed test number [illegible] Miss Bachman leads the sixth grade in Thirteen bakers.

In the fourth grade Dorothy Traver and Lloyd Bradley are in the lead with Studebaker test No. 16; in the Third A. Adrian Lorentson stands first with test No. 7.

The sixth graders are making [illegible] in the Crookston 18-18 at the end of the third quarter.

Fourth Quarter

Gordon Bablow re-entered the game for Dostal at the opening of the fourth quarter. After some hot exchanges of Crookston tossed in a free throw and two field goals, giving the visitors a 24-18 lead. Bablow soon followed suit when Cochrane again found the basket with a neat shot.

Both teams increased their pace, but Crookston was powerless to stop the Whippets when Ericson let loose with two brilliant field shots and Richard Dahlgren tossed in another.

At the half Crookston held the lead with the score 11-17.

The same Whippets that ended the first half started the second half, finally outclassed the rally scoring from the center of the floor. Defense of Crookston loosed in a free throw and two field goals, giving Thief River a shot from the foul line. Bablow got in a field goal and Dahlgren added 2 to make the score 28

COMMITTEE OF 9 MEN IS NAMED BY DEPOSITORS

State Banking Department To Have Co-Operation in Liquidation of Citizens State Bank

STATEMENT OF AFFAIRS GIVEN TO DEPOSITORS

Earnings Are Shown for Bank Building After Department Takes It Over

A meeting of depositors of the closed Citizens State bank of Thief River Falls was held last Tuesday evening, which time a permanent depositors committee was chosen to assist the state banking department in the liquidation of the banks affairs, and also offer suggestions to the bank receiver, John Hratrud, as occasion may warrant. This committee as named is as follows: Nate Harris, Rasmus Oen, A. E. Olson, L. I. Hermanson, L. H. Fossum, W. H. Mather, Hogan Hanson, Albert Engen and P. M. Schiek.

A statement of the condition of the bank as of Jan. 18 was submitted to the depositors at the meeting by the receiver in charge, and disclosed that the bank building, taken over by the state banking department, had produced a revenue during the past year amounting to $7,307.76, the total income during 1927 having been $9,657.50 with expenditures of $7,209.72 which includes about $600 for permanent repairs, cost on heating, light service, etc. The receiver has paid $10,244.02 for 1926 taxes; a mortgage of $21,177.96 due in 1926; and $2,500 for post office fixtures. This makes a total investment in the building of $34,929.98, according to the figures of Mr. Hratrud.

Building Produces Revenue

The report submitted to the depositors showed $626,210.97 worth of notes on hand, with $189,314.04 worth of real estate. The estimated amount of notes collectable was given as $50,000; the estimated amount of farm lands and other real estate, $100,000; the estimated value of the safety deposit vaults, $3,000; the estimated value of other personal property, $5,000; and cash amounting to $14,832.09—a total of $254,832.09.

According to the figures submitted the receiver paid $1,123 a month last year for 12 months, a total of $2000; the clerk in the office received $125 a month for 9 months, or $300; physicians held out little chance for recovery at this time.

NEW FARM BUREAU ISSUES BULLETIN TELLING OF WORK

Sebeka Plan of Cow Testing Is Regarded by University as of Great Importance

Farmers of Pennington county and immediate vicinity were last week mailed copies of the first monthly bulletin issued by the Pennington County Farm Bureau, regardless of whether they had joined the bureau as yet or not. The bulletin contained much of interest to farmers, reviewing the work already undertaken by the bureau, and giving information relative to future plans.

County Agent Robert M. Douglas states that he will be glad to have any of the farmers call at his office when in the city, and he will endeavor to solve their individual problems. If they have not already joined the bureau they will be welcomed to the office, and the advantages of belonging to the organization will be pointed out to them. The dues have been placed at the nominal figure of only a dollar a year.

Poultry Exerts Reviewed

The bulletin reviews the recent poultry show, tells about the Winter Crop Show at Crookston, deals with the annual report of the Thief River Livestock Shipping association, and asks for the return of the question-blank recently mailed out regarding alfalfa and other information the bureau seeks to learn for the benefit of the farmers of the territory served. Mention is made of the university correspondence course offered free of charge to the farmers of the district. The forthcoming farmers' institutes are mentioned and farmers are asked to secure complete information as to dates and places.

Cheaper Cow Testing

Another interesting feature of the bulletin is the new plan of testing dairy herds. Heretofore the cost has been practically cut over the old plan. The essentials point to the extension of the Sebeka plan for dairy herd improvements, say dairy specialists of the University of Minnesota. Directors of the creamery at Sebeka including county co-operated in organizing a dairy improvement association which reaches 75 dairy herd members. Testers have been put to work in herds of every three months, with calculations average for the intervening months, at a cost materially lighter than that for once a month testing.

The field men at the Sebeka plant will not only test the herds for milk and butterfat production and feed records, but will serve in advising their feed problems, promote dairy calf club work, and help build and improve dairy standards in every commendable way possible. The plan gives to the Sebeka community a comprehensive dairy improvement enterprise at comparatively low cost.

First Dividend Declared by Peoples' Co-operative Store Since Organization

The annual meeting of the Peoples' Co-operative Store of this city was held in the Municipal court rooms Thursday evening, at which time Manager M. N. Benson submitted his annual report, this the secretary, and stockholders stating today to a representative of The Times that it was very satisfactory, especially in view of the fact that this is the first year that the establishment of the store and a dividend has been declared.

President H. W. Klingborg, Secretary and Treasurer O. E. Hellquist, and Director O. Offerdahl were re-elected, the terms of these being the only ones that expired this year. The directors will hold a meeting within a short time to elect the manager.

MRS. BOWERS FATHER DIES IN COLORADO

Mrs. J. T. Bowers received the sad news last week of the death of her father, A. R. Rosenquist, at his home at Greeley, Colorado, death being due to hardening of the arteries. Funeral services were held at Greeley Sunday, January 15.

A. R. Rosenquist was 73 years of age at the time of his death. He is survived by seven children, Mrs. G. R. Vanderlip and Mrs. R. A. Dickinson of Minot, N. Dak.; Mrs. N. E. Hanson, Mrs. Melvin Moe, J. T. Bowers of this city, Oliver Lacey and Elmer Rosenquist of New Orleans, Louisiana. His wife preceded him in death four years ago.

CALL IS ISSUED FOR DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Judge N. W. Tarrant, member of the democratic state central committee for Pennington county, is in receipt of a call issued by Z. H. Austin, state chairman, for a meeting of the state committee in Minneapolis on Saturday, Jan. 28. The purpose of the meeting, according to the call is to arrange for the selection of delegates to the national convention at Houston, Tex., on June 24.

JUDGES ARE NAMED FOR SPELLING BEE SATURDAY, FEB. 4

Preliminary Contests Are To Be Held in Sections Saturday of This Week

County Supt. George M. Gunderson has named six judges for the spelling contests to be held in the court house in this city next week Saturday, Feb. 4, the following: Mrs. E. W. Battenfield, a former teacher in the local schools; Mrs. Alfred Anderson, formerly principal of the schools at Gully; and Miss Cary Johnson, one of the junior high school teachers of this city. Roy J. F. Netzer has been picked to act as contestor of the contest, which will be between teams of the various sectional contests to be held this week Saturday, in which the various school districts will compete.

The county superintendent recently sent the teachers of the county schools the rules as promulgated by the committee in charge of the spelling event which is to be one of the big features at the Winter Shows in Crookston next month, and which are as follows:

Rules of Contest

1. The Oral Test: Each pupil shall be tested privately on the first twenty words given for the test, and he shall be kept for each pupil indicating the number of words missed. Any pupil who has taken the test shall be excused from participating in any of the other pupils who have not yet taken the test. The weight of this test in the entire contest shall be 25%, each word counting 1½.

2. The Written Test: There shall be a written test of 50 words. Each pupil shall be furnished a copy in a sentence. When the entire list has been written the words shall be pronounced the second time, allowing time for corrections. If an error in copying, spelling or in the use of words is considered misspelled. The weight of this test in the entire contest shall be 50%, each word counting 1.

3. The Dictation Exercises: The pupils shall be tested in writing from dictation a short paragraph or a series of sentences of easy grade. This exercise shall be marked on spelling, punctuation, and use of capitals. The entire contest shall be 25% and in determining a pupil's mark each misspelled word shall count 4.

4. The Spell-Down: The last event in the contest shall be a spell-down. The pupils shall stand in line, and the conductor shall pronounce one word to a pupil beginning at the head of the line. The pupil shall pronounce the word, after the pronunciation before he begins to spell to indicate he has the word right. The rule that the word shall not be pronounced again and the pupil is to have but one trial at each letter, shall not be considered to have had one trial until he has arrived at the end of the word.

If a pupil misses a word, he shall not retire from the contest until five rounds of words have been pronounced. During or after the sixth round, when a pupil misses a word, he shall retire and the contest shall continue until only one pupil remains standing. The weight of this test in the entire contest shall be 10% and a pupil's mark shall be determined by finding the percent that the number of words spelled correctly is of the total number of words tried by the particular pupil, and then taking this percent of ten.

5. The pupil having the highest marks shall be declared elected to participate in the county contest.

Mechanics Maintain Safe Lead Over Bowling Clubs

The Soo Mechanics team is the only launch in the Bowling league that has a perfect record for the present schedule which started Jan. 2 and which runs till the close of next week, this team having won both of the two games it rolled. The Gamble Robinson team is still pursuing with a string of bad luck apparently for they are in the cellar as far as percentage goes, having lost all four games rolled.

Only four games have been rolled since last week, the Friday evening match having been postponed on account of the basketball game, it being impossible to make this up tonight, the only open night for the alleys being the big Legion game scheduled for tonight. It is quite probable that the Friday match will be rolled next week in an open date. The 20 game schedule is to be completed by the middle of May, only eight rolling of next week, Feb. 6, being there has to be a postponement of more games.

The Reliable team won from the Night Hawks last week Friday evening by a score of 2137 to 1926; Thursday of this week defeated Swift's Hams to the tune of 2322 to 2282; The Thief River Grocery outclassed the Soo Clerks last Monday evening by the score of 2361 to 2003; and on Tuesday night's Night Hawks redeemed themselves by taking the Farmers Exchange to the tune of 2080 to 2020. The standings of the various teams at present is:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Mechanics	4	0	1000
Round House Hats	2	1	667
Reliable Hams	2	1	667
Soo Clerks	2	1	667

City Officials Asked to Assist in Formation of R. R. V. Municipal Body

Mayor W. W. Pritchard is in receipt of a communication from Mayor O. E. Casken of Crookston asking that Thief River Falls be represented at a called gathering of the mayors and village officials of the 104 municipalities of the 13 counties in the Red River Valley which he had called to meet in Crookston on Feb. 9 during the Winter Shows for the purpose of discussing municipal problems.

It is proposed to form a Red River Valley Municipalities league, and to bring this about Mayor Casken has made arrangements for a program of addresses on municipal affairs, included among those expected to appear on the program were J. C. Armson, chairman of the Minnesota department of taxation; C. M. Babcock, Minnesota highway commissioner; Dr. H. R. Price, director of the general extension division of the University of Minnesota; Dr. G. J. Terreire, of Duluth, county health, officer of St. Louis county, and Ralph R. Walker, secretary of the League of Minnesota Municipalities.

T. R. F. MAN COULD NOT MARRY S. SO IS SINGLE

A good looking, well-to-do bachelor of this city, according to the Red Lake Falls Gazette, was being teased by the young ladies of a club recently for not being married. He finally said: "I'll marry the one of you, whom on a secret ballot you elect to be my wife." The girls were game and took up his offer. There were nine members of the club. Each girl went into a corner and used great caution in preparing her ballot and disguising her handwriting. When the votes were counted it was found there were nine votes cast, each girl receiving one. The man remains a bachelor, the club is broken up and the girls all moral example, united in one determination that they will never speak to the man again.

Will You Put In Or Take Out During 1928?

The other day someone said that the secret of happiness lay in finding something bigger than ourselves, and working for it. And they added, caustically, that if we didn't have such a thing in view, it was time to enlarge our horizon.

Do you know that stuck was one of the best rules of living we have ever heard, and our "bigger thing" is going to be the future of the town we live in.

A city doesn't just grow. It is built up—or torn down—by the people who form a part of it. We have all known towns whose civic spirit was surly and suspicious. A merchant there was afraid that his neighbor was going to get more out of it than he. Nobody ever seemed to worry about putting in.

Our city isn't that kind. We don't think that it ever will be. Certainly it won't if every one of us works as hard as he can to make this town a better place to live in.

We're going to do our part. Will you?

T. R. CREAMERY ANNUAL DINNER STAGED MONDAY

Close to Four Hundred Patrons and Friends of Institution Were Seated at One Time

NOTED MINNEAPOLIS MAN GAVE INTERESTING TALK

Annual Report of Jos. Holte, Manager of Creamery, Was Given to Stockholders

The annual meeting of the Thief River Falls Creamery association held Monday in the auditorium was one of the most successful affairs of its kind ever staged, the address of B. V. Moore of Minneapolis, deputy governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of the Ninth District, being followed with intense interest by the many farmers and business men present at the big dinner served at noon under the auspices of the city auditorium. The annual report of Jos. Holte, manager, was also read by followed by the stockholders and directors at the business meeting afterward in the banquet hall of the auditorium.

The speaker of the day was introduced by President Theo. Quale of the Commercial club, and gave some statistics as to financial matters from the outbreak of the war up to the present time, explaining how this country is no longer able to shift for itself. He also explained how the farmer is an integral part of the whole world's activities, and that the present condition of agriculture was due largely to world conditions rather than local.

F. T. Satre, president of the creamery board, gave a short talk about his early experiences in this section when he arrived here 46 years ago and the development which has followed.

For entertainment a number selections was presented reithin the Romance of Sleepy Hollow. Due to the inclement weather there was a large crowd to be shown the entire reel.

The financial report which was read at the business meeting, will be found elsewhere in this issue of The Times, and presents a satisfactory condition of affairs in the local institution, which is recognized as one of the leading industries in the city and community.

The report at noon was served to nearly 400 patrons and friends of the creamery, a similar arrangements for the banquet meeting, being overseen by H. A. Brunsell, chairman of the entertainment committee assisted by several of the business and professional men of the city.

Little Hopes Held Out for Recovery of W. A. Barnard by Physicians

The condition of W. A. Barnard, division superintendent of the Soo Lines at Minot, who was taken to the hospital the latest bulletin issued by attending physicians at the Soo hospital, Minot, N. D., held out little hopes for recovery. The statement follows:

"Perfectly rational, exceedingly weak. Pressure is low, pulse rapid, no vitality left: a matter of time."

Mr. Barnard left Thief River a week ago over the Wheat Line and while on the train was seized with an attack of appendicitis. Mrs. Barnard and Warren was accompanying Mr. Barnard on the trip, and the latter was rushed to the hospital at Minot, where an operation was performed by the doctors early Friday morning.

Mr. Barnard was making satisfactory progress till early last week, when compli ations set in, his condition becoming worse as the days went by.

Previous to coming to Thief River Falls Sept. 1, 1912, Mr. Barnard had been superintendent of the old Wisconsin division of the Soo road.

Mr. Barnard had, previous to that, been connected with the Soo railroad at Fordon, N. Dak., and at Minneapolis, also serving as agent while stationed at Rhinelander, Wis.

Mrs. Barnard has been with her husband since last week.

TONIGHT'S BAND CONCERT INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

The band concert scheduled for this, Thursday, evening at the auditorium has been indefinitely postponed on account of the illness of Bandmaster L. F. Fellows, it being the latter's duty to act as conductor of the band concert being summoned to the parental home last Saturday.

FISHING SEASON CONCLUDED

The fishing season, both for fishing thru the ice and for angling expired Thursday, Jan. 31, and game wardens are now on the watch for anyone who is caught fishing in any lake or stream in Minnesota.

THIEF RIVER SALESMAN HAD A SLIGHT ACCIDENT

Ole Gathy, while on one of his trips last week, had his machine collide with a log his auto skid off the grade near Greenlen when the car hit a slippery spot on the road. The car was damaged, however, but no one was hurt other than receiving some bruises. One window of the car was broken, otherwise no damage was done, the men righting the car and proceeding on their way. Mr. Gathy is local salesman and a man from Williams completed the passengers.

SWEDISH CELEBRATION COMMITTEE WILL MEET

The committees arranging the big Swedish picnic for Washington's birthday will meet tomorrow, Friday evening in the office of Registrar of Deeds Fred D. Lorentson to complete their plans. An invitation is extended to anyone interested in the Swedish movement to attend the meeting.

DISTRICT NO. 17 IN LAND O' LAKES ORGANIZATION Ranked Fifth in Output

Only four other districts in Minnesota belonging to the Land O' Lakes Creameries Inc., exceeded the output of the seventeenth district of which Thief River Falls is a member, according to a report issued by Stuart Mcleod, director for this district.

District No. 2 led with 421,562 pounds; No. 17 came second with 353,-345 pounds, Districts No. 12 and No. 4 were competitors for the third place, former having turned out 337,000 pounds to 316,341 pounds, the latter being 21,000 pounds short of No. 17 with 333,356 pounds.

Over 2 Million Pounds Made

The grand total of all districts furnishing butter to the Land O' Lakes organization amounted to 2,012,571 pounds, of which 72.7 percent was Land O' Lakes butter, having a score of 92 points, the total number of pounds of soft butter being 3,635,170, or the seventeenth district 221,205 pounds graded as Land O' Lakes, which was 84.77 percent of the total, the remainder 58,915 pounds scored 92 percent, 29,570 pounds was given a rating of 91 points, and 7,762 pounds was rated as 90 percent grade. This left 1,738 pounds to be given a 89 percent rating and 1,505 pounds with a rating of 88 points.

Pennington County Shipments

The report shows 40,192 pounds of butter to have been shipped from the cities of Pennington county last month, of which 31,813 was of the Land O' Lakes brand.

ENTERTAINMENT FEATURES FOR FAIR SECURED

Directors Announce Best Lot of Attractions Ever Secured for Fair Aug. 1-3

The directors of the fair association have been in session at regular in the office of the secretary, Robert J. Ellis, for the past few weeks, signing contracts for various entertainment features for the fair to be held here Aug. 1, 2 and 3, and which will give patrons of the fair the best program and most numerous entertainment features than in any previous fair held here. This action followed a trip to Grand Forks the previous day made by the secretary and Commissioner Roy Lambert and W. E. Dahlquist.

Contracts Now Signed

Contracts now landed include the following: The Henderson Concert and the Culbertson Hippodrome, the latter a real Circus; and a novelty wire act. Several high class free acts are being considered. A complete change of program will be given each day, it will be possible this year thru arrangements so now completed, and directors state that better harness races will be pulled in the present plans. Henry Culbertson of Dakota, who formerly operates the Roman Circus, announced several weeks ago that he would have best running horses that were listed in North Dakota during the past season.

The fireworks this summer will far exceed in attractiveness anything previously attempted here, and further announcements will be made later when full details have been received from the manufacturers of the pyrotechnic included in the fireworks.

CO-OPERATION IS DESIRED OF RURAL ROUTE PATRONS

The post office department, which has just authorized the establishment of a new route out of this city, has asked the local postmaster to have route patrons of a few things which will make the easier for the carriers on their daily rounds.

Among the requests are those clearing an approach to the mail box so that it can be driven up to it and thus reach the other patrons of the route without delay. Another is the use of stamps on letters instead of having the carrier stop at the door of the subscriber to affix them. It will be somewhat easier and quicker for the carrier to drop the letters in the box and break out the roads after a storm. It will be a co-operative enterprise and the patrons are further feeling along the entire route.

NEW LICENSE PLATES

NOW ON SOME AUTOS

Several 1928 license plates have made their appearance in Thief River Falls. They are somewhat smaller and neater than the ones formerly in use. The letters are black on a drab background. Those who have already applied for their license are receiving the 1928 plates, the date on which applications may be made without a penalty being Feb. 15.

Goodridge will name other members to assist him in the program, the committee have been named Morris Ely, C. Hoffman and W. E. Dahlquist.

The committee will hold a meeting within a few days and outline the events for a large number of local boosters to attend the Goodridge meeting on which date it is set.

Rev. Tallakson Accepts Call to Fergus Falls

Rev. R. L. Tallakson, pastor of the Trinity Lutheran church of this city, has accepted a call from the First Lutheran church of Fergus Falls. His resignation was accepted at a meeting of the local congregation and according to his plans he will preach his farewell sermon in the local church on Easter Sunday, April 8. A special meeting of the congregation will be held next Sunday following the regular services for the purpose of calling a new pastor.

STREET DEPARTMENT BUSY WITH SNOW ON BANK

The dirt placed on the east bank of the river just above the dam last fall, and which was used by the state commission for the new hydro-electric plant, is being rigged by Street Commissioner H. O. Hoff and his assistants.

The large pile of stone boulders that has for years lined in the rear of the old Eckert property at the corner of Second and Main has been used for the purpose, and many loads of paving rocks and broken-up concrete crossings and blocks wherever available.

The city council deemed it expedient to protect this new bank of dirt from spring flood waters, the bank extending from the Main stream for quite a distance from shore.

DISTRICT DAIRYMEN MEET HERE WEDNESDAY, FEB. 22

Wednesday, Feb. 22, was set as the date for the annual meeting of butterfat makers and necessary arrangements for District No. 17, this being decided upon at a meeting held here Tuesday of this week. One or two speakers will be secured, and arrangements made for a banquet in the evening.

An internal state loan of 100,000,000 rubles (about $50,000,000) will shortly be issued by Soviet Russia.

Commercial Club Committee Will Sponsor Move for Special Act of Legislature

Several additional Commercial club members have been added to the agricultural committee named by the club a year ago to investigate possible means of placing tax exempt real estate in Pennington county under control of the Department of Rural Credits back on the tax rolls. This action was recommended last week at the club meeting by the committee while those before it have been composed of W. E. Dahlquist, H. O. Chesmith, the same men serving with approval of the members during the past year. The new members include M. T. McFarland, Martin Syverson, H. J. Hagen, C. A. Sundgren, Peter Engelstad, Alfred Brenden and P. J. Olson.

Charles Fitzsell, senior patrol leader in the city of Thief River Falls, and Eugene Hess, also a member, who helps a boy to school; Donavan Matt, junior patrol leader, and also Joseph John Malone spoke of the plans for the boys' camp to be held next week, and William Forchlich gave the boys a similar talk, when a Court of Honor will be held. Scout must accomplish 10 stair climbs at home.

The scouts today informed a representative of The Times that they are greatly looking forward to the week's camping, the parents are the Eagles, the Owls, the Beavers and the Wolves. The tents and outfit to be carried out in the big automobile truck will greater interest to the general public than the hiking and walking feature, but the boys are supposed to do as given here in Thief River Falls.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN STATE NOW PLACED AT $170,000,000

Nearly Nine Billion Pounds of Milk Produced by Cows During Past Year

Estimates compiled by the state agricultural department, according to a report by Ed Moberg, commissioner, indicate that Minnesota dairy products brought almost $170,000,000 to the farmers of the state last year, an increase of $10,000,000 over the preceding year.

The estimated increase in milk products was 57,000,000 pounds, making the total 8,727,000,000 pounds. Higher values also contributed to the greater income, according to Mr. Holmberg.

Butterfat increase ranked first prize was awarded to E. M. Tuttle of Concord, on a score of 95 per cent.

Dairy cattle in Minnesota, while a few more than two years ago, are generally healthier and more productive, according to farm census reports.

While the number of cows has increased, the quality of herds has shown a similar improvement. Minnesota State Dairymen's convention at St. Cloud recently.

M. E. Gardner of Waseca won first prize in the butter contest, being awarded state championship and a cash prize of $100. The butter tested 95.5 per cent, and was given the first place out of 1,500 entries.

Mechanics and Alley Rats Retain Bowling Leadership

Only three games in the local bowling schedule were played the past week, two scheduled games having been postponed, this making the completion of the present schedule, which will be played Saturday nights. Next Saturday night opens with Saturday night's games, Swift's Hams defeated the Pennzoil team high with 2,500 to 2,354. The highest score of the present schedule was rolled by the Alley Rats when victorious, their score being 2,627, the same being rolled by the Gamble Robinson team. The Alley Rats took four points from the Round House Rats after the latter had won two games and lost one.

The standings of the teams at present follows:

	Won	Lost	Percent
Mechanics	2	0	1000
Alley Rats	2	0	1000
Swift's Hams	3	1	750
Round House Rats	2	1	.667
Soo Clerks	2	1	.667
Jung's Bakery	2	2	.500
Pennzoil	1	1	.500
T. R. Grocery	2	2	.500
Round House Clerks	1	2	.333
Iverson's Clerks	1	2	.333
Night Hawks	1	2	.250
Gamble Robinson	0	4	.000

FORMER THIEF RIVER LAD

ENJOYS AIRSHIP CRUISE

Wendell Seiber, who left here last fall with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Seiber, was one of eleven persons to participate in a ride in a large airplane at Long Beach, Calif., recently, the machine remaining in the air for one and half hours.

The Steinbraker dealer there had chartered the Ford-All-Metal Air for a cruise of Southern California, offering free tickets in a guessing contest, in which there were several hundred entrants.

Mrs. Seiber, Auriger of this city, a sister, is in receipt of a rotogravure section of the Long Beach paper which contained a picture of the airship as it was about to take off on the flight.

U. C. T. Members, Friends Honored by J. Provencher At Evelyn Hotel Banquet

Nearly sixty members of the local council of U. C. T., and their friends, were the guests of Julien Provencher, Saturday evening, the occasion being the thirteenth annual event of this nature that he has given, the year showing a gradual increase in attendance over that of the preceding year, and with it a greater effort on the part of the host to make the evening a more enjoyable affair.

Regret was expressed by Mr. Provencher in the absence of a few of the members of the council and also of that of Herman Richert, who was to have assisted in the entertainment of the guests. However, there were plenty of other features to provide mirth, including musical numbers by Mrs. Hansen, Leon Olsen and John Ward, Mr. Olsen also being assisted in other numbers by Floyd Anderson and by Mel. Brastig.

Appropriate remarks were made by R. E. Johnston, attesting the steady growth of the organization, in connection with that of Thief River Falls, and admonishing all present to continue their efforts in the best interests of the city, the community, and the territory served by this city. He visioned a bright future for the city and toasted the hospitality of Mr. Provencher and his estimable family.

Following the banquet which had been served in the main dining room of the hotel, interspersed with felicitous remarks, the remainder of the evening is a social manner.

GIRL SCOUTS TO OBSERVE

INTERNATIONAL SCOUT DAY

"International Day" for the Girl Scouts and Girl Guides all over the world will be observed on February 22, it was announced this week at Girl Scout headquarters in New York City.

When Girl Scout International Day was designated as such it was pointed out, because not only is it the birthday of George Washington but it is likewise the birthday of Sir Robert Baden-Powell, Chief Scout of England who founded the movement of Boy Scouting and Girl Guiding in that country in 1907. It is also the birthday of Lady Baden-Powell, the Chief Girl Guide of England and wife of Sir Robert.

Last year, Girl Scouts in the United States observed the day with festivals and plays containing customs and legends of all the countries of the world. They participated in the native dance and sang songs native to the country they were representing thus giving a true spirit and appreciation of the lands across the water.

New Telephone Attachment Transforms Unintelligible Sounds in Amazing Manner

Members of the Minnesota Telephone association attending their annual convention in Minneapolis were given a thrill recently when they heard strange unintelligible sounds coming from a phonograph, converted into understandable English by a machine with "electrical ears" and an "electrical brain".

The machine was demonstrated by Sergius P. Grace, general commercial engineer for the Bell Telephone Laboratories. He explained that in connection with experiments designed to make radio conversations secret, there have been developed methods of skimming and distorting speech tones so as to make them unintelligible to the ordinary radio listener. Mr. Grace had with him a number of phonograph records of these speech tones.

Then one of these records was placed on a phonograph there issued from the horn only sounds which to the audience was unintelligible gibberish. The result was something like the imaginary nature of French, Chinese, Siamese and a few other languages which to the ear of good measure.

Then Mr. Grace startled his audience by announcing that he would demonstrate a machine, which when attached to the phonograph restored these strange sounds and would translate them into understandable English. The language, the audience was assured, was that of several times louder than that from the phonograph and with the electrical translating brain of the machine, able to interpret, as has been demonstrated in the northwest.

YOUNG ORPHANS IN DEMAND IN STATE

Orphans or other adoptable children under the age of three years are in great demand in Minnesota, but that the supply is inadequate, but the supply five years old or older is great excess to the demand. This condition was revealed in a brief summary from the Child-ren's Home Society of Minnesota and the Bureau of Catholic Charities.

In Memoriam

Nelson—In memory of our dearly beloved husband and father, Ole P. Nelson, who died two years ago, January 3, 1926.

We cannot forget you, dear husband and father

Though long may seem the years, And often in the lonely hours We long to still our heartache. And try our best to smile,

For God will let us come to you After a little while.

Oh may we meet dear husband and Father

Where friends no more shall weep, For those who die in Jesus

Really death is only sleep.

Sadly missed by his loved wife and children, Amanda Nelson and children.

"Mother India" Has Come to Town

Editor Times:

The proverbial "take it with a grain of salt" is especially applicable to "Mother India" by Miss Catherine Mayo. Better still, Lave a salt cellar at your elbow and take a liberal teaspoon with each chapter.

Miss Mayo is an American newspaper woman (New York) who made a four months' study of conditions in India. She had far greater facilities to make investigations than most of us have, for as a lone female traveler in the native districts, the ladies we want to feed and clothe, teach and heal; that is the India which called us from home—not the India which Miss Mayo has from our lives for, that is the India we have sung to, to tell you about all this time in our feeble way and if we put it stronger you would not believe us. The picture presented by Miss Mayo may be overdrawn, I think the book would have been strong-er had she omitted some of the more horrible and not-at-all-necessary. Her hypothesis may be incorrect, I think it is. India's trouble is not grounded in sex but more deeply rooted in a false philosophy. India's worst enemy is not a maligned, foreign government toiling silently not thankfully for her elevation, but yet is it the ignorant superstitious worship of thirty million Gods and Goddesses; but it is the wrong attitude toward life created by their false teachings of her religion."

Now, shall we read "Mother India"? We will, if we think other people in other cities of the United States. Our neighbor Hindrasian will put out names on the mailing list, and we'll wait our turn, just as thousands of others have done. Some of us may be foolish enough to think we can afford the few dollars necessary to get a copy of our own. The Ladies' aid of the Methodist-Presbyterian church are considering the advisability of reading it for a half hour at the close of their forthnightly meetings. I think it quite the proper thing to do, for we have a goodly supply of salt in the Ladies' Aid commissariat.

Miss Mayo gives all of us missionaries a searching examination. She accuses us of not-starting to tell the truth about India, for fear of the disapproval of the Mission Boards that send us out. Can you imagine that of any American? We have other reasons—here is one. Two years ago, at a pastor meeting where only women were present, I did tell, among other things, something for their ears only. About a year ago I met again one of the women who was present at that meeting. She reminded me of what I had said. I asked, "Was what she told I say?" She shook her head. She could not deny it. She repeated it to the group of ladies. Some of them were greatly truthful things that have been said about India's women. A woman-ful people, Miss Mayo says, and as she is charged, to interpret and sound, she did not stay in heal. We who have given our best years for (fundamental) emancipation regret that we haven't another life to give. We have, however, the satisfaction of having learned to love her people—a deep, unshakable love. We know that, notwithstanding all her weaknesses, she will emerge one day from her chrysalis, her shackles, one of the most admirable of all the great peoples of the earth.

AT UNIVERSITY TUESDAY

City and county officials and several large taxpayers have received copies of a call issued last week by the Minnesota Taxpayers association, thru its secretary, Fred Lee, to attend sessions of the Minnesota Tax Conference to be held in the Men's Union on the University of Minnesota campus at Minneapolis on Feb. 7 and 8.

The conference, which this year has invited the Minnesota Taxpayers Association to participate in the discussions, will consider a number of subjects, particularly interesting to taxpayers from the local standpoint, and as Mr. Reed said in his call, "if you can attend these sessions you will return home with a better understanding of our tax problems and a clearer conception of our duties, the knowledge which you in turn can give them."

Altho neither the city council nor the county board definitely decided to attend the meetings, it was left to the individual members to go if they could.

"I do the very best I know how—the very best I can; and I mean to keep doing so until the end. If the end brings me out all right, what is said against me won't amount to anything. If the end brings me out wrong, ten angels swearing that I was right would make no difference."—Abraham Lincoln.

More than three hundred farmers and business men broke bread together at the Auditorium Monday noon when creamery patrons, Rotary Club and Commercial Club members assembled in celebration of the completion of another successful year by the local creamery. In staging events of this kind a community of this size is at considerable of a disadvantage. When a small community joins hands on occasions of this kind the event becomes a friendly and neighborly social. In a community of this size, however, few of those present are intimately acquainted and there is little more sociability than you can find any day in a busy railroad station. The only remedy for this situation, it seems to us, would be to hold such meetings a little oftener. Why not?

THE VIEW OF A TEMPERATE DRY

With Prohibition receiving its usual pre-election attention and Drys and Wets sparring for advantages in the coming battle of ballots, it is encouraging to note that all of the participants are not intoxicated by their own fervor either for personal liberty or the salvation of humanity. Most of the arguments which are commonly aired on either side of this question are so obviously the opinions of prejudice that they serve mainly to antagonize. The result is that the great majority of the people, who are neither wets nor drys and somewhat indifferent on the question, rightfully hold both extremes in contempt. Under these circumstances the remarks of Stanley High, an active dry worker, are particularly temperate, tolerant and sensible. Mr. High, in addressing a recent meeting of the Anti-Saloon League in Washington expressed the opinion that all virtue is not confined to the camp of the Prohibitionists and even concedes that there are good people who drink moderately. In The Literary Digest, he further believes that the cause of Prohibition "is only weakened by those who go bombasting about as though every individual who did not believe in the Eighteenth Amendment were a besotted degenerate."

Mr. High is a young man and foresees that the generation which will control our government in a few years may not look upon prohibition as it was looked upon by the generation which is passing for the reason that their experiences will not include the conditions that made drys of their parents, and declares:

"High-pressure damnation of the saloon produces about the same effect after the fire and brimstone description of hell. Neither seems real enough to interest anybody. Prohibition presents a problem in youth of which they have seen but one side. If there were no Eighteenth Amendment—no Volstead Law—they probably have little difficulty recruiting tomorrow's drys. If pro-Prohibition conditions prevailed, the vast majority of vast numbers of these doubting young people would make them ardent adherents. It is we who are obliged to ask them to save the nation from an evil of which—thanks to an ever partially enforced law—they have never had a first-class glimpse."

On the other hand he presents arguments against liquor which will go far toward convincing the public that prohibition is necessary in this age. Among other things he states:

"It should be demonstrable that alcohol, as a compel civilization, is too highly explosive to be in general use. I suppose that there was a time when possession of side arms was considered the indispensable equipment of every freeman. But even the most respectable of our citizens were finally sobered to surrender the pleasure of carrying a weapon in the interest of society and the safety of those who could not, safely, be entrusted with guns. Recently some blasting operations were in progress near my home. Every morning one of the city firemen, especially appointed, appeared at this place to check over the amount of explosives on hand. The idea was to see that sticks of dynamite were not left by our absent boss in our neighborhood. And, to the near by, I was glad for the precaution. The destructive relationship of liquor to our modern society needs to be more widely understood. When it is, our young people, I believe, will be more ready to give it a wide berth themselves and welcome its abolition as an article of popular commerce."

THIEF RIVER FALLS VS. DAYTON

Printers the country over, and especially small town printers, are making an effort to secure legislation that will force the government out of the printing business. The government now prints the return cards on stamped envelopes at a ridiculously low price—at so low a price in fact that the government itself actually loses money on each transaction. Naturally the printers object to such unfair competition and being human are willing everything within their power to correct what they consider to be a wrong. We mention this chiefly because of a letter which is being distributed to business houses which use printed envelopes, by the Chamber of Commerce of Dayton, Ohio. It so happens that government envelopes are printed in Dayton, which accounts for the special interest in the matter taken by the Dayton Chamber of Commerce.

The question involved in this particular issue as far as the public is concerned is whether or not the government should act as a distributor of a standard article of merchandise to the detriment of legitimate business. Is there any greater reason for the government to act as a distributor of job printing, taking a loss on each transaction, than there would be for the government to act as an agent for pink pills or rubber tires. Under the present system there is no particular economy to the public as a whole. What one business group now gains another group loses and the few dollars that are spent for printing envelopes under the present system support labor in a distant city instead of at home. The net effect on the public as a whole is the profit or loss which the government takes on the business.

Printers have been able to live in the past in spite of this competition and in all probability will be able to eat occasionally in the future whether the government prints envelopes at twenty cents a thousand or not. We merely call attention to our "selfish scheme" as the Dayton Chamber of Commerce brands it, in order that the public can defend itself if it feels that it should defend itself. We are urging our representatives to vote in favor of the Thief River Falls' printers on this proposition.

THE BUSINESS OF "DOING GOOD"

Sydney Smith, cartoonist and creator of the famous Andy Gump comic strip, has presented an interesting travesty on charity during the last few months. Andy, in a delirium caused by contact with a truck, has been striving to eliminate poverty by giving to the poor one of Uncle Bim's billions. As Andy gave away million after million to unworthy causes and real poverty suffered cold and hunger under the very windows of Gump's home, it became evident that Mr. Smith's comedy was in reality a clever satire on organized charity.

That there is need for charity in this world is not disputed, but whether the charity which is given the greatest publicity accomplishes the most good is doubtful. The noblest examples of charity in this world probably are those of which least is heard. The most blessed kindnesses are those things which the needy do for each other, sharing with each other food, shelter and clothing and giving assistance in sickness and death. This simple neighborhood charity would fill the publicity but accomplishes far more good than the millions of dollars which are contributed every week by a well meaning public to be distributed among the needy by the professional people.

We never have and never will see the time when too much money is contributed toward the relief of poverty and distress. Few of us suffer because of what we give. There is danger, however, that what is given be accompanied by too great a blare of trumpets and also that the professional people become too "good" for the welfare of their own profession. William Feather, editor of the Imperial Type Metal Magazine, resents the idea that those who make a business of "Doing Good" are better than those who make a living by any other honorable means, expressing his views as follows:

As I was passing out of my office building today the woman cigar vender remarked about a certain man, "He does a lot of good."

I will not identify the "good" that this man does, except to say that he makes a living by helping to help unfortunate people.

I know it is supposed to be a criticism this form of enterprise, and in the days when men and women did this work as a hobby out of the goodness of their souls, there was something fine and noble about it. The tendency today is to put everything on a scientific basis, and the consequence is that tens of thousands of uplifters have become permanent overhead expense. Doing Good is a profession.

I have no objection to paid uplift or professional Doing Good. I assume that those who support these agencies are competent to judge of their value. People have a right to do with their money as they please.

My objection is to the assumption that one whose life is devoted to Doing Good is thereby worthy of higher respect than the man who mends clothes.

The work of the clock mender, the truck driver, the window cleaner, and the office furniture salesman, does not make his name a special The reflection as do some other activities, but the downright usefulness of the productive man endows him with a nobility that cannot be accorded those who are engaged in work the usefulness of which has not been so definitely established.

We know we cannot live without food, clothes, and transportation, but there is grave doubt whether persistent meddling with the lives of other accomplishes anything of constructive value.

For this reason I mildly resented the cigar woman's remark, and retorted, "He ought to go to work."

CROP REPORTS

"In our opinion the government crop reporting service needs less higher mathematics and more use of the everyday simple arithmetic, applied to tangible information acquired from sources that are now open, but not used," concludes Farmers' Stock and Home in an editorial on government crop reporting. Stating that there is a growing feeling that government crop reports do more harm than good, and admitting that these reports do lack accuracy and are quite likely to overestimate, thereby having an adverse effect on prices, this farm paper nevertheless feels that abolition of the work done by the government in this field would not be to the best interests of farmers. In discussing the probable result of the government stepping out of the picture entirely the editorial states:

In the first place, there is no way to prevent private individuals from making and publishing estimates during the growing season. In the second place, these private estimates cannot receive the country as thoroughly as the government. This is recognized by the fact that irrespective of the private estimates, the government figures are accepted. The private reports are forgotten a few days after the official report is issued. Now suppose there were no government reports. There would be no means of checking the private estimators, who very frequently are fifty million bushels apart on wheat and much more on corn. All that could be done would be to average the private reports. We do not believe such a process would make for any greater accuracy than the government attains.

Due credit should be given the fact that all the private estimators are employed by grain firms, who do a large volume of futures trading, for themselves and their customers. While we do not want to be understood as saying that these reports are colored for manipulative purposes, the temptation to do so is always present, but is held in check by the knowledge that the government report comes out a few days after the private estimates. If we had no government reports, the door would be left wide open for estimates designed to swing the market to the advantage of the speculators.

THIS IS LIFE
(W. C. Saunders)

Memory vaguely recalls an Omaresque line that ran something like this: "One by one the leaves of life are fallen; the voice of life is seeking drop by drop." Out of the subconscious comes that line to awaken me from my reminiscences in the silence of the night.

Just a few weeks ago my boy went off to college. When I witnessed all the railroad station and bid him goodbye, I knew instinctively and for a certainty that that boy had gone out of my intimate personal life forever. I went home with a heavy heart.

Sunday a daughter married without a previous announcement and left with love in here eyes and laughter on her lips to live with her man some other place. And this is life.

Two vacant chairs at the table. Two young ones still left, but they are only awaiting their opportunity to try their wings, too.

Already there is a lackere note in the song of the canary—link hinges by the window; the clock on the mantlepiece ticks ominously. I never paid much attention to the slow tick-tock, tick-tock of that clock before.

Around me the leaves of autumn are falling, the trees are taking on a bare, drab look. And this is life.

FROM THE CELLAR WINDOW

The parent-teacher meeting held in the high school assembly room Monday evening was a fine get-together. In fact after sitting four abreast in those seats for an hour and a half the question of getting apart was considerable of a problem. The seats were well filled—nearly all of them were quite filled and most of them were filled to overflowing, large portions of the contents extending out into the aisles. That is not all of it any one person was forced into the aisle, but much of many of those present was unable to find sufficient and satisfactory seating capacity.

The program was under the direction of the faculty and the feature was the pressure presentation of a three act comedy, written, produced and presented by local talent. It went over all right too. About the only way the teachers can tell the parents what they think of them is to wrap the sentiment up in a perfumed envelope, and in this particular case they said it very cleverly. Bobby Burns never put it more slickly to see himself as others saw him and on Monday night we, the parents, were given the gift that Bobby prayed for. We saw ourselves as the teachers see us. There wasn't any excuse for any one in the audience feeling elated over the view either, but they sprinkled in a few close-ups of themselves and most of us became offended and perhaps we learned something. We don't know and entertainment. The truth won't be tolerated long. This is a nice way to be reformed.

The meeting opened with a group of songs sung by the high school glee club. The faculty wasn't hired for its ability to sing and it is safe to say that those were of that pep meeting variety which make you forget you can't sing enjoyable, but the parents gave them a good hand when they finished.

A talk on nutrition by the school children was easy to listen to. There were several things about food, that we didn't get quite clear and we intended to speak to Miss Hilton about them after the meeting, but we didn't and never mind, they'd take care of the feeding and all we had to do was to pay the bill, so we let it go at that.

Editor Eyre attempted to say a few words about his talk but it was encouraging. There wasn't any criticism in it, but what he said and he wasn't fooling when he said it, was that he had put the best of the year's efforts into the address and he hoped that he could get a big hand from people and said his wife and son were among those present.

The balance of the evening was spent in getting out of the crowds as much as possible, eating lunch and sociability.

One of these "educational" farm films was presented at the banquet in the Auditorium Monday. We left before the end of the majority that held more interest for us, but after the first reel was run, so it may be that our impression of the film is all wrong, but from what little we saw of the picture we are convinced that if it must be run another time it will be into the furnace. The pictures we saw were entirely too much in the days when all of us were on friendly terms with every one and down body who had a name could borrow indefinitely without question. If there is with the present system of buying. Had there been injected into it a few dollars per week, as many cents one might have gotten a few laughs out of it as a burlesque on past errors, but without the plea and apology that it was an investment. We recommend that it be retired down at once and the celluloid converted into something useful like dollars or fine combs.
